35 YOUNG MEN FROM BRITAIN HELP FARMERS

Forty More To Be Placed On Farms of District This Spring.

EAGER TO WORK.

Some Married Men Among Those Being Distributed By C. A. Gillespie.

Working in conjunction with the Department of Colonization and Development of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough Milk Products Limited, has, during the past three weeks, been very successfully placing immigrant farm laborers on farms in Peterborough district. Modestly keeping his own part in the background, he explained to The Examiner that the farmers are greatly in need of this help and he had agreed to supervise the placing of seventy-five men.

For the past two weeks, the men have been coming to him until now thirty-five have been placed. On Tuesday seven of them arrived, while a like number came in to-day, to be immediately located on farms. Mr. Gillespie expects that within the next three weeks the quota of seventy-five will all have arrived and gone to work. "They are all bright young Britishers of English, Irish and Scotch ancestry, and their ages range from eighteen to twenty-eight," said he. "They are all eager to get busy."

In answer to a query, he stated that some of them are married men and bring their families with them.

Having his attention called to the fact that some one hundred names of unemployed men remain on the lists at the Employment Bureau, Mr. Gillespie stated that many of those on the lists could not be persuaded to do farm labor, though the farmers are greatly in need of help.

BOLT DAMAGES RECEIVING SET

Lightning Arrester Fails To Stop Lightning Which Hit Aerial.

AT SMITH STREET HOUSE.

During the heavy thunderstorm last night some damage was done to the home of Sam. Baseno, on the south side of Smith street, between Reid and Downie streets. A bolt of lightning either struck the chimney or the aerial of his radio receiver and came down the wire. The lightning arrester, which was in the house, on the wall behind the receiver, failed to stop the charge and exploded in numerous pieces. The wall was blackened, the curtains set on fire, but soon extinguished, and his six-tube radio set damaged — how seriously it is not known yet. The ground wire attached to the water pipe in the cellar was also burned off, and one of the joists set on fire. The principal damage is probably to his receiver. The occupants of the house though shocked and alarmed, were uninjured.

DEWAR PLACED ON TRIAL TO-DAY

Charged With Accepting and Forwarding Letter Prejudicial To Discipline.

SAME EVIDENCE GIVEN.

GIBRALTAR, April 4. — Canadian Press. — A second court martial arising from the Royal Oak jazz band affair opened to-day with the appearance of Captain Kenneth Dewar to answer charges of accepting and forwarding a letter prejudicial to discipline. The letter which complained of the conduct of Rear Admiral Collard was the subject of the court martial of Commander Daniel, which ended yesterday in the dismissal of the commander from his ship and with a severe reprimand for writing the letter, and reading it publicly in the wardroom of the Royal Oak.

Captain Dewar is conducting his own defence, but Day Kimball, as his "friend" is acting in an advisory capacity. Mr. Kimball was counsel for Commander Daniel.

To-day's testimony proceeded much along the lines of the Daniel trial, at which the defence charged Admiral Collard with berating the Royal Oak bandmaster, and referring to him with an opprobious epithet.

Admiral Collard, who is the storm centre of the whole procedings, was an early witness.

A drive for membership in the League of Nations Society will be held on April 17th from coast to coast.

WILL REVERT TO DECLARATION

Oppose Any Claim For Withdrawal of British Troops From Egypt.

NO CHANGE IN POLICY.

LONDON, April 4 (Associated Press). — It is a foregone conclusion that Great Britain will reject any claim of the Egyptian government for withdrawal of British troops from Egypt, and this may be deduced from the recent announcement that Britain will revert to the status of the 1922 declaration.

By the declaration of 1922, the British protectorate over Egypt was terminated, making Egypt an independent sovereign state, the British Government, however, reserving to its discretion the security of the communications of the British Empire in Egypt, protection of foreign residents and minorities and defence of Egypt against foreign aggression.

The actual situation is that the terms of the Egyptian note are not yet officially known to the public, and it is not even certain that Egypt demands withdrawal of the British troops. Furthermore, Great Britain has not yet replied to this note, and that Egypt certainly does not contemplate severance of friendly relations with Britain was indicated by a statement made by Nahaz Pasha, Egypt's new premier, to the press at Cairo yesterday.

NO CHANGE IN POLICY.

MANCHESTER, England, April 4 (Associated Press). — Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Secretary of the Home Office, last night told the Cotton Spinners' Association that the latest Egyptian note would work no change in the British policy. He said:

"It is true we have received a somewhat foolish despatch from the Egyptian Government. But I ask you to put your faith in His Majesty's Government, and realize that this despatch will mean no change in British policy. A reply to the Egyptian Government will be made shortly."

Sir William also said that he looked forward to the time when Lancashire would be independent of cotton supplies from the "great West" and would get all its cotton from the British Empire.

PEOPLE WATCH DOG DROWNING

SECOND DOG RESCUED.

A woman stood one hour and a half watching a large police dog struggle in the water in Little Lake this morning before Humane Inspector R. C Smith was asked to come to the rescue of the dog. When the Inspector arrived the dog had become exhausted by its long struggle in the cold water and had drowned. The dog, which had been playing on the ice, ran out on the logs and dropped into the water when it lost its balance. The dog swam around in the water but was unable to reach shore on account of the ice.

Residents noticed the dog swimming in the water but none thought of phoning the police or the Humane Inspector, or anyone who could have rescued the dog. When at least one person thought enough of the matter to 'phone the police, Inspector Smith was immediately communicated with and went to the place where the dog was, but too late to be of any help.

A second dog, a large Russian wolf hound, became stranded on the ice behind the Sanitary Ice plant this morning. The police were communicated with and Mr. Smith was notified, but when he arrived the owner had rescued the dog by placing a ladder between the shore and the ice cake.

BRIDGE BILLS IN DIFFICULTY OWING TO VETO

Governor Smith's Action Strengthens Opposition to Two Structures.

BILLS MAY BE DROPPED.

Niagara Gorge and Thousand Islands Projects Sponsored By Private Capital.

OTTAWA, April 4 (Canadian Press).—The action of Governor Smith of New York State in vetoing bills for bridges across the Niagara River and the St. Lawrence at the Thousand Islands will mean added difficulties for the projects in the Dominion Parliament.

There have lately been a number of bills for bridges across international waterways—all of them meeting with opposition. One Niagara Gorge bridge bill was killed in the Private Bills Committee of the House. A second Niagara Gorge bridge and the bill for a St. Lawrence bridge near the Thousand Islands are still before the House and scheduled for consideration after the Easter recess. The contention of Governor Smith that the power to erect toll bridges should not be given to private corporations has also been urged here in opposition to the bills.

Expect Bill Dropped.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 4. — (Canadian Press).—The veto by Governor Smith of the State of New York of an application for the incorporation of the Thousand Islands International Bridge Corporation, a concern of almost exclusive American connections, was not unexpected by residents of the island area in view of Governor Smith's reluctance to grant a franchise to any private company to undertake the construction of an international bridge, and it is the belief here that the corresponding bill now before the House of Commons at Ottawa will be dropped by its promoters.

MURRELL BACK IN LONDON JAIL

Appearance Changed Greatly Since Escape in 1921.

HAS BEEN HOME.

LONDON, Ont., April 4.—Completing without incident their 3,000 mile journey from Los Angeles, California, Provincial Police Inspectors Stringer and Miller last night delivered William Murrell to the county jail to await trial on a charge of murdering Russell Campbell in the sensational Melbourne bank robebry of April 11, 1921.

Appearance Changed.

Nearly seven years after the crime, Murrell's appearance had so changed that he probably would not have been quickly recognized by those who knew him in London. His arrest in California on a charge of larceny was quickly followed by identification from his never-changing fingerprints.

Murrell admitted to the officers that since he and his brother Syd sawed out the bars and escaped over the walls of the jail in September, 1921, he had been back to visit once with his parents when they lived on Horton street.

It is understood that Crown Attorney Judd has recommended that a special jury be drafted at the May sittings of the Supreme Court in order to bring Murrell to trial before the Fall Assizes.

Detrained at St. Thomas.

ST. THOMAS, April 4.— Heavily shackled to Provincial Officers Miller and Stringer, William Murrell, wanted in connection with the Melbourne bank robbery of three years ago, was taken off the Michigan Central Wolverine train No. 8 from Chicago at 7.25 yesterday evening. Sergeant Doyle and Constable Allen of the Provincial force at London met the party and hurried them by high-powered automobile, left with motor running at the depot platform, to the London jail. Murrell was hatless when he alighted from the train and wore leather leggings of the type used by taxi drievrs. About 20 citizens had learned of the coming of Murrell from Los Angeles and were at the depot.

Record Offer Made For 'Alice' Manuscript

LONDON, April 4. Canadian Press. — A record "sight unseen" offer for the manuscript of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" has been made by trans-Atlantic telephone. Dr. Rosenbach, who paid roughly $77,000 for Alice's Adventures said "I have already had many proposals from the other side by telephone, and also cable, but I pledged my word not to make any move until I returned from the continent in a fortnight.

Youth Loses Life In Attempt To Save Dog

SHERBROOKE, Que., April 4 (Canadian Press). — The first drowning fatality of the season occurred here yesterday afternoon when Romeo Moreau, sixteen years old, of this city, lost his life while attempting to save his dog, which had fallen through the ice of the St. Francis River. The dog had broken through the ice a short distance from shore. The boy managed to pull the animal to safety, but as he was turning to make his return trip, the ice broke under him and he was precipitated in the icy water, the strong current carrying him under the ice.

The police worked three hours with grappling irons in an effort to locate the body, but their efforts were unsuccessful.

MORE INSULIN BEING SUPPLIED

INCREASE OVER 1927.

A marked increase in the number of units of insulin distributed by the Peterborough branch laboratory is shown, there having been 33,100 units supplied to twenty-seven patients during the month of March compared with 24,000 in the corresponding month of 1927.

FATHERS' NIGHT MUCH ENJOYED

Queen Mary Home and School Association Arranges Good Program.

ADDRESS TO PARENTS.

Father's Night was held in the auditorium of the Queen Mary school last evening, when a special invitation to fathers to be present at their regular meeting was extended by the ladies of the Home and School Association. A gratifying number responded to the invitation.

The meeting was featured by a fine address from the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of the Murray street Baptist church, who outlined to the parents their duties with regard to giving a good example to their children. A vote of appreciation was tendered Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe by the principal of the school, M. N. Clark.

Routine business was transacted, and a short musical program given, the president, Mrs. C. R. Banks, occupying the chair. Refreshments were served by Mrs. S. Worsencroft, convenor of the Social Committee, and her assistants.

CANADA MAY LINK WITH U.S. AIRMAIL

Officials Plan To Connect With Transcontinental Service at Albany.

OTTAWA, April 4. — (Canadian Press.)—Expansion of Canada's air mail service by linking up with the trans-continental services of the United States is under consideration by post office officials and a representative will shortly go to Washington to arrange matters. Canadian officials have in mind connecting with the American service at Albany, N.Y., running a regular schedule of flights between Albany and Montreal.

SCRANTON PAPER BUILDING BURNED

Five Men Hurt During Fire — Loss Placed at Half Million.

SCRANTON, April 4. Canadian Press. — The Scranton Republican building here was destroyed by fire to-day. Five men were burned and taken to the hospital for treatment.

With all avenues of escape cut off the men had to leap through the windows and hang on to ledges two and three stories above the ground, whence they were rescued by the firemen. The loss was placed unofficially at half a million dollars.

George Cower, the Associated Press telegraph operator, was the last man out of the building.

OLD TOWN HALL BEING REPAIRED FOR PUBLIC HALL

BUILDING REWIRED.

Painting and Calsomining Being Done—New Floor May Be Laid.

The Ashburnham town hall at the corner of Hunter and Mark streets, is being redecorated and repaired by the City Trust in response to the plea from many citizens in the East Ward that they had no public meeting place where they could hold concerts and other community affairs.

Early in January the City Trust tackled the problem. This body, Secretary V. Eastwood pointed out is not, as many people suppose, a spending body, but is a group of men who have to look after the trusts of the city. The Ashburnham hall was acquired by the City of Peterborough when the village united with this city. For some years the hall has been occupied by the Lavoie Knitting Company which paid a small rent to the City Trust. A year ago the Lavoie Company left the city and since then the hall has been vacant.

The City Trust is attempting to have the hall repaired at a nominal cost, so that the residents across the river might have some place to hold public concerts. The ceilings are being calsomined, and the woodwork painted. The building is being rewired, and new floors will probably be put in.

FEWER FIRES; GREATER LOSS

First Two Months of 1928 Show More Damage From Fire.

SEVERAL BAD BLAZES.

Some interesting information is to be gleaned from the Ontario Fire Marshal's report for the month of February, 1928. For instance, though there were 101 more fires in February of 1928, than in the same month a year ago, there was a decrease in the total for the first two months of 1928 over the corresponding two of 1927. The above named months of this year had an increased loss of $828,099 over those of the previous year; the insurance loss is increased by $817,963 and the loss not covered by insurance is $10,136.00.

The four leading classes of risks for the two months were barns, dwellings, stores and factories. The first, third and fourth of these classes showed an increased loss of $3,161.00, $449,418.00 and $338,026.00 respectively, while the second, namely dwellings, showed decrease in loss of $103,128.00.

The large fires of the months were sustained by Chatham where a fire in the Canadian Fertilizer Co., Ltd., caused a loss of $79,994.00; Oshawa had a loss of $60,000.00 due to fire in General Motors Ltd.; Calabogie lost $80,238.00 in the Black Donald Graphite Mine fire; Copper Cliff $58,253.00 in fire at the International Nickel company; Fort William had a slightly higher loss than Copper Cliff, having suffered by a $58,341.00 blaze in the James Murphy Block and Hamilton was only slightly better off with a loss of $54,493.00 in wholesale stores fire on Hughson street.

Toronto topped the list with a $207,697 blaze in factories at 116-124 Spadina avenue and a $69,484.00 loss in factories at 220 King street.

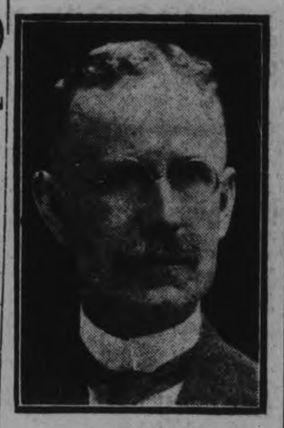
GIVES ADDRESS.



DR. DOOLITTLE.
Past President of the O.M.L., who was one of the speakers at Peterborough Automobile club banquet held last night.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENT PREVENTION DISCUSSED BY O.M.L. PRESIDENT AT AUTOMOBILE CLUB BANQUET

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Compulsory Insurance and Gasoline Tax Among Other Subjects Discussed.

With no less a personage than Richard A. Stapells, manufacturer, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Motor League in attendance as the main speaker, as well as other officials of the provincial body with which it is affiliated, the Peterborough Automobile Club last evening enjoyed the main event in its year of progress, namely its annual banquet and general meeting. There gathered in the large front dining room of the Empress Hotel at 6.30 some seventy-five persons in all—officers, members and friends of the Peterborough organization, and among them, a splendid representation of ladies. Novelty features, singing, orchestra music and delightful vocal numbers were enjoyed during and immediately after the banquet, while election of officers, brief addresses by His Worship Mayor Denne and other local speakers, and regular business preceded the main addresses of the evening. In connection with the election of officers, it is interesting to note that the president of 1927, James Juby, was re-elected, as was Secretary-Treasurer Frank G. Stinson, and Vice-President Thomas M. Dutton. A. W. Blade is the honorary president.

The banquet last evening and the meeting which followed it, was a happy one, reflecting credit upon those responsible for its organization. In attendance during the supper hour was the Regent theatre orchestra, pleasing to the ear and generous with encores, and as one sat down one found motoring pamphlets, fancy paper hats—balloons, distributed later, completed the scene of pleasure. Miss Daisy Murray, contributing the vocal numbers of the evening, was repeatedly encored. She was accompanied by John Crane. The latter, assisted by Charles Sedgwick, led the table singing.

Reception of the minutes of the last general meeting, communications from the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., expressing regret at being unavoidably absent, and the president's annual report, as well as the treasurer's statement, required but a few minutes. Thomas Dutton asked for six cars to carry the old people from the Protestant Home to church next Sunday morning.

Officers Re-elected

With the reading of the report of the nominating committee, Reg. Turner arose to pay tribute to the president of 1927 and moved that he be re-elected, despite that individual's protest. He expressed the belief that the Peterborough Association would be behind Mr. Juby. "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," seemed to seal the motion. Mr. Turner then called for the toast to the president.

In reply, Mr. Juby related a humorous story.

Thomas Dutton was the popular choice for the vice-presidency, as was Frank G. Stinson when nominations for a secretary-treasurer were called for.

Mayor Denne

His Worship Mayor Denne, welcoming the distinguished visitors to Peterborough also paid tribute to the Peterborough association. He urged co-operation between all organizations and the city council.

Referring to the city's parking problem, he asked that Peterborough motorists set behind the council in making effective the parking bylaw now under consideration. He continued, addressing the guests:

"I welcome you to the city and if you come to Peterborough in the summer time, we'll show you the brightest city in the province!"

TWELVE OCEAN STEAMSHIPS WITH SETTLERS ON ATLANTIC

Five Thouasnd Newcomers Due at Halifax This This Week.

SPECIAL TRAINS NEEDED.

Most of Them Are Bound For the Western Provinces.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 4. — Twelve trans-Atlantic liners, with nearly 5000 passengers, are due at Halifax on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, according to advices received at the Canadian National Railways' offices here.

Fourteen special trains, besides the regular trains out of Halifax, will be required to move this flood tide of settlers westward, and the rolling stock that will be assembled in Halifax for this movement will include one hundred and fifty cars, baggage, colonist, first class, sleepers, lunch cars and dining cars. The supplies for the latter most of which are purchased at this port, must be sufficient to feed practically five thousand people for three days at least.

Among these special trains will be several "solid trains," which are trains made up directly for the west, usually Winnipeg, and not broken for any transfer until they reach their destination.

This fleet of ships, numbering among them the White Star liners, Regina and Albertic, and the Swedish-American motorship Gripsholm, on her first visit to Halifax, will reach Halifax on the 7th and 8th, which means that Saturday and Sunday next may chalk up one of the high records for two-day arrivals at the port of Halifax.

According to the present indications, the North German Lloyd liner Karlsruhe with a total of 448 passengers, will be the first to arrive, now being scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

The Ausonia, of the Cunard line; Helig Olav, with 333 passengers; the White Star liner, Regina, with 999 passengers and the Ryndam with 333 passengers, are all scheduled for April 6, Friday. The White Star liner Albertic, the Pennland, Bergensfjord, with large passenger lists, but numbers not yet announced, are due on the 7th, Saturday; as are also the following: Athenia, with 303 pasengers ;the Westphalia, with 245 passengers, and the Gripsholm with 339 passengers.

Preparations are being made by the National System for handling 5000 people. They will be distributed broadcast over the Dominion, settlers for practically every province being included in the ship's list.

POLICE TAKE CATAPULTS

Use of Such Weapons Renders Boys Liable To $50 Fine.

CHIEF ISSUES WARNING.

The police in the last few days have seized twenty catapults and sling shots from boys in the city. In every case the boy was using the catapult in such a manner as to be dangerous to both life and property. Some of the boys had equipped themselves with marbles as ammunition, and were causing trouble with the people on the streets.

Chief Newhall told The Examiner this morning that boys were liable to a $50 fine for carrying catapults or sling shots, and if the habit did not cease some parents would find their boys in Police Court.

Fox Thieves Are Held For Trial

OTTAWA, Ont., April 4 (Canadian Press).—Walter Reamer, Eganville, and Frank J. Schroder, Fitzroy Township, cousins, arrested early in March by provincial police and charged with the theft of eight silver fox pelts after killing the animals which were owned by J. A. Lytle, Arnprior, came before Magistrate William Joynt in Police Court here yesterday for preliminary hearing. Reamer was committed for trial. Schroder was remanded a week and bail fixed at $4,000.

The killing of the foxes and the theft of their skins was committed on February 29, and an investigation conducted by provincial police officers resulted in the arrest of the two accused a week later.

LITTLE PROFIT FROM MEETING

Mrs. Morris Reports On Urban Trustees' Convention—Dr. Craig Fears Softball Craze.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS.

The least profitable of the seven meetings she had attended was, the comment of Mrs. W. R. Morris on the recent convention of the Urban Trustees Association, which she attended as delegate, in a short report to the Board of Education last night. While the papers had been good along academic lines there had not been enough discussion of administrative matters, etc., one carefully prepared report on the high cost of education was read at the last minute and given no consideration.

Baseball or softball, in the public schools is the question which is bothering Dr. Craig, who fears that the playing of the latter game will prevent the schools of producing any more such stars as Cherrett, Hardill, and Whitehouse. He granted that softball can be played by more pupils at once, because of the smaller area required, but urged that something be done to revive hardball. At his request Mr. Mowat will call a meeting of the principals and assistants to try and solve the problems.

Dr. A. W. McPherson reported 422 pupils examined during the month, with the following defects noted: Defective tonsils 85, enlarged glands 68, bad teeth 50, underweight 30, enlarged thyroid 30, defective vision 30, round shoulders 28, defective speech 22, poor hearing 12.

Miss Jones, the school nurse, examined 270 pupils and excluded 11. She made 28 calls at the homes.

Dr. Green completed his survey of the King Edward School during March, examining 388 children there. He found 152 with teeth in good condition, while 236, or 604 per cent., needed treatment.

During the month he made 89 fillings and extracted 13 teeth.

The principal and caretaker of the King Edward School having complained that employees of the De-Laval plant cross the lawn of the school, the action of E. F. Reid in

Liquor Store Closes at Six on Thursday

Business hours at the Ontario Government liquor store will be the same as usual on the open days this week, despite the double week-end holiday. The store will close at 6.00 o'clock on Thursday, will remain closed all day Good Friday, close at 1.00 o'clock on Saturday, and be closed all day Easter Monday.

THE WEATHER

The temperature this morning was at 46 degrees; lowest last night 38 degrees; highest point yesterday, 65 degrees. All these figures show that warmer weather is here, at least temporarily. There was another severe thunderstorm last night about 2 a.m., and for a time there was a brilliant display of nature's electrical energy. If the reader is troubled with "nerves," perhaps I should say terrifying display. Thunderstorms are commencing early this season, and are severe. For a number of years past they have only been of modern intensity, and infrequent. The rainfall was almost three-quarters of an inch (.73.) We will probably have a little more cool weather.—W. P.

GOLD COMMISSIONER MACLEAN SIGNS PACT WITH GOVERNMENT TO PARTICIPATE IN PENSION PLAN

Territory is Second to Join Pension Scheme Passed By Parliament.

AIDS PERSONS OVER 70.

Probable Manitoba and Saskatchewan Will Shortly Come Under Federal Plan.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 4.—(Canadian Press)—Yukon has entered the Federal old age pensions scheme. Late yesterday afternoon, George I. MacLean, newly-appointed gold commissioner of the Yukon Territory, affixed his signature to an agreement with the Dominion government to participate in the Federal plan. An order-in-council will shortly be passed by Cabinet council, in accordance with the established procedure, authorizing Hon. Peter Heenan, minister of labor, to sign for the Federal government.

Yukon Territory is the second to join in the Federal old age pensions scheme passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament. Several months ago, British Columbia, through Hon. A. M. Manson, Provincial Minister of Labour, executed an agreement with Mr. Heenan along similar lines to that with Yukon. Manitoba and Saskatchewan are now negotiating with Mr. Heenan, and it is probable that these two provinces will shortly also come under the Federal plan. Legislation to enter into negotiations was recently passed by the Legislature of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The signature of Gold Commissioner MacLean was affixed yesterday under authority of an ordinance passed at the last session of the Yukon Legislature. Arrangements were originally made for the late Gold Commissioner Percy Reid to sign for the Yukon; but owing to his death the matter was held in abeyance pending the appointment of Gold Commissioner MacLean.

Under the Federal old age pension scheme, persons 70 years of age and over may participate, providing they are domiciled in a province which has joined in the plan. The maximum pension payable is $240 annually. This amount is subject to reduction by any sum received by way of income by the pensioner in excess of $125 per year. The cost of the scheme is divided on a fifty-fifty basis as between the Dominion Government and each province which enters into the plan.

RECEPTION SERVICE HELD AT MILLBROOK

United Church Receives Seven Persons Into Fellowship.

A reception service and the quarterly observance of the Lord's Supper were special features of the morning worship service at the United Church on Sunday. There was a good congregation, and the service was held upstairs for the first time since the New Year.

The pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, preached from the text, "Verily, verily I say unto you, Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit", John 12:24. Rev. Joseph Wilks assisted the pastor with the reception service and with the Sacrament, those uniting in church membership being; Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brian; Mr. and Mrs. Lavergne Fallis; Mr. and Mrs. Mumford, and Jack Stinson. There was a large number of communicants.

Class Elects Officers

Miss Jean L. Burnham's junior class in the Sunday School held an regular session on Sunday afternoon and the following officers were elected: President, Kathleen Smith; vice-president, Marjorie McDowell; secretary, Myrtle Nattress; treasurer Gertie Richards; ass't treasurer, Esther Might. The class will choose a name at its next business meeting, the "Pals" and the "Chums" being the two under consideration. This is the first junior class to be fully organized in the United Church Sunday School.

Personals

Mr. F. W. Burnham and daughter, Dorothy, were guests of his mother, Mrs. E. S. Burnham over the week-end. The latter's many friends will be glad to learn that she is convalescing slowly after three weeks' serious illness with an attack of flu.

Mr. J. E. Allen has rented M. E. Thorndyke's residence on King Street east, and expects to move to the village in the immediate future, assisting his father, Mr. John Allen, Sr., with his farm property this season.

Mr. Walter Widdis has rented Mr. Allen's farm, the former Payne homestead, southeast of Millbrook. Mr. Thorndyke and sister will probably occupy the house he recently renovated on his King Street property.

ICE BREAKING ON GREAT LAKES

CREWS ARRIVE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 4 (Canadian Press).—Activity in marine circles is becoming more pronounced with the daily disappearance of snow and ice. Following a thunderstorm Monday night the first signs of extensive weakening of the river ice however, became apparent when open water was reported in Hay Lake about six miles below the Soo. The open stretch directly between the two Soos has been growing larger daily and crossing on the ice is now abandoned.

Above the Soo reports indicate the ice still holding solid, but showing black spots here and there. Some windrowed ice is reported in Whitefish Bay and floating ice beyond vision above the point. Unless a change for very cold weather sets in there is little danger of trouble from this source expected by the time boats are ready to get out.

Crews have arrived here for some of the 23 steamers held here during the winter. Engineers and crews for the others are expected shortly. The steamer Heads, which was locked in the ice in West Neebish Cut, is said to have experienced little trouble from her punctured forepeak and is being put into shape to get away with the first opening. Great Lakes tugs are being given their finishing touches, as they will be used to break up the ice below the locks and assist the ferry between the two Soos on her first trip.

BANKER PROTESTED OIL RESERVE LEASE

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 4 (Associated Press). — Some interesting disclosures of events following the lease of the Teapot Dome were made yesterday before the Senate Oil Committee, which re-opened its hearings for an hour and a half, but no new light was shed on the missing Continental Trading Company bonds.

Former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, revealed that Will H. Hays, one-time Postmaster-General, had visited him here late in 1923 to discuss the status of Albert B. Fall about the time Lenroot, then chairman of the oil committee, and Senator Smoot, of Utah, a member, had called on the former Interior Secretary to urge him to tell all in the oil investigation.

Birch Helms, a New York banker, but a Texas oil operator when Teapot Dome was leased to Harry F. Sinclair on April 7, 1922, disclosed that he had protested to President Harding and three of his Cabinet officers — the late John W. Weeks, Harry M. Daugherty, and Herbert Hoover—against the lease, but without avail.

Helms said he had protested because of his company—the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company — had sought an opportunity to bid for the Wyoming naval oil reserve months before the lease was granted, but had been given to understand by Fall as well as by Edwin Denby, then Secretary of the Navy, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., then Assistant Secretary of the Navy, that there was no intention of making a lease. The protests to Harding and some of his official family were telegraphed from Texas after Helms had read in the newspapers that a lease had been made.

OLD TIMES BEST DEBATERS PROVE

Last of Season's Ladies' Aid Socials Held at Norham.

NORHAM, April 4.—"Resolved that conditions of fifty years ago in farming communities were more conducive to happiness than they are today," was the subject of a debate given at the last social, of the evening conducted by the Ladies' Aid. The affirmative side was upheld by Miss Mildred Curtis and Ewart Huycke, while Miss F. McCreay and Norman McCubbin were on the negative side. Four splendid papers, instructive and interesting, were delivered by those debaters. The difference in conditions of the two ages brought out the strides taken along industrial lines also the deterioration along lines of family life, community neighborliness and ordinary pleasure. The judges, Miss Jennie Boyce, of Warkworth, Mrs. D. R. Clare and Oscar Laver, awarded the decision to the affirmative side.

The Rev. D. R. Clare acted as chairman while the following program was given: Chairman's address; male chorous, "Sussex by the Sea"; vocal solo with guitar accompaniment, Miss Fraces Lean; vocal duet; male chorus "Swanee River"; dialogue, "Over the Back Fence", four members of the White School; a round, "Sweetly sings the Donkey"; chorus by the Norham Young People's League. The Rev. D. R. Clare spoke of the good time the Ladies' Aid had provided during the winter and voiced the appreciation of the audience. Mrs. Oscar Laver who with Mrs. J. Diamond and Mrs. B. Peterson, was the committee in charge, thanked those who had taken part and helped to make the evening a success; after which lunch was served.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 4 (Canadian Press)—An attempt by R. S. W. Fordham, attorney of Niagara Falls, Ontario, to bring three foreign-born commuters across the Lower Arch Bridge from Canada without quota visas failed late yesterday afternoon, when United States immigration officials refused the trio admittance to this country after a hearing. They were sent back to Canada to secure their visa from the U. S. Consul at Niagara Falls, Ont.

The three commuters, Aleck Douglass, Scotsman, and Gelste Severen and Luigi Zcia, Italians, declined to apply to the Consul for visas, as Fordham is trying to establish the point that quota visas are unnecessary under the recent ruling of the United States Circuit Court, which declared illegal Ruling 86 of the immigration laws. Ruling 86 holds that foreign-born commuters may not enter the country without quota visas.

Immigration officials said they refused the three commuters admittance yesterday because the immigration department here has received no word from headquarters at Washington, instructing them to accept the Circuit Court's ruling on the illegality of Ruling 86.

In discussing the case last night, Fordham said there was nothing further to do except await orders from Washington.

ACTIVE YEAR IS REPORTED

CLUB IN GOOD SHAPE.

To the best of my knowledge, the Peterborough Automobile Club is now entering upon its sixteenth year of service to Peterborough and district motorists. Under the titles of Peterborough Automobile Association, and Ontario Motor League, Peterborough Branch, much has, in the past, been accomplished by officers and members of earlier years—full reports having been given the public from time to time. This report, therefore, deals with the work of this Club in affiliation with the Ontario Motor League, and the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, during the calendar year, 1927.

Membership.

It is my happy privilege to report that the Club's activities and services to members and the motoring public generally have resulted in an increase in membership. Our standing in Section "B" clubs affiliated with the Ontario Motor League, as of December 31st, 1927, was fifth, with a membership of 198, which has since been slightly augmented. There are twelve cities in Section "B."

Our standing is higher than the cities of Belleville, Stratford, Sault Ste. Marie, Owen Sound, Kingston, Port Arthur, Fort William, but under the cities of Galt, St. Thomas, Guelph, and Niagara Falls. Intensive solicitation during 1928 should result in a higher standing.

Finances.

Despite heavy advertising and publicity expenses, some of which were unforseen, the treasurer is able to present a satisfactory balance on hand as of December 31st, 1927. As some large expenditures made during the past year are to carry activities during 1928, and possibly 1929, careful financing, with an increased membership should enable the Club to set aside a suitable proportion of revenue for a reserve fund, and thereby improve the position of the Club, financially.

Traffic Control.

The Club has studied various problems affecting Peterborough motorists, and recommendations to the City Council, made during 1927, include, among others: Erection of five electric, automatic, traffic control signals, on Charlotte and George Streets; marking off of bus stops in business section; necessary improvements to certain city streets; satisfactory routing of bus lines; changes of the angle lines in the business section; so as to leave more space in the centre of the streets where angle parking is permitted.

Highway Improvement.

The Club, in cooperation with the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, successfully moved for a Provincial Highway to connect Lindsay with Peterborough, to further improve trading conditions and give increased facilities to tourist trade; for improvement of the Peterborough to Chemong road; for improvement of the Ketchecum to Kinmount road, in addition to assisting in a movement to have highways continued east of Peterborough, to connect with Ottawa and Belleville.

The cooperation of the City Council was sought in a successful attempt to have the road paralleling the Trent Canal, past the Lift Lock, rebuilt; an effort was made to bring about the improvement of the scenic road paralleling the east bank of the Trent Canal, between Peterborough and Lakefield. This section of road, if put in good condition should prove to be a popular, scenic route second to no other in the Province.

Legislation.

The Club has worked with the Ontario Motor League and other Ontario Clubs in successfully protesting against an increase in the gasoline tax, unless accompanied by a reduction in the license fees; in such matters as compulsory insurance; central registration of liens; continuance with modifications, of spot light privileges, general highway or municipal traffic legislation, also highway extension and improvement, and accident prevention, under the leadership of the Highway Safety Committee.

Signs.

Perhaps the most useful service rendered the motorists by the Club has been the erection of the familiar direction signs. In 1927, some 850 such signs, accompanied by cautionary signs, where needed, were erected within a 30 mile radius of the city, and should prove of inestimable value to not only local motorists, but to the tourists who are visiting this section continually in increasing numbers. Under the capable management of J. A. Bertram, who has long been identified with this club, as a member and an officer, the work of sign erection was carried out very effectively. The signs were supplied by the Ontario Motor League, Toronto, as part of their service in return for our affiliation fees.

At the request of the City Council, about 35 "School—Go Slow" signs, were erected in the city, along with cautionary signs, where needed. The Board of Education very considerately financed their signing program, we attending to the erection, which was also turned over to Mr. Bertram.

Tourists and Touring.

That the efforts of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, the Trent Waterway Development Association and ourselves, to increase the volume of tourist traffic to the Kawartha Lakes and the Trent Waterway, have met with unusual success, is reflected in the tourist revenue to Peterborough in 1927, which reached the surprising total of $507,000.00—a 100 per cent increase since the summer of 1925.

Our offices are visited by many hundreds of tourists, annually, to whom courteous and helpful service is given. Several thousand tourist road maps were distributed in this way last year, and through the mails in response to written enquiries.

Touring services to members have been in popular demand of recent years, and our secretary reports having given several hundred routings to various local motorists planning trips of shorter or longer duration. The connection which this club has, through the Ontario Motor League, with United States Automobile clubs, has proven a boon to our people abroad. This connection also enables us to obtain for a member, given due notice, special maps of districts abroad, which he or she might plan to visit, also, our membership card is the equivalent of a letter of introduction at the border.

Emergency Road Service and Legal Defence.

An increasing number of Peterborough motorists are finding out the advantages of the Emergency Road Service. Service on the road, as rendered by J. J. Duffus, Ltd., to members of this branch of the Club, has given speedy relief to many harassed motorists, many of whom have sent in letters of appreciation to the Club.

In the case of a summons for speeding, or in accident cases, the Club, through the Legal Department of the Ontario Motor League, endeavours to arrange settlement of Claims for Members without resort to litigation, and has succeeded in doing so in many instances, as in the Brighton cases. If a member believes that he or she has been unjustly charged, when necessary, the Club may arrange for legal defence. Many dismissals have thus been secured. Booklets giving full particulars of the Road and Legal services are distributed to members two or three times annually.

General Services.

Probably as a result of earlier agitation, the work of snow removal and erection of snow fences on the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway, was very satisfactorily carried out, by the Department, during the past winter. A word of commendation, to the Department, is in order at this time, I feel, in view of the heavy snowfalls and the somewhat unusual conditions under which the snow removal forces worked.

The work of the license issuing has been carried on in a satisfactory manner, I am assured, the secretary reporting 5794 license plates issued during 1927, in addition to operator's permits issued and transfers made, totalling, jointly, 6460. Similarly, in the years 1925, to 1927, inclusive, license revenue to the club totals $939.20.

Copies of "Canadian Motorist," a Province of Ontario Road Map and a Road Book, both published by the Ontario Motor League, were mailed to every member, (Canadian Motorist, monthly) and several hundreds of copies distributed to tourists.

Many hundreds of telephone requests for information and assistance were received during the past year, also a number by mail and telegraph. Including license issuing, the above, and other services cited in this report, a conservative estimate of the service contacts made by the Club, during 1927, would be 15000—to local motorists and tourists.

I should like to express to the Executive my appreciation of their cooperation during the past year. Our secretary-treasurer has in every way supplied initiative and energetic leadership, as in past years. The City Council has dealt considerately with our proposals, and the press has been especially liberal in giving publicity to our activities. To all of the above I extend a most sincere "thank you," and bespeak for my successor, a continuance of their cooperation and consideration.

(Sgd.) JAS. JUBY,
President.

DIPHTHERIA DEATHS FOUR YEARS APART

Brantford Preventive Efforts Show Good Results in This Case.

With a comparatively small amount of research, a whole volume could be written dealing entirely with striking triumphs over disease which have marked the activities of public health bodies in the Dominion during recent years.

One of these is outlined in a short statement from Dr. W. L. Hutton, Medical Officer of Health in Brantford, Ontario, which has just been made public in a bulletin of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

"Throughout the fall of 1922 and the whoule of 1923," Dr. Hutton writes "the Brantford Health Department offered free preventive treatments against diphtheria to entire school population of the city.

"The public response to this appeal was beyond all expectations. Over one-half of the entire school population came to the health offices and received the treatments. Diphtheria was always present in the city and claimed, on an average, six young lives every year.

"In January, 1924, the last death from diphtheria occurred in the city of Brantfiord. Thereafter, for a peroid of four long years, children ceased to die from diphtheria in Brantford and the disease itself practically disappeared.

"But a new generation came into being and once again diphtheria reappeared.

In January of this year, a three-year old child died from the disease. The facts were placed before the City Council. The money was voted for another diphtheria prevention campaign. Over two-thirds of the local physicians offered their services and more than one-half the entire public and seperate school population presented themselves with request forms signed by the parents and receive toxnd treatments for the prevntion of diphtheria.

"We believe," Dr. Hutton concludes "that diphtheria will again disappear from Brantford."

Aside from the outstanding success of modern preventive medicine in coping with the disease, two other unsual facts stand out. The one is the fact that the Brantford situation demonstrates that intelligent cooperation of the bulk of the citizens is essential to the success of modern public health measures.

The other is a remarkable indication of the rapid advances which have already been made in public health education. A single death from diphtheria during a peroid of four years is, in one Canadian community considered as a matter so serious that it requires the immediate action of the civic government. Only a few years ago, a certain number of deaths from diphtheria were looked upon as inevitable, and almost natural, in any Canadian town or city.

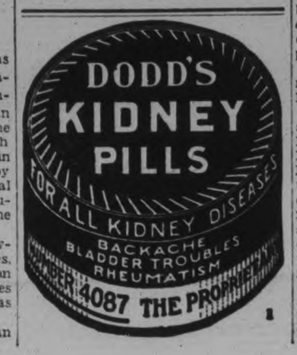
TOXIN ANTI-TOXIN BLAMED FOR DEATHS

All Those Affected Were Treated Same Day, Inquiry Reveals.

Considerable controversary has followed cabled reports from Australia that a number of deaths in Queenland, had followed by the Canadian Social Hygiene Council from the Director-General of Public Health at Sydney and, from articles in Australian newspapers received by the same organization, additional light has been thrown on the situation which was not revealed in the earlier despatches.

A commission of the Federal Government, the Sydney official cables, is now carrying on full investigation of the circumstances. He also statees that the biological product used was antitoxin.

In this connection, the Canadian Social Hygiene Council points out that all provincial health departments in Canada are now immunizing children against diphtheria but that none of them are using toxin antitoxin. It is being done by means of toxid, which is prefectly harmless but has the property of including the body to set up a natural protection against the disease. Manufacture of toxin antitoxin was discontinued in the Dominion some years ago.



The latter substance is, however, still widely used in the United States and elsewhere in the world, the Council states, and with no ill effects of this sort previously reported. It is believed that an error must have occurred since toxin antitoxin itself, could never bring about results reported from Queensland.

"The outstanding fact which has appeared so far," an interview with Dr. Elkington, Director of Tropical Hygiene in the Commonwealth Health Department, states, "has been that a number of children were inoculated between January 17th and 24th without suffering any ill effects and that only those who were inoculated on January 27th, and from the same batch of material, became ill.

"Some of these had already received one injection of it but only became ill after the second injection," the interview continues. "This indicates clearly enough that the material, as received, did not contain any harmful agency and that it did not contain any until at least a week after it was received. Had the serum used on these children contained any living organisms of disease, it is obivious that the children inoculated during the first week of its use would also have been harmed. None of them suffered any untoward effects, however."

Judging by these statements, it seems logical to conclude that the antitoxin was, in some way, contaminated, after it had been received and a portion of it already used. Whether this was through someone's blunder or because of improper handling, will not be known till the report of the investigating commission is issued.

TIME FOR A CHANGE.

"Parliament has been hearing echoes of the election scandals in Athabaska and Peace River. Parliament will continue to hear of such things just so long as Governments, whether Liberal or Conservative, insist upon appointing election officials with an eye to party advantage."—Ottawa Journal.

With this opinion The Examiner is in thorough accord.

The present system of appointing election officials is unreliable and inefficient, and should be scrapped in favour of a plan by which such officials would be permanently appointed and would be without any connection with the party that happened to be in power.

The sacredness of the ballot should be conserved in every possible way, and no one can seriously argue that with the present method of conducting elections there are safeguards enough to ensure this result.

The recent inquiry into the mystery of the South Ottawa ballots shows how carelessly election officials, appointed as they are at present, regard their duties, and doubtless a close investigation into the conduct of other elections would disclose much carelessness, if not something worse.

Surely the people of Canada are sufficiently interested in this question to cause the substitution of a better system for the haphazard methods now followed.

SHOULD BE MORE MEMBERS.

Comparing the number of automobile licenses issued in Peterborough and district last year with the total of membership in the Peterborough Automobile Club, it is easy to see that a good many people are quite satisfied to benefit by the efforts of the organization so long as they do not have to contribute their own energy and money to the cause.

When it is realized that 5,794 sets of markers were issued here last year, while the membership of the Automobile Club is only slightly in excess of 200, arriving at the percentage of slackers among the motoring fraternity is merely a simple matter of arithmetic.

What has been accomplished by the Automobile Club—and it has accomplished much—has been for the benefit of every motorist, yet the burden has had to be carried by a mere handful

The Examiner has no brief for the organization, but there is such a striking discrepancy between the number of motorists and the membership of this club that we feel that the facts should be brought to the notice of the public.

To take advantage of a movement out of which you receive as much benefit as the members without helping to share the expense and work is a form of sponging that should be distasteful to every fair-minded citizen.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

With a largely increased membership and a representative board of directors, the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is expected to enter upon a new era of useful service on behalf of this city.

In James Dutton, upon whose shoulders the mantle of the presidency has fallen, the chamber has secured an executive head whose driving power, energy and good judgment are most highly regarded. Mr. Dutton is a worker, and having consented to assume the responsible position of leading the Chamber of Commerce, may be counted upon to throw himself unsparingly into the duties of the office.

Confidence in Secretary Frank Stinson has been shown in his re-election as secretary, and his record is a guaranty that the manifold activities of his position will be well looked after.

The Chamber of Commerce has materially grown in the last few years as a comparison of the revenue and memberships of the chamber and its allied organizations for 1925 and 1927 will indicate.

The revenue of the chamber itself increased from $7,008.34 in 1925 to $11,185.63 last year, with the membership growing in the same time from 198 to 415.

The Peterborough Automobile Club, with a membership of 112 in 1925, had 206 last year, and the revenue in that period increased from $1,111.38 to $2,042.11.

While the membership of the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association remained the same, the receipts grew from $1,133.03 to $1,586.50.

The commissions received by the License Department jumped from $940.05 to $1,933.98, and the revenue of the Trent Waterway Association from $991.54 to $3,742.37.

Increased revenues entail, of course, increased work, and it speaks well for the economical manner in which the chamber has been operated that the salary expenditures in 1927 were not as large as in 1925 when the receipts were considerably smaller.

PETERBOROUGH STATISTICS.

Some very interesting figures in regard to Peterborough are contained in the bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in regard to municipal statistics for 1926.

The area of this city is given as 2,827 acres, almost exactly the same as Stratford, while it may surprise some citizens to learn that the acreage of Owen Sound and Oshawa ,the two baby cities of Ontario, is bigger than that of Peterborough, the figure for Oshawa being 3,356 and for Owen Sound 2,909 acres.

Peterborough's population in 1926 was 21,495, and her total taxable valuation is given as $22,616,490, with exemptions amounting to $3,108,185.

The city's receipts for that year totalled $948,083, made up of $785,981 in taxation and rates, $126,749 from public utilities and $35,743 from other sources.

The total expenditure was $914,082, the items being as follows:

Administration	$ 31,989
Protection to person and property	123,239
Public works	76,654
Health and sanitation	24,576
Charities, hospitals and recreation	49,251
Miscellaneous	18,573
Schools	287,445
Public utilities	115,881
Debenture expenditure	186,474

Peterborough's total assets are given as $6,948,290, included in which is $1,280,311 in sinking funds and investments and $1,222,927 in public utilities, while the total liabilities are estimated at $5,825,282, of which $4,241,306 represents debenture debt, divided into $1,665,157 for general purposes, $563,345 for schools, $426,524 for local improvements and $1,586,280 for public utilities.

SEND THE MARINES TO CHICAGO.

They hardly get the bullet riddled body of Joe Esposito, political boss, buried before anarchy breaks out again. This time it is the home of a United States Senator and the head of a candidate allied with him that are the targets. Humbler citizens who paste campaign posters in their windows are showered with cobblestones. This is not in Haiti, or Santo Domingo, or in some other of those "backward" little republics where we forever must be sending marines "to protect American property and American lives." It is in "Chicagoland," in the heart of America, where they are holding an election.

It is not on record that one piece of American property in Nicaragua has been bombed. It is not on record that one bomb has been hurled at an American citizen in Nicaragua. Not one American citizen has been picked up from the streets in Managua with his back full of shotgun slugs. Yet we are sending 5,000 marines into Nicaragua to supervise its election. Can an administration so concerned that Nicaraguans shall have a peaceful election ignore the plight of these Americans in our own country?

For if you ask the average citizen of Chicago why he and the rest of the decent people don't put an end to this political terrorism, he admits that he is afraid to get mixed in it. He doesn't want his home bombed. He doesn't want sawed-off shotguns pointed at him from behind the curtains of an automobile. What if he did vote, he asks, would his ballot be counted the way he marked it? He's not interested in alky cooking or contracts for public construction. He knows HIS onions.

He reads in his newspaper what blessings the Government has brought to Porto Rico, and Haiti, and Santo Domingo, and what a wonderful thing we are doing for Nicaragua with the marines. And then, a few streets away, another bomb blows up the front of a house, another politician is picked up for a funeral, another brick smashes the window that displays campaign posters—while the voices of the faithful, kneeling in the churches and pleading with God for deliverance are drowned out by the crash of munitions and the swelling chorus of "America First," the battle cry in the warfare between Deneenistas and Thompsonistas.—Milwaukee Journal.

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY.

(An Editorial for Young People in The Hamilton Spectator.)

There was held this week the annual dinner, under the auspices of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce, given to the young men of the city who come of age during the year. It was a highly successful affair, as all these functions have been since they were started six years ago, and the speech of the evening, given by Mr. Norman Sommerville, K.C., of Toronto, was so helpful that it should be brought to the attention of a wider audience than the one he was immediately addressing. He spoke of the opportunities presented to the youth of this country, and appealed earnestly to them not to leave their native land to try their fortune elsewhere, for nowhere else, he showed, were they likely to meet with such favorable conditions for the exercise of their talents and industry. That, it will be said, is no new theme; it has been discussed again and again, it is true, but it can never be brought too often or too strongly to the notice of the young men and women of this Dominion. The best of Canada is that it is a new country—"the country was just now, with the vast wealth so far developed, taking the first steps, and young Canadians should remember their inheritance," declared Mr. Sommerville. All must realize the advantage of being in at the start—"on the ground floor," as the expression goes.

Here in Canada are boundless opportunities in every direction. Many industries have already assumed large proportions, but they are still only in their initial stages, and it is for the rising generation to build them up, and in building them up find their own career. But in this connection there is need of something more than mere ambition; there must be purposeful effort. The reason why some people miss their mark is that they have really no definite mark at which to aim—they fire wild in the hope of hitting something, they don't seem to know or care what. The first essential to success is to have something to strive after. How is it possible to reach a goal when one doesn't even know what the goal is? So the thing to do is to select a line of endeavor, which one feels one will succeed at, and follow it up persistently until the object is attained. Each of us is gifted in a special direction; there is something each of us can do well if we try, and something which we shall find pleasure in doing. To start when one is young to develop that special talent and to add consistently day by day to our progress, is the certain way to get ahead. A policy of that kind followed out in a country like ours can have only one result—an entirely satisfactory one. Therefore, set up a goal and work straight towards it, not being discouraged by difficulties or the apparently slow rate of progress. Nothing can prevent a final victory, when determination, ability, character and health start out on the journey of life.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

After running in Montreal longer than the cross-country derbyists, Mederic Martin has had to acknowledge defeat—youth must be served.

The time seems to be ripe for a 1928 edition of "H.M.S. Pinafore." But where is there a Gilbert to write the new book?

An aeroplane was used to drop food to the sailors imprisoned in the Lake Erie ice floes, and also to guide the rescuing tug. That is a better use of aircraft than long distance "stunt" flying.

The wealth of Ontario is estimated at somewhat over nine billions. Have you your share of this total?

Nobody was killed in Chicago's election campaign yesterday. Can it be that the grip of politics is relaxing?

One man was killed and seven children were run down by motor cars in Toronto on Monday. This record shows why safety campaigns are necessary.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., April 4 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here yesterday continued of a very disappointing character, there being little demand from foreign buyers in any position.

There was no change in prices for coarse grains in the local market, but the demand was limited and only sales of odd cars were made for shipment to country points.

Owing to the renewed strength in the cash wheat situation at Winnipeg a stronger selling developed in the market for Spring wheat grades of flour and prices were advanced ten cents per barrel. The demand continued quiet. The undertone to the Winter wheat flour situation was firm with a moderate amount of business passing.

A fairly active business was done in all lines of millfeed and prices were unchanged. The tone of the market for rolled oats was firm under a moderate demand.

The trade in eggs was active, there being a good demand from jobbers for supplies and all offerings of Western extras sold at 33½c per dozen, firsts at 31½c, and seconds at 28½c delivered here, while Ontario extras sold at 31c per dozen. The consumptive demand was good and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 4,645 cases.

A firmer feeling developed in the potato market and prices recovered 5 cents per bag. This was attributed to the improvement in the demand.

Extreme udliness again marked the trade in butter but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 687 packages.

Little business was done in cheese but the undertone was steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 4. — (Canadian Perss).—Sensationally adverse crop reports from east of the Mississippi, together with high winds and lack of moisture southwest, lifted the wheat market fast yesterday. Fresh high price records for the season were scored both by the July and September deliveries.

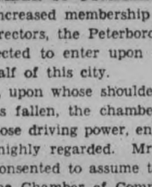
Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1¾ cent to 2¾ cents net higher, with corn ⅝ to ⅞ cent up; oats at ¼ cent to ⅝ cent advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

From start to finish, news of crop conditions for domestic Winter wheat proved to be the dominating influence in the wheat market. There was a decided broadening out of general speculative demand, with little or no attention given to other factors than the crop situation. Yesterday's developments appeared to indicate that growing weather, instead of making crop betterment manifest, was revealing worse damage than had been generally expected.

Notice was taken of a dispatch from Danville, Ill., by a leading Chicago expert saying that wheat from Springville, Ill. to Danville is the most complete failure he had ever seen, that the fields are generally as bare as when they were ploughed, and that farmers are planting the wheat fields instead with oats and barley. On top of such reports from Central wheat territory were bullish advices about need of rain in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, together with word of windy conditions likely to aggravate the effects of deficient subsoil moisture. Meanwhile, world's available stocks of wheat showed 3,299,000 bushels falling off for the week, and yesterday's export takings from North America totalled 600,000 bushels.

Corn turned strong with wheat. Receipts of corn were small, and there was some enlargement of Eastern shipping demand. Oats were unsettled, breaking early but rallying later, helped upward by action of other grain.

Provisions averaged lower on account of a large increase of Western meat and lard stocks for the month. Besides, trade estimates suggested 3.2 per cent more hogs in the country than last year.



DON'T CATCH COLD!

Annually, colds cost Canadians millions of dollars in time lost and efficiency impaired. Worse than that, an alarming percentage of dangerous ills start when resistance has been lowered by coughs and colds.

The best defence against illness is a vigorous constitution. Build up your bodily resistance. Drive off colds and disease—and keep them off. Take Gallagher's Indian Lung Remedy.

It makes your blood rich and red and disease-proof. It protects you against the evil germs of colds and worse ills to which all of us are constantly exposed.

This healthful, natural remedy contains no harsh mineral drugs. Only good, strengthening herbs, compounded according to the 50-years-old formula created by James Gallagher, the famous herbalist. It has aided thousands to get rid of colds—and to ward off all kinds of lung complaints.

Mrs. Russell Arnold, 28 Pitt Street, Chatham, Ontario, thinks there is no other remedy as effective as Gallagher's Indian Lung Remedy. She writes:

"Our boy suffered greatly from bronchitis and anaemia. After taking your medicine he has improved wonderfully, being almost entirely without cough. A few more bottles and he will be completely well."

You can now obtain this long-successful remedy at drug stores. Keep a bottle of it on your medicine shelf. Be free of coughs and colds this year for a welcome change. Gallagher Remedies Limited, Peterborough, Ont.

GOD'S MINUTE

Whoso offereth praise, glorifieth Me.—Ps. 50:23.

O Thou Infinite Life, from Whom we have come forth and in Whom we live and move and have our being, Thou Father of our spirits Who art "closer to us than breathing: nearer than hands and feet", we would begin this new day with a deep sense of gratitude to Thee and of reverence for ourselves. Make us glad that we are alive, and that we are living in a world so full of wonder, of beauty and inspiration. Be Thou the Great Companion of our lives this day. May we see Thee in every person we meet and find Thee in every experience that meets us. May we get the very utmost out of this day, by putting our very best of mind and heart into all its tasks. May our minds be so filled with good thoughts, and our hands so busy with kindly deeds, that there shall be no room in our lives for anything unworthy of ourselves or harmful to others. May we find happiness not in seeking it, but in bringing happiness to others, especially to those who stand closest to us. So may we live this day for its own sake, as if it were a life complete in itself, and when the day is done, may we fall asleep in the consciousness that we have honestly tried to share the spirit and follow the example of Him Who is the Master of life. In His Name. Amen.

DISTRICT CHURCHES.

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH.

TRENT RIVER, April 4.—The Rev. W. R. Archer preached to a large and appreciative congregation on Sunday afternoon, taking for his text Isaiah 55:1 Ho every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, etc., The topic being Choke Channels, we should be channels of blessing. At this time of the year thought it very forceful, rejuvenation. In the spring everything responds to nature and it ought to tell us that God cares. When our Master was up on the mount of Transfiguration, the disciples wanted to stay there but the Master wanted to come down and minister to a man in need at the base of the Mount. Let us look to ourselves to grow in Grace and Knowledge of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

There are three ways of knowing the kind of Christian. First, The enemy of our soul is Satan. Secondly, great outer circle of our professing men of the world know what manner of man a Christian should be, they require a higher standard from a professing Christian than the King upon the throne. Thirdly, Jesus Christ knows whether we are serving Him or not. What does Jesus think of us? Joseph was a disciple secretively for fear of the Jews. That is not the kind of a Christian we should be, but one that is not afraid. In chapter 11 there is a description of another powerless Christian, The Lord told him to come forth and he did at the word of the Master. At the last day of the Great Feast of the Tabernacle, Jesus said, "If any man thirst let him come unto me and drink, out of him shall flow rivers of living waters. In early settling of the country the people didn't go inland but they wanted water, water means life. A spring gives out, if not would be a dead place. The lesson for us, we must give if we must live and give blessings to others.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

Bob White Quail.

Now as I had grown from boyhood to man and had become the father in a little "home, sweet home," my responsibilities naturally caused me to take life a little more seriously. But, as a boy loves to go bare foot and play marbles in the spring of the year, when fall came my whole body and soul seemed to reach out for just one sup of pure, unadulterated nature, and many and many a morning, after I have been over to the factory and built a fire under the boiler, have I taken a stroll by twilight, before breakfast, and stepped up into a fence corner, leaned against the old rails and stood and breathed the pure air of a new-born day. Possibly the swish-sh-sh-sh of a flock of small wild ducks might be heard overhead as they darted their way southward; the note of the wood-thrush might also be noticed, and the flutter of the dear old woodcock's wings have sometimes almost caused me to flinch. Then as the last stars were closing their eyes for the day and the white frost of the early-October morning became visible on the top rail, away to the east would come the faint call of the quail. That voice would hardly die out before the father of another family would start calling the roll, right in the next field; then one to the south; another bevy, near the woods, to the north; and again to the west would come these cheerful notes; until the frosty air would fairly ring, all around me, with the melody of Bob White's roll call, the head of the family calling and each member answering. And if all is well, and none is missing, in about three minutes all is still and one would not know there was a quail in the country, unless a hawk happened to dart among them; then a shrill alarm is given, and all buzz for cover.

Now it is said that there never was a tribe of heathen discovered that did not worship some kind of idol. This I am not prepared to prove. But I will say this: That no intelligent man can live in this great, great out-of-doors and study the creatures that occupy it before man has any control over them, combined with the regularity of the sun, moon and whispering stars, without being compelled to believe that there is an over-ruling Power. And although I had not read a word on the value of our quail, this thought often presented itself to me: "What did God put them here for?" Yes, I can recall time, and time again, when, after I had emptied the quail out of my hunting-coat pocket I have gone to the kitchen door and thrown out by the handful the weed-seed that had worked out of their bursted crops; and how often, in the summer, I have seen them picking insects, as they strutted by my hiding place! Now, I am proud to say, I have not shot a quail in nearly twenty years, and I am still prouder to say that I have this much confidence in humanity, that to-day there wouldn't be one quail shot where there are five, if these shooters would first consider their cheerfulness, beauty and value while alive. For one Bob White sitting on the top rail, sounding his beautiful note, brings more gladness and more cheer to more people than twenty-five will in a bloody game-sack.

Now about the only argument the quail shooter has to put up is that the wire fence has taken the place of the old rail and weedy fence row, and has destroyed their cover, and that if he didn't shoot them the quail would only fight, one among the others, and would not nest. I am not here to say that this man has no brains, but I will say that the itching of his trigger-finger to shoot something has got control of his brains; and when I hear him blowing off this stuff I take father's advice, and "drop it." For the positive fact is that the old fence row is, and always was, the worst death trap that quail ever took shelter in. The height of a sportsman's ambition is to see them alight there; and the prowling house-cat has a great advantage there; and when March comes, that is just the place to look for a bunch of dead quail—quail that sought shelter there during the winter months, were drifted under, and died. All thinking men will admit that when quail are in real need of shelter, this old fence row is nothing but a fence drift. The only drawback quail have in Western Ontario, and in Ohio as well, is the disappearing of the woods that sheltered them from the drifting snows. Not that he gets any of his living there, but just flies there for shelter during the severe storms of winter.

As to them becoming so numerous as to quarrel and not breed, quail do not nest or breed in the woods. When we came to Canada in 1878 there were twenty-five where there hasn't been one during the last ten years. I am sure I have seen one hundred and fifty quail on an ordinary farm; and this change is not because the wire fence has taken the place of the rail, etc. All these excuses are false and without foundation.

Now here is the positive fact: The great mistake the sportsmen have made is that they have directed all their attention on the death-dealing weapons, as to how to destroy the quail. The breech-loader has taken the place of the old muzzle-loader; the six-shot pump gun has taken the place of the double-barrelled breech-loader; the quick, nitro-explosives have taken the place of the slow black powder; and thus we have gone on and on for the last thirty-five years, to my personal knowledge, thoughtless and ignorant of what we were doing, not taking into consideration at all the increasing number of shooters, year by year, until at last we have waked up to find that our birds have decreased over ninety per cent. during that time.

Has the wire fence destroyed the ducks, the beautiful trumpeter swans, our mourning doves, the woodcocks and meadow-larks? These migratory birds have decreased the same as our Ontario quail have, and God-given intelligence, wrongly directed, is responsible for it all.

Now just picture North America if, during the last thirty-five years, we had paid as much attention to the protection and increase of our birds as we have to these death-dealing weapons. What a cheerful difference it certainly would have made!

About ten years ago I started to protect the quail in earnest. I made eight feek-racks.

The boxes are eight inches square and four inches deep. The cover is about three feet wide and almost one foot from the feed. If a little snow does drift in, it is very light and the birds will scratch and get the feed, as no sleet or rain can reach it.

The quail soon found the food and I was agreeably surprised to see the number of tracks around these racks the first time I went to visit them; but when I returned three or four days later there was scarcely a quail to be seen. On investigation I found that the hawks had apparently struck the Klondyke of their lives, and it was almost sure death to Bob to go near the feed, as Mr. Hawk was always watching.

Then I bought a few No. 1 jump traps and cut three poles, fifteen or twenty feet long and from four to five inches through the butt. I then drove three or four small nails in the butt-end of each pole, to stay the trap and keep it from blowing off, but leaving it free enough so that when it caught its victim he could fly up and raise the trap off the top of the pole. A small brush-clog was fastened to the end of the chain and a nail was driven in the side of the pole about a foot from the trap, to hang the clog on. About six or eight small staples were driven in around the pole, near the trap, to put fragments of weed and grass in so as to disguise the trap, making it appear like an old sparrow's nest. Then I stood the pole, with the butt up, beside another small tree so that the boughs of the tree would project a foot or so above the trap; then wired the pole to the tree. When a hawk or owl gets his toe in such a trap there is nothing solid for him to jerk against, but he can fly down with the trap and clog, and isn't apt to jerk out. Moreover, when hawk number two comes along, number one is not up there, flapping, to scare him and make him shy of this pole. I have known them, time and again, toalight on the same pole and then fly down and kill and eat the hawk below who was flapping around with the trap and clog.

In these three traps I caught seventeen quail-destroyers the first month I put them up, and I also got the toe of another hawk, and the following winter I got the rest of that hawk.

As proof that birds visit the same places, I will say that I haven't caught over fifteen hawks and owls down there in any one winter, in those three traps, since.

Well, the feed racks did not seem to fill the bill in every way, so in a year or so I decided to try another scheme. I loaded up all the old junk lumber I could find and hauled it to the woods, and in one day another man and I completed ten little bungalows-in-the-rough. They are about one foot high in the rear, and four to five feet high in the front, with from five to six feet ground space.

Then, to complete my experiment, I begged ten bags of weed-seed from a neighbor who was hulling clover. I threw a bagful in each house, and then threw in, on top of the weed-seed, corn, wheat and buckwheat. In less than a week the birds visited every house, and on a cold, zero day I believe I have seen as high as fifty quail buzz out of one of these little, unpatented shacks. And best of all, they scratched right down through the grain and ate the weed-seeds first. I soon found I had made a hit, as the shacks furnished the birds shelter as well as food in the time of need, and a certain amount of protection from their natural enemies.

But these birds down in the woods remained quite wild. So I got several quiet bantam hens and kept them ready, and when any neighbor farmer disturbed a quail's nest I had a place for the eggs. In this way I have had some enjoyable experiences.

I first set the hen in a small box on the ground, on a nice cushion of soft grass, pet her lots and let her eat from my hand; I push her feathers forward and pepper her just full of Prussian insect powder, and sprinkle a little in the nest, also. Now, I am all ready for some one to phone that they have disturbed a quail's nest.

If you take eggs from a nest that is not disturbed, never, never take them until the bird has finished laying and has started to set, for if you take the eight or ten she will build another nest and finish laying, then put in her valuable time with only half a brood, whereas if she has started to set she will only lay off a few days, then will build a new nest and raise a full brood. A quail will lay from fifteen to twenty-two, and sometimes as high as twenty-five, eggs.

Quail eggs all hatch, and hatch very suddenly. One year I looked at a nest at ten o'clock and there was nothing doing, and when I came by at twelve o'clock the old hen scolded, so I took another peep; all hands had apparently opened the door at once, and the cluster of pure-white eggs had changed so that they resembled a live bumble-bee's nest.

Quail have no trouble hatching, like some of our domestic fowl; they just simply open the door and jump out.

When they are about to hatch, shut the door of the box so as to keep the tiny pets in. When they are from twenty to thirty-six hours old, move all hands to a dry coop near the garden, or in the back yard near shrubbery. The coop should be from eighteen to twenty-four inches square inside, built with a shed roof ten to twelve inches high in the rear and eighteen to twenty inches high in the front, with a board floor so that the old hen cannot scratch and be on damp ground. Now take three boards about one foot wide and two feet long, tack them in front of the old hen's coop for a playground for the quail. Leave the hen in the coop and she will put her head out and talk to her family, who cannot get over two feet away from her. Feed them a little custard (one egg to half a cup of milk; no sugar). Feed tiny bits five times a day, always tapping the tin with the spoon as you go near them. In three or four days they will accept the hen as their step-mother, and you as their step-parent. Now draw the two nails (which are only partly driven in) and pull the three boards quietly away, leaving the hen in the permanent coop, but giving the quail their liberty.

Now don't run after them if they run away; just tap the tin a little, as you drop a little custard in front of their mother so she can call them.

Let me say right here: Never try to drive any bird. They can hide where you can't, and experience has proven to my entire satisfaction that they can fly faster than I can run. Always throw feed and kindness at them, and watch results.

In about a week, let the hen out a few minutes before sundown, so she hasn't time to stray far from home and will go back into the roost. In about another week the hen can run all the time with her family. Feed at the back door or any place you want the quail to come, and your pets will be there. Remember that it is the human race that is wild, not the birds. Birds are wild because they have to be, and we are wild because we prefer to be. Any creature that is intelligent enough to fly or run from you for self-preservation, will come to you for food and protection from all other enemies.

As to the value of quail, I know this, that they are the farmer's friends; that they cannot live in the dense wilderness and that they do follow up the pioneer's axe where climate will allow; and that fully seventy-five per cent. of their diet consists of weed-seed and insects that are injurious to the production of food stuffs for the human race. The small amount of wheat they eat is 'most all gathered from the stubble field, and as for the few kernels of corn, this is mostly taken during the winter; and we all know that a farmer who makes a practice of leaving his corn out, is an undesirable heavy weight and possibly has no appreciation of Bob White's beautiful note ringing in the country, and the sooner he moves to town and joins the "Retired Failures' Association" the better for the country.

SUPPRESS JAZZ SAYS GLEE LEADER

Westminster Director Says Its Purpose Ended With War.

TORONTO, Ont., April 4 (Canadiani Press).—Speaking on the subject "The Influence of Music on the Community" Edward Branscombe, director of the Westminster Glee Singers, in an address here recently said the common supposition that human nature was unchanging was not correct. Music, he said was valuable in changing the undesirable character of human nature, and it was a remedy for irritability. It also had a bearing on health in that its rhythm revived the spirits and restored mental harmony.

Mr. Branscombe said music should be an integral part of the education and upbringing of every child, as it resulted, among other things, in improving speech. The reason for the superority of British boy choirs, he believed, was that their English was pure. "When English is pure, then there will be singing material," he said, "for a singing voice cannot be good unless the speaking voice is musical."

While depreciating jazz Mr. Branscombe admitted that it had served a good purpose immediately after the war. The essence of jazz was the eternal reiteration of a certain accent and this restored composure to the disharmonized emotions. Now, however, jazz had run riot to such an extent that he would suppress it by law, he remarked.

Speaking of music as a national expression Mr. Branscombe said that a reflection of Germany's war attitude could be found in the German music of that time, while Russian music was permeated with a never-ceasing stream of melancholy. The inclusion of folk tunes, even in the biggest works of British composers, he thought foreshadowed a peaceful, happy future.

Laura Secord

The Woman Who Made Confederation Possible

An Essay Contest for Boys and Girls

The daring exploit of Laura Secord in the early morning of June 24th, 1813, whe she was able to penetrate the enemy's lines and warn Captain Fitzgibbon that the troops of the invaders were planning an attack on his base of supplies at Thorold is one of the brightest spots of Canadian history. Her courage and resourcefulness enabled Fitzgibbon to defeat the invaders and save his country. Without her wonderful achievements, the whole story of Canada might have been altered, and it is doubtful if any of the great events could have taken place.

To encourage a study of Canadian history, Laura Secord Candy Shops announce a contest for boys and girls of Public, Separate and High Schools for the best essay on the subject: "Laura Secord, The Woman Who Made Confederation Possible." Every boy and girl in Canada thrills with pride on reading this page of history. To enable a better appreciation of this and other stages in Canada's history these prizes are made possible.

The Judges who have kindly consented to act in this contest are: Mr. Gregory Clark, of the Toronto Star Weekly; Mr. Geo. Locke, Chief Librarian of the Public Library, Toronto; Mr. Aegidius Fauteux, Librarian of St. Sulpice Library, Montreal; Mr. Adjutor Savard, Foreign Editor of La Patrie, Montreal.

Just step into a Laura Secord Candy Shop and get the little booklet, telling all about this splendid contest which is open to all who are attending school.

Write your story as soon as possible, and mail it to the Laura Secord Contest Committee at 11 Leader Lane, Toronto, or 507 Viger Avenue, Montreal,

REGULAR MEDICAL EXAMINATION WOULD PREVENT MUCH ILLNESS

Give Body Same Care as the Car, Physician Advises.

CATCH DEFECTS EARLY.

The old and much quoted adage about the stitch with material value equal to nine of its belated brothers seems to have been worn threadbare and fallen into the discard. Likewise, the suggestion that apples consumed regularly from sun to sun will anchor all and sundry of the medical profession many miles hence is certain to provoke the uncomfortable one to inquire "who the dickens wants to eat apples every day." Somehow, it just doesn't seem to take. To encourage this attitude further. Dame Nature takes a hand and he gets well in spite of himself—sometimes—and then how he smiles in the absolute certainty that he could obtain a clean bill of health any day in the week. Just try to tell him that of 2,000 persons, mostly men, average age 30, classed for medical examination, only 63 were found sound while 1937 suffered from some defect capable of improvement! This, after 1898 of them had previously voiced their belief that they were entitled to the clean bill of health! If all else has failed you may now be convinced that "Barnum was right."

The man who turns his car over to Dr. M. E. Chanic every time he detects an unusual knock or whistle often drives himself without let-up, utterly oblivious to the truth that spare parts for the human body are mighty hard to get. Each spring or fall he has his "bus" thoroughly overhauled while it never occurs to him that he could easily stand and benefit by corresponding treatment from his doctor—which just about introduces the main subject of this article, namely, Periodic Medical Examinations.

According to 1925 vital statistics for Canada, the main causes of death are listed as follows:
Heart disease,
Cancer,
Pneumonia,
Disease of early infancy,
Tuberculosis,
Nephritis,
Bright's disease, the chronic form of nephritis.

The majority of cases under the above heads could be detected in time for cure to be effected, according to one Peterborough doctor interviewed. Why? Because the examination, if thorough, and if repeated every year (or more frequently if the initial one has detected any defect) will go from the crown of the head to the soles of the feet, including sight, hearing, nose and throat, heart, lungs, all structures of the abdomen such as the digestive apparatus; bone structure, muscular and nervous systems. The X-Ray is of especial value in investgitating anything suspicious about the chest, abdomen, bones or joints. Such examinations should be obtained for the child and continued through his youth, middle life and old age.

In dealing with the subject of heart disease, the doctor explained that it is seldom found prior to school age, unless the child has been born with it. Medical examinations in schools have been going on long enough to determine this. However, quite a large number of cases have been found commencing among school children with the more advanced classes showing a larger percentage than kindergarten groups. The cause is usually to be found in local focal infections, that is, germs reaching the blood stream from centres of infection such as bad teeth, tonsils, and elsewhere in the upper air passages. Children suffering thus should be examined more frequently and if their sleeping, eating, and exercising periods are properly regulated, they are likely to out-grow, to some extent at least, their heart trouble.

"Unfortunately", said the doctor, "there are no figures relative to high school stuents as the only grades inspected beyond the public school children are groups of college students and occasionally workers in industrial plants, the management of which maintains a medical service. However, proper allotting of time for sleeping, eating and exercising, as in the cases of children, will probably enable the individual to live to a fair age.

"Death from heart trouble is most frequent from the age of thirty on to the higher ages, due, not so much to trouble from early life as to loss of efficiency in the heart muscles. People who do not take sufficient exercise and yet eat heavy meals are usually the first victims. Their condition could be detected and cured if they would but resort to periodic examinations, or tests of their heart efficiency.

"The only hope of curing cancer is to spot it early. Through good advice as to proper ways of living the number of cases of cancer could be cut down", he continued. Pneumonia, while not detectable many months before, is often prevented by the discovery of other disease germs which would have led up to and prepared the ground for it.

One of the finest services that the periodic examinations can render is in the detection and prevention of tuberculosis. This has been proven time and again—and often by the result of their not having been employed. The favorite time for tuberculosis to develop is in young adult life, or rather, it becomes apparent then. Within recent years it has been shown that the great majority of consumptives have received infection in early life while the other period most marked by death from the disease is in the first two or four years of life. Then it is not so much a lung disease as of the glands, bones, joints and brain.

Infection to young people is often traved to someone in the household. An instance of this was the case recently investigated in a certain Ontario city where a child had died. A man, recently coming to this country had brought the disease with him without knowing it. He had been very fond of the child, played with it and yet had not suspected that he himself had tuberculosis. But after the death, having learned something of the nature of infection and remembering a slight cough he had had, he sought medical examination and was found to be tubercular. Though still in the early stages of the disease, he was "open", that is, capable of giving off the germs from his lungs. Had he had periodic examinations the disease would undoubtedly have been checked and he would not have been the unwitting cause of the child's death. Proper exercise and sleep would then have enabled him to throw off the disease.

Nephritis, commonly known as kidney trouble, may be either of acute or chronic form, the latter being called Bright's disease. A vast majority of cases may be detected and cured if periodic examinations are sought.

The individual, through the government of his province or country, spends vast sums of money to prevent accidents yet it is doubtful if accidents have ever caused the loss to industry that sickness has. At least half of this sickness loss could be written off! "There is a personal satisfaction that comes only with the knowledge of where you stand on the health roll, and personally, I would like to see every one of my friends seek periodic health inspection" said one man who is "sold" on the idea.

Said the doctor: "We brush from the scriptures that no only should we have life, but we should have it more abundantly, and surely there could be no more fitting application of it than in this work. The end to be attained is not only that life should be prolonged to its natural span but that it should be full and profitable for that time.

"However, there is another advantage of the regular 'overhauling'. The patient, knowing that he will be back 'on the mat' in another year, or six months, is almost certain to take the doctor's advice more seriously rather than being like Sandy who said 'I'm nae takin' it' when refusing to pay a fee for medical advice."

Smiled at Suggestion.

Doctors interviewed by The Examiner smiled at the suggestion of paying of regular fees while the "client' is well and cessation of payment in return for treatment while ill. "This practice supposed to have orginated in China, is not likely to be seen in operation", said one. Of course, some doctors on the coast of Newfoundland or in the far north, may be paid a kind of subsidy by several communities to stay in the district because the fees which they collect are not adequate to meet living expenses, but that is the nearest approach to your suggestion." Another even doubted that such a practice as the "pay when well" one would be considered ethical by the medical world.

GUILD SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

"OLD-FASHIONED DAYS"

LAKEFIELD, April 4.— The East Side members of the Ladies' Guild of Knox United Church gave an entertainment on Friday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sutton. No announcement or advertisement heralded the event and the invitations were given informally. Those who were fortunate enough to be invited, spent a pleasant evening and enjoyed a program which may well be termed unique. The entertainment was in charge of a committee of all the members of the Guild who live on the east side of the Otonabee river and special mention must be made of the work of Mrs. W. J. Charlton, who arranged a large part of the program, Mrs. Sutton, who gave the use of her home, and Mrs. Porter, who wrote the verses for the topical songs.

The ladies of the committee were attired in old fashioned dresses reminiscent of the days "when grandma was a girl" and when it was improper to display one's ankles. One lady wore a gown of the fashion of other days with a sweeping train; another wore a dolman of the vintage of the '70's. Little jet black shoulder capes, and wide, full skirts which took more material than will make a whole dress to-day, were also in evidence and kept the company entertained until the program opened.

The door was opened by a hospitable looking black mammy in full regalia who sent the callers upstairs where they met a dignified lady in the dress of other days.

Mrs. Bailey took the part of chairman, announcing each item in her inimitable manner. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Bailey announced that this was one of a series of evenings put on by Knox Church Guild and at this, the initial effort, the committee wished to take the audience back twenty-five, forty or fifty years, and show the young people how grandma enjoyed herself when she was a girl.

The first item was community singing. The Guild orchestra, organized the previous evening, made its first appearance, with kazoos, concertinas, mouth organ, bells, cymbals, horns and other instruments. It was conducted by Mrs. Bailey with Miss Dorothy Sutton as pianist. Mrs. D. H. Charlton gave a reading depicting the trials of an Irish girl in America. Miss Cora Charlton with sunbonnet, milking stool, and pail, sang "Where are you going my pretty maid?" with Alex Sutton.

Misses Phyllis Morrison and Reba Preston sang sweetly the popular serenade "Juanita." "Grandma Chartens" (Mrs. Bailey) gave a humorous reading about the excitement derived from catching a mouse and the thrills which were to be found in the adventure by a man and a woman. Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Mrs James Hendren sang "Two Little Girls in Blue," dressed as little girls in blue crepe dresses, hats to match and bewitching curls. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yale sang a duet, "Huntingtower, When Ye Gang Awa' Jamie." This was a particularly pretty number, the dear old favorite being especially adapted to their voices.

Mrs. W. J. Charlton gave a reading describing the courtship of an Irishman who leaned not wisely but too well on a friend who carried off the young lady. The childhood favorite, "You Can't Play in My Yard," was prettily sung by Misses Dorothy Sutton, Cora Charlton, and Madeline Charlton. The former played the accompaniment and sang the verse, and the other little girls sang the chorus. Acted to the life with the quarrel over the play, while peace afterward was "sealed with a kiss," it left a tear in the eye as well as the smile on the lips, as the sweet children's voice were raised.

A topical song, entitled "Climbing Up Those Golden Stairs," was sung by the committee, with Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Mrs. Bailey taking the solo parts and the chorus being supplied by the company. Nearly all of the men of Knox Church received a "mild tap" in the song, which was very amusing. It evidently was a leap year song, as "Grandma Baptie" and the president of the Guild were the only ladies mentioned. The orchestra gave "Little Brown Jug," and as an encore, "Jingle Bells." In response to numerous requests, two extra numbers were given, Mrs. Bailey singing "Stingy Kid" for the children and Mrs. W. J. Charlton reciting a selection recounting the entertainment given by a Mr. Doherty, who was elected to the Senate.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent after which the Rev. T. M. Wesley voiced the sentiments of the audience in paying tribute to the committee for a delightful evening. The accompanists for the evening were Mesdames W. J. Charlton, T. E. Renwick, T. Crawford, and Miss Dorothy Sutton, and the committee in charge was Mesdames W. J. Charlton, H. J. Sutton, E. Bailey, W. Preston, J. Hendren, F. J. Burgess, W. G. Morrison, D. H. Charlton and Mrs. A. Windsor.

TOWNSHIP BOARD BILL DISCUSSED

County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association Meets in City.

The newly organized association of the ratepayers and trustees of the County of Peterborough held its first meeting on Wednesday, in the Council Chamber of Court House.

J. A. Wilson of S. S. No. 16, Otonabee, the president, was in the chair.

Many subjects of interest relative to the educational needs of the rural districts came up for discussion.

R. L. Stewart gave a lengthy paper presenting his views of the much talked of Township School Board bill. This paper caused much discussion for it did not represent the views of all the audience. After a very enthusiastic discussion on the merits and defects of the bill it was decided that the bill should be considered as it effects the Province as a whole and not just one township or school section. All through the discussion nothing but freedom and good will were to be seen for each one admitted the other had a right to his own opinion.

It was decided to send three delegates to the Ontario Educational Association convention in Toronto Easter week and James Fowler, Mr. McArthur and R. L. Stewart were nominated to represent the association at this convention.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in Norwood some time early in June when suitable arrangements can be made.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

Editor, Examiner, Peterborough.

Sir,—I notice that Peterborough is to be favored by a visit from the Westminster Glee Singers on Friday and Saturday of this week. It appears to me, coming as they do, under no special local auspices, there is a danger that the importance of their visit may be overlooked by our music-loving people. I heard these singers in Toronto recently, and can confidently say that those who go to hear them will enjoy a real musical feast. The organization is one of high merit and their performance at once unique and attractive. In their special field I have never heard anything more delightful, the boys voices are wonderful and a more finished ensemble cannot be imagined. Massey Hall greeted them with a full house, and I should hope Peterborough will not fail to appreciate the fact of being included in their itinerary.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRANE.

PETERBOROUGH

A Song for Founders' Day.

Where Rice Lake ripples in the sun,
And Otonabee's wavelets flow,
A band of dauntless pilgrims came
One hundred years ago.
Weary and travel-worn they came
From far across the sea,
To carve from out the trackless wastes
Their children's destiny.

They lived, they loved, they strove, they died;
Their graves are round us set;
And how shall we, to such as these
Acknowledge all our debt?
They trod the rough uneven trails,
We walk the ordered ways;
Pathfinders they—to them be given
Honour, remembrance, praise.

May Peterborough greater still Become as years go by;
May her fair name be dear to us
Who hold her honour high.
May all who dwell within her walls
As days and years increase,
Work for her sure prosperity——
Strive for her lasting peace!

CHORUS
Thy name for aye shall be held high
Till life and thought depart——
Peterborough! Peterborough!
Home of my heart!

Annie Margaret Lancaster.

DIPHTHERIA CAUSES FEW DEATHS NOW

Discovery of Toxoid and Antit-Toxin Has Saved Many Children.

Published with the authority of the Provincial Department of Health, this article on diphtheria, prepared by the Canadian Social Hygiene Council is given here in order that readers may be furnished with information, the accuracy of which can be guaranteed. It appeared in the December issue of the Public Health Journal.

It was Dr. C. J. O. Hastings of Toronto, dean of America's public health officers and with a remarkable series of triumphs over disease to his credit, who said that every time there was a death from diphtheria, the coroner should investigate it.

Dr Hasting's statement was based on the fact that science has already provided the human race with two methods of coping with this scourge first, the means of practically complete protection against the disease, toxoid, and secondly, the treatment, antitoxin.

Yet, in spite of this means of fighting dephtheriafi its death toll continues and young lives are regularly sacrificed to it.

It chiefly attacks children under ten years of age and is much more fatal in young children than in older persons, most deaths from it occurring among victims under five years of age.

Records show that it is most common between November and January and that cases decrease till it is at a minimum from June till August. It is usally more prevalent in cities than in the country and negros seem less susceptible to it than whites.

When physicans first began to study it, the disease was somewhat of a puzzle to them. It was obvious that the throat was, as a general rule, the original site of the disease. Yet it often caused serious damage to tissues of the body quite distant from the seat of the infection.

Fredrick Loerfler, a German was the discoverer of the actual germ which is the cause. He proved, beyond dispute that his findings were correct but he could not answer all questions connected with the action of the disease.

He searched through other parts of the body and in the blood for germs and never found any except in the nose and throat. He came to the conclusion, therefore, that the germs of diphtheria must give off a deadly poison which was distributed in the blood.

Then, a Frenchman named Emile Roux, proved this definitely by puting diphtheria germs in a broth and then filtering the germs out after they had grown. The liquid which he had left, absolutely free of germs, would nevertheless cause diphtheria poisoning if injected into guinea-pigs.

But, science soon made another interesting discovery. It was found that animals which had once recovered from diphtheria poisoning thereafter, were protected from the disease, or "immune" to it.

Medical men were not long in finding the reason for this. The body, affected with diphtheria poisoning, seeks to fight it off by producing a protective substance of its own. This counteracts the toxins produced by the diphtheria germ and is called antitoxin.

Investigating further, it was found that if animals were first given antitoxin and then injected with diphtheria germs, the germs did no harm whatever. It was also ascertained that an animal, supposedly suffering from a fatal case of diphtheria, would recover if given antitoxin promptly.

Science, in the light of these facts, at once turned to the question of producing antitoxin in absolutely pure form and in large quantities. By 1896, the experimenting had been completed and antitoxin was ready for the doctor's use.

It must be remembered that antitoxin's chief value is as a treatment and, for that purpose, it is unexcelled.

But it can also be used, under certain conditions, as a preventive. If for instance, one child in a household is stricken with diphtheria and remaining children are not protected against it, the thing to use is antitoxin. It will give almost immediate protection, lasting from 28 to 30 days.

The action of toxid is slower. What it does is to induce the body to produce its own protecting antitoxin, a lasting but necessarily a slower process.

In the past, from 25 to 40 per cent of those who fell victims of dipntheria died. Now, it can be said with certainty that in cases which are treated with antitoxin within the first two days, not one in fifty dies.

Time, however, is a most important factor and even hours count much. There is every chance of saving a child if the antitoxin is given at once. Thirty hours after, hopes are considerably less. After three days, they are even further diminished.

To a doctor, who has actually seen the effect of this treatment, it is one of the most impressive things in the world, just as, in other days, the physician's inability to cope with this scourge was one of the most devastating experiences through which a medical man could go.

One man, whose practice extends back to the days before antitoxin became general, gives a vivid description of it.

I recall the case of a beautiful girl of five or six years, the fourth child in a farmer's family to become the victim of diphtheria. She literally choked to death, remaining conscious till the last moment of life. Knowing the utter futility of the various methods which had been tried to get rid of the membrane in diphtheria or to combat the morbid condition, due, as we know now to the toxin I felt as did every physician of that day, as if my hands were literally tied and I watched the death of that beautiful child feeling absolutely helpless to be of any assistance.

"About ten years, thereafter, my own daughter became ill with diphtheria. She was just about the age of the little girl with whom I had the early experience. A culture from the throat confirmed the diagnosis of diphtheria and the membrane from the fauces was extending down into the larynx. An injection of diphtheria antitoxin was given. To watch the chocking dreadful membrane melt away and disappear in a few days, was one of the most dramatic and thrilling experiences of my professional career."

All these details of the way in which medical science got at the real facts of diphtheria and the painstaking method by means of which an effective method of treating it, was found are given here for particular reasons.

There has been a considerable amount of misinformation concerning the disease an some of it has been broadcast, generally. Articles have even appeared here and there, written glibly and with the appearance of being accurate, in which hot water bottles, blankets and restricted diet are given as an unfailing way of curing the disease, even among bad cases.

Knowing the exact nature of the scourge which the doctor is fighting when he is confronted with a case of diphtheria, these doctrines are more than fantastic and foolish. They are highly dangerous.

A typical one which has reached the Dominion was shown to an outstanding Canadian medical man.

"What would happen if someone tried to treat a child, critically ill with diphtheria, according to the methods described here?", he was asked.

But the great thing to remember in connection with diphtheria is that, in recent years, medical science has made another enormous stride forward. It is not necessary today for a child even to run the danger of contracting diphtheria.

By injections of 'toxoid'—which is a chemically pure substance and incidentally, not a serum—a child can be protected, quite harmlessly and made immune to attacks from the disease. Toxoid can be given to infants without the least irritation resulting and, in fact, should be administered before a child is one year of age to provide the most complete protection.

There are parents, however, who, while admitting this effectiveness of toxid, point out that the total number of cases of diphtheria is not great and through carelessness, neglect this safety precaution.

It is true that the total number of cases is not great but the total percentage of serious cases among those who fall victims, is very high. Diphtheria is a disease with which one cannot trifle.

It must be admitted that diphtheria epidemics as a rule, don't run into scores of cases like epidemics from other diseases, and that the disease is a peculiarly selective one. It seems to strike here and there, first one place and then another, without any well-defined reasons.

But the presence of the "diphtheria carrier" is a tremendous argument in favor of the necessity of immunizing children with toxoid.

The number of children who have diphtheria germs in the nose and throat is many times as great as the number who actully develop diphtheria.

Their presence is quite unknown and so common is this condition that it has been estimated that, in large city schools, from one-fourth to one-third of the children harbor virulent diphtheria germs during the course of a single year. This condition lasts, on the average, not more than two weeks. But these 'diphtheria-carriers' while the condition lasts may pass on the disease to their playmates and companions without anyone having any idea of how the disease was spread.

It is this fact which makes the use of toxoid so necessary, even if the plain common sense of the proceeding fails to impress one with its importance.

It is almost a matter of months and little more since the Canadian public began to wake up to the importance of the use of toxoid and to realize that universal use of it would completely wipe out this old-time terror of the household.

Now, we have the spectacle of whole classes of children being protected and groups of doctors and nurses, in large cities, immunizing hundreds of children against the disease.

The efficacy of the measure soon becomes apparent. Five years ago, toxoid was given to thousands of New York school children. By last year, that city's death rate from the disease had been reduced by 41 per cent and 450 young lives are, therefore, being saved annually as a result.

Half a million New York children have now been protected and, in addition to the saving of lives, the total number of diphtheria cases, has been cut down 34 per cent.

Statistics gathered from 70 American cities are also available and highly interesting. The two places where the diphtheria death rate was lowest New Haven, Conn., and Youngstown, Ohio, where, in each case, the rate was 0.6 per 100,000 of population, are both cities where there have been intensive campaigns for the use of toxoid among the children.

New Haven, for instance, with 36,000 school children has not had a single death from diphtheria during the past two years. In the same length of time, there have been only 25 cases of the disease, 24 of which had never received as much as one dose of toxoid.

Brantford is one of the Canadian cities where toxoid has received great attention. The value of the procedure has been completely demonstrated there. A report from that city a few months ago, covering the preceding quarter-year, revealed the fact that there had not been a solitary case of diphtheria in the city during all that time.

TWO IN HOSPITAL WITH WRISTS CUT

Bobcaygeon Man Held On Suspicion of Wounding Wife.

LINDSAY, Ont., April 4.—Mrs. J. Reynaud of Bobcaygeon is in the hospital here and her husband is held for investigation as a result of both being severely gashed on the wrist. Mrs. Reynaud has a razor cut 4 inches long on her right wrist. Clean to the bone, from which she lost considerable blood, and is still in a serious condition. Reynaud's cut on the left wrist is not so serious

Provincial Constable Weatheral of Lindsay is investigating.

Considerable mystery surrounds the case as the couple have been married but one month. She is 21 years old, and her husband is 40. He is a laborer in Bobcaygeon. Although living at Bobcaygeon, their home is just inside Peterboro County, and the case will be handed over to Peterboro Provincial police for further investigation.

"THE MESSAGE OF THE CARILLON"

By Mackenzie King Prime Minister of Canada

(Reviewed by a Conservative).

The Examiner deserves great credit for varying its bill-of-fare by giving its readers something besides doubtful lectures on their stomachs and how to cure all but death. Speaking of death, it is after all the natural state of many people who can't bear to think or can't think which is more like it and hate to see or hear of anybody else doing it with just a little touch of envy, democratic envy thrown in for very few of us there are who do not like to feel that the big things we hear about other people are just so much irritating bombast and that little as we know and as we know we know the big'uns are not so much bigger than we are after all.

Such people were intended by Nature for the graveyard where all are equal, the good and bad, the blockheads and the bright ones, the self-sufficient and those whose mission in life is and was to take them down by telling them that they didn't know everything, which being interpreted means that they don't or didn't know any more than we do which is not much of a compliment to them, but satisfies us. Which of these is the self-sufficient? The Hon. G. N. Gordon's comparison of Mr. Meighen and Mr. Cannon was vivid and brilliant. Mr. Wearing followed suit with Mr. Bennett, but some little distance behind. However he meant well. Let us now see what the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, P.C., Prime Minister of Canada, has to say in his book upon Confederation, for after all it was surely fitting that someone who could do so should write about our glorious country and leave a more imperishable record of our rejoicing than processions and a stampede. The subtitle of this large and comprehensive volume is "At the inauguration of the Carillon, Houses of Parliament, Ottawa". 1st July, 1927.

Strange to say the proof-reader has overlooked the fact that in giving the great array of degrees after his name, to which Mr. King is entitled, the letters "P. C." were omitted. The fact that Mr. King is a "Privy-Councillor" of His Majesty, the head of the Empire, is his chief literal distinction and his "Right Honourable" is derived from it and from it alone, moreover it is the highest honour he can attain for no man can reach higher than to be a member of the King's own privy or private confidential and secret council which is consulted and gives advice at his request to him in all the chief and gravest concerns of the Empire. Mr. King thoroughly understands human nature. In fact if I were asked I would say that it is his chief quality, and a rare one. It was what made Sir John, the first and last what he was in the hearts of his countrymen even if he was hard put to it in his later days to get a constituency that would elect him, for be it remembered, ye who so easily forget, that Kingston defeated him once. Nemesis is the Greek for envy the great leveller and now we find even George Washington, who fought the Revolution single-handed (for the thirteen colonies refused to give him money or pay his soldiers who then fought on for love of him), since he is dead and cannot defend himself being made the victim of books that sell. Mr. King therefore, proceeds early in his narrative to discount criticism of his own motives by saying: (preface, line 3) "I hope that a desire to further the Spirit of goodwill, which the celebration has done so much to foster, will be accepted as sufficient justification for bringing together in the pages of a book some addresses of my own."

"The Message of the Carillon," he says "is a message of peace and goodwill". He recognises that a Canada united in patriotism and in the sentiment love of country and of the Empire, of her own King and Queen and of all the parts that compose the Empire, is a much finer achievement even than a long string of figures on the right side of the ledger.

Mr. King appeals to the 'spirit' of the people. A people without that pride which is called "spirit" might just as well go round on all fours, and further, it is "pride" or "spirit" which makes a people great and keeps many a man and woman good, for a good name we are told is better than riches and Mr. King is doing his best in this book to keep us continuing to think so. A man who would rather have a ten-dollar bill than a good name, should be known as "ten-dollar Bill" for that is all he is.

DICKENS' WORKS TELL OF HEALTH

Call Attention To Great Change in Methods of Caring For Sick.

Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell, in a recent address to the Dickens Fellowship at Toront on "Bleak House", noted that not only did the great English author display an extraordinary knowledge of the law, a fact which the speaker had publicly noted some years before, but that there were also sections of his work which were of peculiar interest to those interested in public health.

The contrast between disease conditions, as Dickens has recorded them, and the circumstances under which we live today, tends to be a startling one. Of particular interest is the outline in "Bleak House" of the medical procedure of the time, as far as smallpox was concerned.

"It may be as the President of the Social Hygienne Council rather than as the former Honarary President of the Dickens Fellwship that I speak when I say that no physician can read, without interest, of a time when it was the natural thing, calling for no remark, that anyone be allowed, or, indeed compelled, to roam the streets with smallpox, with no attention but 'a bottle of cooling medicine' and no cure against infection but 'sprinkling a little vinegar'."

"The thoughtful physician would remember," Judge Riddell continued "that Queen Mary of England and Louis XV of France died of smallpox and that George Washington, when President of the United States, in one and the same letter congradulated a friend on the birth of a son and the passage of his family through the smallpox. From the tenor of his message, it is evident that the one was just as normal an event in those days as was the other.

"Reading this, the physician of today might wonder what the world would say if the present Queen Mary of England or the present head of State in France should fall victims or if President Coolidge were to write such a letter."

FIRE DESTROYS SEYMOUR BARN

Thomas Bright Loses Building Implements, and Brood Sow.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4. — Fire of an unknown origin broke out in the hayloft of the barn known as the Wilfred Armour Farm, on the farm now occupied by Thos. Bright, of Seymour West, and destroyed the entire building, drive house, hen-house and stable in connection. The implements housed in the structure were also destroyed, and one brood sow was burned The remainder of the stock was saved.

Asked if he could say how the fire started Mr. Bright said that he had no idea except that it apparently started in the hayloft. There had been no one belonging to the farm in the loft since Monday evening when the usual amount of feed had been put down for the stock.

There had been nothing unusual noticed then and the fire had not been dicovered till well under way, and too late to save the building. The loss to the building and contents is partly covered by insurance.

They Keep You Free From Kidney Trouble

B. C. Lady Used Dodd's Kidney Pills With Good Results.

Mrs. S. D. Coates Was Relieved of Rheumatism and Backache.

West Demars, B.C., April 3.—(Special).—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for Rheumatism and Backache and cannot say too much in praise of this splendid medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it to anyone." So writes Mrs. S. D. Coates, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

Rheumatism is not exactly a kidney disease. It is the result of kidney derangement. The aches and pains commonly known as rheumatism are caused by uric acid in the blood. If the kidneys are doing their duty there should be no uric acid in the blood. But if the kidneys are tired, worn out, or out of order, the amount of this poison in the blood will increase daily. It crystallizes at the joints and muscles and then comes those agonizing pains so many people know and dread. The remedy is Dodd's Kidney Pills. They strengthen the kidneys so that they do their full work of removing the uric acid from the blood.

Arrangements Made for Annual Bale for Mission Fields.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4. — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society held in the ladies' parlor yesterday, was well attended, and several items of important business were discussed. Mrs. A. C. Connor, who has been acting president for the past two meetings, occupied the chair for the first part of the meeting. Mrs. Robert McCulloch, having been elected president, was officially installed to that office. The opening devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. A. C. Connor, and Mrs. James Grier read the Scripture lesson. After receiving the secretary's report and the treasurer's statement, the matter of the annual clothing bale for Canadian mission fields was discussed and arrangements made for commencing the work. As entertainment numbers, there were a reading by Mrs. Dinwoodie and a solo by Mrs. E. A. Bedford. Mrs. Dinwoodie selected for her reading a very interesting article on the history of the Women's Missionary Society.

After the ladies had suitably expressed appreciation to Mrs. Connor for the capable manner in which she had discharged the duties of president, the matter of representative for the Provincial executive was discussed and the names of Miss Jessie Neile and Mrs. G. T. Dickson submitted. Mrs. J. C. Anderson was appointed assistant to Mrs. Neil Morrison in her work as superintendent of the Mission Band. The May meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Henry Hay and Mrs. George E. Hay, they having been appointed a committee for that purpose. The meeting closed with prayer, led by Mrs. Carter.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENT PREVENTION URGED

P.A.A. and the city, in a brief speech.

James Dutton

James Dutton, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce, also felt that the Ontario Motor League and Peterborough Association had worked successfully together.

J. J. Duffus

Joseph J. Duffus, of the official O.M.L. station in Peterborough, bespoke his appreciation of the kind things said about the Emergency Road Service.

"Commencing next week, there will again be an all-night service," he announced.

To Mr. Duffus also fell the honor of introducing the main speaker of the evening. He told of his relations with Mr. Stapells and paid tribute to his ability and energy as president of the Ontario Motor League. He congratulated the Peterborough club on obtaining Mr. Stapells as the main speaker for the annual meeting.

Richard A. Stapells

In his opening remarks, the Motor League president paid tribute to Miss Murray and to the Regent theatre orchestra. He also complimented President Juby on his re-election and the club on obtaining his services for another year.

In behalf of his colleagues as well as himself, he thanked the Peterborough club for the privilege of being present. He introduced Mr. Doolittle, past president of the O.M.L.; Mr. Robertson, the secretary; Warren Hastings, editor of the official O.M.L. publication and son of Dr. Hastings, one of the world's greatest medical health officers; Mr. Guay, membership organizer; and Mr. Selby of the Emergency Service department.

Mr. Stapells paid tribute to Peterborough as one of the two live-wire towns in Eastern Ontario, with its lively associations, service clubs, musical culture and industrial status.

Turning to the activities of the Ontario Motor League, he said: "We are working and will continue to work for the benefit of the motorist and the pedestrian, too. You are a part, indeed, a very influential part of the league, and on the work you do depends much of its success.

Compulsory Insurance.

Touching on the subject of compulsory liability insurance for motorists, the speaker stated, as he had in a letter to one Toronto paper, that the Motor League is not sponsoring a question of motor insurance to be brought before the Ontario Legislature. It is not endeavoring to promote a scheme for some sort of insurance. However, it is endeavoring to the limit of its ability to work in the best interests of the motor car drivers in Canada and for the safety of the general public.

To date, no province or state except Massachusetts has subjected all owners of privately operated motor vehicles to this requirement. To arrive at a sound conclusion as to the wisdom and practicability of compulsory liability insurance legislation, the extent of the needs for such laws must first be determined. Believing that the accident situation in the province does not warrant such ruling as yet, the O. M. L. is inclined to sit back and watch the experiment and then, to act in the best interests of all concerned.

Gasoline Tax Discussed.

"The gasoline tax, always a problem to the O.M.L. again rears its head for despite assurances from Mr. Henry, last year, that it would not be increased unless an enlarged good roads program demanded it, the government has made known its intention of placing a higher tax on gasoline within the next twelve months," said the speaker. "The league takes the position that motorists ought to contribute a fair share and are contributing their fair share of the cost of road work and as their number increases, so will the revenue increase and it is our hope that it will so increase that the government may be induced to leave the tax where it is.

"If the government decides to increase the gasoline tax, then the League contends that it should be accompanied by a reduction of the annual license fee so that the average car owner will not pay a greater sum to the government than at present.

"The government ought not to require very much more revenue because the bulk of its capital expenditure has already been made and unless it contemplates a very much enlarged good roads program, the revenue at present derived should be sufficient," continued Mr. Stapells. "It should be borne in mind that there are other road users besides motorists and that they and property owners generally reap the benefit of a well kept system of highway. The cost of the Provincial highways should therefore be distributed in equitable relation to the benefits derived."

Accident Prevention.

The speaker also dealt with highway accident prevention and the work being done along this line. He recalled the prevention campaign carried on last autumn and the part the Ontario Motor League had taken in it, and continuing, made mention of the compulsory stopping at railway crossings, as advocated, he claimed, mostly by interests. He believed that while the interest of the League in preventing railway accidents at crossings, is just as great as that of any other organization, yet there does not seem to be just or sufficient reason for enforcement of such legislation. The League has brought to the attention of the Board of Railway Commissioners, a number of dangerous crossings and is grateful for co-operation and action taken. It has petitioned the commission for a general survey of all level crossings with a view to wholesale improvement in existing conditions.

Mr. Stapells referred to the cordial relations between the O.M.L. and the American Automobile Association, but felt that as a member of the Canadian Association, the League should work out its own problems without assistance or suggestions from the American body. "We are good friends but two distinct nations, and we must remain so," he declared.

Emergency Service.

One of the outstanding contributions made by the League is the establishment of night and day road service so that motorists may now go touring, confident that they will have at their command the services of several hundred garages throughout the province, all officially appointed by the League. The Duffus Garage acts in this capacity in Peterborough.

The speaker also spoke of the benefits to be derived from the legal defence department, which endeavors to arrange settlement of claim without resort to litigation, wherever possible.

Letters of appreciation of this service were read by Mr. Stapells.

He also mentioned the controversy over the use of spotlights which at present are within the law when carried below the regular headlights, and spoke of the trouble of enforcing legislation in this matter when the tourist trade begins.

In conclusion, he thanked the Peterborough club for its invitation to attend the annual meeting and banquet, and urged a close co-operation between the local association and its provincial body.

Mrs. W. R. (Kate) Morris.

Introduced by R. F. Downey, Mrs. Kate Morris humorously related some of her motoring experiences, comparing the characteristics of her first car with the car of to-day. She agreed that the back seat driver was, is and always will be a pest, and went on to further describe what she termed "my first, my good old car, Tin Lizzy"

Dr. Doolittle.

Dr. Doolittle, past president of the O.M.L., also spoke in humorous vein, comparing the natural beauty and advantages of the Kawartha Lakes district with "down south." He also complimented the Peterborough club and all those taking part in the musical program.

Secretary Robertson.

Mr. Robertson, another official of the League present, paid tribute to Mr. Stapells as a tireless worker, to the board of directors and to the staff of the League offices. He mentioned the problem of accident prevention and the work which the Peterborough club had carried on in this regard, and concluded by urging the motorists to more closely study automobile traffic regulations.

Officers Installed.

The regular program of the evening finished, installation of officers by Mr. Stapells took place, the following being formally introduced to their offices:

Honorary President—A. W. Blade.
President—James Juby.
Vice-President—Thomas M. Dutton.
Secretary-Treasurer—F. G. Stinson.
Directors — F. Bowness, W. E. Franks, J. L. Gillespie, F. C. Haggart, H. C. Huffman, J. R. Marshall, L. A. Potvin, L. A. Turner.

Kelly's Cruise Enjoyed.

Following a sincere vote of appreciation voiced by James Dutton, in which he mentioned the various speakers and all others contributing to the success of the gathering, all went to the Capitol Theatre, where, through the courtesy of the Trent Waterway Development Association, the picture "Kelly's Cruise," was flashed on the screen and greatly enjoyed.

LYRICS OF LIFE

QUEER LITTLE TUNES

Queer little tunes
Run through one's head
Of other Junes
When Junes are fled,
Among the throngs
That crowd us so,
Queer little songs
Of long ago.

Queer little tunes
Bring back old things.
A mother croons,
A sister sings.
And then the tale
That someone told
Fills street or vale
With notes of gold.

Queer little tunes,
God bless you all;
Old nights, old moons,
Your notes recall—
The tunes so queer,
So lovely then,
Our hearts shall hear
In heaven again.

WOMEN NOT KEEN ON BEER PARLORS

Winnipeg Hotelmen Find No Demand For Such Accommodation For Fair Sex.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 4.—So far men have contributed the entire patronage to Winnipeg beer parlors, according to the Free Press, which quotes local hotel men as saying there is no demand as yet on the part of women for public accommodation of this kind. Winnipeg women are not interested in beer parlors, the paper says.

Separate beer parlors for women are provided for in the Government Liquor Control act, passed at the recent session of the Manitoba legislature. The establishment of women's beer parlors is not provided for as a part of every licensed hotel, but they may be established as part of the hotel, according to the act, if there appears to be any demand for them. The establishment of a women's parlor is optional with the proprietor, who may apply for a permit to open one in connection with his premises if it appears to be warranted. It is then in the discretion of the liquor commission to grant or withold permission.

The Experience of Mrs. Roy Brown is Well Worth Reading

Peterboro, Ont.— "I was in a miserable state of health, my nerves gave way completely, I could not sleep, had backaches and was completely exhausted—so weak and sleepy and tired that I was compelled to give up and take to my bed. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as nothing I had used helped me. By the time I had taken one bottle I was able to be up and around, I kept on taking it and was completely restored to health. I cannot say enough in praise of the 'Favorite Prescription' for the wonderful help it gave me."—Mrs. Roy Brown, 222 King St.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928 McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1928.

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology, which reads for the morning threatening aspects.

This is a day to stick to well-tried activities and to avoid anything in the shape of a venture.

There will be rumors that arouse ambition for sudden wealth, but they should not be a reason for giving up a certainty for an uncertainty.

New fortunes are to be made in Africa as well as America and new multi-millionaires will increase, the seers prophesy.

The lure of gem-hunting and possible recovery of buried treasure will be strong at this time, but should be ignored.

Industry is well directed today and there should be a profitable summer for workers.

Farming appears promising for crops should be abundant this year, if the stars are rightly read.

Again the seers predict agriculture on a vast scale in which the principles of big business rule.

Efficiency is to be sought by persons in every vocation for within the decade the survival of the fittest is to be exemplified more strongly than ever before, the seers declare.

There is a good sign today for orators or those who depend for success upon their persuasive powers.

Women are well directed and the aspects are supposed to be especially favorable for engagements and weddings.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid all risks in the coming year. Speculation of every sort is likely to be unfortunate.

Children born on this day probably will be extraordinarily visionary and ambitious. Many financiers are born under this sign.

*RASPBERRY WHIP: Whit the whites of two or more eggs until stiff and sweeten with a small amount of honey. Drain the sugary juice from a can of red raspberries, and combine the berries and egg white by careful folding in order not to break up the berries. Heap lightly into tall sherbert glasses and place on ice until ready to serve. Top each glass with a dash of whipped cream and a few berries.

The tomato and celery vegetable broth given in Friday's menu is made by simmering these vegetables in sufficient water for an hour or more over a slow fire, straining off the liquid, and seasoning with a little salt. This makes a good clear soup with fish or pork.

Questions and Answers.

Question: M. C. asks: "Do you cure complete nervous breakdown in a middle aged woman by the 'fast cure'?"

Answer: The expression "complete nervous breakdown" may involve any number of contributing causes, but I have found that a fasting and diet treatment will always prove effective in all nervous cases, as much of the nervousness is caused by a toxic state of the system.

Question: Mrs. O. B. W. asks: "Is salad oil all right for salads? I cannot use olive oil, as at one time I took it as medicine."

Answer: There are many excellent salad oils on the market which are made from cotton seed, linseed or peanuts. They are equally as beneficial to you as the olive oil.

Question: Hypochondria writes: "I am suffering from neurasthenia and gastric neurosis, which illness began some five months ago. I find that recovery is very slow and that medicinal assistance seems to be of no avail. At times, previous to hysteria, there appears a pain on the right side just below the ribs. I use your diet list regularly and would appreciate information regarding a cure for this disheartening disease."

Answer: I regret that I cannot offer you any advice except for you to follow my general diet plan such as I suggest in a special menu article appearing on Saturday. I do not attempt to diagnose by mail, but I would advise you to go to one physician after another if necessary until you get a correct diagnosis. Then write me again, giving the result of the diagnosis, sending your name and address, and I will send you my opinion of the proper treatment for you.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SLED DOGS.

Snuggled down amid their furs in the white house, or igloo, that Eski, the Eskimo rabbit, had helped them build at the North Pole, Uncle Wiggily, with Vallie and Baby Bunty listened to the noise outside the wall, which was made of blocks of snow and ice.

"Let me in! Let me in!" barked a voice, just as I told you in the story last night.

"Who is it, Unki Wig?" asked Baby Bunty in a whisper.

"It sounds like a dog," said Vallie, who was the little rabbit girl that had been left in a basket on Uncle Wiggily's stoop on Valentine's Day, February 14.

"You have been very kind to me," said Husky.

"It is a dog," said Eski, who, after having crawled out of the igloo, now came crawling back again with something in a sealskin bag. "It is probably a sled dog."

"What's a sled dog?" asked Bunty, looking hungrily at some green stuff which Eski was taking out of the bag.

"A sled dog," explained the Eskimo rabbit boy, "is a dog that helps to draw a sled. You see up here, at the North Pole, we haven't any automobiles or carriages or wagons. There is ice on the ground nearly all the year and only sleds are of any use. As there are no horses to pull the sleds, dogs have to be used. A team of eight or ten or a dozen dogs, hitched to a sled, will give you a fine ride."

"I wish I could have a dog sled ride after I have something to eat," said Bunty.

"I guess we're going to eat now," spoke Vallie, as she saw the pile of green stuff Eski took from the bag. Even Uncle Wiggily began to sniff hungrily with his pink nose while outside the igloo a dog barked.

"Let me in! Please let me in! I'm cold and hungry!"

"Can't we let him in?" said Bunty kindly, thinking of the poor sled dog even before she thought of herself.

"You may if you like," said Eski. "But I have brought you some green moss to eat. We haven't any lettuce and cabbage up here at the North Pole, so you will have to eat moss as the muskox and reindeer do. I hope I have brought you enough."

"Thanks, there seems to be plenty," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "We can give some to the hungry dog who is howling outside the igloo."

"Oh, Eskimo dogs won't eat moss," said the North Pole rabbit. "They want frozen fish. I'll see if I can get him some after you eat this moss. And I'll light the stove for you to make you warmer."

While Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie were nibbling the green and brown moss, which had been dug out from beneath the snow which was like a fluffy blanket, keeping it warm, Eski lighted the stove, as he had called it.

"Looks more like a little lamp, to me," said Bunty between bites of moss. And that, really, is what an Eskimo stove is like. In a shallow dish made of a hollowed stone, or a hollowed bone, floated a wick made of twisted strands of the same kind of moss the rabbits were eating. The moss wick floated in melted fat or seal blubber. And when the wick was lighted it burned brightly, making the igloo quite warm.

When the rabbits had eaten the moss, they let the cold and hungry sled dog in the igloo and Eski brought him some frozen fish to eat.

"You have been very kind to me," said Husky, which was the dog's name. "Very kind, Uncle Wiggily. And when you want to leave the North Pole I will get some of my friends and we will ride you over the ice on a sled. I will ride you home to your bungalow."

"Thanks," said Mr. Longears. And a few days after that, when he and the bunny girls had seen more strange sights at the North Pole, they told Eski good-by and, bundled up snug and warm, took their places on a long, low sled, to which ten Eskimo dogs, counting Husky, were harnessed by means of long strips of sealskin.

"Off we go!" cried Uncle Wiggily and away ran the dogs pulling the sled. Faster and faster they ran, like the March wind which was blowing and soon the travelers reached the country where there was no more ice. At this point the sled dogs turned back, and Uncle Wiggily, Bunty and Vallie hopped the rest of the way to the hollow stump bungalow.

"Well, of all things!" exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy and Mrs. Longears when they saw the travelers returning. "We thought you were lost forever! My, it seems a year since the kite took you away!"

"Well, we are glad to be back again," said Mr. Longears. "We had some wonderful adventures!" And the rabbit gentleman is going to have more adventures.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Crepe satin is a favorite material for separate blouses. This model makes use of green satin both sides being employed.

Tuck-in blouses have been sponsored by some of the French tailors and dressmakers for wear with tailored suits, but I am willing to bet dollars to doughnuts that for American women at least the tuck-in blouse will for some time go begging. Meantime we simply marvel that for so many years women ever put up with them.

So for practical purposes in this country at least only the overblouse need be considered at all. Vionete has made some attractive overblouses for wear with tailored suits, and usually these are quite simple, depending on interesting yoke arrangement, faggotting, tucking or other hand work for their effectiveness. There are blouses of the waistcoat sort showing an arrangement of tucks and small buttons at the front with neat little pockets at the hips—blouses with jabots at the front or to one side and blouses of the peasant genre made with smocked shoulders.

Sometimes there is a tendency to blousing above the hips, sometimes they are made "enforme," as the French would say, with a slight shaping in at the waistline. Sometimes they are belted—but always they are made quite snug about the hips.

Overblouses or tunics are shown in some of the shops that with a simple pleated skirt satisfactorily take the place of a one-piece frock. Especially tempting are some of the new tunics of figured silk with tones of green predominating. Green figures with brown shadings on a beige background—or green figures on white with a fine tracery of black.

Usually the skirt chosen to go with these figured green silk blouses is black. It is an easy matter to make a pleated black skirt of satin or crepe de chine. And skirts are almost always mounted on slip tops—thin white silk with shoulder straps to go under opaque silk and silk of an appropriate color to be worn under the blouses of chiffon or georgette. Many of the slip-topped skirts in the shops are sold with a large neck square of silk to match the skirt.

Loan Next Step.

PARIS, April 4 (Canadian Press). —L'Echo de Paris to-day said the next step toward the return of France to the gold standard will be the issuance of a big loan. Representatives of the principal French banks have been summoned by the Ministry of Finance to discuss loans.

7,000 TO ATTEND BIG CONVENTION

Toronto Baptists Prepare For Meeting of World Alliance.

GROWTH INDICATED.

TORONTO, Ont., April 4 (By The Canadian Press).—Large delegations from far-off countries are expected to attend the Baptist World Convention in Toronto in June, including 1bout 100 from Australia. The British delegation, it is anticipated, will comprise about 500 Baptists. The first meeting of the Baptist World Alliance was held in London, England., in 1905, and since then the denomination has grown greatly. It is stated that in Russia there are now nearly 2,000,000 Baptists, whereas before the war there were only 100,000. Altogether, more than 7,000 Baptist preachers and laymen, from all parts of the world, are expected at the coming convention which will open on June 23 and close on June 29.

Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky, is President of the Baptist World Alliance. He came to Toronto this week to supervise the arrangements being made for the convention and gave a public address shortly after his arrival.

It is not anticipated that contentious matters of doctrine and interpretation —such as have caused upheavals among the Baptist churches in various parts of the world—will be discussed by the coming convention. It is regarded as improbable that insurgent fundamentalist groups who have withdrawn from regular Baptist organizations will attend the convention as invitations thereto are in the hands of recognized Baptist conventions, according to Dr. Mullins. The functions of the Alliance meeting, the president explains, are advisory and suggestive, rather than legislative and binding. The Alliance does not deal with problems affecting purely local units of the Baptist denomination.

Dr. Mullins says there is no fundamental divergence between the dissenting groups of Baptists and many so-called fundamentalists will attend the convention here.

There has been remarkable progress in the Baptist denomination in Roumania, according to Dr. Mullins, especially since the granting of religious rights and freedom to Baptist by the Roumanian Government. "At one time," Dr. Mullins says, "they were terribly persecuted by the state, church and civil authorities, but this has ceased in consequence of a petition drawn up by the Alliance's executive committee and signed by Baptists all over the world. Interesting developments are afoot among the Baptists of South America, where a plan is being developed to call a Latin-American Baptist convention in 1930. Another important plan is the establishment of a Baptist theological seminary in Moscow, Russia. Part of a fund raised for this purpose will become available soon, and a number of young preachers await the opening of the school's doors."

INQUEST ADJOURNED.

No Evidence of Foul Play On Girl Found in Bay at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 4 (Canadian Press).—The inquest on the death of Mary Reid, 17-year-old girl missing since November 29, whose body was found in the harbor here yesterday, has been adjourned to April 17. Investigation so far has failed to reveal any indication of foul play.

IN POLICE COURT

Lloyd Redmond, a driver of the Border Transit Company, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. His lawyer, J. Wearing, requested that the case be adjourned until Thursday, April 12, which was granted.

A local man was found guilty of being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs.

(Editor's Note: The policy of The Examiner is not to report the names of men who are charged with being intoxicated, but in the case of a man charged with operating a car while intoxicated his name is always put in when the police court proceedings are reported).

Wheat Prices Continue On Upgrade To-day

CHICAGO, April 4 (Canadian Press)—Wheat values averaged higher to-day in the early dealings. Reports of heavy damage by Winter killing continued from the Ohio Valley States, with excessive wind and need of rain in the trans-Mississippi States southwest and west. Opening at ⅛ cent off to ⅝ cent up, wheat underwent a general sag, but then rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats, and provisions were easy, corn starting unchanged to ⅜ cent higher and subsequently showing general declines.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 143⅞, July 143¾. Corn, May 100½, July 103⅛. Oats, May 58⅛, July 52.

New York Market Strong In Spite Of Bad News

NEW YORK, April 4 (Canadian Press). — Disregarding the large quota of unfavorable trade news, the stock market moved upward in impressive fashion to-day after a temporary sinking spell at the opening. Bullish operations were conducted with marked success in the number of public utilities, rails, motor, accessories, oils, and specialties, the gains in many instances running from three to fifteen points.

Banks called about $20,000,000 in loans to meet a heavy week-end demand for funds, but the market paid little attention to this development. Rubber shares were only slightly affected by a break of five cents in crude rubber following the announcement of the removal of the British export restrictions next November.

Violent fluctuations again took place in the high priced specialties. Wright Aeronautical rallied from 127 to 141 and backed up to 132. Radio fell from 192½ to 183½ and then rebounded to 187. Brooklyn Edison soared nearly 10 points and Montana Power, Atlas Powder, Cluett Peabody, and Ludlow Steel advanced six to eight points, most of them to new peak prices.

Howey Leads Market; Trend Is Downward

TORONTO April 4. Canadian Press. — Howey Gold Mines was the active leader on the Standard mining exchange this morning, selling down 12 at 106 on the biggest turnover on the list. The market generally tended a little easier, with Pend Oreille softening 30 at 21.00, and Bidgood losing two at 95. Two conspicuously strong spots were Newbec at 43½ and Kirkland Lake Gold at 203. Hudson Bay firmed 20 at 17.60, and Amulet at 340, Dome at 10.80, Hollinger at 16.90, and Noranda at 17.15 were stronger. The weaker issues included Sudbury Basin at 10.10, Malartic at 123 and Argonaut at 15½.

Massey-Harris Leads On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, April 4. Canadian Press. — Massey-Harris was the outstanding issue on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, opening strong and touching 47, two points higher, but on a heavy turnover selling down to 44 3-8 at noon. The rest of the list also tended downward with Steel of Canada reacting 4 at 214. International lost a point at 92½ and Canadian wineries, a new issue sold from 22½ to 22. Mackay eased to 122.

In the unlisted section price changes were negligible, with the oils steady.

LET US END WAR.

The League of Nations Day takes place on April 17th, on which day there will be a drive for $1.00 memberships from coast to coast. April has been chosen as the month for this drive because it was in April the Canadian troops first went into action in the Great War and it seems therefore appropriate that this same month should signalize some special effort for the cause of peace in the hope that never again will the nation be called upon to make such terrible sacrifices.

The idea behind having the drive is to furnish moral support for the representatives of the various nations that are now gathered for the eventual stopping of war. The scoffer may say that the League of Nations will never stop war but at least it is an attempt and is better than passive acceptance of the terrible things that have gone on in the past. It would seem therefore a cause well worthy of the support of every person in Canada and, with a united body of public opinion to support the government in its stand in the matter of arbitration rather than force, the day of Peace in the world will be nearer to realization. Every membership helps and who knows but that each membership of support may go further than anyone thinks in such an ideal cause.

AUNT SUSAN'S VISIT

The play entitled "Aunt Susan's Visit," given by the choir of St. James' United Church in the auditorium of George Street United Church ,under the auspices of the Lookout Class, was very entertaining. The cast was carefully chosen and the various members acquitted themselves admirably, bringing out to the best advantage the rollicking humor of the comedy which centres about the visit of the eccentric aunt to her city relatives, who adopt a very disapproving attitude towards her. A great deal of merriment was evoked by the various comical episodes. The play was followed by a miscellaneous program of old-fashioned music, consisting of solo, duet, and quartette numbers. Later, a social half-hour was spent.

The cast of the play is as follows: Mr. Tibbs (H. Turner), Mrs. Tibbs (Miss May Ritchie), their daughters, Rebecca and Alice (Miss Greta Welbourne and Miss Ethel Dudgeon), the maid (Miss Eileen Rose), Mr. Guy de Marchmont Coggs (Gerald Cuff), Senator Smith (Allen Stevens), Miss Tuggs and Miss Wiser (dual role taken by Miss Verna Fell), Mrs. Highbrow (Mrs. McKinstry), Aunt Susan (Mrs. E. Kitney), Miss Redlips (Mrs. Pitchford), Mrs. Weakly (Mrs. Monks), Mrs. Dodden (Mrs. Robinson), Old Lady of the Village (Miss Gladys Langton).

Those taking part in the musical program were Mrs. Monks and Mrs. Robinson, in vocal duett; Mrs. Pitchford and Miss E. Rose, in piano duett; Mesdames Monks, McKinstry and Robinson, in vocal trio; Mrs. H. Bennett, reading; J. Carter, vocal solo, and Miss E. Rose, piano solo.

NO CHURCH SINGING.

Westminster Glee Singers Will Not Take Part in Easter Services.

The Westminster Glee Singers, who will be singing in the city on Friday and Saturday, will not sing in any church on Sunday. A mistaken impression has gone abroad in other cities where they spent the week-end and the director wishes it understood in this city that they will sing only in the Opera House.

MOVIES SENT OVER WIRES

SENT AS "STILLS."

CHICAGO, April 4 (Canadian Press).—An advance in the transmission of pictures by wire was made today when for the first time a motion picture was sent over the telephone lines to New York City for display there. A close-up of Vilma Banky, motion picture star, was taken in the telephoto offices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and within half an hour the film had been developed and was being transmitted over the wires.

The film was cut up into short strips and sents as "stills" or ordinary pictures. At the other end of the line the strips were pieced together and then photographed on a regular motion picture film. Ten feet of film were used in the experiment.

ADMIRAL COLLARD IS NOT TO BE TRIED

Has Been On Half Pay Since Court of Inquiry at Malta.

LONDON, April 4. — (Canadian Press.)—There has been no hint of a court martial or any disciplinary action against Admiral Collard in connection with the Royal Oak affair, as a result of which Commander Daniel was dismissed from his ship. It is pointed out that Rear Admiral Collard lowered his flag at the time that the court of inquiry sat on the controversy at Malta and is now on half pay, his future apparently being at the disposition of the Admiralty.

Marriage Not Enough To Separate Twins

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 4 (Canadian Press).—Charles and John Farr, twins, have lived together 53 years and see no reason why Charles' marriage yesterday should make any difference. "I reckon it's too late for us to part now," said Charles. "So we'll live together, only there'll be three of us now." John reckoned so, too, and Mrs. Farr as well.

PENSION SCHEME BEING EXTENDED

Yukon Comes Under Federal Plan—Prairie Provinces Negotiating.

OTTAWA, April 4 (Canadian Press). — With the Yukon Territory now coming within the provisions of the Old Age Pension Act and both Saskatchewan and Manitoba enacting measures that will bring these provinces under its scope, the scheme is gradually developing. Negotiations are in progress between the Department of Labor, which administers the act, and the governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba to settle all the preliminaries for the application of the act to these provinces.

Maroons and Rangers to Meet in N.H.L. Finals

CANADIENS OUT BY SINGLE GOAL

GOALKEEPERS STAR.

MONTREAL, April 3 (Canadian Press).—Russell Oatman, sub left winger of the Montreal Maroons, emerged from last night's Maroon-Canadien hockey battle as a hero. Oatman's goal, after eight minutes and twenty seconds of overtime, gave the Maroons a 1 to 0 victory over the Flying Frenchmen, besides winning for them the championship of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League, and the right to meet the New York Rangers, winners of the United States division, in the Stanley Cup finals.

It was a sudden and dramatic finish which Oatman supplied to one of the best and most gruelling hockey battle of the local professional season. For 68 minutes it had been a nip and tuck battle, with the tide of offensive margin first swinging one way and then the other. It was an evenly fought tussle throughout, and was won on the closest of margins

Oatman's scoring effort was no fluke. The chunky sub left winger was making just another rush towards the Canuck citadel and shot as he reached the defence. Hainsworth blocked the drive, but the puck rebounded straight out again. Oatman kept on coming, barged through the Red Shirts' defence, picked up the loose disc and slammed it into the twine before Hainsworth could make a move. Just as Oatman's stick met the puck, the two Canadien defence men closed in. Oatman's stick was broken in two by the impact, but it was broken too late.

A capacity crowd of close to 14,000 persons watched the struggle. Many of them had waited in line since early in the morning. They were well repaid for their long wait, however, for it was a great game. It was a great game to win and a hard game to lose.

Among the other heroes of the battle were the two net minders, Benedict and Hainsworth. The latter was fairly beaten on the lone counter that got past him, but previous to the goal he was perfect, and saved his team on many occasions, and he played a major part in the Maroon victory. Many times when the Maroons were short-handed Benny alone turned back the vicious Canuck thrusts. Among the other players on both teams it would be hard to pick an outstanding star.

The teams:

Canadiens.—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Gardiner and Mantha; centre, Morenz; wings, Gagne and Joliat; subs, Leduce, Gaudreault, Hart, Langlois, Larochelle and Lepine.

Maroons—Goal, Benedict; defence, Munro and Dutton; centre, Smith; wings, Ward and Stewart; subs, Siebert, Phillips, Lamb, Oatman and Brown.

Referees—Lou Marsh and Michael Rodden, Toronto.

RANGERS WIN GROUP TITLE

Put Out Boston When Bruins Go to Pieces in Last Period.

FINAL SCORE 4-1.

BOSTON, Mass, April 4. — The New York Rangers qualified for the Stanley Cup championship series here last night by defeating the Boston Bruins, the leaders in the American division of the National Hockey League, 4 to 1, thus making the total goals count Rangers 5, Bruins 2, as the two teams played a 1-to-1 tie in New York on Sunday night

For two periods the Bruins were able to hold the speedy Rangers in check, although Bill Cook, the New York wing man, scored the first goal late in the second period after he darted down the right side of the rink slipped in between Shore and Hitchman and drove a shot which Winkler was unable to handle.

Then came the third period and the Bruins went to pieces. Their break-up occurred after Murdock hooked the puck in centre ice and skated down the middle dodging the Bruins forwards. He slipped around the defenec men and tore directly at Winkler letting go his shot when he pulled the goalie to one side of the cage.

Bruins' Sacrifice Defence.

After the second New York score the Bruins tried desperately to score and sacrificed their main defence to play a four man attack. While Winkler was watching the play down in front of the Rangers' cage, Bun Cook took a pass and lifted the puck from almost centre ice. The disc flew through the air toward Winkler and fell into his cage before he could turn his eyes to the puck. A minute later Murdoch scored his second goal when he hooked a pass out from inside his own defence line All of the Bruins, except Shore, were behind the play, and he out--skated Eddie and shot past the now weary Winkler.,

Both teams started the contest with a marvellous display of speed, the like of which has not been seen here this season. The game was clean fought throughout, although a total of ten penalties were handed out. In the third period Johnson and Galbraith were injured and forced to quit the ice after they fell heavily.

Boston—Goal, Winkler; defence, Shore and Hitchman; centre, Frederickson; wings, Oliver and Galbraith; subs, Clapper, Cleghorn, Gainor, Connor, Gordon and Harrington.

New York Rangers—Goal, Chabot; defence, Abel and Johnson; centre, F. Boucher; wings, W. Cook and F. Cook; subs, Gray, Boyd, Murdoch, Thompson, Callighen and Bourgeault.

Referees — Cooper Smeaton and George Mallinson, Montreal.

Batley, whose duties would be, (1) selection of suitable practice and match grounds, and the carrying on of necessary negotiations to obtain same; (2) preparation of list of estimated equipment requirements. (3) Responsibility for care of equipment.

There was short discussion re whether it would be better to hold practises on the work grounds at 5 p. m. or on some other fields such as Nicholls Oval, after supper. Opinion was divided, but seemed to somewhat favor practice on the work grounds from 5 p.m. until 6 or 6.30 p.m.

Those present were: Messrs. R. Dyer, Rigby, Duggan, A. Barret G. Lang, H. Wilkes, E. McDougall, H. Henshaw, F. Jefferson, R. Batley, W. Grubb, A. Young, and G. R. Langley.

TUNNEY ACCEPTS HEENEY CHALLENGE

Champion Will Escape New York Athletic Commission Punishment.

NEW YORK, April 4 (Associated Press). — Gene Tunney made his gesture of peace with the New York State Athletic Commission yesterday less than an hour after the "solemn solons" had placed the stamp of disapproving silence on the heavyweight champion's scheduled tussle with Tom Heeney in July. Perhaps annoyed by Tunney's lese majeste in neglecting to answer a "request" that he formally name a challenger from the commission list, the boxing fathers met Tex Rickard's formal announcement of the Heeney match with corrugated brows and silence. They withheld the sanction Jess McMahon, Rickard's matchmaker, confidently had expected as the first move toward selection of New York as the site of the title bout.

The commission, Chairman James A. Farley was willing to admit, was in a discomfiting situation, but Tunney apparently solved the problem himself within an hour after the commission dissolved for the day by informing the fathers, in a conciliatory though chiding message from Miami Beach that he accepted the challenge of Heeney. This paves the way for the situation to be cleared up at the next meeting of the board on Saturday, although the champion still has to answer the commission edict that he fight twice a year, a thing he has advocated himself since last fall.

In his telegram the titleholder said he had received no word from the commission direct, but that newspaper reports, "which of course I did not accept as accurate," had informed him that ineligibility would be the penalty of failure to accept a commission challenger by April 3.

The commission, he said, knew him well enough to understand that the detail of selecting opponents always was left to the promoter.

"Tex Rickard," he said, "has named Tom Heeney as my opponent because he believes him the outstanding and most formidable challenger. My signature to box any opponent was placed on a contract months ago and the only reason why an opponent was not named at that time was that Tex Rickard, with whom I signed, believed there was no logical one at the time."

A new glass substitute is translucent and weatherproof and admits the ultra-violet rays of the sun. Its chief advantages are its flexibility and unbreakability—it is sold in rolls and by the yard.

THE TURF.

GLEN RIO, N.M., April 4. — Canadian Press. — Ed. Gardner, Seattle negro, and Olli Wantinnen, New York, romped over the 44.1 miles from Tucumcari, and reached the 31st control of the transcontinental Marathon here yesterday in a tie. Their time was 5 hours 8 minutes and 15 seconds.

Arne Souminen of Detroit bolstered his lead on first place in elapsed time since the start at Los Angeles by finishing third on yesterday's lap in 6:21:35. His total elapsed time is 184:10:20.

Gardner's time for the 1114.7 miles from Los Angeles is 210:17:16; Wantinnen's 228.03:47.

Other early finishers in order were Arthur Killingsworth, Lomis Calif.; Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla.; John Salo, Passaic, N. J., Guisto Umok, Trieste, Italy; Louis Perella, Albany, N.Y., and John Gober, Moberly, Mo.

The field was reduced to 91 yesterday when Carl Swenson of Los Angeles and Mike Gailena of Palm Beach, Fla., dropped out. Swenson suffered stomach trouble and Gailona's withdrawal was due to a gender break down.

IS JACK DELANEY DUCKING LOUGHRAN?

NEW YORK. April 4—Jack Delaney persists in the idea that he can cope with the big fellows. Jack has a right to his own opinion, but he must make the promoters think enough of his chances to offer him engagements.

Delaney's managers discount his showing against Tom Heeney and figure the Bridgeport scrapper is still a card. Tex Richard has offered Delaney another chance to break into the heavyweight picture by mixing with Jack Sharkey, whose name has been duly signed to a contract. The only thing that is holding up the match is the percentage asked for Delaney.

The fans, the paying ones, are a bit peeved over Delaney's tactics. They rightly figure that he belongs in the light heavyweight class and should meet the champion, Tommy Loughran. The Bridgeport sharpshooter has ducked Loughran for two years and he went to the extent of renouncing his light heavy title rather than risk a meeting with the willing Philadelphian.

As Loughran puts it: "Why should Delaney fight heavyweights when he has not proved his right to say he has cleaned up the lighter class? I suppose Jack wants to get what he can with the big fellows and then come back into the lighter division. He has nothing to loose by fighting the big fellows, but it would be a dent in his reputation to be licked by the boys of his own size. Any time Delaney wants a fight I'll give it to him, but he won't get the percentage he thinks he is worth. I suppose he will want to fight me after he has lost what little is left of his reputation."

Offers Trophy For Girls' Hockey Play

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., April 4.—Herbert Hatch, Toronto businessman, has offered to donate a trophy for Dominion competition among girls' hockey teams. Winners of the cup would be recognized as the Canadian champions.

The offer was made known shortly before the departure of the Aura Lee girls' hockey team, which defeated the local team in what was listed as a Dominion championship series.

Before entraining, members of the victorious Toronto team were presented with brooches in the form of hockey sticks, a gift of a number of Port Arthur sportsmen.

It was learned that Janet Allen, captain of the Lees, suffered a broken collar bone in the last game. She is accompanying the team east, however.

Being kept in with a cold is no joke

THERE are two other people who don't think it's so funny either. His mother who has to stay home with him and take care of a cross and disappointed young son. And his teacher who has to help him catch up with the lessons he is going to miss.

The worst part of it is, he's one of maybe half a million children who are right now staying indoors for the very same reason. And a whole lot of them could avoid most of these colds if only their resistance was built up ahead of time. If your children seem to "catch everything that goes around", try giving them Nujol.

For Nujol not only prevents any excess of the body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal. It certainly would do no harm, anyway, to try Nujol, would it?

Try Nujol for, say the next three months. Then compare their report cards with those they had last year. See how the absences from school have dropped—how the school marks have jumped. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

See for yourself if Nujol doesn't help build up healthy resistance to colds and resulting ills—as thousands of other mothers have discovered. Keep a bottle of Nujol handy and give it to them regularly. Contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

HEALTH UNITS SHOW RESULTS

New Method of Handling Disease Problems Used in Quebec.

FULL TIME OFFICIALS.

"Health Units", a comparatively new method of tackling disease problems and dealing with the conservation of health and the preservation of life, are gradually being developed throughout the province of Quebec.

Now, for the first time, statistical information is at hand showing in cold figures the definite results which have been achieved in a very short space of time by four of these units. They have been specializing on infant mortality and tuberculosis and, in every case, the deaths under these headings have shown a noticeable drop

The health unit itself is exactly what its name implies. It involves the establishment of a central bureau, staffed with specially-trained, full time officials. For instance, in Beauce County, there is a medical health officer, two public health nurses, a sanitary inspector and a secretary. The cost is divided between the municipality of groups of municipalities, the Provincial Government and the Rockfeller Foundation, which is providing grants for the purpose.

The health unit in Beauce was established only two years ago. During 1926, there were 643 deaths in the districts from general causes. Last year, this figure dropped by 169 to 474. Similarly, infant deaths were reduced from 213 to 158; deaths from tuberculosis, from 56 to 42 and deaths from contagious diseases, from 93 to 43. Statistics, indicating the reduction of disease generally are not yet available but a study of the death rates makes logical, the assumption that this, too, must have been comparatively important.

Three other health units were also established, following the one in Beauce County and, in all three cases, similar excellent results have been obtained.

In detail, these were as follows:

	General Mortality
Health Unit	1926	1927
St. Hyacinthe and Rouville	558	425
Lac St. Jean	625	478
Saint Jean and Iberville	301	236
	Infant Mortality
Health Unit	1926	1927
St. Hyacinthe and Rouville	150	108
Lac St. Jean	254	205
Saint Jean and Iberville	90	52
	Tuberculosis
Health Unit	1926	1927
St. Hyacinthe and Rouville	27	18
Lac St. Jean	59	26
Saint Jean and Iberville	14	7
	Deaths From Contagious Disease
	1926	1927
St. Hyacinthe and Rouville Unit	23	11
Lac St. Jean Unit	74	36
Saint Jean and Iberville Unit	13	9

The most casual survey of these figures from four Canadian municipalities is sufficient to demonstrate the effectiveness of this new public health method. Obviously, a considerable number of lives were saved as an almost immediate result of these efforts. The figures indicate it clearly.

Had, however, the position been reversed and this number of Canadian lives been lost, by some catastrophe for instance, the entire Dominion would have been appalled.

The remarkable work which is being accomplished by this means may, perhaps, lack spectacular features but there can be no doubt whatever concerning its lasting value.

NATIONAL MUSIC OF THE BRITISH ISLES SUNG BY WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS

The Westminster Glee Singers bring for their Canadian tour some of the finest music of the centuries. Not since their visit here twenty years ago has a Canadian audience had the opportunity to hear so fine an organization of such beautifully arranged programs. Adult singers from some of the best known old Cathedral choirs are in the company, as well as six of the clearest-toned boy sopranos ever gathered together in one group.

For their appearances here on Good Friday and Saturday at the Grand they have chosen secular and sacred music which will not only please the musician, but which will touch a responsive chord in the soul of anyone in whose make-up there is a love of music. That includes pretty well the whole British race, for the old melodious folksongs and national airs sung by the Westminster singers run back centuries in British history.

The artists who sing them are the product of centuries of training and practice. Cathedral choirs in England have specialized in the training of boy voices since earliest times, and at present and for hundreds of years, they have been outstanding in this branch of singing.

Their program will include the very choicest anthems, Christmas carols, and other sacred types, sung in that inimitable fashion that is only possible to a band of highly-trained and experienced singers.

The boys' voices alone there will be Schubert's "The Lord is My Shepherd", "As Pants the Hart" (with chorus), and Mendelssohn's "Oh, for the Wings"; while among the ever-popular quartettes will be found Sterndale Bennet's "God is a Spirit", "Ave Verum" (Mozart), "O Salutaris Hostia" (Gounod), and Stainer's "God So Loved the World."

A specialty of the Westminster Singers is the delightful old Christmas Carols they sing, such as "I Saw Three Ships", "The Holly and the Ivy", "A Virgin Unspotted", and "In Dulci Jubilo", while more modern forms will be found in Gounod's "Bethlehem" and Sullivan's "I Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

AT THE CAPITOL.

FOR THE LAST THREE DAYS OF THIS WEEK, THE CAPITOL OFFERS TOM MIX, WITH TONY, IN "DAREDEVIL'S REWARD" AND "DOG HEAVEN" ONE OF THE CLEVEREST COMEDIES EVER PRODUCED, THE PRINCIPAL ACTORS BEING ANIMALS.

We wish to make special mention of the comedy "Dog Heaven" which will be seen at the Capitol, the last three days of this week. This is without doubt the cleverest comedy ever seen on any screen, and it is worth making a special effort to see, the principal actors are just dogs; but their work puts many so called "stars" to shame, yes, it's an "Our Gang" comedy.

Tom Mix, as Tom Hardy, does his very finest riding and driving and, as the ranger, proves his courage time and time again. Mix is ordered to capture a villainous gang of highwaymen, and his methods in obtaining their capture is unique.

Disguised as a wandering medicine man, Tom searches the surrounding country for traces of the gang. With his comical assistant, Slim, Tom attempts to doctor an ailing cowboy and the results are disastrous for both.

Forced to flee for their lives, Tom and Slim are driven into the stronghold of the outlaws. Compelled to don the raiments of the ranch cook, Tom hoodwinks the entire gang, and after a series of smashing encounters effects their capture in typical Ranger fashion.

Natalie Joyce has the leading feminine role. Others in the cast include Lawford Davidson, Billy Bletcher and Harry Cording. John Stone, the author of the story, also adapted it for the screen.

Gene Forde directed the production.

AT THE REGENT.

RIOT OF COLOR IN RIOTOUS COMEDY COMING TO REGENT

A Mardi Gras and Venetian celebration combined can't be more picturesque and colorful than the circus background that figures in "The Life of Riley," the riotous film comedy co-featuring George Sidney and Charlie Murray, coming to the Regent Theatre Thursday.

Elephants and camels, wild men and bearded women, clowns and hula girls in this sequence vie with a carload of fireworks, exploding among the principal players, a riot and a village fire, and many other comedy elements, in providing laughs and thrills.

Rural comedy has in the past been considered natural mirth material, but in combination with such "exotic" thrills it is doubly effective in "The Life of Riley."

The famous comics of stage and screen, Sidney and Murray, are characterized as rural town Fire Chief and Police Chief, respectively, and Sam Hardy, Myrtle Stedman June Marlowe, Stephen Carr, Edwards Davis and Bert Woodruff have interesting supporting roles. E. M. Asher produced the comedy for First National Pictures and it was directed by William Beaudine.

MONTREAL STADIUM UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Although less than sixty days have elapsed since ground was broken for the new million dollar stadium at Montreal the work of construction has already been more than two-thirds completed according to the contractors who assure the Montreal Baseball Club officials that there will be no question about the completion of the work and delivery of the entire plant before the stipulated date, May 1, 1928. Early in the winter considerable doubt was expressed by baseball men as to whether the stadium could possibly be completed in time. Such fears, however, were never entertained by the contractors, who put up a cash forfeit bond aggregating $100,000 that the work would be completed within the specified time. The stadium with bleachers will have a seating capacity of approximately 25,000. In addition to being the largest stadium in minor league baseball, it will possess several features that will appeal most favorably to patrons. One of these is that each row of seats has a unifor mrise of 10 inches throughout. This is a much greater rise than in other stadiums. It results naturally in making a steeper pitch and so a better view of the playing field.

MILES of Low-Price Transportation

A GOOD used car is the lowest cost transportation you can buy. The unused miles of dependable service in the used cars we have on our floor at the present time offer remarkable opportunities for money-saving. The distance these cars have travelled is insignificant when compared to the thousands of miles of Unused Transportation which they represent . . . and the prices are far below what you would expect. What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XV—Science Persists

EVEN in spite of such awful warnings the inquiring spirit of humanity would not be downed.

In the early sixteenth century a simple, plain-speaking professor on the borders of Poland conceived and announced that the sun and planets did not revolve about the earth, but that the earth revolved about the sun. His name was Nicholas Copernicus. He did not make the announcement very loudly.

Indeed, so sure was he of the wrath and persecution of the church that he withdrew from his professorship in Rome and kept his great thought to himself and a few trusted associates for thirty years. Finally, knowing that he was close to the end of his days, he dedicated his great work, Revolutions of the Heavenly Bodies, to the Pope and entrusted it to a printer.

The printer, terror-stricken, brought it out with an apologetic and groveling preface. A copy was carried to the home of Copernicus on May 24, 1543, but the scholar was on his death bed. A few hours later he had passed beyond the reach of those who would have persecuted him and perhaps have taken his life.

Feared After Death

He had feared that even the grave might not be strong enough to shield his body and so he directed that his tombstone should make no mention of his scientific achievements, but have graven on it merely this pitiful prayer:

"I ask not the grace accorded to Paul: not that given to Peter; give me only the favor which Thou didst show to the thief on the cross."

For years the truth lay buried in the minds of men too timid to utter it, but finally there arose one brave enough to speak even within the hearing of the Pope.

Giordano Bruno is one of the strange and fascinating characters of history. He was hunted from land to land, trapped in Venice, imprisoned for six years in the dungeons of the Inquisition at Rome, then burned alive and his ashes scattered to the winds. Surely this would be the end of heresy.

None Dared

No man would any more dare to suggest that the world was round and moved about the sun.

Yet ten years later Galileo spoke. His announcement was a dramatic fulfilment of prophecy.

Years before, Copernicus had been confronted with the objection: "If your doctrines were true, Venus would show phases like the moon." To which the devout old hero had replied: "You are right: I know not what to say; but God is good and will in time find an answer to this objection."

Galileo's discovery was God's answer. His rude little telescope had revealed the phases of Venus.

The roar of abuse which this discovery provoked was made more bitter by Galileo's subsequent discovery of the mountains and valleys of the moon, and his deduction that the moon shines by the reflected light of the sun.

The impiety of this statement is easily proved by the verse in Genesis which describes the moon as "a great light."

Upset Theology

As the implications of Galileo's findings became more clearly understood, the whole theological world rocked with vituperation and abuse. If the earth were not the center of the universe, as theology claimed, but only one of many planets, then these others must be inhabited, since God makes nothing in vain.

"Such a thought," said one of the faithful, "would upset the whole basis of theology. If the earth is a planet, and only one among several planets, it can not be that any such great things have been done specially for it, as the Christian doctrine teaches. . . . If there be other planets . . . how can their inhabitants be descended from Adam? How can they trace their origin to Noah's ark? How can they have been redeemed by the Savior?"

Galileo vs. the Church

Hot and bitter was the warfare! Galileo on one side, alone, and against him all the organized power of the church. In 1616 he was summoned before the Inquisition at Rome, where the theologians examined him, pondered his doctrines for a month, and then gave forth their verdict.

"The first proposition, that the sun is the center and does not revolve about the earth, is foolish, absurd, false in theology, and heretical, because expressly contrary to Holy Scripture," and "the second proposition, that the earth is not the center, but revolves about the sun, is absurd, false in philosophy, and from a theological point of view at least, opposed to the true faith."

It's a little late for shamrocks, but these drawn by Rosie Ronco (who also came in to see me on Saturday) look very nice. And isn't Lenore Warne's squirrel cute? That nut must taste sweet! It really looks as if Jerry Whaley's pretty sailing boat will be run down by Evelyn Nelson's big ocean liner, but I guess it will get out of the way in time. Did you notice how the radio is busy on the big boat? Maybe it's sending out an S O S because it knows it is going to hit Jerry's boat.

THE PRIZE-WINNER.

Last week's prize was won by John Langley (12 years of age), 239 Burnham Street, with drawing number 24, and the prize has been sent to him.

The winner was selected by the boys and girls themselves, who voted on a coupon printed last Saturday. Billie Pakenham (12 years), 737 Water Street, was the second choice of most who voted, with drawing number 4. Other drawings that were well up in the list were: 42, 13, 43, 17, 18.

Clip out this week's pictures and be ready to vote on Saturday to decide the winner.

BASEBALL CLUB MEETS ON MONDAY

Good Chance For Youngsters To Jump Into Faster Company.

At a meeting of the exectuive of the Peterborough Baseball Club, held last evening it, it was decided to hold a general meeting on Monday night to discuss prospects and to elect officers for the season.

At present the situation is that a number of the older players would like to retire, but will stay in the game for another season if recruits from other teams in the city are willing to come forward to fill up the gaps. There is a real chance this season for young players to make the jump into faster company and all players will be cordialily welcome at Monday's meeting.

PATRICK FLYNN.

The deceased was born and raised in Emily township, two miles east of Downeyville, and lived here until about twenty years ago when he moved to Rochester, N. Y., where has resided ever since. A year ago last February Mr. and Mrs. Flynn celebrated their golden wedding.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and five daughters, Mrs. Ramsay (Katharine) Mrs. T. Meagher (Agnes), Mrs. J. O'Hara (Lizzie), Mrs. M. Lynch (Margaret), and Miss Ida, all residing in Rochester, N. Y.; also four sisters, Mrs. Maurice Guiry Mrs. Jos. Owens, Mrs. James Murtha, Mrs. Michael Carroll, all of Rochester, N.Y., and one brother, Thomas, who resides on the homestead here, who has the sympathy of all this community as the deceased was well and favorably known here.

The funeral was held from Holy Rosary church in Rochester and interment was also in Rochester, N.Y.

ALEXANDER ROSE.

The death occurred in the Souris and Glenwood Memorial Hospital, on Thursday, March 22, of Alexander Rose, aged 74 years, following a brief illness of pneumonia.

The deceased, who was born in Dummer, Peterborough County, Ont., was of Scottish parentage. He came west to Manitoba in 1879. In the spring of 1881, with his brother, Arthur, he joined the Sowden party of settlers at Winnipeg, and on reaching Souris, homesteaded and continued to reside near Bunclody until taken ill about two weeks ago. The late Mr. Rose had built up one of the finest and best equipped farms in Southern Manitoba. He had been Reeve of Whitewater municipality since 1900, last fall being elected for the twenty-eighth successive term which is a record for such service.

The late Mr. Rose was unmarried, and is survived by six brothers: John of Warsaw, Peterborough County, Ontario; Thomas E. of Peterborough, Ontario; Rev. George W., of Amman, Gray County, Ontario; Arthur, of Couris; David, of Brandon, and Duncan J., of Prince Albert.

The funeral was held on March 2, from the home of his brother, Arthur, to the Elgin Cemetery. Notwithstanding the very inclement day, the large number of friends and neighbors, many of them from distant places, turned out to pay their last respects to one who will be sorely missed throughout the community. The Rev. W. B. Sallons, of Elgin United Church, officiated at the home and around the graveside, and paid eloquent tribute to the many virtues to the deceased, both in public and private life. Officers of I.O.O.F. No. 21, Souris, of which the late Mr. Rose was a charter member, also conducted their beautiful burial service of the Order in the presence of a large concourse of friends, including many brother members. The late Mr. Rose's brothers, David, Arthur and Duncan, were present at the funeral, the three brothers in the east being unable to be present. Among the many beautiful floral tributes received, which testified to the high esteem of the deceased, were wreaths from Whitewater Municipal Council, Lily Community Club, and I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 21.

The pall-bearers were: John H. Douglas and M. McKinney, of the Whitewater Municipal Council, and William Roney, Charles Edgerton, David Isaac, and Henry Sellars, of the I.O.O.F.—Souris (Man.) Plaindealer.

W. T. R. PRESTON BEING EXAMINED FOR DISCOVERY

Second Phase of General Currie's Suit Opens at Cobourg To-day.

CASE IS ENTERED.

Documents Filed To Have Astion Tried at Spring Assizes, Opening April 16.

COBOURG, Ont., April 5 (Canadian Press).—The second phase of the legal battle that has been joined between General Currie, former Commander of the Canadian Corps, and the joint defendants, W. T. R. Preston, and F. W. Wilson, proprietor of The Port Hope Guide, was entered upon to-day when the examination for discovery of Mr. Preston was begun here before John Field, local Registrar. At the same time, Frank Regan, counsel for the defendanats, filed a motion arising out of the previous examination of General Currie. This motion would require of the former Canadian Corps Commander that he answer certain questions that were presented to him during his examination three weeks ago, and which Sir Arthur declined.

Suit Entered

PORT HOPE, Ont., April 5 (Canadian Press)—One of the most important preliminaries in the libel action instituted by General Currie against W. T. R. Preston and the proprietor of The Port Hope Guide was performed yesterday when D. Chisholm, K.C., on behalf of Sir Arthur, formally entered the action for hearing at the Spring Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario, which open at Cobourg, April 16. It is the second case on the list. The statements of claim and of the defence run into several pages of foolscap and fully set forth the entire case.

HEAR MOTION ON TUESDAY.

COBOURG, April 5 (Canadian Press). — Tuesday is the day set for the hearing of the motion entered by Frank Regan of Toronto, counsel for W. T. R. Preston and F. W. Wilson, defendants in the $50,000 libel action brought against them by General Sir Arthur Currie, in which the former commander of the Canadian Corps is required to answer the questions put to him at his examination for discovery three weeks ago. The case was continued to-day with the examination by counsel for General Currie of Mr. Preston. Mr. Wilson was also present, arriving later in the day.

It is understood that one of the important questions argued to-day was the interpretation of the word "Commander-in-Chief." The statement of claim alleges that in the article complained of, the following sentence occurred: "It was the last day and the last hour, and the last minute, when to gratify the Canadian headquarters staff the Commander-in-Chief conceived the mad idea that it would be a fine thing to say that the Canadians had fired the last shot in the Great War."

BLIND MUSICIANS ARE HIGHLY PRAISED

Will Give Musical Revue Here Easter Monday.

The blind artists who will be heard in a Musical Revue at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, April 9th, are all graduates of the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford. The Detroit News, speaking of their performance in that city recently, says:

"Very diverse was the program, embracing everything from light entertainment to classical music, given by blind artists, who deserve a great deal of credit for their splendid rendering."

Miss Katheryn Sells, A.T.C.M. of London, Ontario, one of the group, is present holder of a special scholarship at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, awarded by the St. Dustan's Chapter of the I.O.D.E.

Gladys Bickerton, of Toronto, is a soprano singer of very clear, pleasing voice, possessed of considerable talent and capable of rendering her solo numbers very acceptably.

Alex Graham of Toronto, Scotch comedian, has been called another Harry Lauder, and keeps his audience in a good humour throughout the entire performance, which includes a number of other excellent musical numbers.

LABORITE DEFEATS CONSERVATIVE LADY

LINLITHGOW, Scotland, April 5 (Canadian Press). — Miss Margaret Kidd failed to hold the seat here for the Conservatives at the by-election occasioned by the death of her father, James Kidd, and Linlithgow will be represented in the House of Commons by Emmanuel Shinwell, of the Labor Party.

Will Accept More Foreign Movie Films

PARIS, April 5 (Canadian Press).—The French film control committee has decided to adhere to the principle that only four foreign pictures shall be approved for each French film sold abroad. At its meeting yesterday, however, it adopted an additional provision to accept 200 pictures from outside during the year, beginning January 1, irrespective of this quota.

This action is regarded in American moving picture circles here as preparation for negotiations between the committee and Will Hays, head of the Motion Pictures Producers' Association, United States, and as giving a breathing spell for American pictures until an understanding is reached.

It is thought that under this arrangement there will be practically no restrictions on American films for a few months.

INSPIRING TALK IS GIVEN WOMEN

Mrs. Howard Fallis Tells Trinity Ladies of Women's Part at Resurrection.

FAITHFUL FOLLOWERS.

Mrs. Howard T. Fallis brought an inspiring message to the Easter meeting of Mrs. A. Bentley's unit of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church, held in Reid street hall on Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was well attended and was followed by a social hour, when tea was poured by Mrs. W. J. Green and Mrs. G. Armstrong, at a long table very attractively arranged with yellow daffodils and mauve tulips. Several vocal solos were given by Mrs. L. Groombridge, with accompaniments played by Miss Mabel Clarry.

Mrs. Fallis based a beautifully worded talk on the part played by women in the great drama of the Resurrection, as commemorated in the feast of Easter.

"It is peculiarly fitting," she said, "that at this gathering of women at this time we should note particularly the part played by women during the dark hours preceding, and the bright dawn that followed, the first Easter morning."

Mrs. Fallis then went on to draw a vivid word picture of that faithful little band of women mentioned in all four Gospels, who first served their Master in Galilee, following Him to minister to His needs and then, during the heart-breaking time which followed, remained sorrowfully waiting and watching at the edge of the group of people surrounding the Crucifix. When the body was given to Joseph, they followed to the sepulchre, being the last to leave and the first to arrive on the morning of the third day.

"I like to think that, in addition to their sense of duty and their great love for the Master, they were actuated by a feeling of gratitude for His teachings in regard to women and recognition of the fact that Christ's birth meant the exaltation of womanhood. The words of highest praise bestowed by Christ were given to a woman: "She hath done what she could.'

Christ's first appearance after the Resurrection was to a woman. To Mary, weeping in the garden, He came with words of comfort and cheer, and the message: "Go, tell My disciples." No wonder women are most interested in missionary work, said Mrs. Fallis. "For Mary was the first missionary of the new era ushered in on Easter morning.

"We hear much in these days of doubt and disbelief. People say they cannot believe in the Virgin Birth or in the resurrection of Christ, because only by a miracle could these things happen. They will not believe because they do not understand and no one can explain to their satisfaction. But these happenings are no more a miracle than the resurrection of Nature every spring. We are as helpless to understand the creation of the most common wayside flower as to understand the miracle of the Resurrection. Both are of Divine origin. If we understood them, we would have co-knowledge with God."

BRITAIN WILL GUARD AFFAIRS

Stick To 1922 Declarations Since Egyptian Government Has Rejected Treaty.

NOTE PUBLISHED.

LONDON, April 5 (Canadian Press).—The British Government's reply to the Egyptian Premier's note of March 30, which was published last night, reiterates Great Britain's determination to insist on the discharge of its responsibilities under the declaration of 1922, since the Egyptian government has rejected the treaty negotiated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, and the former Egyptian premier, Sarwat Pasha.

Great Britain thus reserves the right to protect its communications in Egypt, defend Egypt against foreign aggression and care for the rights of foreign residents and minorities in that country.

The note of the new Egyptian premier, Nahaz Pasha, which was also made public by the foreign office, declares that the British memorandum of March 4 assumes an attitude unacceptable to Egypt which, it adds, "cannot without a complete change of character give to an intervening state the right of control" over its own acts.

The Egyptian government, says the note, cannot admit the principle of intervention, which would be tantamount to its veritable abdication, and it furthermore declares that Egypt is fully ready to watch over the security and tranquility of British subjects and other foreigners in Egypt.

LADY AVIATOR SETS RECORDS

Lady Heath Flies From Capetown to Cairo Alone.

USES LIGHT PLANE.

LONDON, April 5 (Canadian Press). — A telegram received at Croydon to-day reported the arrival at Cairo of Lady Heath in a light airplane from Cape Town. By her flight from the southern tip of Arfica to Cairo, Lady Heath is declared to have accomplished three outstanding feats—being the first woman to fly from one end of the continent to the other, the first to make a flight in a light plane from Cape Town to Cairo, and the first to make a solo flight over the same territory. While flying alone throughout the flight, Lady Heath was accompanied over a portion of the trip by Lieutenant Bentley, who escorted her across the Soudan when the authorities there declined to permit her to fly over that dangerous territory unescorted.

CABINET DECLINES WOLF KILLING PLAN

Will Not Adopt Scheme which Calls For Big Cash Prize.

TORONTO, April 5 (Canadian Press).—Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Game and Fisheries, announced this morning that the Government would not accept the suggestion of Theo Legault, Liberal member for Sturgeon Falls, that a $10,000 prize be given to the trapper killing the most wolves this year.

Mr. McCrea's announcement followed his statement that the Ontario Cabinet was to consider the entire wolf question. At the same time the Minister announced that the Department was seriously considering the placing of experienced trappers and hunters in outlying districts where there are farms.

"The duty of these men," stated the Minister, "would be to hunt and trap wolves for the Government. The Government has the whole question under very serious consideration, and some steps will be taken."

Amery Formally Opens Quarantine Station On the East India Docks At London

LONDON, April 5 (Canadian Press Cable). — Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, yesterday formally opened the quarantine station on the East India Docks which has been provided for the Empire Marketing Board by the Royal Agricultural Society, in consequence of the Dominions' embargo on pedigree British stock as a result of the foot and mouth disease in Britain. The site was originally used by the South African Government for a similar purpose.

Sir Merrik Burrell, on behalf of the Royal Agricultural Society, stressed the need for sensible co-operation with the Dominions regarding the duration of the quarantine and other similar matters.

Hon. Mr. Amery expressed the hope that the governments and agriculturists of the Empire would make the fullest use of the station. He announced that the British Government was willing to co-operate on a 50-50 basis with any other government of the Empire in any scheme for cheapening the cost of transportation of animals.

Relations Between Jugoslavia and Albania Again Strained Over Frontier Question

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, April 5 (Associated Press). — Relations between Jugoslavia and Albania, which for a time had measurably improved, have become painfully strained over the continual refusal of Albania to relax the recent closing of the frontier because of an alleged outbreak of typhus.

Up to last evening, no reply has been received from the Tirana Government to Jugoslavia's energetic demand for the re-opening of the frontier. The situation was much aggravated yesterday by despatches reporting that another entire sector in the Struma region had been hermetically sealed by the Albanians.

The newspapers declare that the blockade is not an honest sanitary measure, but it is a screen for active military preparations engendered by Italy. They insist that in all cases of epidemics international law requires that at least one quarantine zone on the frontier shall be left open.

In some quarters Albania's action is held to be a measure dictated by the Italian Premier Mussolini as an expression of his dissatisfaction at Jugoslavia's reluctance to extend the Nettuno convention, vesting Italians with the right to purchase property on the Adriatic littoral from Jugoslavia.

GOVERNMENT LIKE COMPANY MEMBER TELLS KIWANIANS

E. A. Peck, M.P., Draws Analogy in Telling of Business Methods of Country.

DESCRIBES PROCEDURE.

Government's Attempts To Lower Taxes Commended By Speaker in Informative Address.

Likening the Federal Government to a regular business corporation, chartered by the British Government through the terms of the British North America Act, with its president, the Governor-General; its directorate, the Cabinet; and its stockholders, the people, E. A. Peck, member of parliament for West Peterborough, unfolded an interesting description of its business proceedings as he has observed them during his three terms at Ottawa, when speaking before the local Kiwanis club at the luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day Mr. Peck is not a stranger to the local club for he has spoken there on several occasions in the past and interest in his address to-day increased rather than decreased as a result.

The attendance was not as large as usual, due to the fact that this was not the regular day for the luncheon but had been decided upon rather than lose the meeting to the week owing to the Good Friday holiday. Nevertheless, what the club lacked in numbers, it made up in enthusiasm and the singing under George Liddle's direction, was good; the winning of M. Chenhall's booster prizes attracted lively interest, and a truly splendid sketch entitled "All for Three Cents," carefully prepared and well delivered by Miss Hilda Phillips, elicited unstinted applause. In it the young lady outlined the making of a newspaper, from the gathering of the news to its delivery at the subscriber's door. Martin Chenhall was the booster and his prizes went to J. W. Meyers, George Liddle and Art. Moffatt.

Tax Reduction Praised

Mr. Peck's address took the form of a description of governmental procedure, privilege and restrictions for and on private members, methods of securing information, and other phases. From beginning to end it conformed to Kiwanis rules in being entirely uncontroversial and if anything it was to be highly commended for a final passage in it in which Mr. Peck gave the present government credit for doing all that is possible to reduce taxes and for having succeeded in bringing about a cut in personal income tax, a reduction in the tax on corporations and a decrease in sales tax.

After likening the parliament to a business company, the speaker went on to say that parliament is largely made up of a board of trustees (the 245 members) called to Ottawa every year to look after the country's business. Each member enjoys the privilege of travelling on the railroads, an office at the capital, and social functions there which break the monotony of routine work In this last connection, Lord and Lady Willingdon take a leading part.

A good deal of the work is done in committees, some of them standing committees, others appointed for special work. All meet in the mornings, while in the afternoon, at three o'clock, the parliament assembles, to adjourn at six o'clock and re-gather at eight. The eleven o'clock closing rule has been brought into effect, as has been the 40-minute time limit on speakers with the exception of the leaders.

Said Mr. Peck: "A parliament is not to be judged by the amount of new legislation which it brings in, but by the way in which it carries out that which is in existence" He then went on to outline the routine work of a week, the methods of asking questions through the order paper and other interesting phases of parliamentary life.

Treatment of Veterans

In conclusion, he dealt with the treatment of war veterans and the movement to compensate those who, having been discharged from the service in good health, are later overcome by the effects of the war. The matter is now being considered in committee and recommendations will be made later.

Must Impose Lash To Stop Holdups

WINNIPEG, Man., April 5. — Canadian Press.—"If we are to stop the number of hold-ups that have occurred in this city, the lash must be imposed" declared R. B. Graham, K. C., Crown Prosecutor, in the police court yesterday, when Herbert Harding and Herbert Weston appeared in court on a charge of holding up a local storekeeper at the point of a gun, and robbing him of $400. The pair were remanded by the Judge until next Tuesday for sentence.

A report asking for leniency was introduced by the defence counsel on behalf of Harding, stated that he was on the border line of feeble mindedness.

He was not so feeble-minded that he did not know how to hold a man up at the point of a gun, but he might be crazy enough to pull the trigger," was Mr. Graham's reply to the report. He urged the infliction of corporal punishment.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE WATCHED

Canadian Government Following Carefully Treaty To Outlaw War.

CHANGES PROPOSED.

OTTAWA, April 5. — (Canadian Press.)—The government of Canada is following carefully the discussions which are in progress with respect to the proposed treaty for outlawing war. Negotiations, however, have not yet taken such a definite form as to require a decision as to the signing of the document.

A despatch from Washington raised the question as to whether, in the event of Great Britain adhering to the treaty, the self-governing Dominions would sign separately. It is pointed out at the Department of external affairs that negotiations are now in progress between the United States and France to determine whether the form of treaty will be changed to include nations which were not in the original proposal. The original idea favored a bi-lateral treaty and there has, as yet, been no decision with respect to broadening its scope.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW DIES IN NEW YORK

Orator and Politician Was Famous For 70 Years.

NEW YORK, April 5 (Canadian Press).—Chauncey M. Depew, the picturesque Grand Old Man who entered politics before Lincoln was mentioned for the Presidency, and for more than seventy years was famed as an after dinner speaker, died to-day.

Mr. Depew had been ill for less than a week, and would have been 94 years old on April 23. He continued an active career until the end, serving as chairman of the Board of the New York Central Railroad. He intended to attend the Republican National Convention in Kansas City in June.

After a good day yesterday Mr. Depew began to decline at seven o'clock last night. Members of his family, servants and household staff were summoned to the bedside. In his advanced age he always viewed life from a young man's point of view and was an incurable optimist. On his 93rd birthday he agreed to join the New York Young Republican Club, becaus he felt that contact with young men was the only way to keep in touch with the world's activities.

Mr. Depew had often expressed the belief that he would live to one hundred years of age.

Shaw reported, after the accident, that his car was stolen from the city hall square during the evening.

Pease had his jugular vein practically severed on glass in the window of the sedan when it turned over after the impact. He was employed as a painter here.

German Plane Ready For Atlantic Flight

DUBLIN, April 5 (Associated Press).—The gas tanks in the wings of the German plane Bremen were filled yesterday and the aircraft was pronounced ready to fly at a few hours' notice.

Authorities at Baldonnel airdrome said, however, that they do not expect the start for the attempted East to West flight to New York will come to-day. The field is still soft from Tuesday's rains.

With the wing tanks, regular receptacles and all emergency tanks filled, the Bremen carries 2,500 pounds of motor fuel. This fuel is benzol primed with ether, and that amount is thought to be sufficient to keep the Bremen in the air more than forty hours and give her a flying radius of about 4,500 miles. The distance from Dublin to New York is about 3,500 miles.

WESTERN COAL OF HIGH QUALITY

Board of Standards of Alberta Will See That Good Fuel Is Shipped.

PREMIER IN ONTARIO.

TORONTO, April 5 (Canadian Press)—Premier Brownlee of Alberta paid what he termed a "fraternal visit" to Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario to-day, stating that he was in Ontario to visit his parents near Sarnia. Interviewed, the Alberta Premier said it was likely that the Alberta Government would open an office in Toronto in connection with the shipment of coal from the Western Province to Ontario. The Board of Standards in Alberta, which is concerned with the quality of coal to be shipped, is already functioning, he said. The Alberta government will look after the necessary publicity and will see that the proper quality of coal is shipped but is leaving practically everything else to the coal operators, he said.

Premier Brownlee was sure benefit would accrue to both provinces through the additional interchange of trade.

QUALITY NEEDED IN IMMIGRATION

Western Member Has No Fear of Babel of Tongues in West.

TORONTO, April 5 (Canadian Press) — Quality, not quantity, is needed in the immigration schemes for Canada, said C. R. McIntosh, member of parliament from North Battleford, Sask., in interview here to-day. He is in Toronto for the Easter holidays. He scoffed at the idea that an influx of foreign immigrants would result in a "babel of tongues" in Western Canada, saying the English language would always be predominant there. "The newcomers are learning English and giving our children a good race at the universities," the Liberal member said.

CAPTAIN DEWAR PAYS TRIBUTE TO WORK OF DANIEL

Session in Royal Oak Court Martial Featured By Wordy Duels.

WILL CONCLUDE TO-DAY.

Dewar Tells Court Personal Protest Would Have Been Ineffective.

GIBRALTAR, April 5. Canadian Press. — Captain Kenneth Dewar was found guilty by court martial to-day of acts subversive of discipline and receiving and forwarding a letter criticising the conduct of Rear Admiral Collard at the famous dance aboard the battleship Royal Oak.

GIBRALTAR, April 5. — Canadian Press. — A personal protest to Rear-Admiral Bernard St. C. Collard in regard to the famous 'dance incident" aboard H.M.S. Royal Oak last January, would have been ineffective, Captain G.B. Dewar declared in giving evidence at his court martial here yesterday on charges of conduct prejudicial to discipline. "The admiral would immediately have lost his temper and threatened me with court martial," the captain stated.

Therefore, he passed on to his superiors Commander H. M. Daniel's letter protesting against the admirals conduct and language to a bandmaster. Paying tribute to the work and character of Daniel who was found guilty on Tuesday on charges similar to those preferred against Captain Dewar, the captain of the Royal Oak asserted that he thought it not his duty to tinker with the phraseology of a letter submitted to him for passing on to a senior officer. The latter, he held, accurately represented the situation.

Conclude to-day.

It is expected that the court martial will conclude to-day.

Yesterday's session was featured by wordy duels between Rear-Admiral Collard and Captain Dewar, who acted as his own counsel and cross-examined Collard. The captain conducted his own case with the assurance of an experienced kings counsel, and both Collard and he at times threw sentences of retort at one another with not a little asperity. Interspersing these exchanges, such admonitions as "hang on" or "hold hard a minute," occasionally escaped the court president, Rear-Admiral Townsend.

Effect on Discipline.

Collard in the course of his evidence was taken by Dewar over the allegation that he told the Captain that he (Collard) was treated "worse than a —— midshipman," and that he omitted to return the salute when coming aboard the Royal Oak. Regarding the latter, Dewar asked whether the Rear-Admiral's action would not have a bad effect on discipline. "Most emphatically No," replied Collard. "Discipline in a good ship does not depend on that sort of trivial rubish."

When Dewar wished the witness to give his own definition of discipline, the president of the court ruled that it was not relevant. This evoked a protest from Dewar against the limitations placed upon cross examination.

Collard later declared that the captain of a ship should report verbally upon incidents considered prejudicial to discipline. A written complaint was unjustified until other service methods had been employed.

The Royal Oak master-at-arms gave evidence that a rumor went the rounds on the ships that Collard had told Dewar that the latter was no more use to him than "a —— midshipman."

Dewar declared in his evidence that he did not take immediate action concerning the dance incident because he was acting as prosecutor next day at a court martial. Dealing with the steps taken to prevent gossip about the dance incident, Dewar stated that he had instructed his wife to do her utmost to hush up the matter among her friends who had mentioned it.

ISLAND BELONGS TO NETHERANDS

...ion Handed Down By Professor Huber in Las Palmas Dispute.

WITH UNITED STATES.

THE HAGUE, April 5 (A.P.)—The island Las Palmas (Miangas), lying between the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines, belongs to Holland by a decision handed down yesterday through Prof. Max Huber, a Swiss statesman, who has been arbitrating a dispute between the United States and the Netherlands respecting sovereignty of the islet.

The island of Las Palmas (Miangas) is also two miles long and three quarters of a mile wide, but it has a population of approximately 700. It lies fifty m... theast of Cape San Augustine and 375 miles due east of Buquit Point, both being extremities of the island of Mindanao.

The United States claimed Las Palmas by virtue of the Spanish cession of the Philippines in 1898. When, however, in 1925, Governor-General Wood visited the place, he found that the headman wore a skull cap and displayed a Dutch flag which he said had been given him by a captain of a Dutch vessel.

Secretary of State Hughes and Minister de Graeff of the Netherlands signed a special agreement at Washington in January, 1925, submitting the question of sovereignty to arbitration. The United States wished to obtain control of the speck in the ocean because of the belief that it was used as a rendezvous for opium smugglers.

So long as the Netherlands' flag flew over the island, customs officials of the Philippines could not pursue smugglers into the single port of Las Palmas.

RUBBER EXPORT RESTRICTIONS TO BE REMOVED

Stevenson Restriction Scheme Will Come To An End On November 1st.

ANNOUNCED IN LONDON.

Stir Caused in Rubber Exchange By Premier Baldwin's Announcement.

LONDON, April 5 (A.P.).—The Stevenson rubber restriction scheme, under which the proportion of rubber permitted export from British Malaya and Ceylon at a minimum rate of duty varied with the price of crude rubber, will come to an end on November 1, 1928.

Making an eagerly awaited speech in the House of Commons yesterday, Premier Baldwin announced that all restriction on the export of rubber would be removed on that date. Meanwhile the existing restriction scheme will be continued unaltered.

Bombshell in Exchange

The Premier's announcement fell like a bombshell on the Rubber Exchange in Mincing Lane, which experienced the most excited afternoon in many years. Hundreds of dealers assembled in Mincing Lane to await the announcement which would enable them to decide their future policy regarding sales and purchases.

Virtually no business was transacted earlier in the day, but as soon as the tape ticked off the Premier's statement, there was a sudden outburst of activity. A majority of members had felt and hoped that if restrictions were taken off, if would be by gradual stages.

Soon after the Premier had finished his announcement, Commander Joseph Kenworthy, gave notice that he intended to raise the matter in the House of Commons again, but later abandoned his intention.

Asked whether the new situation required the sanction of Commons, the Premier replied that he would like notice of the question, but that he thought it could be done by order of the colonial office.

"If you have the right to remove restrictions or to impose restrictions, what is the use of having a debate upon them?" interjected Neil MacLean, Labor.

Prices fell sharply on the heels of the government's announcement, but closed steady after only fair business. Prices fell as low as 10 pence and finally closed at 10¼ pence, representing a loss of almost 3 pence. Rubber shares also fell heavily in sympathy, several leading issues losing as much as from 3 to 6 points a share.

The restrictions imposed on the export of rubber from Malaya and Ceylon for the past few years have recently been meeting with increasing disfavor among rubber producers themselves because of the steady decline in the price of the crude product. For some time the proportion of rubber permitted export at a minimum rate of duty has been dropping at intervals of three months, the scheme working on a quarterly basis.

The Stevenson Plan

Under the Stevenson plan, if the average price of rubber in London was under 21 but not under 15 pence a pound during any quarter, the exportable percentage of standing production for the ensuing quarter at the minimum rate of duty was to be reduced by 10.

If the average price of any quarter was not under 21, but was less than 24 pence, there was to be no change in the ensuing quarter.

If the average price for any quarter was 24 or more pence, the percentage was to be increased by 10 for the ensuing quarter. In no case was the percentage to be increased above 100 or decreased below 60.

Despite these restrictions, the price of rubber has kept steadily falling, and the percentage permitted export at a minimum rate of duty has been down to the minimum for some months. Even with a 60 per cent, output the price has been fluctuating around 12 and 13 pence.

Last month opposition to restriction came to a head in Singapore and Colombo. Forty-seven of 72 responses to a questionnaire circulated by the Singapore Chamber of Commerce favored removal of restriction.

London Circles Blame Dutch

In London rubber circles the general feeling has been to place the blame for failure of the Stevenson scheme upon the refusal of Dutch planters to co-operate. The Dutch planters have been rapidly nearing a position of dominance in the market. Their production for the coming year was estimated to be at least 10,000 tons greater than last year, and there was little belief that they would be willing to join in the restriction.

TELLS OF CRUISE AT A.Y.P.A. MEETING

F. A. Bapty Describes Tour Through Southern Waters, at Marmora Gathering.

MARMORA, April 5.—The delights of a four week's cruise through southern waters were portrayed in fascinating style by F. A. Bapty, at Tuesday night's meeting of St. Paul's senior A.Y.P.A. Sailing from New York on February 15, on the S.S. Vandeem, Mr. and Mrs. Bapty arrived in Havana, Cuba, on the following Sunday, spending two days in the so-called "Paris of America." Among other things seen by their party was a brilliant carnival. Referring to the bulls used the bull fights, the speaker said they appeared to be diminutive and that one of our Canadian gentlemen could clean up on the lot. Their next stopping place was Jamaica. A motor drive across the island envisaged the tropical charms of this British possession. Two days were spent in the Panama Canal zone. A trip was made through the famous Culebra Cut. A first view of the Pacific was obtained from the city of Panama, noted for its hats which tradesmen of various nationalities rival with each other in selling. The steamer's next stop was at the Dutch Island at Curacao, the home of a large oil refinery. The Island being dry it abounds with cactus which grows in many cases to the height of ten feet. It is naturally regarded as a weed, but is known to serve the useful purpose of a hedge which defies penetration. Swimming in the beautifully blue waters of the Atlantic proved a delicious diversion to many on account of the extreme heat encountered. The railway trip from La Guayora to Caracas, the capital city of Venezuela, was next described. The city is only six miles from the seaport in a direct line but owing to mountains and its altitude which exceeds three thousand feet, a rail trip of twenty-five miles is necessary. Trinidad and Barbados were dealt with in turn. Martinique proved interesting to Mr. and Mrs. Bapty and their friends, though pretty in the interior and along the coast line, it is somewhat marred by the poverty of its inhabitants. Beggars were met on practically every island visited but the worst type seemed to be at Martinique. St. Pierie, the scene of the terrible volcanic disaster, in 1902, was not overlooked by the party. Mr. Bapty also touched upon the features of the Danish Island, St. Thomas, Porto Rico and Bermuda, and received a hearty vote of thanks at the close.

FIRE HAZARD IS SERIOUS PROBLEM

Along Railways in Cochrane, Hearst and Kepuskasing Districts, Says Finlayson.

SUDBURY, Ont., April 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Declaring that the fire hazard along the railways in the Cochrane, Hearst and Kapuskasing districts was the most serious problem that he had met during his term of office, Hon. William Finlayson, minister of lands and forests, startled the afternoon session of the chief rangers and foresters of Eastern Ontario, in conference here, with his description of the conditions.

"A cloud is hanging over our heads which might wipe out Kapuskasing, Hearst and Cochrane," stated the minister. "All the conditions are bad up there." Slashings, he said, were left along the railways. He stated that when he went there he felt like asking the railways to "fire" all the men responsible and have all the men in his department from that section dismissed.

"I am not exaggerating," he said. "I am more worried by this than anything I have met in the department."

"The people in the towns are indifferent because they do not realize the danger," he continued. "The bishop promised me he would send a pastoral letter to the French Canadians. He proposed to start a publicity campaign at once and stated that the government was willing to spend any money neessary to avert the danger.

"We are faced with the possibility of losing those three towns in one week," he stated.

"I realize the land department is partly to blame." He pointed out that the department had been robbed extensively in that district. "Hundreds of thousands of cords of pulpwood have been stolen," he stated. We are taking steps to recover a portion of it.

DISCUSS BY-LAW AT COUNCIL MEETING

Councillor Lamb Explains the Benefit Tannery is to Omemee Village.

OMEMEE, April 5.—At the nomination meeting held last week, at which Mr. Mackey accepted the office as councillor, Reeve L. A. Southworth explained the by-law in connection with the tannery property. Councillor H. Lamb also spoke, explaining the benefit the tannery is to the village. Mr. Tobey, manager of the Omemee branch of the North American Leather Company, also spoke. Other towns had offered greater inducements but Omemee got the preference.

T. C. Ivory explained the benefit the Hydro used by the tannery is to the village. In 1926 more than $4,900 was used.

On Monday the by-law to fix the assessment for the North American Leather Company was voted on by the ratepayers and out of the two hundred and thirty votes polled, only one was against the by-law.

The following accounts were found correct and ordered paid: Street light; $79.54; A. L. Williamson, $47.75; Edgar Jones, 75c.; Everett Hayes, 30c., Total, $128.34.

Upon motion, Reeve Southworth was appointed to look after the cleaning of the streets for the present.

The Young Worshipper's League attended the service in Trinity United church on Sunday morning. The work which had previously been assigned, was splendidly recited by each member. Several older members repeated accurately the 39 books of the Old Testament, while the juniors recited the psalm or other verses of Scripture. The Rev. E. W. Rowland then spoke to the boys and girls on "The Garden," likening it to the body.

In the evening, Mr.Rowland concluded his series of sermons by the "Inpersonation of Cotter's Saturday Night." He was assisted in song by Miss M. Lowe, who sang "Home Sweet Home," and also by the choir which sang at intervals "The Lord is my Shepherd," "'Tis the Blessed Hour of Prayer," and "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross."

DOCTOR SHOWS QUICK WAY TO END COLDS

Many Here Find Hospital Method Is Pleasant for Use at Home —Ends Cold in Few Hours

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified to this paper by the attending physician.

Urging the danger of neglecting a cold during changeable spring weather, hospital physicians are recommending for home use a remedy that brings quick, sure relief, even in extreme hospital cases. And numbers of Peterborough people find that it is not only inexpensive but pleasant to take and ideal to end a head cold, cough or chest cold.

J. H. Driscomb, for example, had neglected a head cold until congestion spread down into his chest, bringing on a fever of 101. Fearing complications, he called his doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients recognized as the most effective for severe colds.

With the first pleasant swallow he felt its comforting, healing warmth —from his nose passages deep down into his chest. In a few hours the "feverish, grippy" feeling began to disappear; and in another day or so, the doctor reports, he was completely rid of the cold.

Doctors recommend Cherry Pectoral because it not only stops coughing spells but penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system the medication quickly removes phlegm, helps reduce the "feverish", grippy feeling and drives out the cold from nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a spoonful of Cherry Pectoral today and you will feel like a different person tomorrow.

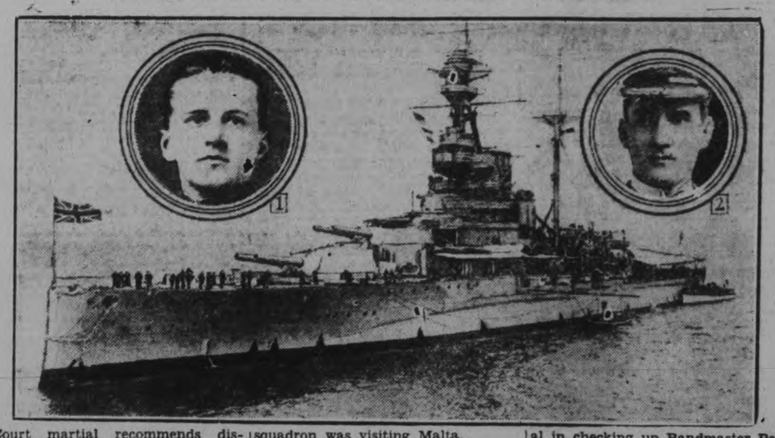
COMMANDER DANIEL DISMISSED FROM SHIP



Court martial recommends dismissal of Commander Daniel from Royal Oak. A court martial sitting at Gibraltar aboard the aircraft carrier Eagle found that Commander H. M. Daniel of the warship Royal Oak was guilty on four counts of conduct subversive to discipline. The naval tribunal severely reprimanded Daniel and recommended that he be dismissed from his ship. The trouble aboard the Royal Oak came to a head when the Mediterranean squadron was visiting Malta.

Rear-Admiral Collard gave a deck party aboard his flagship and complained about the music supplied by the band, which, he said, was playing a dirge instead of a dance. He also felt that Commander Daniel was not doing his duty in finding partners for some of the ladies who were left as wall-flowers while the dance was in progress. Both Commander Daniel and Capt. Dewar took exception to the language used by the rear-admiral in checking up Bandmaster Percy Barnacle, he having said: "You call this a flagship band; I never heard sucha b— awful noise in my life." Daniel had incorporated his complaints in a formal letter, which he turned over to Capt. Dewar. This letter was read in the ship's wardroom and figured largely in the charges of action subversive to discipline. The illustration shows: (1) Commander Daniel. (2) Captain Dewar, and (3) the battleship Royal Oak.

PLAINTIFF WINS HAVELOCK SUIT

Judgment Given For F. J. Squire in Fifth Division Court.

JUDGE HUYCKE PRESIDES.

HAVELOCK, April 5. — His Honor Judge Huycke presided at the April sittings of the Fifth Division Court of the County of Peterborough on Wednesday afternoon, April 4 when the following case came up for hearing:

F. J. Squire vs. William Stevenson —claim for note $64.50. Counterclaim by Stevenson for $70.50.

Judgment was given in favor of plaintiff for $59.50 and costs.

Witnesses for the plaintiff were Arthur Munroe and Darwin Moore, and for the defendant Judd Davidson.

The chief item in Mr. Stevenson's counterclaim was a charge of $58 for cutting and straightening 240 pins. The pins were used in building a dock at the plaintiff's cottage, and Mr. Squire acknowledged leaving an order with the defendant for 40 pins to complete the work. He had given the contract to Arthur Munroe who was to furnish the material and do the cutting and sharpening and the work at the dock for the sum of $40. Munroe did some of the work in Stevensons shop.

Mr Stevenson was allowed only $5.00 of the amount of the counterclaim to cover the charge for sharpening the forty pins and the horse-shoeing, and in summing up the case His Honor said the evidence was very contradictory.

The defendant swore to the correctness of his account. His way of keeping his books was against him and the evidence of his witness was not of very much service as he was only sure that Mr. Squire had brought fifty pins at one time and between sixty and a hundred at another time, but he did not say who had done the work in the latter case. Against that Mr. Squire took a note for the amount due him and had demanded payment several times, no mention of the counterclaim being made until suit was entered. He had acknowledged giving order for the forty pins and the charge for horse shoeing; this charge he had looked upon as a contra account for cleaning and repairing his blacksmith shop which Mr. Stevenson had vacated, but as nothing had been said about the repairs when the case was entered the court decided Mr. Squire was liable for these two items. The evidence of the witnesses for the plaintiff was the same, Mr. Munroe stating that he had furnished all the pins with the exception of the forty.

W. F. Huycke appeared for the plaintiff, and V. J. McElderry for the defendant.

Down to 72 Pounds

TANLAC completely Restored Her Health and She Gained 33 Pounds

Here is a message of hope and health to every woman in Canada from Mrs. Katie Dwyer, 18 Stuart Street, Hamilton. "When I commenced using Tanlac a year ago, I was down to 72 pounds in weight and so weak I had to go to and from the hospital for treatments in a taxi. I thought every night would be my last one alive. I suffered from many troubles common to women of my age; and was so nervous and frightened I would tremble all over. I went for weeks at a time without nourishment except for broth and toast. I had X-rays taken and underwent various treatments but never got any real results and many times I heard my friends say 'Poor Katie will not last long.' As a last resort, I tried Tanlac and I believe it saved my life. Today I weigh 105 pounds. I do all my own housework and never notice it in the least. I am strong and alert as I was when 21 years old; and take mile walks without being tired. I can never praise Tanlac enough for the good it has done me."

Tanlac builds, builds, builds health, strength, weight, vigor. It is good, pure medicine—made of roots, barks and herbs—and costs less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle at your druggist sto-day—your money back if Tanlac does not help you.

HOW CATARRH IS PRODUCED

An acute case of catarrh manifests in two stages. First, there is the dry, congested, swollen mucous membrane. Then the mucous membrane suddenly becomes moist with abnormally free discharge of mucus which is more or less altered in quality. Extreme inflammation of the membrane exists, whether it is in the nose or throat, or any of the other mucous membranes of the body. This acute inflammation is usually called a "cold," especially if the inflammation is in the nose or throat.

The irritating cause of the discharge may be the breathing of fine particles of dust or the pollen from flowers, or often the invasion of bacteria. However, it is almost impossible for one of these "colds" to start unless the person who contracts the cold has been enervated for some time and his resistance to disease is therefore below par.

Where chronic catarrh exists, the mucus membranes are constantly throwing out excesses of mucus containing epithelial cells, white blood cells, and organic mineral matter. This discharge may be present in the air passages, such as the nose, throat or lungs, or may even come from the stomach or alimentary canal, with discharges from the rectum. Even excessive discharges of mucus from the genital organs can be placed under the name of catarrh.

The fundamental causes lying back of any of these types of chronic catarrh are always an excess accumulation in the blood of too large a quantity of material formed from the carbohydrates, that is, the sugars and starches, such as white flour, sugar, cornstarch, polished rice, etc. These are all acid-forming, and consequently lower the alkalinity of the blood.

Most commercial sugars are so deprived of their alkalinity that they are also acid-forming, and have the effect of producing in the blood a lowered state of alkalinity.

These effete materials, of no use to the body, must be thrown out in some manner, and the body often uses the mucous membrane as a channel for this elimination.

If one is suffering from any form of chronic catarrh, the first thing to do is to eliminate, for a time at least, all sugars and starches, and give the blood a chance to cleanse itself of these waste products which cannot be used in the building of normal cell structure.

The body will quickly eliminate these unnecessary wastes if one will only give his system a chance to carry on this elimination in an uninterrupted manner. If short fruit fasts are taken occasionally the body will then have a chance to throw out this morbid material, and the blood will once again regain its normal tone.

It is a wise plan, also, to stimulate all the other eliminative organs of the body, such as the skin, kidneys, intestines, etc. Large quantities of water should be taken between meals, a good sweat induced each day, and it is a good plan to take, for sometime at least, one enema daily.

It will take considerable time to bring about a complete cure, and one must be patient with these treatments and stay on a rigid diet if a permanent and lasting cure is desired.

Questions and Answers.

Question: A. H. G. writes: "Kindly advise if there is a cure for Neuritis of about five years' standing, where patient's limbs are disabled on account of cartilage having hardened in the joints. If there is no absolute cure, would a strict fast and diet relieve the awful suffering? Would a warm climate be of benefit in preference to cold winters in Minnesota?"

Answer: The patient you ask about is probably suffering from arthritis. I have never seen a case that cannot be cured as far as relieving the pains is concerned even though the extra deposit of calcium in the joints cannot be entirely removed. Warm climate encourages a greater amount of skin elimination, but there is no reason why arthritis or any type of rheumatism cannot be cured in a cold climate, providing the patient uses the proper amount of skin washing and encourages elimination through certain hydrotherapy treatments.

Question: Mrs. O.J.S. writes: "Ever since your diet lessons appeared in the paper I have felt better following them. I have been and still am overweight, but am slowly reducing. I wish to know if the genuine wholewheat bread is fattening? Also rye bread?"

Answer: Any bread may be considered "fattening."

Question: Puzzled writes: "When impurities from cigarette tobacco are deposited in the lungs by inhaling, do they remain there or are they eventually carried away by the blood?"

Answer: The tarry deposits from the inhaling of cigarette smoke are gradually carried away through the lymphatic circulation, but of course, may have remained for a long enough time to have done harm.

DO YOU TIRE EASILY?

who should have bright eyes, rosy cheeks, strong nerves, an elastic step and a good appetite often for no apparent cause, suffer a decline in health. They tire easily, become pale, sallow and over sensitive. Unless this tendency is checked they will become anaemic and neurotic, an unhappy combination of thin blood and under-nourished nerves.

They may have inherited a tendency to ill health, or they may have overworked, overstudied or worried until their nervous energy was not equal to the demand made upon it.

To guard against a complete breakdown in such cases the blood must be kept pure and rich. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially suited for this condition because they act on both the blood and nerves, restore the appetite, strengthen digestion and keep every organ toned up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for men as well as women, but they are particularly useful to women because it is especially important at every stage of a woman's life that the blood supply be kept pure and rich. These pills are not an ordinary tonic. They give just the aid required to bring health to the nervous and exhausted.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50c cents a box. Try them to-day

CODE OF ETHICS FOR SECRETARIES

The following code of ethics, prepared by the National Association of Commercial Organization secretaries has been received by Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce:

THE SECRETARY'S OBLIGATIONS

To Himself.

The Secretary must be a man of CHARACTER, hewing to the line in matters of conduct.

The Secretary must be true to himself, if he is to be true to every other man; must respect himself, if he wishes to win the respect of others.

The Secretary must not sacrifice right for expediency. Moral "short-cuts" are never conductive to peace of mind and, moreover, they seldom win the goal.

To the Organization.

Entanglements with any clique or class should be avoided; service should be given to all members, without distinction, whether they are in small business or represent large interests.

Every proposition should be given careful study, and recommendation to the board of directors or committees should always be candid and sincere.

Loyalty to the organization is a prime requisite. The Secretary should never beweakly subservient when a moral issue is involved. He should be ready always to weigh both sides of a question.

He should frankly admit an error and face the consequences man-fashion.

Credit for accomplishments should go to the organization rather than to the Secretary.

Opportunity for service should be a constant inspiration to the Secretary.

To the General Public.

Teh Secretary should consider himself a public servant and his every act should be performed with that thought in mind.

The Secretary, while conducting himself with becoming dignity, should not act in such a way as to give the general public the idea that he thinks the Chamber of Commerce is the whole community and he the chief citizen in it.

The Secretary, when speaking for the organization, should sense his responsibility and never exaggerate to gain unmerited credit.

To Other Secretaries and Chambers of Commerce.

The Secretary's belief in the value of the Chamber of Commerce should prompt him to do his utmost to help a fellow Secretary.

Every Secretary should be scrupulously fair to other Secretaries and other Chambers of Commerce.

Adopted, October 26, 1927.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WIGGILY AND THE TRICKY STICKS.

Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow one fine day, twinkled his pink nose and looked around.

"It is good to be home again," said the rabbit gentleman. "Traveling in Italy, Holland and to the North Pole is very fine, but home is best after all. I am glad to be back."

"And I am glad to have you here," said Mrs. Longears in the doorway.

"And as long as Uncle Wiggily is at home he might just as well do something to help," squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Will you please hop to the store and get me some molasses?" she asked, handing Uncle Wiggily the jug.

"With great pleasure," answered the rabbit gentleman, and away he hopped, over the hill with the molasses jug under his paw.

"Tell me some of your adventures in Holland," mewed the grocery cat. But Uncle Wiggily said:

"Excuse me, I must first get some molasses for Nurse Jane. Fill the jug, if you please, and when I come back I will tell you of my adventures.

So the grocery cat filled the jug with molasses and away hopped Mr. Longears again. He was half way to his hollow stump bungalow when, as he looked back over his shoulder, the bunny gentleman saw the Fox running after him as fast as he could run.

"Oh, ho! Two can play at that game!" said Mr. Longears. So he began to hop very fast. But the Fox was hungry and came leaping on faster and faster until it seemed certain that he was going to catch Mr. Longears and nibble his ears, for all I know. Mind, I'm not saying for sure, but maybe.

"Dear me! I must do something very soon or I shall be caught!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "Ha! I know! Yesterday was April Fool's Day—and some of it must have lasted over into today. I'll play an April Fool trick on this Fox!" The ground over which Uncle Wiggily was hopping was covered with a lot of dried leaves, from last year. Soon the trees would be putting on their new, green, spring decorations.

Taking the cork out of the molasses jug, Uncle Wiggily let some of the sticky stuff dribbie on the dried leaves behind him. Thus he got no molasses on himself or his paws. But the path behind him was covered with the sticky stuff.

"When the Fox comes along hippity hop," chuckled Mr. Longears, "he will step on the sticky molasses covered leaves and his paws will be so big and clumsy that he can't run. Ha! Ha!"

But after a while, looking back at the place where he had dribbled molasses on the leaves, what was Uncle Wiggily's surprise to see that the Fox was still coming on faster than before. The cunning Fox, with a long club, had pushed all the sticky leaves ahead of him, out of the way, so he did not step on any molasses.

"Ah, I have you now!" snarled the Fox, coming closer to the rabbit. But just then Uncle Wiggily saw a place where a farmer had been cutting up firewood with a saw. Five sawed-off sticks were on the ground. Quickly Uncle Wiggily thought of a trick to play with the sticks on the Fox.

"Mr. Fox," said the rabbit gentleman as the bad chap came to a halt, "if you can do the trick of taking away three of these sticks and still leave five, I'll let you nibble my ears. Go ahead, see if you can do that trick!"

The Fox looked at the sticks. "Why, there are only five altogether," he said. "How can I take away three and still leave five?"

"Ah, that's the trick!" chuckled Mr. Longears. So here you have a picture of the five sticks of tricky wood. See if you can do the trick of taking away three and yet leave five.

EXERCISE TO LIVE LONG.

But Don't Overdo It, Says Felix Harbie, Aged 97.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 5.—"If you would live long and die happy, take plenty of outdoor exercise, but don't overdo it. Keep regular hours and retire early at night; eat plain food and not too much of it—and never worry."

This is the recipe for the enjoyment of good health and long life offered by Felix Harbie, one of the oldest residents of the Ottawa Valley, who was born in the lumbering town of Hawkesbury, on the Ottawa river, ninety-seven years ago, and has lived there ever since.

Mr. Harbie, who stands nearly six feet in his stocking feet, looks a hardy type of citizen even with his weight of years upon him, and is very confident that he will celebrate his centenary three years from now. He takes a drink occasionally and has smoked a pipe, an ancient affair, generally filled with "tabac Canadien," as long as he can remember.

"Tobacco never hurt anyone I ever knew," said the aged citizen, "but I can't see anything in those cigarets, there isn't enough to them."

THE FACTORY QUEST.

Mayor Denne's slogan, "We want a new factory," has been slightly altered to "We want another new factory," and it is suggested to the Mayor that he may realize his ambition by following his recent successful course in going out after them.

Industrialists coming into Canada are certain to visit Toronto or Montreal, and usually both. Toronto is close enough to enable the Mayor to make frequent visits there, two or three times a month, or once a week, to make desirable contacts, and to keep in touch with sources of information that might lead to new industrial acquisitions. The cost should not be a large item, and there is no doubt of the people's approval to some forthgoing effort.

Fishing in a tub is all very well for small boys, but when they put away the things of a child and become men, they go out seeking pools where fish are likely to be caught. Probably Mayor Denne could not sacrifice from his business all the time suggested, but the Council might consider the idea of employing the Mayor's enthusiasm for the development of the city.

EMPIRE SHOPPING.

The Examiner is glad to note that President-elect James Dutton of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has appointed a strong committee to arrange for local participation in the Empire Shopping Week campaign, which is to be held the week of April 21-28.

It is to be hoped that no difficulty will be experienced by the committee in securing the co-operation of local merchants and manufacturers in order that Empire-made goods may be displayed everywhere.

The slogan of the campaign, "Empire buyers are Empire builders," is so obviously true that no one will surely question the desirability of stimulating trade among the various units of the British Commonwealth.

It has been stated several times before, but the repetition will do no harm, that Empire Shopping Week is based on the principle of encouraging the purchase of Canadian-made goods first, and where this is not feasible, the stressing of the advantage of buying within the Empire.

Such a movement should commend itself to every Canadian manufacturer and business man, and there should not be the slightest difficulty in staging a demonstration of Empire products that will serve to impress upon Canadians generally that trading within the Empire is both good patriotism and good business.

FARM HELPERS.

The work being done by George A. Gillespie on behalf of the Department of Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway in placing farm workers from the Old Country on farms in this district should mean much to the farmers to whom the problem of securing help has been for some time most serious.

While it is true that there are unemployed men in Peterborough, there are not of the type who would be of much use on the farm, nor can they be persuaded to accept such work, so that they cannot be considered in any way a factor in the situation.

The newcomers who have been placed have been a likely looking lot of young men, anxious to succeed in Canada and apparently having every chance of doing so.

The trouble in the past has been that too many men brought to this country as farm laborers have remained only a short time on the farm, drifting into the cities as rapidly as possible, and augmenting the list of unemployed in periods of industrial quietness.

There have been various reasons for this development: unfitness for farm work, the longing for city amusements, and sometimes not the best of treatment at the hands of their employers.

It is highly important that men who are capable of good service on the farms should be kept there, so that it is to be hoped that the men who are now arriving will find conditions congenial enough to make them want to remain where they can be of most service.

A BUSINESS OR A SPORT?

The play-off system followed in the National Hockey League is being attacked in many quarters as merely a money-making scheme that departs from the principle of real sport.

The charge cannot be denied, and thus the question naturally arises, "Should professional hockey be considered as a sport or merely as a business proposition?" with a second thought following, naturally, "If it is a business proposition and nothing else, how long can it hope to enjoy the patronage of a sport-loving public?"

To most people it seems that a team which finishes first after playing out a schedule extending over four months should be the champion team of the section.

But under the system now used that does not necessarily follow.

As a matter of fact, neither the Canadiens, who finished first in the Canadian section with a record of scoring more goals and having fewer scored against them than any of their rivals, nor the Boston team, who were winners of the American section by a good margin, are now in the running for the championship.

All they have accomplished throughout the long season counts for nothing, because in a two-game series with teams that finished well behind them on the winter's play they were outscored.

There does not seem to be any good reason why the public, whose support makes the game possible, should continue to dig down into their pockets and back a system that has such ridiculous results as this elimination of the schedule winners.

CANADA'S FIRE LOSS.

Canada's forests are going fast. Yet how many people in this country betray any concern?

As long as Canadians pay no attention to forest facts, the mischief will go on.

Sixty per cent. of Canada's original forest wealth has been destroyed by fire!

Thirteen per cent. has been cut by axe and saw!

Twenty-seven per cent. is left as the capital to supply an increasing and an insatiable demand for lumber and paper and other products!

Twenty-seven per cent.! In a few generations we have reduced our capital to 27 per cent. of the original. And what have we to show for it! We have some cleared agricultural land which once was forest, but this in the case of the best farming regions at least, was chiefly hardwood forest. Our cut-over coniferous forest area is largely rough, sandy, rocky land of little use except where minerals may have been deposited.

Canadians should think over these things. "Canadian Forest Week" is an effort to have them do so. It means much to the future of this country. Unless the remainder of our forest capital can be protected and wisely used, in twenty-five years, at the present rate of destruction by fire and axe, we will have used up all our available timber.

Forestry experts claim that if fire can be kept out, Canada's forest growth each year will provide all the timber and pulp wood required. The chief problem, however, is not how to fight fire, but how to prevent it. Every man, woman and child who goes into the woods should know the danger and feel the responsibility.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, is doing a national work in organizing the fight against forest fires. The people of Canada could do infinitely more, however, by exercising care to prevent them.

CRITICIZES ITSELF.

The Senate of Canada is no tonly criticized, but it is the butt of many jokes by people who know little of its work. The members of the Upper House understand fully their own shortcomings, and notwithstanding all the loose talk, the men who sit in the Red Chamber at Ottawa are very desirous of being of real use to the country. No person has yet been found who will venture the opinion that the Senate does not contain brainy men who have succeeded in their own businesses. They do not make as much noise as the Commoners, because their speeches are not for the electorate. Another reason is that there are nearly three times as many members in the Commons as there are in the Upper Chamber, and nearly all of the former seem inspired to speech-making.

Under our system the function of the Senate has grown to consist largely in revision of bills from the Commons, and this work is a very important one. True, the Senate can originate certain bills, but it is questionable if this would be any great improvement. It is not the fault of the Senate that it takes long adjournments, but rather because the Commons does not furnish it with work by sending it over legislation which has gone through that House.

At the opening of the session the Commons naturally takes several weeks to pass what is known as the Address, while the Senate usually performs that service in a few hours. The Budget debate also takes several weeks in the House of Commons, but in the Senate money bills, etc., are considered to be largely the function of the Commons, and they pass very rapidly. Until these things are cleared out of the way, and the House of Commons passes real legislation, there is not much work for the Senate to do, and it is far better for the members to go home and be of some use somewhere than to sit in Ottawa twiddling their thumbs at the expense of the country.

Years ago the Upper House had a real chaplain, and even when there was nothing to do, the members would be called together once a day, the chaplain would pray, and adjournment would take place. Now the Speaker is responsible for the devotional exercises, and there is no salary to be earned by a chaplain.

One member has suggested that it would be a good idea, and would make the importance of the Senate more striking, if the Government, as was the case some years ago, were to have at least more than one members of the Cabinet in the Upper House. This Government is opposed to having Ministers in the Senate holding portfolios, but it might not be amiss to try the experiment of having an extra Minister or two (without portfolio, of course,) in the Senate to assist the Leader in explaining measures that come from the Commons. It is a very heavy task to impose on any one man to be obliged to explain the Government measures proposed by seventeen different members of the Government, in addition to all other legislaton that comes from the Commons. That is what Senator Dandurand does at the present time, and there is no man living who could make a better job of it.

Some people think that the Senate ought always, no matter even if it were at the end of a session, to take as much time as is needed fully to discuss every measure that comes from the Commons. Some men on the street think this would have the tendency to stir the Commons to send over its bills with greater rapidity and avoid the congestion of the last week or so of the session.

The question of greater activity in the Upper House is a live one, and is fully appreciated by its members. The usefulness of the Senate depends in a measure upon the co-operation of the Commons, and some day this paper may point out and make a few suggestions as to how this co-operation could be effectively and usefully carried out.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Daylight saving secured a majority of over 13,000 in Montreal. The summertime plan is popular wherever it has been given a fair trial—at least, there is no record for an adverse vote in such centres.

The anti-vaccination bill, which didn't take at the recent session of the Legislature, is to be introduced again next year.

A car of ale billed as shingles was seized at Niagara Falls the other day. The shipment must have been "on the house."

The local man whose radio set sustained the full shock of an assault by lightning will be in a position to say that on one occasion, at least, he was able to get plenty of volume.

A heading, "U. S. to Reinforce Her Rum-chasers," doesn't, as one might surmise, refer to the manufacture of ginger ale.

This liquor problem is confusing. It is explained that giving detailed information in regard to the sales at individual Government stores would help the bootleggers. But the bootleggers were supposed to be driven out of business, so that excuse only adds to the perplexity.

Some one now is out predicting a hard winter for next year; why not include the next year as well, and the one after that?—Kingston Whig-Standard.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., April 5 (Canadian Press)—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday continued extremely dull. The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also limited, but the undertone was firm.

The inquiry from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Spring wheat grades of flour continued good. A moderate amount of business was also done with local buyers and prices were unchanged. The Winter wheat flour market was moderately active and firm.

A good trade was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was moderate and prices were firm.

A somewhat unsettled feeling prevailed in the egg situation and prices for ten and twenty-five case lots were shaded one cent per dozen, and for smaller lots the market was also easier which was attributed to the liberal supplies coming forward. The receipts were 2,138 cases.

Owing to the slight improvement in the demand for potatoes, the smaller receipts and the reduction in the stock on track here the tone of the market was again stronger and prices scored a further advance of five cents per bag.

The undertone to the market for imported beans was firm on account of the continued steady demand.

The butter trade continued extremely quiet but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 208 packages.

The cheese market was without any special feature to note owing to the fact that stocks in first hands are light and the demand was only from local buyers. The receipts were 50 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 5 (Canadian Press)—It was essentially a weather market yesterday in wheat, wit prices fluctuating rapidly, but slipping at the last on account of rains southwest. Foreign interests appeared to be selling July delivery of wheat here, and replacing it with May.

Wheat values closed irregular at ⅛ cent net decline to ⅛ cent advance. Corn finished ⅝ cent to ⅞ cent; oats ¼ cent to ½ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7 cents.

Nervousness pervaded the wheat trade from start to finish. During much of the time, however, the market averaged higher, owing largely to reports of high winds and need of rain southwest and west, but also because of continued advices and heavy damage by Winter killing east of the Mississippi. In this connection, a comprehensive trade summary indicated abandonment of at least five million acres of soft Winter wheat, with Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky acreage at least 50 per cent gone.

On the other hand, as the day approached an end, all price gains in the wheat market were virtually wiped out, and pit attention as a rule was centered on reports of rain in various sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. In some quarters, however, notice was also being taken that the Western half of Kansas had apparently received no important addition to the moisture supply, and that high winds prevailing there were reported to be making the crop situation for that region serious.

Meanwhile the seaboard said 700,000 bushels of North American wheat had been bought yesterday for export.

Corn weakness accompanied news that 140,000 bushels additional corn would be brought here from Kansas City. It was also announced that corn planting has progressed as far north as Oklahoma. Rains beneficial to newly-seeded oats had a bearish effect on the oats market.

Provisions became easier as a result of scattered selling, although hog values were tending upward.

BACK-COUNTRY roads! Pot-holes and deep ruts! The car or truck is swung from side to side—slides near the ditch—pulls back on the road with a lurch. Such roads play havoc with ordinary tires.

Heavy loads! Six people in a five passenger car. Weighty samples in the back of a salesman's car. An overloaded truck. Ordinary tires can't stand up.

CHAPTER VI.

Having often heard father speak of the English pheasant as a beautiful game bird, and as I was overly anxious to pay Canada back some of the birds I had murdered in my younger days, I decided to try these pheasants.

In 1895 I sent to Pleasant Ridge, Ohio, for two or three settings of English pheasants' eggs. I felt sure this climate would agree with them as they were exactly the same breed as I was, English buck-eyes! However, I was smart enough not to ignore my mother's kind offer, and I let her have one setting to hatch for me. I paid particular attention to the two hens I set, scarcely allowing them to get off the nest; and here is where I now believe I made the mistake. Not one egg hatched. But dear mother signalled me to come over and I was right there. Her old hen had hatched eleven. Mother smiled and gave them to me, hen and all, but told me to leave them with her until the next day. Then I moved them, and raised nine to the size of quail, when a dog killed four, leaving the old hen and me with only five. Four of these proved to be males and a cat owl killed the hen. March, 1896, found me with four beautiful male birds only.

I had now learned that a gentleman in London, Ontario, had English pheasants for sale, and as my experience had proved that an English buck-eye hitched up to a Canadian was a joyous, satisfactory cross, with the human race, I wrote this man and secured two hens which were undoubtedly English-Canadians. I liberated three of the four male birds and put the two hens in with the one male; and from this trio we hatched sixty-two pheasants. Then I enclosed four acres with a wire fence seven feet high. Along one side I made several brood pens about two rods square, each. I put one male bird with every five hens, putting plenty of gravel and grit in each pen so as to secure good digesting powers. I also gave the birds plenty of shade.

Our pheasant hens laid from thirty-five to fifty eggs each between April the 15th and June the 15th. By giving the old birds lots of grit, the egg shells were very hard. I used Wyandotte hens for mothers, putting from twenty to twenty-five eggs under each hen and setting them on the damp ground as much as possible. The eggs, like quail eggs, hatch in twenty-four days. I pursued the same course, all through, as I have described for raising quail, only the nest and coop are one-quarter larger. I used the insect powder by the pound. I usually set four or five hens at a time; keeping a record of the same, I knew when to prepare for a hatch. I penned them in front of her for two or three days, the same as with the quail.

When raising pheasants, I never let hens out of the coops. When birds are from six to eight weeks old I take the hen away but leave the coop there. Coops may be set around like bee-hives, two or three rods apart. I painted my coops, some white and some red; the little fellows will know their own coops and will not forget them.

Remember, I have experimented with a great variety of pheasant foods. I have raised flies by the tens of thousands to feed to them. To do this I would take a piece of meat, say of beef's liver, allow the flies to blow it, and a few hours later throw the meat in a barrel; the barrel would be partly filled with rotten sawdust and the top of it would be covered with a screen, with a hole left about an inch in diameter. In a few days the maggots would have the meat all eaten up, and would have disappeared into the sawdust below. In about two weeks the barrel would be simply full of flies. I would now put a small flytrap over the hole, darkening the rest of the screen; the flies would come to the light, get into the trap, and when in the small trap could be either scalded or drowned. I have also fed the pheasants the maggots. But to raise either flies or maggots is not as desirable for the nose as it might look from the eye and both are unnecessary. Feed a little custard, and when about two weeks old, add corn-meal to it. Keep them hungry and let them hunt for insects. Exercise is what they need and what they must have. When birds are three months old, they should be caught and shipped.

The high fence for young is unnecessary, for your birds will know you and will be just as tame as chickens. In this way I made my pleasure self-sustaining, and I would often let an old hen and fifteen or twenty go. The finest brood I ever saw was out of two poor hatches. I put twenty-five with one hen and in about a week I let hen and all out. They roamed all over the premises, but of course like spiteful deeds and chickens, they came home to roost. I fed them just enough to give them a sweet taste in their mouths, and the hen raised twenty-three of them. How they did grow! Finally she left them and they went to the woods about one-half mile away.

In this way I stocked this township so I could have shot a two bushel bag full in half a day. Two miles north of my place there were twenty-eight seen dusting in the road at one time. But to-day I doubt if there is one left in the township. Men came for miles and miles around. Yes, I have seen them come twenty-five miles to hunt rabbits in this neighborhood! Now I don't want to insinuate that all rabbit hunters were hunting pheasants, but what I really want to say is that all pheasant hunters were hunting rabbits!

CHAPTER VII.

The Natural Enemies of Our Birds.

Now we come to the most serious question that the bird-lovers of America are up against; and until this great question is settled, we shall continue to pull against each other.

At a sportsmen's show in Michigan I once saw one-half dozen mounted hawks in a glass case, and there were thousands of school children looking at them. The label read: "These are all valuable hawks." Another man will say: "Protect the cat-owl, or great horned owl," and possibly this same man will advocate the destruction of the wild house-cat, when the positive fact is that this owl is nothing but a wild house-cat with the advantage of wings, and for cruel, blood-thirsty, murderous depredations he has got the house-cat chased right out of the slaughter-house, for he will kill and eat a great variety of adult birds and animals I have never known a housecat to destroy, such as turkeys, wild geese, peacocks, all kinds of hawks and all other owls, and animals such as skunks, muskrats, groundhogs, minks, weasels and hares. Now, although I have no personal knowledge of this, yet a gentleman farmer who lived near the woods told me (and I believe him, or I would not repeat it) that his bunch of house-cats which were about half grown, were in the habit of climbing upon the roof of the house and sitting near the chimney to keep warm during the winter months; these horned owls came and took away every one of the cats. However, I have no positive proof of this last statement. But this I do know: There is nothing roosts high enough or sleeps low enough to be out of reach of this heartless cannibal. One regrettable fact to me is that I have never seen where another bird or animal ever killed a great horned owl, although they have lived in the township with me all my life.

A particular friend of mine was dissecting a shrike. This shrike is a bird about the size and color of a blue jay, known to a great many people as the butcher bird. I said to those standing by, "He is a bad one; always shoot him on sight." My friend stopped for a moment and said, "Beg your pardon, Jack, but you are wrong; this is not the big northern shrike you have reference to." "No, no, my dear fellow," I replied: "I mean the very one you are skinning, and again I say, shoot him on sight." My friend smiled and replied in a kind, cheerful manner, "Jack, I am surprised at you." Now, dear reader, here were two natural born naturalists right opposite each other, one advocating the protection, the other the destruction, of the same bird. I had watched this shrike in Ohio when I was a kid. I had often found his nest and knew what he fed his young upon. I have caught dozens of them, right in the act, in Canada, and they are always searching for birds, chiefly the small fly-catchers. Well, we dissected this fellow, and found two little birds' legs, and they were not mates. Last fall I saw a shrike follow a snow bird fully five hundred feet high, but the snow bird won out.

I said to another man, "The crow and bronze grackle take the robin's eggs." "Why," he said, "I don't understand that; there is a robin's nest within a rod of my door, and the woods are full of crows." Why, bless your life, that is just the reason why the robin built there, it simply came to him for protection.

Now first of all we must not lose sight of this fact: That there never was but one perfect Manager stood on this earth, and He put these creatures all here. So let us roll back the pages of time and take a look at nature before man interfered. Likely you have read the history of America; I haven't; but I doubt if there is any account known of the clouds of birds that once hovered over this continent. The settlings in the bottom of the little artificial pond near my house, caused from the wild goose and duck droppings, are exactly of the same material that we find in our marshes, and which is from three to ten feet deep in the average marsh. I will not attempt to mention the number of birds I have seen in one day, because the average boy of the present would not believe it; but I will say that I firmly believe I have seen more birds in one day, before I was ten years of age, than the average ten-year-old boy of the present day has seen in all his life. Time and time again during my life have I seen a wounded bird lag behind as the flock flew to cover; and often have I seen a hawk dart at them, and he never failed to get the wounded one. And some wounded quail have been stolen from me by hawks before I got to where they lit, and if it were not for the snow I wouldn't have known what had happened as I did not always see the hawk.

Once in my life I had a flock of about thirty young wild ducks. There were two little runts that appeared to want to die, but I rebelled and kept patching them up. Finally one took with a sore eye disease, and in a few days the other little scab had it, and both died, but not until they had introduced these sore eyes to the rest of the ducks and all my nice, healthy ducks started drooping. When I eventually got this disease checked I had only seven ducks left. Now, according to my own experience, if a hawk had come along he would have picked up the weak ones and prevented this disease. So, after all my life's study I am fully convinced that these cannibal birds were put here to destroy the weak and sickly and prevent contagious disease, letting the strong and healthy survive. But man has interfered. He has paid all his attention to the destruction of the food birds and has almost annihilated them and let what we now call their enemies go; or, in other words, we human beings have combined our forces with the food birds' enemies.

Now Point Pelee marsh is about fifteen miles from where I am sitting. Point Pelee is the most southerly part of mainland in Canada, and the hawks cross there by the thousands every fall; yet I never knew of a hunter going purposely to shoot them. But if there were twenty-five ducks in a pond down there and twenty-five men knew it to-night, there would likely be fifty guns there tomorrow morning. Yes, I honestly believe there are as many hawks and owls in America to-day as there were thirty years ago.

Last fall, when the hawks were migrating, in October, they started roosting in our woods, and in less than a week there were thousands upon thousands coming there. So I took a flash-light and the .22 rifle and went down and I am sure as high as twenty-five would fly out of one little tree every time I shot. It was a bright moonlight night, and they soon took the hint, and I only killed fifteen or twenty. But to hear their wings as they hovered around, over the woods, would cause one to wonder where they came from and where they were going. However, once was enough; the rest took the hint for the next night not one was seen going there. So don't let us blame the Great Provider; it is man's mistake, that is all, we have gone wrong.

"Oh, but say, Jack finer, do you pretend to say that there were once birds enough in America that the old and the delicate, crippled, ma ied and diseased would supply all these hawks and owls with food?" Yes, that is just exactly what I want to say, yet I have no proof of it. I only know that the hawks will take a cripple every time and let the strong and healthy go. "Well," you say, "how about a flock of little ducks? He could take any one of them." Not so easily. Wild ducks at six hours old will dive like a lot of frogs, but a delicate one cannot; he will possibly just put his head under, and his body will stick out like a bloated toad. Yes, I believe that less than one hundred years ago there were more of the above class of birds for the hawks, each year, in America, than there are altogether, now. So, after having a lifetime of experience raising birds, instead of doctoring the sickly ones and petting the droopies and sore-eyes, I just take the hawk's plan and destroy them.

While I would not like to see these cannibal birds become extinct, yet I would be pleased to see them decreased the same as our other birds have become during the last forty years.

WORLD-FAMOUS ENGLISH SINGERS

At Grand Opera House To-morrow.

The Westminster Glee Singers, fresh from their triumphs at the Massey Hall, Toronto, will appear to-morrow at the Grand Opera House in a programme of the gems of British Minstrelsy. Although most of the company hail from the more celebrated English cathedral choirs, their repertoire is by no means confined to sacred music, their object being to re-kindle interest in the old songs of the homeland which everyone delights to hear. A strong feature of the Glee Singers is the singing of the boy sopranos, who will be heard in a variety of beautiful songs and choruses, and these numbers vie in popularity with the fine work of the adult vocalists.

To-morrow's program will include such standard glees as "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," and Sir Henry Bishop's "Oh, by Rivers," a cycle of Scottish songs, embracing "Bonnie Dundee," "Turn ye to me," and "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet"; the old Irish air, "The Meeting of the Waters," arranged for tenor solo with vocal accompaniment, a series of delightful old sailors' shanties for bass and chorus, and a brilliant vocal waltz "Come join in the Dance." By special request the following sacred items will be included: Sullivan's "O Love the Lord," Schubert's Cradle Song for soprano, with accompaniment of voices, and the old Christmas carol, "Good King Wenceslas."

The Westminster Glee Singers are primarily exponents of the beautiful art of unaccompanied part-singing, but they are also front rank soloists as well. Particular mention should be made of the wonderful male alto solos of Mr. Donald Reid, late of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey; the baritone songs of Mr. Charles Draper, one of the most brilliant of England's young singers; the bass numbers of Mr. James Barber, a Scottish bass of the Royal College of Music, and the tenor numbers of Mr. James Davis, one time soloist at St. Paul's Cathedral, and an operatic singer of gret distinction.

In Edwin Brazier, the beautiful boy soloist, will be heard one of England's finest choristers, with a voice of almost unearthly charm and purity, another of these fascinating singers being Laurence Baldwin. At the concerts on Saturday afternoon and evening, complete changes of program will be given, but the company will not appear at any church on Sunday as they travel back to Toronto on that day.

WILKINS PLANS TAKEOFF TODAY

Only Adverse Weather Will Prevent Flight Over Arctic To-day.

FOR EXPLORATION.

SEWARD, Alaska, April 5. Canadian Press. — Lack of news from Point Barrow, Captain Wilkins' Arctic exploration headquarters, was taken here as an indication that he was going ahead with his plans for the flight across the top of the world to Spitzbergen, 2100 miles away, beginning at six o'clock this morning. So far as known here only adverse weather would prevent the take-off. In a wooden monoplane Wilkins expects to chart the upper air currents and take soundings of the Arctic ocean. He hopes to find the fabled lost continent, which most Arctic explorers have reported sighting but which has never been reached.

Wilkins planned to radio his take-off and report the progress of his flight with a short wave radio set. It is conceivable, however, that word of his take-off might not be received until the slow Arctic communications systems carry out word.

Lieut. Carl Nielsen is the pilot of the plane and in the event the pair are forced to abandon the machine they are equipped to live off the country indefinitely.

Dewar Says Wrong Meaning Placed On His Words By Prosecutor.

DENIES CONSPIRACY.

GIBRALTAR, April 5.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Although fifteen witnesses have been summoned for the defence in the case of Captain Dewar of the Royal Oak, who is on trial by court martial here on charges of conduct subversive of discipline, every effort will be made to conclude the court proceedings by to-night so that the fleet may sail to-morrow.

Captain Dewar to-day replied to questions asked by the prosecutor as follows:

"I did not mean to convey the impression that the ship was in a latent state of mutiny. You are twisting my words to mean something else than their real meaning." He rejected, with a show of amazement, the suggestion that he and Commander Daniels, who a few days ago was convicted by the court martial of similar charges to those made against Capt. Dewar, reprimanded and dismissed from his ship, had entered into a conspiracy to remove Rear Admiral Collard.

HUNT GOES ON TRIAL FOR BEATING YOUTH

Is Committed For Cruelty To Young Immigrant Employed On His Farm.

HAMILTON, April 5.—Enduring hardships scarcely believable, William Lowe, 20-year-old Scottish immigrant, told a pitiful tale of his experiences at the farm of Gordon Hunt, West Flamboro, at a preliminary hearing of an assault charge in county police court yesterday afternoon. The young complainant faced a crowded courtroom and related how his former employer had neglected and half-starved him, and accepted of his labors without cash remuneration. Hunt was committed for trial, and bail of $1,000 asked. Throughout the proceedings he sneered.

It was a pitiful story which the orphan boy unfolded. Through the Scottish Clans he is now being cared for, and the lad was able to offer confirmation of certain portions of his story to the court.

Lowe said he was sent to the farm by the immigration authorities, and was to receive $10 for the first month and $15 a month if his services were satisfactory. He was told that he was not worth the money, but forced to sign a contract to remain at work for his bed and board, he declared. He was told that if he did not sign that court proceedings would be taken against him, he said.

Fed Scraps From Table.

The boy declared that he did not get enough to eat. Potatoes and turnips were provided for him every day, and he went to the table when Hunt and his wife were through. He never received enough food, and when he asked for more he was told that he had received all he was going to get. Not once did he taste meat all the time he worked there, he said. Undernourished, Lowe started to fail in health, and finally his feet were frozen. It was then that Hunt attacked him because he did not get the farm work done quickly enough. Lowe said he went out of the house early in the morning without shoes or stockings. It was dark, and he couldn't see to get his shoes, he said.

Asked why he finally laid the charge, Lowe said it was the Scottish Clans which took action after his case was drawn to the officials' attention while he was a patient in the General Hospital. Cross-examined, the boy never faltered in his statements, corroborating in detail everything that he had previously told Crown-Attorney Ballard.

"On February 22 I was struck with a hammer and kicked by Hunt because I did not move fast enough. The next day I was treated in the same manner, and on the 25th he struck me across the back with a plank and I fell to the ground. He then kicked me and there were marks on my body," said the young man.

A Marriage of LIES!

"Nothing can need a lie;
A fault, which needs it most,
Must grow two thereby."

JUSTIN VAN DER WEYDEN could trace his ancestry back to the Crusaders; Leila—the frail little girl he loved — could trace her's as far back only as the "Nobody's from Nowhere." And being a snob, Justin sacrificed love and happiness.

He arranged a marriage with Madison Breedon, the daughter of a wealthy Southerner whose ancestors, of course, came across in "The Mayflower!" And so they were wed. Justin told Madison nothing of his love for Leila. Madison, in turn, told Justin nothing of the hereditary taint of insanity in her aristocratic family.

To approach the marriage altar with a lie trembling on one's lips — to build one's future happiness on the baseless fabric of deceit and falsehood is to invite inevitable tragedy. But the Van der Weyden union seemed to work out successfully . . . for the first year! Madison loved Justin dearly, and he basked in the reflected glory of her many charms, her culture — her popularity. Indeed, Justin was beginning to hope that, perhaps, some day . . . .

. . . . But — Leila, blinded with humiliation and jealously, dug up the Breedon skeleton and demanded a cruel revenge—a living death, more appalling than . . . .

But in order to appreciate the far-reaching, evil effect of a lie, you really must read the story; it is an episode which wrecked the lives of three well-known families and is featured in TRUE STORY MAGAZINE for May under the title: "LOVE TAKES ITS REVENGE" . . . . now on the newsstands.

"They both approached the marriage alter with a lie on their lips."

AIRPLANE VIEWS FOR MAGAZINE

Pictures of City To Appear in Canadian Motorist Next Week.

The Examiner was this morning shown three fine airplane views of Peterborough and district which are to appear with a write up in the next issue of the Canadian Motorist as a result of the visit to this city on Tuesday last of Warren Hastings, editor of that publication together with R. A. Stapells, and other officials of the Ontario Motor League, who attended the annual meeting of the Peterborough Automobile Club.

There are two views of Stoney Lake, one of which shows the upper part of Clear Lake, and the other Burleigh Falls with Stoney Lake in the foreground and Lovesick and Buckhorn lakes in the background. The third picture shows to advantage the hydraulic lift lock at Peterborough and in it one has a view of both the upper and lower reaches of the canal.

"This is the finest view of the lift-lock that has come to my notice" was the comment of the secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club this morning" and it will certainly advertise the lift lock and tourist attractions of this district to advantage to have an article appear in Canadian Motorist which has a 28,000 monthly circulation to motorists in Canada and nearby states of the union.

PEOPLE HOSPITABLE.

Complimentary reference to the City of Peterborough is made in a letter from J. A. Stewart, new manager of the Capitol Theatre here, which he wrote under date of April 4, after receiving a letter of welcome from the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. He writes in part:

"The beauty of your city and surrounding country as well as the hospitality of its people are well known far and wide. In Western Ontario, where I reside, I hear on every side many complimentary remarks regarding Peterborough, sometimes that is not heard of many other cities.

ASK FOR EMBARGO ON HUNTING DOGS

Ontario Officials Think They Bring Rabies Into Province.

TORONTO, April 5 (Canadian Press).—The Ontario Department of Health is bringing pressure to bear on the Dominion Government in an effort to have an embargo placed on dogs imported for hunting purposes from the United States, says a Toronto paper, believing that these dogs are responsible for spasmodic outbreaks of rabies in various parts of the province at the present time.

Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of this Department, states the situation at the present time is assuming rather alarming proportions, and immediate drastic action is necessary. About forty people have had their lives endangered by being bitten by infected animals, and a considerable number of domestic animals have died as the result of infection from rabied dogs. The Woodstock district and the Cobourg-Port Hope districts are particularly affected.

Mine Market Active With Trend Upward

TORONTO, April 5 (Canadian Press)—A generally firmer tone was displayed in active trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day with a number of issues gaining considerably. Bidgood sold up six at 1.00 and Kirkland Lake Gold itself was higher at 2.03. Teck Hughes at 9.00 was fifteen points higher. Barry Hollinger was another firm spot at 1.38, while Aconda at 29, Amulet at 3.40, Sudbury Basin at 10.15, and Abana at 2.88 were all higher. The best gain was a 35-point advance in Hudson Bay at 17.70. Pend Oreille softened at 20.50, and there were a couple of other easier issues, though no losses of any account were shown in the broad list.

Selling Of Wheat Follows Rain In South

CHICAGO, April 5 (Canadian Press)—General selling of wheat resulted to-day from rains in the southwest and prices underwent an early setback. Moisture appeared to have been supplied during the night to sections which yesterday were untouched. Opening ⅝ to 1 cent lower, wheat subsequently showed additional downturns. Corn, oats, and provisions were also weak, with corn starting ⅜ to 1⅜ down and afterward continuing to drop.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 143⅛, July 141⅞ Corn, May 98½, July 101⅜. Oats, May 57¼, July 51¼.

SLEEP YOUR WAY TO HEALTH

"The surest way to maintain health is to get plenty of sound sleep," says Dr. Frank Mayo. "Sleep is the Great Reviver—greater than all the medicines and stimulants known to science."

Not until you have experienced the deep, profound slumber on a Marshall mattress can you know the wondrous difference perfect sleep makes in the enjoyment of life, and the maintenance of good health.

No price is too great to pay for such sleep. Yet the Marshall is only a few dollars more than hard, unyielding mattresses which make perfect slumber impossible. The soft, flexible centre spring of the Marshall affords perfect body support. Every curve of the body "fits into it" naturally and smoothly.

The Marshall Spring Mattress cannot sag, pack or lose its shape. It will be the same resilient, scientifically shaped mattress in five years as it was the day you bought it. Sold in five grades and guaranteed for five years.

Marshall Features

The soft flexible inner spring centre of about 725 to 1000 patented springs always keeps the Marshall resilient and in its original shape.

A soft cushioning of hair or cotton covers the spring centre.

With convenient handles, two on each side and end, the Marshall is easy to handle.

Guaranteed for five years the speaker and Miss Phillips was ably moved by W. H. Dickin.

Several miscellaneous matters were heard during the evening. Vern. Morphet requested a large attendance of Kiwanians at the initial practise for the club play. The director will be here to-night and will be at the Lyceum Hall for the practice at 7.30. Announcement was also made of a directors' meeting to be held at the clinic to-night.

President Joe John voiced the pleasure of the club at the 100 per cent. turn out of those members of the club under the Clothiers' classification at the recent "moving bee" which carried the stock of W. H. Meredith from his old to his new store. He felt that Kiwanians were thus showing their willingness to give service.

Among the guests present were Mrs. A. O. Phillips, Miss H. M. Philips, E. A. Peck, M.P., G. Murray Fraser and Robert Kerr, Toronto.

IN POLICE COURT

HAVELOCK, April 4.—Two local young men appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley on Wednesday afternoon on a charge of being intoxicated. V. J. McElderry appeared for the boys, who pleaded guilty. They were fined $10.00 and costs.

At the close of the Fifth Division Court on Wednesday afternoon, Magistrate O. A. Langley presided, when Fred Varty was found guilty of a charge of assault against John Thomas Hyslop. The assault took place on Friday, March 23rd at Ashby's sawmill in Belmont. A few days previous to this time Hyslop was talking over the telephone to a friend when some one interrupted. Later he had been informed it was th defendant who had interrupted the conversation from another phone, and it was over this that the quarrel at the mill took place. Varty was fined $5.00 and costs.

W. F. Huycke was counsel for the defendant and V. J. McElderry for the plaintiff.

NORHAM LEAGUE IS ENTERTAINED

Warkworth Young People Hosts at Pleasant Joint Meeting.

NORHAM, April 5. — The Norham Young People's League were guests of the Warkworth St. Paul's Young People's Union on Monday evening. Mrs. M. Smith, Warkworth social and literary vice-president, conducted the early part of the meeting, while those who took part were Rev. W. W. Jones and Mrs. Edgar, after which the president of the Warkworth League conducted the business and extended a welcome to the guests.

"Resolved, That it is of greater advantage to a boy or girl to be brought up in the country than in the city," was the subject of the debate that the Norham Young People took during the program which they provided. The affirmative side was upheld by two Norhamites, Miss Della Diamond and Ralph Campbell, while the negative side was composed by Miss Evelyn Partridge and Orval Kelly, of Warkworth. Each speaker dealt with the subject in a masterful way. Rev. W. Jones, in speaking, complimented the speakers on the fine arrangement and quality of their material. As had been pre-arranged, the debate was without judges.

"Social Standards" was the subject of the address which Arthur Meneilley gave, in the course of which he stressed the fact that this is a democratic age. When men of common or middle class may rise to the highest offices of the land. He compared the requisites of to-day's good social standing with those of yesterday. In concluding, he said that to have a good social standing to-day a man needs "a few brains with the intelligence to use them, a good character, and the aim to serve others, not himself."

Other items on the program were: Male chorus, "Sussex by the Sea," and encore "Swanee River"; chorus by Norham Young People. Rev. D. R. Clare acted as chairman in the absence of the president.

At the conclusion of the program, the young people adjourned to the Sunday School Hall, where a delicious lunch was served by the St. Paul's ladies; and the ensuing social hour was a very enjoyable feature in the night's program. Oscar Laver extended a vote of thanks to the Warkworth young people for the fine evening given to their Norham friends.

URGES MORE POWER FOR THE OFFICIALS

Cambon Says That Geneva's Prestige Is At Stake in Issue With Hungary.

PARIS, April 5. — The prestige and authority of the League of Nations is at stake in the question involving Hungary in the affair of the St. Gothord machine guns, declares Jules Cambon, vice-president of the Council of Ambassadors in an article on the last League meeting, which was published yesterday in the Revue des Vivants.

"The solution of this problem," he declares, "will permit judgment to be made as to whether or not the League is an active instrument for peace."

The article then continues, criticizing Hungary's attitude at the League as unfortunate and regretting that the League in face of this problem found itself without machinery to take immediate and effective steps in the matter.

"Of all the people vanquished in the war, the Hungarians have shown themselves the least resigned," says M. Cambon. "Count Bethlen's reply to the League, as well as the language used by General Tanczof, the Hungarian representative at the session, both astonished and disturbed members of the League Council. Hungary's attitude seemed to reveal a certain disdain, or even bad faith —something very close to defiance.

"As to the League, it must be admitted that its prestige and authority are at stake in this question. Nothing is more natural or legitimate than that the President of the Council should ask that measures be taken to make sure that in an affair brought before the Council none of the two parties involved should in any way change the conditions affecting the discussion. It is a question of common sense. But this right of the League is contested.

"This shows that the League, which may have to face most serious questions, should invest its representatives with wider powers to act during the intervals between League sessions. For, to ask the League to exercise influence in world affairs while refusing to grant it the slightest initiative or means of action, is to reduce it to absurdity."

Record Offer Made For 'Alice' Manuscript

LONDON, April 4. Canadian Press. — A record "sight unseen" offer for the manuscript of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" has been made by trans-Atlantic telephone. Dr. Rosenbach, who paid roughly $77,000 for Alice's Adventures said "I have already had many proposals from the other side by telephone, and also cable, but I pledged my word not to make any move until I returned from the continent in a fortnight.

TWO CASES AHEAD OF CURRIE'S SUIT

Matter of Quarters For Many Witnesses During Trial Puzzles Cobourg.

COBOURG, April 5.—On Thursday morning the last preliminaries to the $50,000 libel action of Sir Arthur Currie against W. T. R. Preston and F. W. Wilson of the Port Hope Guide will take place in the court house here, with the examination for discovery of Mr. Preston. No motion before the court was necessary to secure the examination, as Mr. Preston resides in Ontario. The procedure involved was simply making an appointment with the local registrar, J. T. Field.

In the case of Sir Arthur Currie a motion from the court was necessary, as he resides outside the province. It is not at all likely, however, that the examination will be lengthy. In the examination of Sir Arthur Currie the examination was of the widest scope possible.

Up to the present time the sensational libel action brought by Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, former war leader, against F. W. Wilson of the Port Hope Guide and W. T. R. Preston has not been formally entered for hearing at the Spring Assizes of the Supreme Court, which will open before Mr. Justice Ross at Cobourg on April 16. Notice that the case will be heard has been given by the plaintiff, but the formal entry required to give the case precedence in the docket at the assizes is not yet in the hands of the court clerk.

Two other cases are already docketed for hearing, and consequently it is unlikely that the libel action will come before Justice Rose until at least the third day of the Assizes, as cases are dealt with in order of entry. With the prospect of 100 to 150 witnesses to be called during the hearing, it is probable that the trial will last for two or three weeks at least, necessitating the quartering of witnesses, jurymen and others connected with the case in Cobourg until it is completed.

RED IS POPULAR AMONG HATS

Spring Hats, like her other types of apparel, show marked preference for lipstick red. This is specially true of Hats of grosgrain and felt. Their trimmings consists only of banding of contrasting grosgrain ribbon in a great many cases.

Most of the Spring Hats are quite small, and one notes that not a few have flattering brims or coquettish nose veils. See display on Second Floor.

BOY BREAKS ARM IN FALL

Arthur Hatfield, 8, is Hurt at Campbellford School.

PLAYING ON FIRE ESCAPE.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5. — Arthur Hatfield, aged eight, fell off the fire escape at the Public school yesterday morning and sustained a fractured right arm. The boy, with several others, was playing on and about the steel stairway during the morning recess, when in some way he fell to the ground and fractured his right elbow. He was at once rushed to a doctor and medical attention given. Two physicians applied their skill, but owing to the nature of the break, believe that there is a strong possibility of the boy having a permanent stiff joint.

Asked concerning the accident, Principal Haig stated that he had not been present when it occurred, but had warned the boys away from the fire escape only a few minutes before. The fire escape is a forbidden play ground, he said, on account of the danger involved, but warnings and threats of punishment by the teachers do not seem to greatly impress the youngsters. In a few minutes they are back playing there again. Mr. Massie, the caretaker, has also ordered the pupils off the escape whenever he has found them there.

SOVIET MAKES BID FOR DEBT PARLEY

Official Says Russia Ready To Talk in Either Capitals or Neutral Place.

MOSCOW, April 4.—"The Soviet is willing at any time to discuss a debt settlement with the United States," a high official of the Foreign Office said recently in reply to a question regarding a report from New York that Alexander Makar, the new Soviet Ambassador to Mexico, had made a statement to that effect in Mexico City.

"The steady growth of Russo-American business relations points to the obvious advantages to both sides of a settlement of the vexed question of debts and private claims," the Soviet official continued.

"Representatives of the Soviet Government have repeatedly expressed our readiness to begin negotiations by which we are convinced we could reach satisfactory settlements."

Although it appears that M. Makar did not receive special instructions on this point, an interesting precedent was set for the negotiations for a commercial treaty between the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia which are about to begin here, without insistence on the part of the Soviet that the treaty involve a de jure recognition.

That the presence of an American diplomatic mission and regular consular service on Russian soil would facilitate business no one here doubts, but it is realized that the first and necessary step must be the removal of the debt and private claims barrier which prevents business and financial circles in the United States from having confidence in the Soviet's capacity or willingness to meet its obligations.

The Soviet is ready to nominate a debt settlement commission to meet an American commission in Moscow or in Washington or on neutral soil.

Home made Candy

Treat the folks this Easter-time to candy of your own make! None tastes so delicious, none so perfectly satisfies, none so pure and good for all as the candy you make in your own kitchen. Use Borden's St. Charles when the recipe calls for milk—its creamy richness improves the flavor, adds to the food value of all candy. Here are a few tested recipes made with Borden's St. Charles—try them—they will delight you—

Three Layer Candy
PECAN FUDGE
2 cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon butter
pinch soda
¾ cup pecans (broken)
1 cup Borden's St. Charles Milk
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1 tablespoon corn syrup

Place sugar, milk, syrup, butter and soda on stove. Boil until it forms soft ball when tested in cold water. Remove, whip, add flavor and nuts. When creamy pour in buttered pan.

Butter Fondant
4 cups granulated sugar
1 cup corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tall tin Borden's St. Charles Milk
¼ lb. butter

Mix sugar, milk, syrup and butter. Add salt. Place over slow flame, stir constantly and boil until it forms a soft ball when tested in ice cold water or 238 degrees with candy thermometer. Remove and pour on to a platter which has been slightly sprinkled with cold water. When cool to blood heat, beat with wooden ladle until the whole becomes creamy and firm.

Cream Peppermint Drops
½ cup Borden's St. Charles Milk
3½ tablespoonfuls water
2 cups granulated sugar
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
2 drops oil of peppermint.

Combine the first three ingredients in a saucepan and boil gently without stirring until a soft ball will form when a little is tried in cold water. Cool till tepid, then flavor, beat till creamy and quickly drop on oiled pans in small rounds from the tip of a teaspoon.

Do you know that in Switzerland a favorite dish consists of boiled chestnuts mached fine and served with whipped cream.

"But a woman's work is never done"

WHAT a fresh, wholesome, healthy-looking class of women the farm housewives are! They fly from one task to another with the quickness and suppleness that so many women lose with their first youth.

Yet, if you ask, most of them will confess that often their backs are lame—their feet and ankles aching with fatigue.

We inquired around among farm housewives to find out what they do to relieve the aching and stiffness in overtired muscles, and to take care of the countless small hurts that are always happening around the farm home.

324 of them said that they found Sloan's the very best remedy they can use.

Used everywhere for muscular pain

In one out of every three homes you'll find Sloan's Liniment the standby for every kind of muscular ache, for rheumatism, for colds and chest congestions and for all kinds of minor injuries.

The farm housewife has learned that she can ease tired, aching muscles with Sloan's

Read this letter from a farm housewife telling of quick relief from an injury:

"I fell out of a cherry tree. The branch I was on broke and I fell fourteen feet. I hurt my hip and I suffered agony. I used Sloan's, and I don't even feel it any more. I think Sloan's is splendid."

And this—telling the help that Sloan's gave to a persistent case of muscular pain:

"I could not sleep or do my work, but now I sleep well, walk and do my work with ease. I used Sloan's Liniment only once and it relieved me of my pain. It is just wonderful."

• • •

Sloan's works by the quickest, most effective method known for relieving pain. It stirs up the circulation—sends a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood direct to the spot that hurts—gives you quick, positive relief.

Always keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. At your druggist's you can get one that lasts a long time for 35 cents. Use it for:

Rheumatism — Lame muscles
Sciatica — Stiff neck
Lumbago — Colds and congestions
Neuralgia — Sprains and bruises

A doctor whose practice takes in numbers of men and women who work hard under all kinds of trying conditions, says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

Miss Marjorie Mesley was hostess at a delightful kitchen shower held at her home at 428 Rogers street last evening, in honor of Mrs. Clifford Fisher (formerly Miss Dorothy Gillespie) and given by the girls of the Bell Telephone Company's staff. A prettily decorated mauve and yellow basket of gifts was brought in by a miniature bride and bridegroom and small flower girl little Betty and Barbara Wyatt, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wyatt, and small Kenneth Wyatt, their brother. After these were opened by Mrs. Fisher, a dainty lunch was served. Among those present were the Misses G. Anderson, G. McCarthy, A. McCarthy, V. McGinnis, L. Deyell, J. Young, E. Dodds, R. Sharpe, M. LYRICS OF LIFE

YOU AND YOU.

Give me just a friend or two,
Friends like you, and you, and you,
And I do not care to crowd
In the presence of the proud.
Oh, the hurry, oh, the haste,
Oh, the money that we waste,
Seeking friends and seeking gold,
And forgetting friends of old.

Give me friends that I can trust,
Common as the common dust,
And I well can do without
Those I do not care about.
Give me friends that I can know,
Give me somewhere I can go
Where they're not too great or grand,
Nor too good to understand.

Give me not a crowded room
Nor a garden choked with bloom;
Give my path one perfect rose,
Give my life such friends as those.
Some may wish to have a score,
Some may wish a hundred more;
Give me just a friend or two,
Friends like you and you and you.

"Cleared Pimples; Gained Weight"

"I have found great improvement in my skin and weight since taking Ironized Yeast. The pimples were terrible and now they are almost gone. I recommend Ironized Yeast to all my friends."—Miss Claire G., Montreal.

Folks are amazed at Ironized Yeast. They see 5 to 15 pounds gained in a few weeks! Skinny limbs covered with rounded, graceful flesh! Ugly hollows in shoulders filled up! Eyes sparkling with health. They ask—how does Ironized Yeast work so quickly?

How Ironized Yeast Builds Quick Flesh and Health

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—weight building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast, concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

This Yeast is treated with pure, vegetable iron, the same as in spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. By this special formula Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by yeast or iron taken separately.

If you are underweight, nervous or tired, you need Ironized Yeast. Start it today. It does not cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody—containing no harmful drugs. Nice, pleasant-tasting tablets in a handy bottle.

Try it on "Money Back" Offer

Go today to any drug store and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If not delighted, get your money back. If inconvenient to buy from the druggist, send $1.25 direct to the Canadian Ironized Yeast Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Desk 149-A.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal.—© C.I.F.Co., Ltd.

DRAW POSTPONED FOR I.O.D.E. QUILT

Number of Tickets Still Out — Talk Given On League of Nations.

Owing to a large number of tickets still being out for the Confederation quilt, which was to be drawn for at yesterday's meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., it was decided to postpone the draw until the May meeting.

Yesterday's meeting of the Chapter, held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., was presided over by the Regent, Mrs. F. L. Robinson. It was well attended and was featured by a very instructive address on the aims and objects of the League of Nations, given by Mrs. F. F. Allan.

Eleven new members were added to the roll and donations of $10 to the Navy League and $2 to the expense fund of the young English school girls touring Canada this year, were made. These girls come out under the auspices of the Overseas Settlement Society, to take back impressions of the country to their own land.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

The short-sleeved coat is reversible. The side shown is of satin, while the other side is of printed crepe, to match the material used for the frock.

Speaking of the continued vogue for reptilian leathers some one observed that the daughters of Eve not only wear the serpent's skin upon their feet. They adorn their hats with patches of his coat, use him to decorate collars and cuffs, use him for purse and powder case, and they lean against him when they drive in their most fashionably finished motor car. It is really hard to see where all the serpents come from—hard to realize that after all these years of deadly war against them there are still enough left to go round.

Light-weight coats are frequently lined with the material of the frock worn beneath, and short jackets are often lined with the material from which the skirt is made. It is a matter of common knowledge that fur is no longer placed on the collars, but sometimes a band of light-weight fur occurs on the sleeves of the coats. This points the way to a revival of the separate fur scarf. For the present, in this country at least, women will get along without fur at the neck at all. The wide variety of scarfs and kerchiefs will solve the problem of neck covering.

To keep the ends of the scarf in place at the front or side there are irregularly shaped rings of composition resembling jade, onyx or amber. The ends of the long scarf or the corners of the triangle or square are pulled through this ring in place of being knotted.

Don't forget that the sleeveless frock for daytime wear really has been revived. Tennis frocks at the Southern resorts were almost invariably made without sleeves—a thin jumper being pulled on when warmth was needed—and for beach wear sleeveless frocks with short pull-on gloves were frequently seen.

Occasionally—but only occasionally—there are half-length and three-quarter sleeves. I am showing you a sketch of a short-sleeved coat I saw the other day which struck me as unusual but not out of the picture.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1928.

Benefic aspects rule today according to astrology which finds the planetary influences helpful to dwellers on the Earth.

This is the day for seeking big opportunities and for making the best of them.

Under this direction of the stars financial support may be more easily obtained than commonly and promoters of big enterprises should benefit.

This is a most promising rule to engineers and all who deal in material things from a constructive point of view.

Builders and contractors should benefit, for giant structures are to rise in many cities.

Neptune is now said to exercise a strong influence which is not favorable to the hopes of the dry wings of the great political parties.

This malefic power of Neptune may cause disorders and troubles of various sorts, which will arouse reform impulses.

Pleasure will be sought as the summer advances in a manner that indicates possible troubles in the future for this country as well as foreign nations.

France will feel the effects of the rule of sinister planetary influences, it is prognosticated.

Wind storms may be expected all through the spring. Farmers should take note of this.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year in which friendship and work combine to make happiness.

Children born on this day probably will have a strong trend toward mechanics. Many railway employees are born under this sign.

THE SORROWFUL WAY.

Saturday is Tag Day for the local branch of the Humane Society. The following poem illustrates one writer's conception of the tragedy of the dumb beast that lives only to die:

It was upon a Friday Our Saviour took the road,
And heard the rough shouting and felt the sharp goad,
So footsore and so weary, the Cross for His load.

He knew the grief that cobble-stones can bring to tired feet;
He knew the dust of walking, the thirst, the heat,
The gay, cruel voices, the cold eyes of the street.

The cross was there ahead of Him upon Mount Calvary,
He might not rest or linger beneath a tree,
Nor hear the waves that splash about Lake Galilee.

Dumb, goaded forward, struck with stick, I wonder did He weep,
For those who travel footsore, oxen and sheep,
For these, too, have a tryst with death that they must keep.

I wonder did He pray for them, companions of His grief;
He promised rest in Paradise to the poor thief.
Will He for beast as well as man offer relief?

Then every market morning lift your heart and pray
For limping feet and beaten hides which pass that day,
God's gentle poor creatures who walk the bitter way.

From market square to butcher's shop there is a weary space;
The journey ends at last in a sorry place.
Oh! pray God have them in His sight and mercy's grace.

Delaney Takes Flying Leap Off Rickard Band Wagon

GAMBLING FOR TUNNEY FIGHT UNDER FUGAZY

Claims Promoter's Rival Has Champion Lined Up for Second Battle.

STAMPEDE MAY FOLLOW

Other Well-Known Heavyweights Are Expected to Follow Delaney's Lead.

NEW YORK, April 5. — Starting what may shortly become a stampede Jack Delaney, the French-Canadian heavyweight, jumped off the Rickard band wagon.

Joe Jacobs, his manager, declared he has positive information that Gene Tunney is ...nds to defend his heavyweight championship twice this year. He refused to sign articles for a match between Delaney and Jack Sharkey under Rickard's auspices.

Johnny Buckley accepted on behalf of Sharkey last week, and Match maker Jess McMahon claims that Jacobs had verbally accepted terms. The bout was scheduled for 15 rounds on the night of April 30 at Madison Square Garden.

Will Decline Match.

Although he was evasive with McMahon at the Garden offices Jacobs frankly told the newspapermen that he had no intention of accepting the match. He said:

"I happen to know that Tunney is going to fight twice this year. He will be through with Rickard after he fulfills the Heeney date in July. "I am going to string with the promoter I think has Tunney lined up for a September date. Right now it looks as if we will play with Humbert Fugazy."

From other sources it was learned that Fugazy has ...werful influences working on Tunney. The Brooklyn promoter, incidentally, is aligned with Jim Mullen of Chicago, and Mullen and Tunney are very close. If Tunney is to fight for any promoters other than Rickard, it is sure to be for the Fugazy-Mullen combination.

Other well known heavyweights are expected to follow Delaney's lead. Fugazy was visiting Boston a few days ago, and may persuade the Sharkey interests to join his stable. Sharkey is not too well satisfied with the treatment that he has received from Rickard.

Risko may Jump Traces.

The big prize is Johnny Risko. He has plenty of reason to feel aggrieved over the scant consideration he was given. He ha as much right to fight Tunney as Heeney, but Rickard dumped him overboard without a word of explanation. Danny Dunn, his manager will be here this week, and it need not be surprising if Dunn ties up with the opposition.

Most of the managers and boxers feel that Rickard's word is good so long as it happens to suit his interests. When it interferes he has no compunctions about protecting himself, they say. The readiness with which he dropped Risko is cited as the latest case in point.

Collett Is Defeated In Golf Semi-Finals

PINEHURST, N.C., April 5.—(Canadian Press). — Carelessness and superfine golf combined in yesterday's semi-final matches of the women's North and South golf championship to produce two surprises and definitely determine that there will be a new champion this year.

On the eighteenth green, Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R.I., the winner of last year's tournament, and a former national titleholder, went down to defeat before the flashing putter of Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, a former trans-Mississippi champion.

Then, after a nip and tuck battle, Miss Maureen Orcutt, Metropolitan champion, grew careless at the nineteenth hole, and with a fourteen inch putt to give her a half and carry the match to the twentieth, flubbed the shot and lost to Miss Virginia van Wie of Chicago.

BOUCHER STAR IN PLAYOFFS

Rangers' Centre Player Scored Three Goals Against Opponents.

GAVE THREE GOALS

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 5.—(Canadian Press.)—After four games in the preliminary elimination series for the National Hockey League title, Frank Boucher, diminutive centre player of the New York Rangers, shines conspicuously on the firmament of hockey stars who will participate in the Stanley Cup series for world's professional honors.

In the series with Pittsburgh and Boston through which the Rangers came through successfully to enter the championship series with the Montreal Maroons, Boucher scored three of the eleven goals scored by Lester Patrick's sextet, and assisted in three more, giving him a total of six points.

Justifying his choice as the recipient of the Lady Byng Trophy for combining effectiveness with sportsmanship, Boucher played through the four games without incurring the displeasure of the officials. Besides being the top scorer of either of the teams playing in the Stanley Cup series, Boucher has been a tower of strength on the defence. His sweeping poke check repelled one attack after another by Pittsburgh and Boston attackers.

In subduing the Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Bruins, the Rangers snapped out of a scoring slump with which they had been affected during the tail end of the regular League season. They registered a total of eleven goals to six for their opponents, seven assists figuring in the scoring.

The Maroons scored six goals in defeating Ottawa Senators and Montreal Canadiens, holding their opponents to three. There were two assists credited.

BANQUET HELD OF LAKEFIELD CURLING CLUB

Addresses Given by Newly-Elected Officers at Annual Affair.

REPORTS READ

H. R. Wagar Tells Members More Co-operation Needed in Club.

LAKEFIELD, April 5.— The annual banquet of the Lakefield Curling Club was held on Monday, April 2, in the Parish Hall of St. John's Church with about forty members present. The tables were decorated in blue and white, the colors of the A. Y. P. A., the members of which did the catering. The dainty set tables were loaded with appetizing viands to which full justice was done. Six men of the A.Y.P.A. served, being: W. Chappell, C. C. Stenner, R. Murduff, M. Hampton, M. Smith and T. Simpson, while a committee of ladies were in charge of the kitchen.

When the inner man was fully satisfied the president, D. H. Charlton called the club to order and asked the secretary-treasurer, Percy Spence for this report. There were fifty-five members and two associate members during the past year and there is a creditable balance on hand after paying all expenses. Besides the club members present were two honored guests, W. H. Casement, honorary president of the club and donor of the Casement, cup, and J. C. Strickland, a former member, who has returned to the village.

Officers Elected

The election of officers followed, being: President, J. W. Ridpath, vice-president, George H. Spence, executive committee, Messrs. H. R. Wagar, E. H. Northey, J. R. Hill, Dr. F. H. Lingwood, and G. A. Charlton.

The newly elected president took charge of the program at once and led the way into a perfect orgy of speech-making by giving the president's address. This is the first time he has held the position of club president in his forty-five years (more or less) of curling and he assured his fellow members of his wish to further the interests of the club and bespoke the co-operation of the members.

G. H. Spence thanked those present for his election and will do his utmost to help along the best interests of the curling club. G. A. Charlton realizes that the bottom of the curling rink needs improvment and feels the only remedy is to remove the bottom. Dr. F. H. Lingwood felt that his second season he was still too new in the club to be on the executive but will cooperate with his fellow members. In years of committee experience he has found that if the criticism which members have to make were put before the committee some of the difficulties could be scored out.

Co-Operation Needed

J. R. Hill recalled the fact that last year plans were made to improve the curling ice but were never carried out and he urged an early start for unless there was a decided improvement the club membership would suffer. E. H. Northey feels it an honor to serve on the committee and will co-operate in the effort for better ice. H. R. Wagar believes in moderation and feels that two games played in one night is too much.

He announced that he didn't know anything about curling, the other fellows said the ice was crooked but personally he had hoped for warm weather and got it and saved the Dawson cup. He said a man with four flat tires on his car couldn't go far and there were too may flat tires in the club. More co-operation was needed.

The secretary reported a notice of motion before the club on matter of a change in the method of drawing rinks. B. Q. Dench explained his purpose of making the motion. The old method of drawing rinks from a hat was altered a couple of years ago to the method of the skips after being appointed, drawing numbers and then taking turns for choice of men. In Peterborough the skips choose their ice skips and draw their first and second men, and Mr. Dench feels that this or some method other than the one in force should be adopted if the club wishes to prosper.

The Rev. S. A. Kemp spoke warmly in favor of Mr. Dench's motion as he felt with the present method an unnecessary humiliation was put on those who were chosen last.

J. E. Galvin spoke of some of the changes made in the rules whereby a skip standing depended on games lost and won and he felt the skips should have a choice of their players. If the skips got a choice of vice skips they would all be fighting for first choice and the results would be no better. Mr. Wagar dosen't see much difference in the plan. It doesn't matter whether one wins or loses if every man works. The club is for sport and when you get away from that the object is lost. Dr. Dench wants to see more sport and less fiction; he wants men on his rink who can take a beating and he had them this year. Mr. Hill favored Mr. Dench's motion. In last winter's draw he got a rink that looked very badly on paper and was a laughing stock to the club but they stuck together all winter and were in the three-cornered tie for winners. Dr. Gibson felt that the drawing of rinks out of a hat was the most sporting proposition.

Play in Afternoon

A vote was taken and the motion was carried by an overwhelming majority. Dr. Lingwood urged greater use of the rink in the afternoon for friendly games and practice for beginners. Mr. Ridpath recalled that in former years there was a good deal of afternoon play and attributed the change to the pursuit of an honest dollar by the members and no time was left for curling. E. H. Northey urged a division of the schedule of the Fitzgerald cup so that it would not be necessary to curl practically every night. Mr. Hill urges a publicity committee among the business men in the business section where a bulletin of the curling games and rinks would be maintained. W. G. Morrison urged that the list of members be closed for a few days before the fall meeting so that the business can be wound up in better time.

J. C. Strickland was introduced by Mr. Ridppath as "The man who made curling possible in Lakefield." He hopes to be a member of the club next year and urged taking up lawn bowling during the summer, offering the lawn south of the hotel if the members would pay their share of the lighting and allow his guests to use it. A committee consisting of Dr. S. J. Gibson, Rev. T. M. Wesley, H. R. Wagar, J. W. Ridpath, and W. G. Morrison to make the necessary arrangements.

H. G. Fitzgerald presented the Fitzgerald cup. It was won this year by F. Madill, Rev. S. A. Kemp, E. H. Northey and P. Spence skip, the prizes were handsome scarfs. The runners up were J. McDonnell, W. Robinson, C. S. Tanner, J. R. Hill skip, their prizes were fountain pens.

W. H. Casement presented the Casement cup, the winners of which were H. Miles, J. Knox, E. G. Northey D. H. Charlton skip, the prizes being flash lights. The runners up were C. A. Putman, Rev. T. M. Wesley, R. J. Jory, U. A. Moore skip, who received alarm clocks. Mr. Charlton has won the Casement cup three times.

C. S. Tanner, in the absence of his brother, presented the Tanner Cup to Nathan Payne. The members of the rink being J. Miles, J. A. Porter B. Q. Dench, N. Payne, skip, the prizes were Thermos bottles. The runners up were S. J, Charlton, Rev. S. A. Kemp, P. Spence, C. S. Tanner, skip, who received jack knives.

Mr. Ridpath presented H. R. Wagar with the Dawson Cup which was in competition this year for the first time. Ten cigars were presented to him to treat the members of his rink. Mr. Ridpath also presented the Douro Cup, which was won by one of the donors, B. Q. Dench. Each member received a razor, the recipients being H. Miles, Rev. W. J. Creighton, J. E. Galvin, B. Q. Dench, skip.

The Rev. S. A. Kemp expressed his appreciation of the sport in connection with curling, and hopes to be a member next year. Mr. Ridpath referred to an absent member, the Rev. J. J. Garvey who is in the south in quest of health.

J. S. Montgomery gave a humorous speech illustrating some of the ways the English language may be misinterpreted, and then gave a splendid reading of one of Drummond's habitant poems, "Leetle Dominique."

The Rev. T. M. Wesley feels that while some may feel that success in curling depends on good ice, he feels spotsmanship counts most and and until we practice it how can we teach it to the younger generation. The Rev. W. J. Creighton, although a junior member of the Lakefield club has been a curler for years, joining the Bobcaygeon club thirty seven years ago. During his speech he referred to the A.Y.P.A. which was responsible for the supper. The Rev. S. A. Kemp also moved an expression of appreciation for the A. Y.P.A., and W. Chappell, president of the A.Y.P.A. thanked the curlers and hoped that the society could put on the banquet next year.

The committee in charge was Mrs. W. J. Chappell, Mrs. C. C. Stenner and Miss Amy Watson.

Bobby Cruickshank Leads In Tourney

RICHMOND, Va., April 5.—(Canadian Press).—Bobby Cruikshank, the "wee Scot" from Purchase, N.Y., took the lead at the half-way mark of the Richmond open golf tournament yesterday, finishing with 72-70-142 to stand one stroke ahead of "Wild Bill" Melhorn of Pittsburgh, who set a new course record of 69, two under par, for 143.

Clarence Hackney, of Atlantic City and Anthony Longo, Mount Vernon, N.Y., were tied for third place with 146, while fourth place was claimed by four golfers, Tony Manero, of New York, Roland Hancock of Wilmington, N.C., Emmett French of Southern Pines, N.C., and Al Espinosa, of Chicago, each with 147.

WILL YANKEES REPEAT IN 1928?

Failure to Win Games in Florida Raises Hopes of Other Teams.

PITCHERS WEAK

NEW YORK, April 5.—Before spring training began there was an impression in the American league that the New York Yanks would lop in with the pennant as they did in 1927. This feeling might have been less strong in Philadelphia and in Washington than elsewhere except New York, of course.

When the Yanks failed to win games in Florida, including contests with minor league teams as well as with major outfits, the barometer of hope fluttered toward fair and favorable in cities where the fans had morosely referred to the 1928 American league race as "in."

Miller Huggins, the Yankees' manager, thinks his team will have a harder time winning the pennant this year than they had in 1927. The team thinks as its manager thinks. While Huggins concedes that the Yanks will have a harder time defeating their seven rivals, he does not concede that his men will lose the championship if they play ball as they are capable of playing it individually. There's the rub! If the individuals can muster the same combined strength that they did in 1927 they can win again.

Outfield is Good.

The Yankee outfield is easily the best when Bob Meusel is at his best. Their infield is better than it was in the spring of 1927 because Joe Dugan is playing better ball at third base and is seemingly in better physical condition. Gehrig is over-baseballed. He has had so much of it that it is on his nerves. He is not the type of athlete who should barnstorm after a successful season as he did last fall. It's better to go fishing.

The Yankee pitchers are no better than they were in 1927, but it is to be proved that they are worse. The team will slow down more quickly behind the bat than elsewhere, although it has some very faithful catchers. It has a coming start in Bill Dickey, a youngster who promises to be the leading catcher of baseball if his mind is as comprehensive as his present skill is evident.

Phillies Have Power.

The Philadelphia Athletics have power and they will be in the first division if they make the most of it. The Athletics are apt to be a degree or two short of speed. The Athletics' outfielders are fleet, but they are no as fleet, collectively, as the Yankee outfield.

Washington has an outfield as fast as that of the Athletics and yet not such a ground covering aggregation as that of New York. The fact should not be overlooked that if the pitching in the American league is no better this year than it was last, the pennant is more apt to be decided in the outfield than on the infield. The outfields, except that of the Yankees, were not up to snuff in 1927.

To some extent the strength of the Athletics is in their pile driving power. They are apt to batter opposing pitchers hard. They have good pitchers themselves, but their good pitchers will need the support of the very best outfield that Connie Mack can put out.

Washington is an impish team. It is as sprightly as Puck. Its outfield rates very high. Its infield is no slouch, and its pitchers are a dream because they are so young, some of them, and so proficient, almost all of them.

Are Senators Weakened?

A lot of folks think the Senators have weakened their team by playing Sisler at first base rather than Joe Judge. In 1927 Sisler, playing with a poor team, batted in runs at the rate of nine to Judge's seven. That is certainly an argument in favor of Sisler. A certain American league club owner would have given $25,000 for Sisler, but Phil Ball sold him to Washington for $10,000. That is an argument in favor of Sisler and not so much in favor of Ball, who beared his own market.

The Athletics are stronger behind the bat than either New York or Washington, but in the long run of a championship race, where the batting is heavy and the pitchers are getting punished, three outfielders are worth as much or more to any team than one good catcher, unless he has the skill of a Buck Ewing. Even then it would be perfectly all right to take a little chance on the three to one.

CANZONERI WILL FIGHT IN CHICAGO

Has Signed to Meet Joey Sanger for Featherweight Title.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Score one for Jim Mullen. The Chicago promoter has not been able to break into Tex Rickard's monopoly on the heavyweight championship contests but he has garnered a match the New Yorker would have liked to stage.

Mullen has the signed contract of Tony Canzoneri, featherweight champion, in his hip pocket. Tony's opponent will be Joey Sanger, the Milwaukee battler who treated Bud Taylor rather roughly several weeks ago. Sanger, it will be recalled, had Taylor on the floor hollering "foul." This was not allowed and Taylor was given ten minutes to recover from the punch to the body. Terre Haute Bud was unable to continue after the rest period and was charged with a technical knockout.

Canzoneri is recovering from an attack of influenza. It looked for a time as if Kid flu were going to score a decisive victory over the game little Brooklyn battler, but he is now on the road to good health.

Sammy Goldman has given Mullen a date for the scrap but has requested a little leeway, as he wants his boy to be fit when he tackles the straight punching Sanger. Mullen will do this, for he is as much concerned about a fighter's condition as the fighter himself.

By a queer twist of fate, Sanger is to meet a champion who is managed by the same man who tried to break Joey into New York and eastern rings. In 1922 the writer matched Sanger, then managed by Sammy Goldman, to meet Eddie Bray. The pair went twelve round and the fight was called a draw. Sanger was unable to do his best on account of a boil on his neck. His showing against Brady was not good enough to get Sanger any further engagements in the east and he returned home.

SAME FOUR TEAMS IN E.P.B. LEAGUE

Prospects Good For Coming Season—Two More Entries May Be Received.

Baseball in the East Peterborough League will be as big a drawing card as ever this year. Four teams will in all probability be entered and if the executive wished another couple of teams could be included in the league. Last year it was left with this league to furnish all the baseball that the fans of Peterborough had as the Seniors had a bye and did not get into the game until late in the season.

This season the seniors have not as yet entered a team but one thing the ball fans are assured is that there will be real lively, hotly contested games in the East Peterborough League at the Exhibition Park. The four teams of last year, Bethany, Cognawagas, Crescents, and Raybestos will be in the running and the contests of years gone by will be repeated this year. The executive fears that the strength of the teams will be depleted by an increase in numbers and that the games would not be as interesting. The annual meeting of the league will be held in a few weeks.

BELLEVILLE TO HAVE ARTIFICIAL ICE RINK

BELLEVILLE, April 5.—The committee in charge of raising funds for the new artificial rink to be erected in this city are in receipt of a fine donation of $1,000 from the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company of Corbyville and also the same amount from the Alemite Products of Canada. To date there has been subscribed over $25,000 of the $30,000 required, and Belleville and vicinity is now assured of a modern and up-to-date plant in every respect.

The ice surface of the new rink will be 190 feet by 80 feet, which will put the Belleville teams on even footing with teams who have similar large ice surfaces. It is expected that the construction will be started in the early summer to be ready for next winter's play. There is every prospect of at least two professional teams using the ice for practice purposes before their schedule begins.

C.G.E. WORKERS PLAN FOR SPORT

Summer's Activities Already Being Arranged in Many Lines.

CRICKET ORGANIZED.

More and more each year, industrial concerns the world over are coming to recognize the value of promoting sport among their employees not only because of the resultant benefits to mind and body, and consequent improvement in work done, but also because when men play, as well as work together, there is bound to be a loyalty, an esprit de corps, from which employers and employees benefit alike.

Organized sport for C.G.E. employees is not a new thing; it has been carried on with greater success from year to year until now with the first warm days of spring, there is already discussion and organized effort to get under way, softball, football, cricket, tennis, golf and other branches of recreation. Present indications are of a bigger and better sport year in C.G.E. circles.

Discussing progress already made, E. S. Hardie of the C. G. E. Athletic Association predicted plenty of fun for softball enthusiasts.

Though the annual meeting will not be held until Monday of this coming week, there are prospects of from twelve to sixteen teams from the various departments — which should mean keen competition all the way. The meeting is likely to be a lively one.

Among the employees, there are a great many who think that after all, football is "the" game and they will not be idle this summer. The team to be entered in the city league has been organized and with favorable weather, the first practice game will be held in the next week or so. Then the veterans of last year will face the pick of the younger employees, and the result—think it over.

It will be remembered that at the picnic last year in Cobourg the game between the Davenport and Peterborough plants had to be called but it will be played this July, to the winner goes the M. P. White trophy. A special effort will be made to give the visitors a hard game and a good time.

Cricketers Busy.

Under the presidency of E. Rigby, assisted by Secretary C. J. Alcock, cricket games among the employees will be run off as a new departure this season. Plenty of material for several teams, with practice pitch on the space north of the Armature building, should make this branch a going concern. The cricketers will have plenty of new worlds to conquer for there will be games with the Peterborough club and inter-works competition with the Davenport plant Toronto.

Tennis and golf have not been talked of to any great extent as yet, but it is likely that both will be enjoyed during the summer. There will be the regular C.G.E. competitions, or elimination tournaments.

Another most interecting event is the annual monster picnic, for which the time and place have not yet been definitely set. It will be be held some time during the month of June.

THEATRES

BE SURE AND SEE "DOG HEAVEN" THE COMEDY AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT, AND FOR THE BALANCE OF THE WEEK. YOU NEVER SAW ANYTHING QUITE AS CLEVER, THE PRINCIPAL ACTORS ARE JUST DOGS —TOM MIX AND TONY, ARE THE STARS OF THE FEATURE ATTRACTION, "DAREDEVIL'S REWARD."

"Dog Heaven" is the name of the cleverest comedy, that the writer has ever seen, and it is at the Capitol to-night, and for the balance of the week. The principal actors are just dogs; but what acting! If you miss this one you will regret it, it's worth making a special effort to see.

The feature production is "Daredevil's Reward" featuring Tom and Tony Mix. Tom wins for himself the title of "Ace of Rangers". The intrepid Westerner portrays the courageous ranger whose daring is the cause of many exciting scenes.

Smashing his way through tremendous odds, Mix's indomitable spirit brings his enemies to their knees and wins the girl of his heart.

Others in the cast are Natalie Joyce, Lawford Davidson, Billy Bletcher, William Welch and Harry Cording.

SINGERS DRAWN FROM THE MOST FAMOUS CATHEDRALS OF ENGLAND COMING HERE

Members of vocal bodies and admirers of English cathedral singing cannot afford to miss the appearance here of the Westminster Glee Singers. They come here as wonderful examples of true genuis and the vocal art. They will be found worthy in their finish and in artistic excellence.

The engagement is of particular interest to music lovers, and it should do much to spread the love of music, in that the presentation comes under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General and of His Grace Archbishop Matheson, Primate of All Canada.

The Westminster Singers are under the direction of Edward Branscombe, who was for ten years soloist at Westminster Abbey, and they include men and boys from England's famous cathedrals.

The company numbers sixteen, among whom are Donald Reid, formerly boy soloist at Westminster Abbey and Canterbury Cathedral, and finally solo alto at St. Paul's Cathedral. James Davis, tenor soloist at St. Paul's Cathedral, Wilfrid Kearton, orginally tenor singer at Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral, and later receiving the appointment of soloist at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, with Carlton Borrow, A.R.C.O., organist and accompanist.

Diversity characterises the program in which these singers will be heard, particular attention being paid to the choice of selections. Old-world glees, madrigals, and part songs are represented, with a fine assortment of old and modern sacred music.

There is no doubt that such an organisation will meet with a splendid reception here. It may be pointed out that they were compelled to give 42 performances in Sydney, New South Wales, and have in all given 625 performances to date on their Empire tour.

The Glee Singers will be heard here on Good Friday and Saturday at the Grand.

SIDNEY AND MURRAY REACH A NEW HEIGHT IN MIRTH-MAKING

What a relief from viewing "heavy drammer" of the screen is afforded by "The Life of Riley," the feature-length comedy at the Regent Theatre! It is like a light, frosty dessert.

George Sidney and Charlie Murray, co-featured in this film, which E. M. Asher produced for First National Pictures, certainly prove the contention that comedy teams are natural mirth-making material for the screen. Each of these comedians has been famous singly and in combination with "foils," on the stage and in celluloid.

Their work together in "The Life of Riley," however, reaches new height in mirth-making for Sidney and Murray, individually and as a team. Excellent characterizations provided in thtis original story by Mann Page assist the comics in topping their own records.

Sidney is Chief of Police in a rural town, and Murray is Fire Chief. Sidney is iceman on the side ;Murray keeper of the general store. The widow for whose hand they compete is played exceedingly well by Myrtle Stedman, and Sam Hardy, inimitable comedy villain, is a "city slicker."

An unnusual feature of the Life of Riley" is a charmingliy naive and wistful junior love affair enacted by June Marlowe and Stephen Carr. It is straight romance rather than comedy, although well-woven into the riotous, rapid-fire mirth sequences. Plot, too, enters into the story through the efforts of Riley, the Fire Chief, to sell his fire-extinguisher invention, and the villain's almost successful attempts to foil him.

The opportunities for comedy afforded by rustic village atmosphere are enhanced by the arrival of a big circus in town, and other events that afford contrast and color. William Beaudine, who directed the picture, and his comedy-constructor, Jack Mintz, have taken advantage of every opportunity to intensify the fun.

Excellent characterizations are contributed by Edward Davis and Bert Woodruff, while feminine pulchritude is supplied not only by Misses Stedman and Marlowe, but by various circus and sideshow girls, and the justly-famous buxom rustic beauties.

All in all, "The Life of Riley" is an excellent comedy dish for those who like to smile, giggle, chuckle or howl. Our advise is to loosen your belt before the picture starts, and prepare for mirthful convulsions.

BOSTON, April 5.—(Canadian Press).—Although the Boston Bruins were eliminated from the National Hockey League championship playoffs by the Rangers here Tuesday night, local hockey fans may have a chance to see some of the Stanley Cup games between the New York Rangers and the Montreal Maroons.

The Maroons won their way to the finals by defeating Canadiens while the Bruins were losing to the Rangers. Yesterday the Bruins management offered the Rangers the use of the local arena and all the facilities which had been made ready in case the Boston team won through to the finals.

Because of another attraction at Madison Square Garden, the Ranger's home rink, the New York team will be unable to play any of its games there and it was expected that all of the Stanley Cup games would be played in Montreal. The Bruins' management had tickets printed and all preparations made for the games here if the team won.

Colonel John S. Hammond of the Rangers was yesterday offered the use of the rink and tickets and the cooperation of the Bruins. He took the offer under consideration.

Timmie's on the Job.

Modern women wear fewer clothes

More delicate clothes, even for every day. More expensive. And far more difficult to take care of. Because fewer clothes are worn they are apt to soil more quickly. Because they are fragile, they require more safeguarding in the wash. The laundry soap to which you entrust the cleansing of these nice things must be gentle yet thorough.

You have the CERTAINTY of safety, when you use Surprise. It works in, and rinses out, completely. Without harming a thread.

And Science has for forty-four years steadily been making Surprise Soap better—adding other merits to its Safety.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XVI—Galileo Recants

THREATENED with the dungeons of the Inquisition, Galileo agreed to conform, and for years neither published nor taught. But when a new Pope came to the throne, Urban VIII, a cultured man with greater promise of intelligence, he took courage and began to profess his faith again. Alas, Urban was no more open-minded than his predecessor. Haled again before the Inquisition and threatened with torture, Galileo was compelled to sign that bitter recantation which has come down through the ages:

> "I, Galileo, being in my seventieth year, being a prisoner and on my knees, and before your Eminences, having before my eyes the Holy Gospel, which I touch with my hands, abjure, curse and detest the error and the heresy of the movement of the earth."

Seventy years old he was, and his recantation spared his life. But it did not gain his freedom nor liberate him from abuse. To the end of his days he was confined and annoyed until, blind, wasted and pitiful, he passed away. Even then the persecution did not cease. His petition that he be buried in his family tomb, was denied. His friends wished to erect a monument over him, but their desire was thwarted by the Pope.

"It would be an evil example for the world," said the Holy Father, "if such honors were rendered to a man who had been brought before the Roman Inquisition for an opinion so false and erroneous; who had communicated it to so many others and who had given so great a scandal to Christendom."

Alone, apart from his family, he was cast into an ignoble grave, and not for a hundred years did the hostility of the theologians relent sufficiently to allow his remains to be removed to a worthy tomb and a monument erected over them.

Protestants the Same

The persecutors of Copernicus and Galileo, the burners of Bruno, were Catholics, for the Catholic Church was in power. But let no one assume that Protestants were more tolerant or that, given the authority, they would have acted otherwise.

Said Luther: "People gave ear to an upstart astrologer (Copernicus) who strove to shew that the earth revolves, not the heavens or the firmament, the sun and the moon. . . . This fool wishes to reverse the entire science of astronomy; but sacred Scripture tells us that Joshua commanded the sun to stand still, and not the earth."

To which Melancthon, the mildest of the reformers, added eight proofs that "the earth can be nowhere if not in the center of the universe," and suggested that such teachings as those of Copernicus merited the severest penalties.

For hundred of years the world was held back because theologians contended that God had put all He knew into one single old book and would never send fresh revelations to men.

Even the purest Christian characters, Isaac Newton, Pascal, Locke, Milton, were denounced as "atheists" and "infidels." And Descartes, whose proofs of the existence of God have been a powerful influence on millions of modern minds, would have been tortured to death by the Protestants of Holland if they could have laid their hands on him, and was thwarted throughout his life by the Catholics of France and denied decent honors after his death.

Humorous If Not Tragic

The story of the struggle would be humorous if it were not so tragic. Always science was just a step ahead. Always the church was in the sad necessity of having to admit what it had just denounced, with its infallible authority, as untrue. Carefully worked out theological proofs were hardly arrived at before something happened to unsettle them.

Thus Dr. John Lightfoot, Vice Chancellor of the University of Cambridge and one of the most learned Hebrew scholars of his time, after a painful searching of the Scriptures announced that "heaven and earth, center and circumference, were created all together, in the same instant, and clouds full of water," and that "this work took place and man was created by the Trinity on October 23, 4004 B. C., at nine o'clock in the morning."

A great discovery indeed. Yet less than two centuries later the spades of explorers in Egypt revealed the fact that a very cultivated people, enjoying most of the comforts of modern civilization, were dwelling peacefully upon the shores of the Nile many decades before Doctor Lightfoot's date of creation.

BOWLERS PLAN FOR BIG SEASON

Five More Rinks Provided For and New Rules Approved.

TOURNAMENT IN JULY.

The regular spring meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club was held in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce last night and from reports presented the lawn bowlers will have one of the largest seasons in their history this year. The number of rinks have been increased from 19 to 24, making an addition of about 20 new players to the club.

J. H. Sedgwick, the president of the club, occupied the chair and about 35 members were present. A new set of rules and regulations was adopted. Under the new rules any two members, irrespective of rank, will compose a legal rink. Each game will be 16 ends and in the case of a tie the play will continue until one rink has scored an end. All substitutes must play in their rank as far as possible and in the case of a substitute playing below his rank he will be penalized three points for the game. If one man plays two pair of bowls his rink will be penalized three points. Ten ends constitute a legal game in the event of rain.

The bowlers this year will have a two-day tournament, on July 18 and 19, when visitors from all over Ontario will be engaged in the annual bonspiel.

A committee was given power to act in making renovations to the club house. At present it is contemplating putting in sanitary conveniences and moving the house nearer to Aylmer street.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.
Those who preach Satan's lie, must of a necessity manufacture more untruths, else, where would they put the dead person who they claim is alive? Satan contradicted the Word of God and said man would not die, and for centuries Satan's lie has been preached in church systems, and is still being preached in churches, mission halls, and the Salvation Army. This lie nullifies the glorious doctrine of the resurrection. If the original lie and its concomitant untruths were honestly investigated, the result would be visible and veritable absurdities. It would not take long for honest endeavor to discover the foolery that arises out of making Satan's lie the foundation on which to build up doctrine. Those who will not accept the plain statements of Scripture and allow themselves to be intimidated and blindfolded by preachers, who ought to know better, are in a pitiable condition.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-82-4435

RADIO TO BE USED IN DRIVE AGAINST RUM SMUGGLERS

Open Communication Between Amphibian Aeroplanes Co-operating With Government Rum-chasers

ON GREAT LAKES

Expected New System Will Be Ready For Operation About May 5th

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 7 (Canadian Press). — Radio is to be used in a drive against rum smugglers on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

Lieutenant Martin W. Rasmussen, district commander, announced yesterday that the coastguard will install three low wave radio telephone stations to communicate with a fleet of amphibian aeroplanes co-operating with rum-chasers on the Lakes. The stations will be located at Buffalo, Erie,Pa., and Cleveland.

The radio system will be ready for operation on the arrival on May 5 of the first division of rum-chasers assigned to the Great Lakes, Lieut. Rasmussen said. The division will have twelve 75-foot boats.

Airplanes which will be used to spot rum smugglers, will turn their information over to the land stations, which will inform the nearest picket boats.

In the second division of rum-chasers, due to arrive on the Lakes later in the spring from New Jersey, will be a number of high-speed chasers, designed to outclass any of the smugglers' craft known to be operating.

Operation of the augmented fleet will require five new floating bases. These will be established at Dunkirk, N.Y., Conneaut, Vermillion, Huron, and Toledo, Ohio.

Coastguard recruiting officers this week opened a campaign at Ogdensburg and Mackinac Island to bring the list of new men up to 100.

Out Hunting Rabbits Bags Large Lioness

DALLAS, Texas, April 7.—(Canadian Press).—Carl Payton, a farmer of near Rowlett, Texas, was rabbit hunting yesterday and bagged a seven foot lioness. The beast had escaped from its cage, while in shipment, and jumped from the car between Dallas and Greenville Thursday night.

Joe Burhart, a farmer, saw a big animal under a culvert shortly after daybreak when he went to repair a fence. He called Payton, who was hunting nearby. The lioness jumped from cover and Payton emptied his pump shotgun, killing her.

COLD AND RAIN FOR EASTER DAY

Weatherman Predicts Northerly Winds, With Showers. To-morrow.

SNOW IN NORTH.

TORONTO, April 7. — Canadian Press. — Ontario generally has been favored with summer-like weather for the past few days, with the temperature reaching 72 degrees in Toronto yesterday. To-day, however, the weather was becoming unsettled, with the temperature slightly lower, and showers predicted before night. Snow is reported in northern districts, though to-day conditions in central and western Ontario were still a little premature for this period of the year.

The forecast of Easter Sunday weather in this region brought dismay to devotees of fashion to-day, the weatherman predicting northerly winds with showers and much colder temperatures.

Canada No Place For Very Short Man

TORONTO, April 7 (Canadian Press).—Declaring Canada has no place for a short man, Samuel Barbour, formerly of Newcastle, England, who is slightly under five feet in height, is asking the immigration authorities to aid him to return to England, where he can resume his occupation of painter. Three farmers by whom he has been employed here said he was too small to make a farmer, Barbour claims.

JUDGES CHOSEN FOR HOBBY SHOW

Any Boy in City and District Eligible To Make Exhibits.

The following is a list of those who will judge in the various sections of the Boys' Hobby Show which will be held commencing on Thursday of next week. Each judge has been selected because of his particular knowledge or interest, and in every case the exhibitors are assured of the closest attention to details. The judging will be done, except for the dog show, before Friday noon, April 13, and place cards put in position ready for that afternoon.

The directors particularly desire to emphasize the fact that this hobby show is not promoted for any particular group of boys but is open to any boy in the city or district. Some have thought that because the show is held in the Y.M.C.A. building that it is limited in its scope. The directors want every boy who has anything to show to fill in an entry blank and to show his work or possessions in competition with all other boys. The judges are:

FEW CHICKENS ON SALE TO-DAY

Those Offered On Market Are Quickly Snapped Up For Easter Dinners.

EGG BASKETS MARKETED.

"Pigs and potatoes" were the products that one man brought to the market this morning, probably thinking more of the "Seventeenth of Ireland" market than the one centreing about Easter. Buttermilk could be had, too, to finish out the traditional meal.

Chickens were scarce in the basket section this morning and disappeared at an early hour. Thirty-five cents a pound was the price generally asked for them. A goose weighing eleven pounds was thirty cents a pound ,and a lone turkey was 35 cents.

Eggs ranged from the smaller pullet's samples at 30 cents a dozen, to "Firsts" at 34 cents and "Extras" at 36 cents. The ladies have taken to the practise of using printed cards to designate the quality of their goods. Most of the egg baskets are marked in some way. Butter was 40 to 43 cents a pound.

Maple syrup sold at 70 and 75 cents a quart, and $2.50 a gallon. Little round cakes of maple sugar were 10 cents apiece.

Potatoes were $1.70 and $1.75 a bag.

Little piglets that had broad Berkshire splashes down their Yorkshire backs were $4 apiece and washed-looking pure Yorkshires in small sizes were $8 a pair.

Little collie pups were $3 apiece. Another frightened looking small pup was offered at half a dollar.

OLD DWELLING IS TORN DOWN

AT LEAST 75 YEARS OLD.

The march of progress cancels old landmarks. Buildings that once served the purpose for which they were erected become obsolete and are torn town, making room for other buildings that are modern. This is especially the case when a hamlet grows into a village and a village becomes the town and the town develops into a full-fledged city.

During the week, the old frame house at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets was torn down, making room for larger improvements around the service station situated on the corner.

The old blacksmith shop which was torn down before the service station was erected went hand in hand with the old house. In the early days these two were erected together, the house being the home of the village blacksmith, although Peterbrough was never actually a village. How long the house has been built is not known, but one old citizen told The Examiner that 75 years ago is was a community centre.

For the last few years the house has been divided into two parts. Dr. Rogers had his office in one half, and George A. Foy his workshop in the other. The upstairs was used as a dwelling.

When the workmen came to tear down the house they found that it had been built of the best of timber and lumber. The timbers were larger than those which are now put in the modern barn and the studding was four inches by four inches. More lumber was taken out than would build a house three times the size now.

London High School Teachers Re-instated

LONDON, Ont., April 7 (Canadian Press).—E. C. Liebner, one of the Central Collegiate Institute teachers dismissed some time ago, has been reinstated, the Board of Education announced Thursday following a caucus. With G. K. Bluett taken back on the staff, the controversy which raged to the point where students and teachers threatened to strike in protest, is ended.

JOHN B. GAULD IN HOSPITAL WITH BULLET IN HIS ABDOMEN

Boy Shot When Companion's Rifle Is Accidentally Discharged.

LITTLE HOPE HELD.

John B. Gauld, aged 14, was shot at 1.30 this afternoon when the rifle which he was carrying discharged, and the bullet entered his abdomen. Gauld was rushed to Nicholls hospital, where three doctors are working on him this afternoon trying to save his life, but at present there is very little hope of his recovery. The boy, with three chums, was going on a hunting expedition.

When near Jackson Park, on the Canadian National tracks, the boys started to shoot at a tin can. Philip Marrocco, aged 17, went to aim at the can, but before he did he turned to young Gauld and asked him to take the cigarette out of his mouth. As he turned the rifle went off.

The other two boys were George Gauld, an older brother of the boy who was shot, and Morris Hynds. George owned the rifle, and he told The Examiner that it had a bad lock, and he had been warned by his father that someone might be hurt some time.

The boy's father is George T. Gauld, who recently volunteered to lay the famous Keating ghost of Seymour township. The family came to the city from Port Hope a few months ago, living first on Elm street. There are eight other children.

Indicted On Charge Of Murdering Teacher

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 7.—(Canadian Press). — Frederick Hinman Knowlton, of Framingham, was indicted by the Middlesex County Grand Jury yesterday for the murder of Miss Marguerite I. Stewart, teacher at the Beverly School for the Deaf, whose body was found beside a highway in Concord last Friday night.

The indictment was handed down after a special session of the Grand Jury called to consider the case. The indictment failed to name the place at which the crime was committeed as police believe the girl was killed elsewhere and her body taken to the spot where it was discovered.

CAR DERAILED; TRAINMAN HURT

Harvey J. Staunton Cut and Bruised at Quaker Oats Siding.

CAR FALLS DOWN BANK.

Harvey J. Staunton, C.N.R. trainman on the yard engine, had a very narrow escape from death this morning, when the freight car on which he was riding jumped the tracks on the east siding of the Quaker Oats building and plunged down the embankment, stopping but a few feet from the river.

Mr. Staunton was cut about the face and suffered several bruises to the head. The accident occurred about 8.30 when the yard engine was up at the Quaker Oats sidings placing some empty box cars. Mr. Staunton was riding on one of a string of four that had been shunted in on the east siding when the accident occurred. The cause of the car jumping the tracks is not known. The box left the trucks and plunged over the embankment.

KNOX W.M.S. GIVES THANKOFFERING

The Easter thank-offering meeting of the W.M.S. of Knox United Church was held on Thursday in the church, with a large attendance.

Miss Dickson presided, and the responsive reading leaflet was used for the devotional exercises. Mrs. Watt assisted.

A very profitable address was given by Miss Lancaster.

The speaker spoke of the old Easter customs and those of 1928, and stressed the need of the women of all countries banding together seriously to secure lasting peace.

Mrs. Ross Williamson sang very sweetly, "I Love to Tell the Story".

Mrs. Pollock read, "Mrs. Morgan's quarter" a thanksgiving leaflet, and Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Ego read the Scripture texts from the thank-offering envelopes.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. A. McKenzie and a very suitable leaflet read by Miss Dickson.

The meeting closed with singing "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

DISCOUNT ON CURRENT RATES INCREASED BY CAMPBELLFORD

NOW 20 PER CENT.

Town's Engineering Representative is Appointed for Paving Program.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7. — The Water and Light Commission met in regular monthly session on Thursday in the commission office, Ferris Block. Several matters of importance were discussed, among them being the change in the discount on commercial current from ten per cent. to twenty per cent. This was moved by A. L. Riendeau and seconded by G. A. Kingston. The notice of motion having been brought in at a previous meeting, the matter was passed without delay and will take effect almost immediately. The motion reads, in effect, that bylaw number 6, section fifteen, be made to read twenty per cent discount for prompt payment where before it read ten per cent. This will not affect the "power" rates, merely the "commercial" rates. A rider to the motion also provides a minimum charge of 62½ cents per month, or $1.25 every two months when the accounts are sent out. Thus when the discount is considered, the charge will be one dollar for two months as a minimum. A lower charge would not pay for the service, the engineer believed.

A letter from J. A. Irwin, merchant, claimed that his water service had twice been frozen during the winter, and he considered that the commission should refund him the cost of at least one thawing since, he claimed, the water main had been frozen. In the opinion of Mr. Scott, engineer, the water main had not been frozen, and the board decided to take no action. Mayor Kingston brought in a request from four farmers on the sixth concession of Seymour for electricity for their farms. He explained that the farmers could not attend the meeting held at the hour which the commission meets on account of farm work. There was some discussion of the matter, and the chairman, Sam Abernethy, expressed the opinion that the commission would meet them on the same terms as the others. Mr. Scott wished it clearly understood that there had been no soliciting done by the commission and that the request was in no way sought, but made entirely by the free will of the farmers.

The fifty horse-power motor which is the property of the commission and is at present not in use, was another topic for consideration. The possibility of selling it or using it in connection with the town gravel crusher in place of the one rented from Quinlan & Robertson was considered for some time, and finally left over till a future meeting. After Riendeau had put his motion for an increase in the commercial lighting discount and the accounts and pay sheets passed, the meeting adjourned.

Paving Inspector.

Having been in communication with Mr. F. S. Lazier, Mayor Kingston called a special meeting of the Town Council on Wednesday in the Town Clerk's office for the purpose of dealing with applications for the position of engineering representative of the town during the paving program. There were six applications submitted and considered. Of these one was from a local engineer. The appointment was given to the firm of James, Proctor and Redfern, Limited, Toronto, which will, it is understood, assign A. H. E. Keffer to the work.

Mr. Lazier has already done considerable work toward preparing estimates and mapping the paved area, but finds it impossible to devote the major portion of his time to the work here. His present interests demand his presence in the neighborhood of Boston, Mass., and also in the city of Montreal. The engineering company which is taking over the work here has agreed to accept the work already done by Mr. Lazier.

Engineer Is Held On Smuggling Charge

NEW YORK, April 7 (Associated Press). — Sixteen thousand pounds of rifle ammunition believed to have been intended for the Sandino rebel forces in Nicaragua were in the hands of the customs authorities yesterday.

The ammunition was seized in the stateroom of P. Traetvik, second engineer of the steamship Lampira of the Atlantic Navigation Company, which plies between New York and Honduras.

Traetvik was held by customs authorities in the belief that he had been regularly engaged in running ammunition to Nicaragua. He was charged with violation of the presidential proclamation of March 2, 1924, limiting exportation of munitions.

TRAFFIC HELD UP ON THE HIGHWAY

Considerable Inconvenience Caused to Motorists by Bad Spots on Road.

NEAR BAILIEBORO

Gravel sections of the Port Hope Peterboro Highway, are in poor condition and practically impossible for traffic despite every effort on the part of the Highway department.

Motorists are put to a considerable inconvenience although about ten teams of horses and a tractor are assisting the cars and trucks across the bad spots. They are putting straw on the road but this does not provide a very firm bed for traction of the rear wheels. The road was passable for motorists up until about four o'clock Thursday. A man has been stationed at Bailieboro and another near Port Hope to warn the motorists of the dangers. The men and teams are giving a twenty-four hour service in pulling the cars along the sunken road which at one place is about a half a mile long. The contract has been signed to pave those sections this year. Many motorists stopped to watch the operations while the teams hauled the cars through the mud.

Signs Posted.

That the Peterborough Automobile Club is alert in the interests of local motorists is indicated by the large sign, at the city boundary, which reads: "Roads below Bewdley are impassable."

Certain sections of the Highway below Bewdley have developed their annual "springiness," and much inconvenience to motorists has been the result to long lines of motorists, observing the efforts of heavily laden, clumsy trucks to "wade" through.

"We'll caution Peterborough people against attempting this trip at the present time," said James Juby, president of the club, "and immediately petition the Government to proceed with all possible despatch, with the paving of at least the section in which we can look for trouble every spring."

SPLENDID SINGING AT GEORGE STREET

Choir Sings "The Seven Last Words" at Good Friday Concert.

The choir of George Street United Church presented the sacred cantata, "The Seven Last Words" (Dubois), the passion story set to music, last evening to a large and very appreciative audience. The pulpit platform was decorated with palms and ferns, and made an attractive setting for the musicians. Rev. J. E. Todd presided, and after the singing of a hymn, opened the service with prayer.

The first part of the program was a short recital by the visiting soloist, Gladstone Brown, tenor, of Toronto, who sang "King all Glorious," from the Crucifixion by Stainer; "The Sorrows of Death," and "Watchman, What of the Night?" from Hymn of Praise. Mr. Brown possesses a very fine expressive tenor voice, with a wide range and much power and sweetness, and his voice was particularly good in his last number. Mrs. G. F. Liddle sang "Eastertide," by Samuel Liddle, very sweetly, her rich contralto voice being heard to splendid advantage.

In "The Seven Last Words" some fine solo numbers were rendered by Miss Daisy Murray whose fine soprano voice is always much appreciated, while Douglas Carlisle's fine baritone voice, which includes some beautiful high tones, was a delight. Mr. Brown also rendered some fine solo parts in "The Seven Last Words."

The choir was well balanced and showed the careful training of the director, G. F. Liddle.

NOTICE.

The men of the Sacred Heart Parish will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass to-morrow (Easter Sunday).

1916 Murder Case At Madoc Recalled

Man Arrested at Rochester Says He Is Wanted For Crimes in Hastings County Several Years Ago—Police Investigating.

DEATHS OF MONTGOMERY BROTHERS WERE NEVER FULLY CLEARED UP

MADOC, April 7.—"Has the slayer of Walter Montgomery been found." is the question that is being asked in this village to-day; for the Provincial Police at Belleville have been asked by the authorities in Rochester for information regarding a man whom they are holding, named Johnson, formerly of Hastings County. The inquiry concerns unsolved offenses committed or mysterious deaths which occurred over six years ago.

In October, 1916, Walter Montgomery, a bachelor, living alone on a farm in Madoc Township, was found dead in the apple bin in his drive shed. He had been struck on the head with some instrument while carrying a bag of apples to the bin, and was located by a trail of bloodstains. Suspicion rested on his brother, Joseph, as quarrels between the two over their father's will had been reported. The case was in the hands of the late Detective Slemin of Toronto, who ordered the arrest of Joseph Montgomery.

Joseph Montgomery was found in his cell in Madoc jail a few days later with his throat cut. He was taken to Belleville hospital, where he died. Before his death, he said he had had nothing to do with his brother's death, but he did not say anything about his own condition. About the same time a knife was found in the stove of the jail, about thirty feet from Montgomery's cell, which added mystery to the case.

For months the Provincial detectives and police worked on the mystery but no solution was ever reached, although the general feeling of the village was that Joseph was not likely the assassin of his brother and that he did not suicide but that someone might have broken into the cell and stabbed him in the neck.

It is not known if these are the mysterious deaths that the Rochester police are referring to, but this information has been forwarded to the authorities of that city.

The Rochester radio station gave information on Wednesday night that the man being held had admitted to the Rochester police that he had been connected with serious offences some years ago in this county.

William Jones, a deaf mute, was another man whose death was never cleared up. He was killed several years ago while walking from Marmora Township to Ivanhoe and no clue to the slayer was ever unearthed.

GLEE SINGERS TO TOUR CITY

Automobile Club Arranging To Take Visitors For Drive To-morrow.

VOLUNTERES WANTED.

James Dutton, president-elect of the Chamber of Commerce, advanced the suggestion that the Westminster Glee Singers, who leave Peterborough to-morrow, be shown the city.

Accordingly, volunteers are being sought who will loan their cars, and at 9.30 a.m., Sunday morning, take the party of 16 on a short tour of the city.

"It is essential," suggests President Dutton, "that these visitors from afar carry away with them a good impression of the city of Peterborough, as they are to travel in quarters where the possibilities of our city should be favorably and more widely known."

MISSION CIRCLE CHOOSES NAME

George Street Young Ladies Will Be Known as "Twilight Circle."

The regular monthly meeting of the George Street Mission Circle was held on Thursday evening. At 6 o'clock the girls sat down to a bountiful supper served by Section D, under the leadership of Miss Evelyn Routley.

The president, Miss Helen Burns, presided for the business meeting and after the routine business was concluded a discussion took place regarding a name for the Circle. It was decided to call it the Twilight Circle. Mrs. H. Morton, superintendent of the Circle, then explained the chart by which a record of each group's work could be kept. Contributions were made to the Circle's allocation.

It was decided to have the Smith young people, who presented the play, "An Old Fashioned Mother," some time ago, put on another play under the auspices of the Twilight Circle. The Scripture reading was given by Miss Sayres. Miss Vera Squires read an interesting Irish story.

The heralds, Miss Evelyn Miller and Miss Margaret Walker, reported on India and Africa respectively. The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn.

A meeting of several of the members of the recently formed League of Nations Society, was held in the Public Library on Thursday afternoon when it was decided to ask the clergymen of the various denominations in the city to make appropriate reference to the forthcoming drive for membership on the Sunday immediately preceding the 17th of April. An effort to make the entire church services conform to the patriotic and peace spirit of the occasion was also suggested.

Members of the society will be stationed at the church doors on that Sunday with books in which names of men and women desirous of registering membership in the organization, will be placed.

The plane is all metal and has a single wing of cantilever construction. The wing spread is fifty feet and the wing is quite thick, which gives it lifting power. The plane is built low and the entire fuselage is stream-lined to cut down wind resistance. A flying radius of five thousand miles and a maximum speed of 160 miles an hour is the claim for the plane by its designers.

FAIR MEETING IS POSTPONED

Lack of Quorum Makes Official Business Impossible on Thursday.

PLANS DISCUSSED.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7.—Owing to the almost impassable condition of the roads in many places, there were not enough of the directors of the Seymour Agricultural Society present at the meeting scheduled to be held in the Public Library on Thursday night, to form a quorum. Several members who were reminded of the meeting by telephone said the roads were too bad for them to drive their horses over them after dark unless in case of absolute necessity. The members who were present discussed the advisability of holding the usual celebration on the 24th of May. Several suggestions were made, but nothing definite could be done with so few of the directors present. The meeting was adjourned till eight o'clock Friday, April 13th. In the meantime, a committee will interview merchants and business men of the town regarding the matter and report at the special meeting.

MILLBROOK COUNCIL DISCUSSES PAVING

New Drain Must Be Laid Before King Street is Surfaced.

MILLBROOK, April 7.—The Council held a special session on Monday with A. W. Connors, engineer, of Toronto, and Mr. Lytle, of Peterboro contractor, present, to discuss with them the matter of a new drain which must be laid before the paving program for King Street is proceeded with. After the whole matter had been thoroughly threshed out it was finally decided to request Mr. Connors to prepare a new statement with the cost of the drain having the outlet at the Lower Mill, intead of at King street creek, as at present; and reducing the size of tile provided for in the original estimates. It is expected that the original storm drain can be utilized for surface draining of the business section, thus reducing the amount of water which the main drain would have to carry. The council expects to be in a position to go ahead with the work on the drain as soon as weather conditions permit.

WOMEN'S MEMORIAL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED AT MARMORA

Will Arrange for Obtaining Clock to be Placed in Memorial Building.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. C. A. Bleecker is President and Mrs. J. P. Marrin Vice-President.

MARMORA, April 7.—For the purpose of organizing a movement to deal with the purchase of a clock for the new memorial building, a public meeting of Marmora ladies was convened at the Council Chambers in Thursday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Bleecker presided over a large, enthusiastic attendance. In opening discussion on the matter, Mrs. Bleecker referred to the idea of a clock as a most fortunate one. She reminded those present that a town clock was handy, not only for those living to-day, but it was something to benefit those who come afterwards. Following expression of opinions as to style and cost, a show of hands revealed the unanimous desire to carry the project through. The name of the movement was next considered and eventually the suggested Women's Memorial League was agreed to without a dissentment. Mrs. H. Crawford at this point acted as secretary pro tem. Officers of the league next chosen were: President, Mrs. C. A. Bleecker; vice-president, Mrs. J. P. Marrin; secretary, Mrs. T. W. Rhind; treasurer, Mrs. (Dr.) H. Crawford; executive, Mrs. E. DISCUSS INDIAN POETESS

Warsaw Young People Hear Interesting Talk on Pauline Johnston.

WARSAW, April 7. — Despite the very bad roads there was a good attendance at the Warsaw Young People's meeting held in the Baptist Church on Tuesday evening. Some few who were to have taken part were unable to be present. The evening was a literary one, the subject, "Pauline Johnston," being taken by Gerald Crowe.

Mr. Crowe gave a sketch of her life, from her birth and early childhood, her young womanhood, and her brave fight against disease, her death, and her own wish to have her ashes scattered. He told how she first came before the public, and of her travels and her writings. Clarence Payne read "Canadian-born," Della Tucker read "At Half-mast," and Mrs. Vivian Jackson read "The Cattle-thief."

Senior Room Closed.

The senior room at Warsaw School was closed on Tuesday evening until after Easter.

Mr. Currie is writing examinations on Wednesday and Thursday.

Road Conditions.

The boundary from D. Miller's gate, south, was broken on Wednesday morning, and the whole length of road was disced in the afternoon.

The stage went by motor on Tuesday and was stuck on a hill near Douro Church.

A gasoline tank came to the village on Tuesday, but no other large trucks are willing to face the roads. They do not know when they may break through a crust of soft ice and get into a water-hole, with one side of the truck high and the other low and in a hole. Those who have live stock to ship are anxiously waiting.

PAPERS BELIEVE PUNISHMENT HARD

Public Opinion Aroused in Naval Case, Says Daily Herald.

LONDON, April 7 (Canadian Press). — The London morning newspapers comment extensively on the court-martials of Commander Daniel and Captain Dewar on charges of conduct subversive of discipline, which concluded on Thursday at Gibralter.

The Daily Herald asserts that public opinion has been outraged by the drastic punishments awarded for indiscretions which, in a libel action, would have resulted in the delinquents being mulcted of one farthing damages.

The public assumes as a matter of course that Dewar and Daniel will be given further employment at an early date, the Daily Mail says.

The Daily Express says that the decision in each case technically was inevitable. The cases of Dewar and Daniel deserved special consideration since their action was prompted by excessive zeal and loyalty.

Talking Books Next.

NEW YORK, April 7 (Canadian Press).—Talking books may soon be on the market. Dr. Whitnel, director of the General Electric's laboratory, is working on such a device and thinks is it practicable. A long strip of film would be translated into words by a loud speaker.

ON ENTERING THE WORKSHOP of John Plane I found him looking lovingly at some beautiful Easter lilies, and could not help saying to him, "Well, John, what's on your mind this morning?" Looking up at me with a merry twinkle in his eyes, he said, "I was just wondering, as I gazed upon these lovely flowers, how many church folks remembered, at this season of the church year, the words of the Master when He said, 'And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?' Mr. Preacher, don't you think that for many people Easter is nothing more than a dress parade? Their chief problem seems to be the clothing problem. And the interesting thing to me is that they are headed in the right direction without knowing it. They may be on their way, but they don't know where they are going. All they think of is dress, which at the end of the road can be taken no farther than a casket.

A New Uniform.

"Unless I have listened in vain to the many great preachers whom I have heard, Easter represents more than a suit of clothes which the moths can feed upon.

"I have heard of a young woman whose brother had been reported slain in battle during the Great War. For days she mourned with a broken heart. All the joy seemed to have been subtracted from her life by the sorrow that entered her heart when she heard of the death of her brother. One night she had a dream. And in her dream it seemed as if she were with her brother again. Looking at him with surprise and joy she said, 'Oh, how good it is to see you again! I have been breaking my heart because of losing you. I thought you were dead!' Then her brother spoke a parable to her as he said, 'No, I am not dead: I am only waiting for a new uniform in which to appear before the King.'

"Then she awoke from her sleep to discover that she had been dreaming. But that dream altered her view of things as she realized that her brother was really waiting for a new uniform which would be given to him at the resurrection.

"Mr. Preacher, you ought to know that it is written in the book which you love to expound, 'For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were disolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.' In view of that it seems foolish to me to worry so much about raiment which is destined for destruction, and give so little thought to the conditions upon which we get a new and glorious body when the last Easter shall come."

The Black Camel.

As I thought of John's words I remembered what a preacher friend once wrote. He said: "I have just come from a home at whose doors, as the Arabs say, the Black Camel has knelt; and I have witnessed something I have seen before but can never understand. Why should Christian people, when one of their own is taken Home, grieve as if Easter meant nothing to them?"

This is a question which has arisen in the experience of most ministers as they have sought to minister comfort to the bereaved. It is strange, if you will take time to think of it, how some people can with ease accept the facts of the Faith and yet refrain from applying those facts. This is one of the puzzling things about our present-day Christianity. If our Christianity, as it too often is, is only theoretical or nominal, it will leave the life barren and cheerless when there is a dead body in the house.

An Established Fact.

One of the best authenticated facts in history is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. If you are present when a congregation is reciting the Apostles' Creed, you will hear these words, "On the third day He arose again from the dead. He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty." In the congregation is Mr. Nominal and Mrs. Superficial. They repeat the words, they acknowledge their assurance that Jesus rose; —and then what?

Casting Suspicion.

Then, when some shallow skeptic casts suspicion on the gospel, they begin to doubt, though the resurrection of Jesus is the proof of the truth of His Gospel, as He said it would be: "There shall no sign be given but the sign of Jonah the prophet: for as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the whale, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." It was in this way that Jesus risked the authenticity of His Gospel. He was willing to let it rest on the fact of His resurrection.

What I Have Noticed.

I can see too many church people living as if this present existence were all that they had and it must be made the most of. Their slogan seems to be, "Let us eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die." So they throw themselves into worldly pleasures and spend themselves on transient and ultimately worthless pursuits. The resurrection of our Lord ought to have opened their eyes to the value of eternal realities and spiritual ambitions, but for some reason or other it hasn't succeeded in doing so.

How They Behave.

"John," I said, as I was about to leave him, "your Easter lilies coupled with your rather pertinent remarks have stirred solemn thoughts within my mind. I am, as you know, brought a great deal into contact with death. At such times there is more hypocrisy than you would imagine; and there is also quite a bit of the heart laid bare. And I have observed that a great many nominal believers in Jesus' resurrection behave like utter unbelievers when the clamy hand of death invades the family circle. They rebel against it, complain of God, mourn as if death ended all. They cover themselves over with garments of the gloomiest kind, and sorrow as others who have no hope. In the light of their attitude at such an hour their professed faith in the resurrection amounts to nothing more than empty words.

The Joy of Easter.

"The one joyful thing about Easter is that if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also that are fallen asleep in Jesus will God bring with Him. There is no promise that can mean so much in the hour when we stand among the dark, cold shadows caused by death.

"The resurrection of the Son of God is simply a historical fact, established, by the plainest and strongest and most plentiful proofs, just as every other fact of history is established. That great expert on legal evidence, Blackstone, declares that no other fact in history is so well authenticated.

"There is every reason why we, as rational beings, should believe that Jesus rose from the dead—for the fact is established by the usual and rational processes of verification. What is needed is just the common sense that makes men act upon a settled truth.

A Powerful Fact.

"John, what we should try to get men to recognize is that the resurrection of Christ is not only a fact, but that it is the most powerful fact in the world. The resurrection is the fact that verifies the gospel of the atonement; it certifies the present value of spiritual things; it takes from death its terrors, establishing the reality of heaven and the certainty of immortality."

May Easter bring its own peculiar message of comfort and good cheer to all those whose thoughts frequent the city of the dead. There shall be an awakening of all those who have fallen asleep in Jesus. They shall open their eyes never to close them again in death. We shall meet them with the bloom of eternal youth resting upon their resurrection bodies. Lost they may be, but it is only for a little while. The night of sorrow shall give place to the day of joy. Separation shall give place to reunion, and the last tear shall be wiped away from eyes that shall see the faces of long-lost friends, and best of all, shall se ethe face of Christ.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—Luck may be all right as a servant, but as a master his pay days are uncertain.

—When some men marry and settle down it is only another way of saying that they have subsided under pressure.

—There would be much less bragging in the world if people only bragged about what they have actually done.

—As a general rule the man who gets what he wants has to go after it himself. —A. F.

The Passion of the Period

A PASSION for "recentness" dominates present-day thinking. "Newness" is, with many, synonymous with trueness. The "last dispatch" is accepted as a new revelation of truth. Yesterday's realities are bartered away for today's materialities. But truth is timeless. It is neither more nor less true because of the date label of its discovery. Denials destroy no verities. Christianity rests on unshakable validities. It is the blazing presence of truth that best reveals error. Contrasts and comparisons unmask the false and emphasize the trustworthiness of truth.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads." —A. Z. Conrad.

Is the Modern Theatre For Amusement Only?

Should We Attend as Students or Simply for Relaxation And Fun?

AN USHER'S OPINION

I don't think it would be possible for any city to have more theatres and places of amusement than New York possesses. And all the while it is adding to its already large assortment of such places. Its latest, I believe, is known as the Roxy Theatre. It is one of the show places in a place that seems to be given up to shows. From one of the programs of the Roxy Theatre we take the following:

• • •

We regard the Roxy Theatre as a university and place ourselves in the position of students seeking better understanding and appreciation of theatre arts.

The offering of a gratuity will be mutually embarrassing because it will be politely refused.

Being associated with Mr. Rothafel is a distinct privilege and pleasure that we feel is sufficient remuneration.

The Attaches,
JOSEPH FLAHERTY,
Chief Usher.

• • •

It would be interesting to know how various people take this rather unusual gesture. Some may think that it is only a gesture. To any one who knows New York it seems well nigh incredible.

If we could persuade more people to believe that the theatre is a university instead of a place dedicated to the worship of pleasures that are good and pleasures that are bad, perhaps we should soon have a different class of people attending such places.

People Who Are Carrying a

A PAGET WILKES, who has spent thirty-five years in Japan with the Japan Evangelistic Band, says: "A lot of people are carrying a dead body around with them, and the sad thing is they do not realize the fact. There are few of us who would consent to live even a month in a room with a dead man, yet we will not arise from the death we died with Jesus, as He arose. We are going too much by our impressions today. We do not test the voices we hear coming to us over the 'telephone' to see if they are actually the voices we should follow. Many people are going around, wanting to be Christians, but checked by a constant sense of defeat in their hearts. It is not the prayer of desire but the prayer of faith that saves."

Too Much Don't Religion

THE Rev. C. Everett Wagner, a well-known Methodist Episcopal minister, in a Lenten message said some things which are well worth passing on to the readers of this page.

"The irritating religious discipline, consisting of a yard-long column of 'don'ts' encircling the whole of human actions, often increases un-Christian conduct instead of Christian. To many people obedience to religious command is unpleasant because it means to them the prohibitions, such as the Blue laws, the Eighteenth Amendment and Sabbath observance. The disappearing religion of negatives is legalistic and depens upon an external authority. The inspiring religious training will follow the methods of indirect and direct suggestions, commendations for good deeds, worthy examples, and a gripping constructive purpose in life. The Sermon on the Moun tis the ideal of the new kingdom on earth, not the Ten Commandments." —A. F.

SATURDAY APRIL 7, 1928.

The First Easter

And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary, the mother of James, and Salome, had brought sweet spices, that they might come and annoint Him.

2. And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they come unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

3. And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4. And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

5. And entering into the sepulchre they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment, and they were affrighted.

6. And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified; He is risen; He is not here; behold the place where they laid Him!

7. But go your way, tell your disciples and Peter that He goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see Him, as He said unto you.—St. Mark 16.

THE SCHOOLS CAN HELP.

A Hamilton jury has recommended that safety first principles should be taught in the schools, and that pupils should be frequently warned of the danger that threatens them on city streets as a result of the great increase in motor traffic.

Undoubtedly some teachers do seek to drive home to the members of their classes the need of being careful, and the advice is of very material assistance, but The Examiner is of the opinion that the rule should be generally followed of imparting a warning to the children just before the classes are dismissed in the morning and at the end of the afternoon session.

A reminder just at those moments would do much to keep the children alert on their way home and to reduce the chance of traffic accidents.

This problem of saving children from the dangers of modern traffic is a serious one, so serious indeed that in a number of cities schools are being dismissed fifteen minutes before the noon hour so that the little ones may reach home before the mid-day traffic arrives at its peak.

There will be more cars operating this summer than ever before, rendering it more imperative than in other years to be careful at all times.

Drivers and pedestrians must co-operate in dealing with a situation that challenges serious thought.

ALBERTA COAL.

It is announced by Premier Brownlee of Alberta that the Alberta Government is likely to open an office in Toronto in connection with the shipment of coal from that Province to Ontario, and that the Board of Standards in Alberta will look after the quality of the coal shipped to the East.

These are two very important steps in the campaign to build up a trade in fuel between the two Provinces, and to render Canada more independent of the United States in regard to coal.

The arrangement made by the Federal Government ensures the transportation of Western coal at a rate that will permit it to be sold here in competition with the American article, but that is not enough.

There must be a demand created for Alberta fuel, first by convincing the people of Ontario that it is of first-class quality in every respect, and then by educating them to realize that it is of the greatest importance to the whole country that so far as possible our coal requirements should be filled from within our own country.

It is gratifying, therefore, for those who for years have been urging that greater attention should be given to this big question to know that the Alberta Government is about to enter upon an aggressive campaign.

RISEN INDEED!

(An Easter Message, by the Rev. Dyson Hague, Toronto.)

It was indeed a marvel, that cry of the disciples on the first Easter evening, "The Lord is risen indeed!" And to-day we Christians joyously reaffirm, "Christ is risen indeed!" For the resurrection of Christ is the all of Christianity. It is the plinth of the Christian church. All stands on that, as the rock foundation of the Christian faith. Everything depends upon it as a chain upon the staple that holds it. Take that away and everything falls in confusion. Let us Christians be at least sincere. Let us at this Eastertide stand with Paul and the Apostles and solemnly assert that if the resurrection goes what is left of Christianity is not worth preserving. Either Jesus Christ rose from the dead, or the whole fabric of Christianity is a fraud. Every Easter sermon is a lie. Every Christian preacher is a knave. Every church is a temple of lies. All Christian living is a sham; all Christian dying is a mockery. Disprove the resurrection and no mother will ever see her buried child again; no eye will ever see the face of our dear Saviour in His glory.

Read the arguments of St. Paul in 1 Corinthians 15:12-19, and grasp the five absurdities that follow from the supposition that there was no resurrection. Why, said the Apostle, if the resurrection was not actual fact, historic fact, Christ did not rise from the dead; all our preaching is a fraud; all Christian faith a delusion; all we Apostles are convicted liars; and all who believe the most to be pitied of the human race. St. Paul, the brilliant thinker and investigator, the victim of delusion? St. Peter, the victim of hallucinations? St. John, St. Matthew and St. James, the victims of fancy? They were men who courted death and joyfully greeted martyrdom in order that they might witness to the fact that Christ is risen indeed! And think of the phalanx of witnesses, through the ages; Augustine, Pascal, Newton, Faraday, Brewster, Dawson; all of whom could say of Christ's resurrection, with Dr. Arnold, "I know of no one fact in the history of mankind which is proved by better and fuller evidence of every sort." We Christians to-day do know in our heart of hearts that the Lord is risen indeed. Every grave in the catacombs, every baptism, every communion, every church Christendom, is a living testimony to the risen Christ; and the Lord's table, the Lord's day, the Holy Scriptures, all of these, with one mighty voice, proclaim to-day, "Christ is risen! Christ is risen! Christ is risen indeed!" We are not deceived. We are not deceivers. We cannot conscientiously believe a lie. Ours is not a corpse religion, the worship of a dead man in a grave.

Not long ago in Moscow, a Bolshevist lecturer, a violent anti-Christian, delivered a lecture against Christ and the obsolete faith. In a series of what he considered unanswerable arguments, he destroyed Christianity. At the close of his diatribe he seemed so pleased with himself that he asked anyone in the vast audience to speak, if he cared to do so. Shy and awkward, a homely Russian came forward, and as he came to the platform, the lecturer said in scorn, "Not more than five minutes now! Not more than five minutes." "I shan't take long," was the answer. He mounted the platform. He faced the vast assembly. And then he said, in the words that have rung over Russia for generations—the Easter greeting in the mouth of everyone—"Christ is risen! Christ is risen!" It was a daring word to say, for they were supposed to be atheists. But back from that great audience, as one man, came the answer, "Verily He is risen! He is risen indeed!" He turned to the lecturer and said, "That's all I have to say." No wonder, in the primitive church, the Easter festival was called Dominica Guadii, the joyful Sunday, the festival of gladness. Oh, Christians, rejoice in the reality of the Easter faith. Accept Him as the Saviour who saves from sin. Make Easter a starting point for steadier Christian living. Grasp the power of His resurrection. Rise into newness of life indeed, as those alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Greet this Easter with faith's new song, "Christ the Lord is risen to-day." And, with eyes upon the coming dawn, watch and wait, until there breaks the last and brightest Easter morning, and He returns in triumph whose right it is to reign, Christ, the King of Glory.

ONTARIO AND INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH.

In securing Sir Joseph Flavelle as chairman of the Industrial Research Council which is being created for Ontario, Premier Ferguson has once more revealed his capacity for selecting the right man. Sir Joseph Flavelle is not only a great capitalist and philanthropist; he is a statesman of industry. More than any of his contemporaries in business he has grasped the idea of the relation of science to production, while his acknowledged genius as an organizer ensures that whatever research work is performed by the Council will be along effective lines.

The legislation creating the Research Council, now before the Legislature, appears to have been well considered. The Council is to be composed of university men, scientists, but with them will be associated practical industrialists and men engaged in agriculture. Persons interested in the work, such as manufacturers—and they ought to be deeply interested—may contribute money to the Council, and for every dollar contributed by private individuals the Government will contribute another. It is hoped that $2,000,000 will be raised in five years.

It is almost impossible to over-estimate the importance of such a step. Taken in conjunction with what is being planned by the Dominion Government—and it is to be hoped that the Provinces and Dominion will co-operate, so as to prevent overlapping and wasted effort—it is, we should say, the most important thing that has happened in years for the benefit of Canadian industry. For with the application of scientific methods, aided by our water power and abundance of natural resources, there is no reason why Canada should not take a premier place among the greatest of industrial nations.—Ottawa Journal.

AN UNREASONABLE ATTITUDE.

The East is constantly being accused of hostility toward the West. If it opposes projects like the Hudson Bay Railway, or insists that freight rates should bear some relation to the cost of carrying freight, a chorus goes up from the Lakes to the Rockies about Eastern greed and antagonism. For a reason which they never define, Westerners insist upon having it that we here in Ontario don't like our fellow-Canadians simply because they live on the prairies.

Perhaps, sometimes, we are unreasonable. But we wonder if some Western champions ever examine their own consciences. What we have in mind is the attitude of the U.F.A. on the income tax. The income tax, as everybody knows, is paid largely by the East. Twenty-nine millions of what was collected last year came from corporations; the great bulk of the balance of nineteen millions extracted from individuals came out of Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec. Yet we have the U.F.A., which sends up a cry to Heaven whenever tariff taxation is mentioned, dividing the House because the Government is trying to give some relief from the income tax.

According to the logic, the tariff tax, which is paid on an equal basis by everybody, is all wrong, but the income tax, which is paid largely by the cities, is all right.

Western farmers enjoy the lowest freight rates of perhaps any country in the world. They are being given the Hudson Bay Railway, not because the country believes in it, but simply because Western farmers say they want it. They are largely exempted in what they buy from the exactions of the sales tax. And they pay practically no income tax. Yet if the East, whose industries enjoy less protection than the industries of any country in the world, except one, asks for relief from the income tax, Western representatives in the House stand up and object.

A little more give and take would be a wiser, and a more decent, policy.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Montreal mayoralty contest was evidently a spirited election. They have discovered a bottle of whiskey in one of the ballot boxes.

Hit-and-run drivers should be put where they will find it impossible to either hit or run.

The extension of Canada's air mail service comes none too soon. We were beginning to fall back toward the rear of the procession in this respect.

Goderich Township has paid its taxes in full for sixteen years in succession. Many municipalities would like to learn how the trick is done.

At least, it can be said that the "line up" for automobile licenses quite overshadows the applications for liquor permits.

One expenditure of the Ontario Government that will not be questioned is the payment of $2,000 for the rescue of the sailors imprisoned in the Lake Erie ice field.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., April 7 (Canadian Press).—Extreme dullness marked the export trade in grain here Thursday, there being little or no demand from foreign buyers.

There was a slight improvement in the demand from domestic buyers for Canadian Western oats and quite a few car lots of all grades changed hands on spot and for all-rail shipment from Fort William.

A feature of the flour trade continued to be the steady demand from foreign buyers for Spring wheat grades, and a moderate amount of business was worked. The domestic trade was also fair and the undertone was firm. The demand for Winter wheat flour was spotty but prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was transacted in all lines of millfeed and values were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet, and prices were steady.

Owing to the near approach of Easter there was a brisk demand for all grades of eggs and an active business was done at unchanged pricees. The receipts were 2,629 cases.

The undertone to the potato market continued firm under a fairly good demand.

A very strong feeling developed in the market for imported beans and prices scored an advance of 35 cents per bushel. This was attributed to the strength in the foreign markets owing to the very small production last year. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $4.00 per bushel, ex-track. Broken lots at $4.20 per bushel, ex-store.

The inquiry for butter continued of a limited character, but the undertone to the market was steady. The receipts were 465 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade was a sale reported of one car of fresh made Western No. 1 white and colored cheese for shipment to the far West at 20c and 20¼c per lb. here. Apart from this the market was quiet and steady. The receipts were 68 boxes.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

SALVATION ARMY.

Mrs. Ensign Green, at the Sunday morning service at which the Life Saving Guards of the local corps were present in the Bible lesson, said: "Our story shows Jesus at Jerusalem during one of the many feast seasons, and we can imagine Him taking a walk around the city, and coming up to the pool of Betheseda with its five portals, round which were gathered the crowd of impotent persons, lame, blind, diseased, and waiting for the troubling of the waters. I want to draw your attention to the one man especially to whom Jesus spoke three times: 'Wilt thou be made whole?' This question to a man who had lain 38 years by the pool, and who on the occasions that the water had been troubled because of his infirmities, been unable to get into the pool first seemed strange. But how like many in these days, this man wanted to be made whole—he was willing, and you must be willing to give up your sin before you can enjoy the blessing of holiness. 'Rise, take up thy bed and walk,' Jesus commanded this bedridden man—how easy it would have been for the man to have demurred and excused himself, and how like us in these days that which seems impossible we must do before we can enjoy this blessing of holiness. This man's lameness might have held him back. With you, it may be ungodly friendships, a stubborn will, a bad temper. That one thing need not hinder. His strength is sufficient under all circumstances. You wonder why Jesus told him to take up his bed. It has been suggested that the taking up of the bed removed the possibility of a relapse.

"'Behold thou art made whole, go thy way and sin no more.' When Jesus met the man in the Temple, where he had gone to worship. And it is not until we have laid everything on the altar that we can enjoy this blessing, living with sin. We all have our faults; we cannot live faultless, but we can by the grace of God live blameless lives."

At the evening service the address was given by Mrs. H. Parnell, Junior. "I want to draw your attention to three miracles that are recorded in the 5th chapter of the Gospel of St. Mark," she said. "There was a man possessed of an unclean spirit. His friends had done all possible to help him without avail, but when he saw Jesus coming he was so different to his attitude when others came near him, and instead of raging he went on his knees to Jesus, and straightway He turned this man's bondage to freedom.

"We look about in these days and see men and women who are similarly possessed by the devil and his uncleannesses, but it does not matter how heavily you are fettered, Jesus Christ can break those fetters and set you free—whether you are old, middle aged or in days of youth, childhood, you have not attained your best in anything unless you have Jesus Christ in your heart.

"Secondly, there was a woman. For 12 years she had had a bodily disease. She had spent her money in an effort to get rid of the complaint, but it seemed as if death would come without relief, till one day Jesus came along the road, and, as was usual, He was surrounded by a large crowd, but this woman pushed her way through the crowd and touched the hem of His garment and Jesus knew she had touched Him, and straightway she was made whole. To-night I appeal to the women here, viewing married life and its responsibility. Man shares the financial burden, but woman and mother, it seems to me, needs Jesus and His love in her heart, for her's seems the bigger burden and responsibility.

"Jesus had been delayed during the morning while on His way, and when he arrived at the home of Jarius it seemed hopeless that anything could be done for the girl. We are told she was 12 years old, just the awkward age. The ways of right or wrong will be chosen at this age, but God is able to help the child. He is a God of small things as well as big things. He painted the rainbow, yet He also kissed the little daisy. He made the ocean, yet He also makes the dewdrops.

SOFTBALL

To the Editor:

Dear Sir.—I find that a good many lovers of good, clean sport are looking for a good Teco girls' softball team this year (they have the goods). Personally I hope that the girls of Peterborough this year will make our city famous by establishing an unpenetrable softball league and if any of our young chaps with soft hands attempt to steal the girls' game, the best way to settle them is for the girls to trim them good.

Yours for good, clean sport,

First at the get-away
First on the straight-away

No car in the Victory price class can match the all around brilliance of Victory performance.

The Victory is first at the get-away and first on the straight-away—faster on the hills, faster in traffic—smoother on rough roads.

And accelerates as no other car at the price has EVER done: 5 to 25 miles in 7¼ seconds! 10 to 45 miles in 13½ seconds!

The public discovered all this even as the stop watch proved it.

More power per pound of car weight made it possible. Rugged Dodge construction made it practical. And the Victory's unusual design made it SAFE.

For the Victory gravity center is lower and there is no body overhang .... The chassis frame is the full width of the body—and the body sills are eliminated.

Exceptional charm of line and more headroom and seat width are further vital results of this unique construction.

Drive the car today and make your own comparisons!

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

A Republication of the Book by Permission of the Author, Jack Miner of Kingsville, Ont.

CHAPTER VIII

Some Things I have Known Cannibal Birds to Do.

Now, dear reader, I am well aware of the fact that my story would be more popular if I left these questions out. I am like yourself, I wish I had nothing to say but good about every bird, for I love to see them. But remember, what I am telling in this story is what I know about nature, so please don't jump on me with both feet for telling the truth.

First of all let me say that the larger the hawk, the more anxious the majority are to shoot him. This is a mistake. It is the medium-sized hawk that is the worst. The sparrow-hawk is the smallest, and he is hard on fledglings such as bobolinks and song sparrows. Yes, I know they will eat grasshoppers, but these are usually eaten by the young birds; the adult sparrow-hawk lives chiefly on mice and small birds.

When I raised pheasants I always made a "hide" where I could lay for the little chicks' enemies. One day I fed my chicks at one p.m.; when I returned at four-thirty I tapped the tin to call them and only seven out of the seventeen little beauties came and they were on their tiptoes, shy and frightened. My first thought was, "a weasel," but when I saw Mrs. Hen turn her head sidewise and look up, I called to my boy to bring the shotgun and a couple of loads of No. 6. I soon was in the "hide," and the boy had scarcely got to the house when I heard the old hen say "k-tt-tt-tt," meaning "lie low," so I took her advice, and in about five seconds a sparrow-hawk came down out of the heavens like a bullet—too fast for me. Before I could get the gun on him he was on the ground. He saw me and missed his bird; and when he was about four feet in the air again I just lifted him with a load of shot. The next morning we went over to the woods and destroyed the other old one and the young, and found remnants of some of the young pheasants. Now this hawk killed and carried away ten of these little chick pheasants in less than four hours. These little pheasants were about ten days old. After pheasants get to be the size of a small quail or mourning dove, sparrow-hawks will not take them. Many a small hawk have I fooled by taking a little dead pheasant and running a wire through him, standing up in a natural position on a steel trap, letting Mr. Hawk come down out of the air and help himself. I have often caught owls in this same way.

I could go on and on, relating such experiences until you got hungry. But remember, the sparrow-hawk is only one. The worst are yet to come, the Cooper's, the sharp-shinned, and the goshawk; these three are just like bullets in the air. But while the pheasants are tiny the sparrow-hawk is the worst, because it is more numerous. To any person who might think of raising pheasants for profit let me say that unless you first study how to destroy weasels, barn rats, stray house cats and cannibal birds you had better give up the business a week or so before you start. Remember, when hawks are driven to it by hunger they will kill and eat each other, and owls will do the same; I have known dozens of cases of this in my life.

There are two large hawks I never destroy, the Red Tail and the Red Shoulder. They are too big and clumsy to be very destructive on our birds. When these two varieties get in my traps I usually label them with an aluminum band and let them go; but, strange to say, I have never heard from one of these in my life. I know they will kill a clumsy barnyard fowl or so, and they will also kill snakes; so I say of them as Pilate said, "I find no fault" with these fellows.

I spend a lot of my life burning brick and draintile at night, and during the summer months it is very interesting to see the toads come before the light of the fires and catch insects. The snakes that these big hawks eat, kill the toads; and I don't like snakes, even if they are not in my boots.

Now this innocent-looking little screech-owl! Just last summer I went over to the martin house one morning to see what was wrong with them, and here were three or four helpless fledglings flapping on the ground, and the old ones hovering at the house as if it were a bees' nest. Well, to be brief, we killed nine screech-owls in less than two weeks, but not until they had killed and driven all our martins away for that year. At a screech-owl's nest I once found my hat-full of remnants of blue-birds' wings, young robins' wings and feet, and quail, song-sparrow and English sparrow feathers. In another case a screech-owl went through the two-inch mesh wire netting and killed a golden pheasant hen for me and ate her throat out. This owl only weighed three and one-half ounces. A doctor in the town of Leamington once called me in to see what had killed his golden pheasant hen that was setting on twelve eggs. The pen was made of two-inch mesh netting. I at once said it was a screech-owl and showed him how I knew. He then told me he harbored screech-owls in and around his barns to kill the English sparrows. Another man I knew kept a screech-owl in his barn to kill the sparrows, and he was puzzled to know what killed his tame pigeons.

The screech-owl is just a miniature horned owl, both in looks and habits. But I have never had my wits tried more with any bird than I have with the Great Horned Owl. On one occasion one of these winged brutes came and apparently just got his toes pinched in a trap; and night after night he sprung the traps and took a hen pheasant. This went on until he had taken twelve. Then I put on fur coat and made a bed of robes out in the "hide" which I always kept ready in the enclosure; and there I lay in that bright moonlit, stinging-cold, zero night. At last I saw an owl hovering over the ground, and fortunately for me he got fooled; he came to examine the decoys near me and while his attention was rivetted on them I raised up and fired, and he never knew what hit him. When I went to the house it was three a.m. I usually catch twelve to fifteen of these owls every winter.

Remember, when he comes and gets a bird he will eat what he wants of it, and come back the following night for a new one.

But how these cannibals locate other birds for miles and miles across the country is a mystery. Yet if we go down in the field and kill a beef on a hot summer's day, the turkey buzzards will be here in less than one-half hour. Where did these vultures come from? You perhaps have not seen one for a month. How did they know you were killing a beef? This question may be just as much in place as: How do the hawks and owls find their prey?

The great horned owl nests in the winter or early, early spring, building in a cavity of a tree or a crow's or hawk's nest. They lay two pure white eggs, round like turtle's eggs, about the size of an ordinary barnyard fowl's or a shade smaller. I have got the nest as early as the first day in February, when old Mrs. Owl was setting. The female horned owl is larger than the male; she will weigh about four pounds and has a wing-spread of fully fifty inches.

Now I know there are a lot of people who protect these cannibal-birds because they kill mice. Yes, they do kill mice. But it takes dozens and dozens of our insectivorous and weed-destroying birds to raise one owl. I claim that the good one robin or quail does, in one day, overbalances the harm a dozen mice will do.

Now we come to the crow and bronze grackle, the largest blackbird. These two birds raise their young chiefly on the eggs of other birds. Why this is, I won't pretend to say, nor will I attempt to throw a ray of light upon it, but will frankly confess I do not understand. Possibly it has come about through man's interference with their natural habits.

The crow was the first bird I hunted in Canada, as we thought they pulled our corn. I went to the woods and located their nests, and soon I became wise enough to imitate the call of the young; then I had Mr. Crow beaten. I would first destroy the young if possible, then hide in the green bushes and caw quietly as I had heard the young do, and dozens of crows have brought their food to the wrong baby. Yes, I have even gone so far as to call them right down into the small trees so as to make a very light load of ammunition do the work, as it cost money to buy powder and shot in those days. Now comes more of what we don't want to hear. What were these crows feeding their young on? Crawfish, pollywogs, small frogs, grubs, etc.; but seventy-five per cent. of the food that these old crows would vomit up as they struck the ground was eggs. It was these old black rascals that taught me what to raise fledglings on, and it is just as easy for me, now, to raise a young bird on custard as it would be to raise a row during a political campaign.

I am going to tell you some pitiful things. I have seen young, unhatched robins spued out of a dying crow's mouth, and the little things were stil alive. Whether the eggs were broken in her throat before I shot her or not, I do not know, but they were broken when thrown up. Yes, they will take blackbirds' eggs just as quick as they will the robins', and other, weaker birds' if they have the opportunity; but the robin does seem to be their choice, possibly because he does not conceal his nest better. Yet I was hunting the crows because they pulled our corn! In all my life I never knew a crow to bring corn to her young. Yes, I have shaken as high as seven little, unhatched birds out of a gasping crow's mouth, and any one of these creatures, if left to mature, would do as much good as a crow. If you want to trap a crow use hens' eggs for bait, but bear in mind he is cute, and you must conceal the trap very carefully.

The bronze grackle is nothing only a small crow; his habits are exactly the same. He will drop on a tree and look around; seizing an opportunity he will come down and go through a bush where there is likely to be a song-sparrow's nest just like a ferret will go through a stone-pile after a rabbit. I have known him to take the young birds after they were hatched. But so many men who know the habits of these birds will say they think they do as much good as they do harm! Why they make this statement I don't understand. And if you throw this book across the room and never pick it up, I cannot help it, for I am telling you the truth: These crows and grackles are the worst nest-robbers in America. They do ten times more harm than good. Remember I am not writing just to please the reader, but to give you facts gathered from personal experience and observation, and my beliefs founded thereon; and I am sure that fifty per cent. of the eggs and young of our song, insectivorous and game birds in Ontario are devoured by these cold-blooded, nest-robbing cannibals, the crow being the worst of all. He will take young mourning doves out of the nest when they are as large as sparrows; the quail, and kildeer, and dozens of other such beautiful mothers are perfectly helpless and can no more keep him off than a human mother's naked hands could keep a vicious lion from tearing her baby into fragments.

By the way, I am now perfecting a trap whereby I can catch crows by the hundreds during the winter months. These crows will be handed over to gun clubs for trap-shooting purposes. And although he is a black murderer we must treat him fair, and give him a chance for his life; therefore, my request will be to shoot them from five unknown traps at twenty-five to thirty yards rise. The shooter will not be charged for the crows he kills, but will be fined for every one he allows to escape; in addition to the above fine he will be liable to any other punishment a good, cheerful bunch of trap-shooters see fit to impose upon him, such as rail-riding him around the club-house for allowing one of these black murderers to get away. The shooters will be fined according to their shooting ability. These fines will be used for buying up old, faithful horses which will be humanely destroyed and used for bait to decoy more of these old, black Pharaohs to their just doom. Thus what is now the crow nuisance will be turned into a sport.

The hawks and owls are worst on the adult birds, the screech-owl is not so innocent as he looks, but there is none can compare with the great horned owl, and I just wish you knew the annoyance he has caused me by taking my choicest pets. Yes, it seems he delights in taking the nearest and dearest. But now let me give my horn a toot: Never did a horned owl take a bird from me but what paid the penalty.

About the only argument you hear in favor of the hawks and owls is "mice." But when a bunch of successful farmers meet at my tile factory, never in my life have I heard them complain about mice, and I know mice seldom bother clean, shrewd farmers. But I have heard them complain about worms until I could almost feel myself crawling. The cut-worms were cutting their corn, or the wire-worms were destroying their oats, the army worm was working north, and so forth. Personally I have never had any experience with worms, but field mice I have often carried in my pockets, and if it wasn't for some youth practising the same sport, how I would like to tell you some of the fun I have had with them when I was a lad. For the death of each mouse by hawks and owls possibly we lose several birds which would destroy thousands and thousands of worms each year. I know there is a type of farmer who is much more easily annoyed by mice than others. You will usually find him down town, sitting on a soap box, smoking in the time, now and then getting up and moving his seat around and possibly turning it end for end to keep it from getting tired; his stock at home are of the rainbow variety, with long whiskers, and when they see him coming they don't know whether to come or go, and the one or two razor-backed, South Carolina, thistle-digger hogs don't care whether or not they get out of the steaming manure heap, to be disappointed; the remnant of scrubby apple trees in the field, which some one else planted, have been fleece-grown with cut grass ever since he got possession of the farm, that, of course, was handed down to him.

If your orchard is stubble or clover sod, go through it in the early fall. By being careful you can determine whether there are any fieldmice there by their little runways that criss-cross on the ground. If so, take about one-half bushel of grain and thirty or forty bundles of corn fodder; throw a handful or two of grain on the ground and two bundles of fodder side by side over it, making a nice mouse cover. Refuse hay, or clover chaff will do, but I prefer the corn fodder. Fifteen or twenty of these little harbors are sufficient in an ordinary [illegible]. In ten days or two weeks all the mice in the orchard will be under these covers. Now take the six-or eight-pronged pitchfork, scratch around these little harbors to destroy their road of retreat, then throw the cover off quickly; the light striking their eyes so suddenly, they are apparently blinded for a second, giving you just time enough to give them a side whack with your fork; if you study what you are doing, you will kill seventy five per cent. of them the first time 'round, always placing the cover back ready for next time. If you don't care for this sport, just introduce a bunch of school boys to your plan and you will soon find your annoyance turned into sport and education for the neighbor boys.

In case you haven't the above-mentioned material to make these mouse covers, old junk lumber thrown on the ground will answer the same purpose. But if you leave these mice and depend on the hawks and owls to destroy them, some of your trees will be girdled, as the mice seem to have a sort of human appetite, and appear to like the apple tree bark equally as well as the human race likes the apple-tree juice.

The mouse question always reminds me of a story told on the other fellow. It is said that he saw an advertisement: "How to kill potato bugs! Full directions sent on receipt of one dollar." This of course was a cheap opportunity, and he enclosed a dollar at once. In reply he received a small box containing a little block and mallet; the directions were: "Put him on No. 1, and hit him with No. 2."

A WONDERFUL TRIBUTE.

Baby's Own Tablets Declared To Be Worth Their Weight in Gold.

A mother has only to use Baby's Own Tablets once to be convinced that nothing else can equal them in banishing the ills of her little ones. Once used, always used, as long as there are small children in the home—that is the tribute thousands of mothers pay the Tablets.

Among the many, many mothers who are anxious to tell of their experience with Baby's Own Tablets is Mrs. Griffith, of East Hamilton, Ont., who writes:—"Shortly after coming to Canada I began giving the Tablets to my baby boy who was then six weeks old. The result was so pleasing that since that time I have always kept the Tablets in the house. I have two children now and both of them are the picture of health. Baby's Own Tablets are the only medicine they have ever had and I really believe the Tablets to be worth their weight in gold."

RIDEAU FLOODS SOUTH OTTAWA

Residents of District Declare It To Be Higher Than Ever Before.

HOUSES SURROUNDED.

OTTAWA, April 7. — (Canadian Press).—A spring flood which dwellers in the stricken area believed to be greater than the one which wrought great havoc two years ago, continued early to-day to sweep over a large section of the southern and eastern sections of the city from the swollen Rideau River. The highest levels set in previous years by this annual rampage of the Rideau waters have been surpassed by this year's flood, many who experienced such trials before are inclined to believe.

With the swift current racing under bridges and water flowing over all low-lying land near its normal basin, the water to-day was nine feet above the customary river level.

Hundreds of acres adjacent to the river were many inches deep in water, a hundred houses were in the river itself, and road, paved city streets and sidewalks were awash.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XVIII—Saint Francis.

SO in the ages which priesthood helped to make dark there was loyalty and kindliness and simple faith in the humbler ranks of life. And there was genius higher up also, which had its inspiration in the church. There was Fra Angelico, who prayed always before he began a picture.

To be sure, his angels were flat-chested and emaciated, but he broke away resolutely from the unearthly ugliness of Byzantine tradition, and the faces of his angels were the faces of pretty women, and their clothes were the best that could be bought in the shops of Florence.

There was Fra Lippo Lippi, who brought art back to nature, still keeping it religious. And there was, most splendid of the characters of the Middle Ages, perhaps the finest spirit that has lived since the days in Palestine—Francis, the Saint of Assisi.

The world can afford to be very forgiving toward a faith, and an institution, that can produce a Francis.

Born to wealth, the son of a prosperous merchant and a noble lady, he passed his youth as was expected of a high-bred youngster. He tasted all the pleasures, sinned all the sins, and was a ringleader in revelry. At twenty he was taken prisoner of war and languished for a year behind the bars.

Gave New Idea

The experience left its mark upon a constitution which, never strong, was continually neglected and wore out at the too early age of forty-four. But it left an imprint on his spirit also. He came back into the world with a new idea. Pleasure for itself was a fraud; man was made for something higher than deviltry. The years were meant to be put to noble purposes. One alone had shown how they might be invested best.

Francis determined to reproduce in his own life, so far as possible, the life of Jesus.

He turned his back on luxury and "married his Lady Poverty." He set up a rigid discipline over his body. If there was any task which he hated to do, it was his rule to do that thing at once. Lover of comfort and beauty though he was, he made himself the friend of lepers and the outcast. His clothes were the simplest; his food was crusts begged from door to door.

Happier Doing for Others

All this was splendid, and men and women rallied to his standard, finding to their surprise that in forgetting themselves they were genuinely more happy than when their days had been entirely selfish.

But the most splendid part of it all was that Francis caught the spirit of Jesus in its entirety. Too many of the pious of all ages have been gloomy folk. Jesus was above all a happy man. He loved the crowd. He enjoyed weddings and frequented feasts. Little children flocked to Him, and sick people immediately felt better when He entered the room. Francis shared this joy to the full.

He "loved everybody and everything—men in the fields, women in their homes, the little children who flocked to him, the animals who ran to him, the birds to whom he preached, the very worms which he picked up from the dust that they might not be crushed." Men called him "the troubadour of God," and it was easy to know his followers, for they sang as they walked and danced with joy.

I read recently the letter of a former missionary to China who related his debate with a cultured Chinese official. He presented as ably as he could the superior claims of Christianity, and the Chinaman listened with polite attention. When the missionary had finished, the Chinaman arose and took down a book from the shelves and handed it to the missionary.

"How strange it is," he said, "that your great prophet Jesus should, in all the centuries, have made but one convert." He pointed to the book, and the missionary, looking down at it, saw that it was a biography of St. Francis.

John G. Paton

Every age has had its quota of St. Francises. I saw one once, a benign, kindly old gentleman named John G. Paton. He spoke to a church full of people, and his talk was much more modest, more self-effacing than his hearers could have wished. They plied him with questions afterward, trying to induce him to give more details of his extraordinary experience, for they knew the larger outlines of the story.

Alone, without support or influence, but moved by a youthful enthusiasm, he had stepped out of a boat and walked up the sandy shore of an island in the New Hebrides.

No other white men had visited that shore, unless in armed bands, or, occasionally, a sailor from a shipwrecked vessel. Luckless sailor! The inhabitants were cannibals of the most savage type. Every castaway had been cooked and eaten. The islands were certain death to white men. Paton had been fully warned; his end was absolutely sure. Yet, without a weapon, with nothing but a Bible in his hand, he walked in among the savages. And so began the civilization of the New Hebrides.

His Promissory Note

I saw another St. Francis in Boston, a white whiskered old man with one of the kindest faces in the world. All his life he had lived and worked among the poorest of that city. In all the years his mind had known hardly a single thought about himself. And his eyes showed it.

I asked him: "How do you live? Who provides for your food and clothes, since you give all your little income away? Aren't you worried about what will happen when you are too feeble to work?"

For answer he pulled out a little slip of paper and passed it over to me.

"There is my assurance of income," he said. "That's a promissory note signed by the Owner of the universe. Who can be afraid with a promise like that?"

This was the note:

"Trust in the Lord and do good. So shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed."

GOOD FRIDAY MUSIC SUNG AT ST. JOHN'S

Sacred Cantata, "The Way of the Cross," Rendered By Choir.

The sacred cantata, "The Way of the Cross," composed by Dr. Ferris Tozer, was given in St. John's Church last evening by the choir, in commemoration of the Crucifixion of Christ. The music, directed by F. G. Mann, organist and choirmaster, was beautifully rendered, the finely-trained choir surpassing itself in its presentation of the noble, dignified setting given by Dr. Tozer to the story of the Passion. Of a solemn character throughout, the dramatic musical story progresses from the scene in the judgment hall of Pilate to the hill of Calvary. This is the first time that this cantata has been presented in the city.

The choir, about forty strong, was in splendid voice, and the soloists responded admirably to the demands of the production. Mrs. M. B. Hoyland's orchestra supplemented the organ accompaniment.

The solos were taken by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, soprano, who was in excellent voice, and by Mrs. L. Groombridge, soprano; Messrs. C. H. Crowe and A. J. Hayter, tenor; D. G. Melton, H. Spencer and W. H. Lacey, bass. The duett sung by Mrs. Groombridge and Mr. Crowe was exceptionally well done. The choral singing was also rendered in splendid style, with two outstanding numbers in "Hail, King of the Jews" and "Hear Our Cry, O God."

JEAN F. AS SEEN BY RESCUE PARTY

The above flashlight picture shows how the tug "Jean F." appeared in her prison of ice-floes in Lake Erie when sighted by the rescue party aboard the ice-breaker Vermont of Ashtabula, Ohio. Note the members of the crew on deck awaiting the approach of the vessel which meant safety for them. Although some of the Altawandron men, who had sought refuge aboard the Jean F. when it was necessary to abandon their own tug in the ice off Long Point in Lake Erie, had been faced for ten days with the prospect of death, none gave vent to any signs of rejoicing when the rescuers arrived. One of the marooned sailors climbed aboard the Vermont and, dropping down on deck, asked: "Say, have you got any tailor-made sigarettes?" Capt. Henry Misner of the Jean F. next come aboard the Vermont to confer. He had voluntarily driven his boat into the trap where it was caught nearly a week before in the endeavor to bring aid to the Altawandron, which had previously been caught in the ice. Although his boat had been crippled in this rescue effort, he accepted his misfortune without complaint. The tug Jean F. is now tied up for repairs in Port Dover harbor while still fast in the icy grip of the largest and worst ice-field encountered in Lake Erie in many years.

ASK CO-OPERATION IN EMPIRE WEEK

Members of Chamber of Commerce Committee Make Suggestions.

What was characterized as an exceptionally "snappy" committee meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce offices on Thursday last, during which plans were tentatively drawn up for Empire Shopping Week in Peterborough.

Chairman J. J. Turner, after going over the general plan of Empire Shopping Week, in consultation with the other members of the committee, made the following suggestions, which were adopted by the committee, the secretary being instructed to send out necessary notices:

That the merchants of Peterborough be requested to co-operate very fully and display Empire made goods during Empire Shopping Week, their salespeople to be enjoined to push the sale of made-in-Peterborough goods, Dominion goods, Empire goods.

That merchants having two or more show windows be asked to share this with local manufacturers for the displaying of made-in-Peterborough goods.

That local manufacturers, during Empire Shopping Week, April 21 to 28, inclusive, display their products in retail show windows in the business section, to be secured for that purpose by the local Empire Shopping Week committee.

Personnel of the Chamber of Commerce committee on Empire Shopping Week is as follows: Chairman, J. J. Turner and Messrs. G. A. Gillespie, F. Hills, James Juby and Charles Lacheur, and to any of the above gentlemen, or the secretary, phone 1360, manufacturers and merchants are asked to communicate their willingness to co-operate, as above.

Time is short, points out J. J. Turner, and if this movement, which is Empire wide, is to gather momentum in Peterborough, there must be instantaneous action.

AT KNOX CHURCH.

Rev. F. L. Belsmith will preach at both services in Knox Church tomorrow.

Scouts Gather Eggs For Needy of City

A novel Easter custom was introduced to Peterborough this week by the Scouts of the Fifth Peterborough (All Saints') Troop, when they held an egg collection. The boys were well received on their house-to-house canvass and collected 399 eggs. Some of these were colored and baskets of Easter eggs made up and distributed to the needy and shut-ins of the city. Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Edwards assisted the boys in the work.

ST. JAMES' CHOIR SINGS CANTATA

"From Golgotha To Glory" Well Rendered Good Friday Evening.

"From Golgotha to Glory" in song and story was given by the choir and orchestra of St. James' United Church, under the direction of Frank Stevens, in the church last evening, with splendid effect. The musical setting of the trial, crucifixion, resurrection and ascension of Christ was very impressive, and rendered in noble fashion by the well-trained singers and musicians.

Two anthems were sung by the choir, "God So Loved the World" and "He Hath Taken Away My Lord." A ladies' quartette, composed of Mesdames Kitney, Robinson, Monks, and McKinstry, sang "Bearing the Cross," a mixed quartette, Mr. and Mrs. Monks, Mrs. McKinstry, and G. Cuffe, singing "The Old Rugged Cross," a solo by Mrs. W. McLaren, "What Will You Do With Jesus," a solo by Mrs. E. Kitney, "Jesus of Nazareth, King," a duet by Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," a solo by Thelma McLaren, "Golden Harps Are Sounding," a number by the junior choir, "Look, Ye Saints, the Sight is Glorious," and a full choral rendition of "What If It Were To-day."

Scripture readings were given by four of the boy members taking part in the service: Charles Kitney, Ashton Fife, Stanley Church and William Patterson.

IN POLICE COURT

Three youths and a man, who claimed he was 21 years old, pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a puplic place and were each fined $10 and costs. In the case of two of the boys, Chief Newhall said, they claimed they had purchased a bottle of wine from James Hunter.

The other two told the police they had found a bottle of rum in the lavatory of the Duffus Bowling Alleys.

His Worship, in passing sentence, asked the boys if they ever stopped to think what Good Friday meant. "It is not a day for drinking. It is a holiday, but one that is very different from any other holiday in the year," said His Worship.

A fifth young man pleaded guilty to drinking in a public place and was fined $10 and costs.

A local man pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was re-

HOUSE FULL OF GAS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 7 (Canadian Press). — Marriage of twelve years between Oscar Haggin and his wife was ended to-day in one of the most carefully planned and executed double suicides in local police history. A brother, Joseph Haggin, received a note which said, "Better come up and get out the bodies." The key to the Haggin house was enclosed. With the police, Joseph went to his brother's home. On the front door of the house was the first of a series of notes. It said, "Do not light matches. The house is full of gas." Other notes asked that the cats be taken to the Humane Society.

Received Speedy Relief From Lumbago

Ottawa Man Loud in Praise for Dodd's Kidney Pills

"Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot be beat for speedy relief of Lumbago," writes Mr. H. R. McQuade, 248 Holmwood Ave., Ottawa, Ont. "They make one feel like a new person. I have proved that. Now, you may publish this letter for the benefit of others." The winter months bring colds and chills, which double the work of the kidneys. Often the results are disastrous, for, if the Kidneys weaken, harmful uric acid and other poisons are allowed to escape into the system. Backache, Dizziness and Urinary Disorders sound an urgent alarm. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful stimulant for weak kidneys.

Why buy performance that CHRYSLER "72" has obsoleted?.....

CHRYSLER "72" performance obsoletes all other performance at its price or even for $1000 more.

Chrysler "72" performance widens that margin of superiority.

No other car today approaches it for roadability, hill climbing, acceleration, dependability, comfort, ease of handling, style, safety, long life and appearance.

For Chrysler's engineering genius and precision manufacture have gone steadily forward to greater heights. Chrysler Standardized Quality has provided most of the worthwhile developments in the automobile industry.

That is why the "72" today gives you performance that sets the pace for the entire industry for years to come. 75 brake horsepower. 72 miles and more per hour. Vibrationless smoothness that only a Chrysler counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft can give. Flashing acceleration in traffic. There are no hills to the "72."

Why pay a premium for the out-of-date performance others give? See and ride in the Chrysler "72." You will realize then how Chrysler "72"—at less money—makes a dead letter of all other performance in its field today.

More POWER than any other Engine of its Size

TESTS prove that the valve-in-head engine as used by McLaughlin-Buick develops more power than any other engine of its size.

McLaughlin-Buick engine develops more power than other types because the valve-in-head construction concentrates the full force of the explosion directly on the piston and because it necessitates a smaller cooling area. This latter feature also provides more efficient combustion and a valuable saving of fuel.

The G. M. A. C. Deferred Payment Plan offers many advantages to buyers of McLaughlin-Buick cars.

AYLMER, Que., April 7 (Canadian Press).—With the waters of a small creek cutting through the centre of the town, swelled to an additional height of three feet, many homes and establishments were being flooded today.

NEW LIGHTING IS INSTALLED

St. Mary's Church at Campbellford Will Be Ready For Easter.

FINE SYSTEM.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7. — Work on the new lighting system of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, is being rushed to completion in order that the members of the parish may enjoy the benefit of the new fixtures at the Easter Sunday services. The system will be the most complete and modern system of any of the local churches and is being completed with the expense as a secondary consideration. The ten circuits are all constructed of rigid conduit and the light control is operated from the cabinet box situated just inside the south door which leads to the vestry. There is one exception, however, as the choir loft light has a second switch in the front vestibule. This is for the convenience of the organist or other members of the choir who wish to practice and do not wish to go all through the dark church to reach the main switch. Should it be inadvertantly left closed the switch at the main box may be used.

In the auditorium of the church there are ten fixtures. Three in the centre are of five lights each, while the seven along the sides and over the choir gallery are of three lights each. There are also three wall fixtures, each with two lights. In the vestry there is a five-light fixture suspended from the centre of the ceiling, and over the altar there will be four clusters of three lights each. In the main vestibule there are three single fixtures of the pendant type, which correspond to the three main doors. Three similar lights will be installed outside the doors.

The work of installation is being done gratuitously by electricians of several churches. Mike Murphy and Frank DeCarroll acting in the capacity of foremen are making every effort to have the job completed before the services on Easter Sunday. Some of the fixtures had not arrived at a late hour yesterday, and it is doubtful if there will be time to install them should they arrive to-day. These are the fixtures for the outside and will not affect the general effect in the interior of the building. Besides Murphy and DeCarroll, five others have been assisting with the work. They are not all electricians, but under proper supervision have accounted for a fair share of the labor. The entire crew consists of Messrs. Murphy, DeCarroll, Basil Reynolds, William Smith, Leo Bush, Jack Anderson, and Hilton Beatty. Several of these men were among those who recently wired St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

One Missing After Blast.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 7 (Canadian Press).—One man reported missing, six others seriously injured, and damage estimated at three hundred thousand dollars was caused by an explosion of a gas main at the gas and electric company plant here to-day.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(Canadian Press.)— Unless his fifteen year old daughter marries and has children much of the six hundred thousand dollar estate of Charles Loeser, art collector and Brooklyn department store owner, will go to Harvard University, providing it is not used for the erection of new buildings or the destruction of older buildings on the Harvard grounds.

Thinks Missionaries Will Return To China

EDMONTON, Alta., April 7.—(Canadian Press).—Miss Caroline Wellwood has been a missionary in China for 21 years—21 years of joyous labor if one is to judge by her appearance. And it is Miss Wellwood's belief that in time missionaries will be welcomed back into China and the work will go steadily on.

The reaction of China's women to the wave of nationalism is, of course, varied with her position. Some who are in "the know" of the governments are quite as rabid and nationalistic as the men. Many others would like to be at peace with the "foreigner." Twenty-one years ago Miss Wellwood went to Cheng Tu, in the province of Szechwan, West China, under the former Methodist Church. She was engaged in hospital work in Boston prior to her departure. She organized the nurses' training course in the Women's Hospital in Cheng Tu. This was in 1913, and she took the first nurses right through the entire course until there were graduates to go into work in the hospital.

SECTION GANGS REPAIR TRACKS

Fix Up Places Washed Out During the Recent Floods.

RIVER STILL HIGH.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 7. — Along the Canadian National line between Campbellford and Hastings, section men are busy repairing the damage done by the recent high water in Trout Creek. A considerable amount of ballast has been washed out of the right of way at various places along the line, and the section crews are busy replacing it. The most noticeable stretches are about one mile west of Campbellford and here and there for about two miles at Godolphin. Several culverts have also been receiving the attention of repair gangs.

In the Trent River the high water has made it necessary to remove most of the stop logs in the dams. With fifty-two logs out of the dam at Hastings, the operator there found it necessary to remove eight more yesterday morning. At Campbellford the water is slightly above navigation level and the current is much stronger than usual even at this time of year. The operator at the dam at the foot of the town stretch removed nine extra logs yesterday in order to maintain the proper water level. Tourists who see the Trent River in its peaceful summer state only, would probably be greatly surprised to see the amount of water rushing along its course at the present time.

SACRED CANTATA SPLENDIDLY SUNG

All Saints' Choir Sings "Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder.

"Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder, was the cantata selected by All Saints' Church Choir for the annual Good Friday choir service, and its fine choruses and solos were well sung before an appreciative audience last night.

The cantata, dealing with the events from Palm Sunday to Good Friday, contains choruses, tenor and baritone recitatives, and solos. The choir of forty voices was heard to great advantage in the choruses, which are varied in tempo and volume, but were all sung with feeling and skill. Careful training under the direction of Choirmaster George E. Chandler, was evident all through these parts.

Mr. Chandler's fine tenor voice was splendidly fitted to the recitative sections written for that voice, and his rendering of the many lines which fell to his lot was excellent. T. H. Bobby sang the baritone solos and recitatives with pleasing effect. D. Lucas also sang well the few lines of Pilate speaking to the multitude. Mrs. J. Howard sang two soprano solos in sweet voice.

Particularly striking parts of the choral work were the cries of the mob, demanding the crucifixion of the Master, the varying tones of the multitude being brought out, also the chorus, "The Son of God goes forth to die," when the weary walk of the Master and the stolid tramp of the crowd could be heard in the measured cadences of the music.

Great assistance was given by Mrs. Percy Hooper, violinist,. Her playing added to the quality of the singing, while her solo was most pleasing. Mrs. W. A. Logan, church organist, played the accompaniments and voluntaries in a sympathetic measure, giving the choir a perfect background and support for the voices.

During the interval between the first and second parts the Rector, the Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, expressed the appreciation of the congregation for the work of the choir, not only on special occasions but in the regular Sunday work of leading the congregation in hymns and chants. He mentioned particularly the faithful practice needed to produce the fine music. Thanks were expressed for the use of the leaflets containing the words of the cantata, which were loaned by St. John's choir for distribution among the congregation.

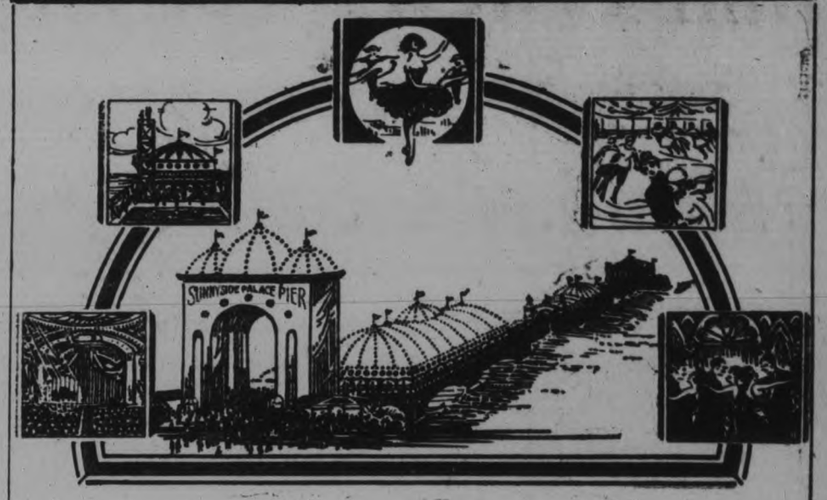
IN NAVAL TROUBLE

Royal Oak, have received copies of the charges against them in connection with the recent episode on the flagship of the battleship squadron of the Mediterranean fleet and are prepared for the court-martial convened at Gibraltar. The charges against them are laid under a blanket provision of the Naval Discipline Act, and concern a letter, deemed subversive of discipline sent by Daniel to Dewart and forwarded by him to Vice-Admirall Kelly. This letter is said to have contained adverse comment about Rear-Admiral Collard, LEFT who as a result of the commotion on the Royal Oak "struck" his flag and proceeded to England.

SUNNYSIDE PALACE PIER



AMUSEMENT the most profitable investment you can make

THE amusement "industry" knows no dull times. Every night in the year every amusement place in the city is crowded to capacity, and over thousands of dinner tables, "Where shall we go tonight" is the question of the hour.

Sunnyside Palace Pier with its magnificent Ball Room, Palace of Fun, Band Pavilion, Theatre, and complete refreshment facilities will answer that question more satisfactorily, more completely than it has ever been answered before. The attractions of the pier will appeal to every taste, every temperament, and all in a setting of natural beauty that in itself will prove a magnet to draw thousands.

Even in a country as small in area as England there are at least twenty-five amusement piers operating profitably. In the United States piers have proved the chief attraction wherever they have been built, and not one of those cities has all the advantages possessed by Toronto for the profitable all year round operation of a pleasure pier.

It is the desire of the Dominion Palace Pier Corporation that as many people as possible should have an opportunity to participate in the future profits of the Company. Use the Coupon below.

Syrup Making

Many farmers are busy making maple syrup, but it will not be as plentyful this spring as it has been for several years. This is considered a good sign by a number of farmers as it is thought by many that when maple syrup is plentiful, the crops are not so good.

The roads are drying very nicely in this vicinity although there is still a great deal of snow around the fences.

Many are busy getting their wood cut and piled in preparation for gardening, and the ladies are engaged in the annual spring cleaning.

BLAZE DAMAGES OIL REFINERY

Standard Oil Company Suffers Heavy Loss When New Fire Breaks Out

NAVY LENDS ASSISTANCE

HAVANA, April 7 (A.P.). — Fire, which took a toll of more than $2,000,000 from the Standard Oil refinery at Regla Thursday night, broke out afresh yesterday and gave the fire fighters an additional three-hour fight. The new blaze was brought under control by employees of the company, assisted by Havana firemen, with an additional loss estimated at $10,000.

The United States battleship Wyoming again sent a big complement of sailors ashore. Their efforts were confined yesterday, however, to guard duty while the company men and Havana firemen threw up sand barriers to keep the blazing oil from spreading.

The big blaze, which started Thursday night, burned for twelve hours. It is believed to have been caused when worn-out insulation allowed an electric light wire to come in contact with one of the steel tanks containing crude oil. Fourteen of 105 tanks were destroyed and the flames spread also to some flimsy buildings on a nearby pier. An ember from the pier is blamed for the fresh outbreak of yesterday.

There were upwards of sixty casualties resulting from the night conflagration, but only one of these, a Cuban, was serious. Eleven of 150 sailors from the Wyoming came out of the fight with burns but they were suffering more from exhaustion because of the terrific heat which they had faced.

Residents of Regla, which is across the harbor from Havana, were taken aboard vessels Thursday night, but they were returning to their homes last evening.

A.Y.P.A. PROVIDES MONEY FOR FLOOR

St. John's Parish Hall at Lakefield Re-opened After Improvement.

LAKEFIELD, April 7.—St. John's Parish Hall was re-opened on Sunday last, Palm Sunday, for Sunday School, after being closed for a few weeks while a new floor was being laid. The A. Y. P. A. has worked very hard to raise the money to put a hardwood floor in the hall and four men of the society laid it in the evenings, a truly splendid contribution. The men who did the work were Messrs. W. Chappell, W. S. Remnant, M. Smith and C. C. Stenner and at times others lent assistance but the number able to work was limited and the more skilled workers assumed the responsibility. The floor which is of maple, has been stained a rich mahogany and looks very nice and it is a credit to the A. Y. P. A. and especially to the men who sacrificed their spare evenings to do this bit of personal service for Christ and the Church.

Several members of the Salvation Army, of Peterborough, were in the village on Saturday afternoon on their annual mission of selling the Easter number of the "War Cry." A number of the bandsmen accompanied them and played selections in various parts of the village.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 7. — Canadian Press. — The National Baseball Federation decided yesterday to hold a world's amateur baseball championship at Cincinnati this year and a semi - professional championship at Detroit. The amateur event is to take place in September. The site for a industrial team championship was left to be determined at the summer session of the Federation in July at Akron, Ohio.

With Judge Arthur M. Spiegel of Cincinnati, presiding, the Federation devoted most of its time yesterday to a discussion of the attitude of K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and the major leagues toward the Federation. The Federation was organized to foster amateur, semi-pro. and industrial baseball, and with a view to developing players.

TEACHER HONORED

Miss Estelle Hetherington is Presented With Book at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Apr. 7.—Miss Estelle Hetherington, leader of Bible study class, was presented with a handsomely bound copy of Stanley Jones' new book. "The Christ of the Round Table", at the close of the regular study period on Tuesday evening. Miss Dorothy Crossley expressing the appreciation felt by the class members for their teacher's careful training, and the amount of voluntary labor involved, Miss Wilma Fallis offering the gift. Miss Hetherington was completely taken by surprise and her thanks were gracefully and genuinely expressed in a few brief sentences.

The average attendance at the class sessions is approximately twenty, though at many meetings thirty or more were present. Before Christmas the class covered a series of studies on the Old Tesament, and is now taking up the New Testament according to the Teacher training course of lessons. Ten members are preparing for the departmental examination at the conclusion of the course, and it was from these, who received a special share of the teacher's attention, that the gift was presented. A SPRING TONIC AN AID TO HEALTH

Youn Can Lay the Foundation of Good Health Now By Building Up Your Blood and Strengthening Your Nerves Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The good old fashion of taking a tonic in the Springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common sense and good medical practice. Winter is always a trying time for those who are not in rugged health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny summer months, and grow increasingly pale and languid as the spring days approach. A tonic for the blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people, by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands of people at this season of the year.

It is impossible to be energetic if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if your appetite is poor or you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your efficiency now, as well as to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine, there is no safer or better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills tone and enrich the blood which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and run-down organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

Mrs. L. Hupman, Summerville Centre, N.S., writes:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been the greatest benefit to me. A few years ago I was in a badly run down condition. I became so weak and nervous that I could scarcely go about and doing my housework left me completely used up. Everything seemed to worry me, and I was in a very discouraged condition when I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon found the pills helping me, and continuing their use I fully regained my health. Since then I always take a few boxes in the Spring to build me up for the hot weather, and always I find the best results. I therefore cheerfully recommend these pills as the best of health builders.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW BORN BABY HAS THROAT CUT

East York Police Officials Are Investigating Murder

BODY FOUND IN BOX

TORONTO, April 7.—With its throat cut from ear to ear, the body of a newly-born male child was found yesterday afternoon just off Broadview Avenue, near the Todmorden Hotel. The discovery was made by W. McAdams, of 60 Garnock Ave., who found the body when he investigated the contents of a cardboard millinery box which he saw lying on a pile of cement.

From all appearances, the murder was committed after the child was placed in the box. Both this box and a woman's old blouse which was wrapped around the body, were saturated with blood.

There were no marks of identification found on the child. The blouse was of a plain grey color, in an old-fashioned style. It had short sleeves, and an elastic band at the bottom. Also in the box was a quantity of tissue paper, which had been used for packing.

McAdams immediately notified Constable W. Masters, of East York, and the officer in turn called Coroner Dr. A. F. Demary. The latter examined the remains and ordered them removed to Trull's undertaking parlors, 1100 Danforth Avenue.

At the undertaking parlors, Chief of Police William McCann and Constable W. J. Wilken made a further examination of the body, but failed to find any clue as to the infant's identity. The police are engaged on an investigation of the matter, and an inquest will also be held.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FUNNY FACE.

Uncle Wiggily, who had been chased by the Fox, even though the rabbit gentleman had dribbled molasses to stick up the bad chap—Uncle Wiggily stood looking at the five sticks of fire wood which the farmer had sawed and left on the ground.

"Well?" asked the rabbit of the Fox, "can you do the trick of taking away three sticks and still leave five?"

"Oh, yes it can!" chuckled the rabbit. Quickly he tossed three of the sticks to one side. The other two sticks he put together in the shape of a letter V and then Uncle Wiggily said: "There's your five! It's the figure five the same as the V five on a clock face! Ha! Ha!"

And that Fox was so angry at not guessing this easy puzzle that he ran off to his den and didn't bite Mr. Longears at all. Away hopped the bunny uncle, laughing to himself. He put the cork in the jug of molasses that he had bought for Nurse Jane, and was soon back at his hollow stump bungalow.

"What are you going to do with the molasses, Nurse Jane?" he asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Make a cake," she answered. And she did, and when the cake was baked it smelled so good that Baby Bunty begged for a slice. So Nurse Jane gave the little orphan rabbit a bit of the molasses cake, and Uncle Wiggily also took one slice for himself, and then Bunty said:

"Please take me adventuring with you, Unkie Wig!"

"I will if you don't play any tricks on me," said the rabbit gentleman with a twinkle of his pink nose. "Do you promise?"

"I promise!" said Bunty with a funny little smile. So she and Uncle Wiggily hopped away together.

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty had not gone very far before, all of a sudden, the little orphan rabbit jumped to one side and shouted:

"Oh, my goodness!"

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, also jumping so quickly that he nearly lost part of the twinkle off the end of his pink nose.

"Oh, I dropped my piece of molasses cake!" said Baby Bunty.

"That isn't anything to be frightened about," chuckled Mr. Longears, "I thought you saw the Bob Cat or Wolf coming."

"No," said Bunty, "I just dropped my cake. But even if we did see the Bob Cat or Wolf coming, couldn't you give them a puzzle to do, as you did the Fox with the sticks of wood?"

"I don't know about that," said Mr. Longears. "But pick up your piece of molasses cake, Bunty, and we'll hop along."

However, when Bunty stooped to pick up her cake, she screamed again and said:

"It isn't here! It's gone! Oh, my cake is gone! And look who took it!" She pointed to the sly Weasel, who was slinking back into his den beneath a big rock, taking the piece of molasses cake with him.

"Come back here with Bunty's cake!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as politely as he could.

"No! No!" snarled the Weasel impolitely. "I'm going to keep it!"

"Make him do a puzzle!" whispered Bunty to Mr. Longears. Quickly the rabbit gentleman thought for a moment and then he pointed to a nearby tree and said:

"Show me where you can see a funny face in that tree, Mr. Weasel, or you can't have Bunty's cake! Quick! Find the face in the tree!"

Long and earnestly the Weasel looked at the tree, a picture of which you will find at the end of this story. See if you are clever enough to find in it the funny face. If you can, mark it out in ink and show your teacher.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

For the "sub deb"—a ruffled frock of pale green organdie with pink roses arranged at the normal waistline.

When you hear the word crisp—you doubtless think of a quality highly desirable in salad greens—but who in the world nowadays wants crisp clothes? Starch makes things crisp and no one uses starch any more.

And yet in accounts of the new clothes shown in Paris the adjective crisp appeared more than once. There were ruffles and frills and flounces that were crisp and nothing else. Moire, taffeta, tulle, net, organdie have been used for this effect, and Chanel has had the daring to use something like fine crinoline under flounces of lace to give them an aspect of very decided crispness. It did take nerve—but then Chanel some years ago had the nerve to urge the straight, unbroken line when curved, broken lines still were the rule, and Chanel more than any one else was responsible for the youthful silhouette.

Chanel's frocks are still youthful—only youthful in a different way.

There is a growing interest in Paris in semi-precious stones, an interest which has come as a very natural reaction to the long-continued interest in cheap imitations. There is one shop in Paris where a rule has been made and faithfully followed of never selling anything imitation, and for the less expensive ornaments they use such stones as topaz, in various colors, amethyst, opal, hematite, onyx, lapis lazuli, rock crystal—many of which are mined in French mountains.

Many of the semi-precious stones are just as beautiful as diamonds, rubies, emeralds and the other really precious stones, and in some cases the only thing that makes the semi-precious stone less costly than the real stone is the fact that it is found in greater abundance. An enormous variety of little-known semi-precious stones are mined in this country. They deserve far greater popularity than they at present enjoy.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, APRIL 8, 1928.

Benefic aspects rule today, according to astrology, but there are adverse influences.

Women come under the best influences today and should be able to present themselves at their best.

It is an auspicious rule for courtship and romance. Engagements made today should be lucky.

For those too practical to indulge in sentiment joy may be obtained under this direction of the stars in estimating wealth or making financial plans.

Music today has the best possible direction and should be of great importance in all church services.

Spiritual impulses should be strong and the churches should benefit, for there is to be a strong turning toward religion.

This is not a favorable sway for beginning journeys or for those who are on the high seas.

Oil is to attract more attention than formerly and to be the subject of increased public interest, it is foretold.

Inventions continue subjects to planetary direction that assures new miracles, especially in the utilization of natural forces.

The seers prophesy that there is to be a worldwide mental awakening that will bring into prominence new leaders of both sexes.

While the heroes and heroines will be many they will represent new types and will differ from those that are so rapidly passing from human ken, it is prophesied.

A London astrologer foretold the rise of a dictator in a foreign land, China perhaps, who will change the destinies of other nations beside his own.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have much friendship and even romance, but they should be cautious this year.

Children born on this day probably will have strong artistic inclinations. The subjects of this sign always have friends.

MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1928.

This is rather an uncertain day in planetary direction, according to astrology, but benefic aspects are strong.

It is a day for making plans rather than for indulging in action that is important.

The mind is likely to be exceedingly active while this rule prevails and for this reason inventors should benefit.

Universities now come under a sway that should be most fortunate. They may expect great gifts and marvelous expansion.

Again the seers prognosticate for a college head extreme honors and great success in public life.

Candidates of both parties may expect slander and there is the forecast of a sensational libel suit.

Women are to become an uncertain partisan influence for the stars indicate that they will put reforms above political affiliations.

Young men have the forecast of extraordinary chances to reveal their best possibilities and a few will gain fame.

There is an aspect that presages much trouble due to diseases of the nose, throat and ears.

This is a day read as rather trying for the aged and a time that may be difficult to deal with them.

Ancient lore read this configuration as hazardous for those who employ labor.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year in which they suffer from criticism. They should watch their steps.

Children born on this day probably will travel widely and even live abroad. They may have many changes in their lives.

Woman Doctor Advises Girls in Final Year To Practice in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., April 7 (CP).—The city's prejudice against medical women is steadily and obviously disappearing, in the opinion of Dr. Elizabeth Stewart, chairman of the medical staff of the Women's College Hospital. Dr. Stewart, in extending the best wishes of her confreres to the guests of honor, the eight women in their final year in medicine at the University of Toronto, urged them to consider seriously settling in Toronto to practise their profession.

"SALADA" TEA

Never before has such care been used in preparing teas for the public. Never before has such a blend of high quality teas been made, as in "SALADA". This flavour, this unfailing deliciousness is bringing pleasure to millions.

The League of Nations.

Contributed)

All great movements have had to make a start from small beginnings. The great Wesleyan movement of the 18th century was begun by a small band of men anxious to bring more spirituality into the life of the people. The terrible sufferings endured by the wounded gave rise to the use of nurses in war-afflicted areas and eventually to the great Red Cross movement. An almost endless number of cases could be cited to show that whatever progress has been made in the world has sprung from humble beginnings and has prospered because of the rooted belief, on the part of its supporters, in its goodness and ultimate success.

One of the greatest movements of the present day, or of any day, has for its object the establishment on a firm and lasting basis, of a league of nations, banded together to banish war and leave debatable matters to the saner realm of arbitration. When an almost unanimous sentiment is abroad in the world that to leave differences of opinion to the arbitratment of war is nothing short of devilish and that it is stark idiocy on the part of any people to allow the will of one individual to hold sway over the destiny of a nation, surely we cannot show ourselves backward in falling into line in helping to swell the sum total of world-benefactors.

If we sit supinely still we are aiding the forces of evil. To achieve success we have to put our shoulders to the wheel and press onward relentlessly and doggedly to the appointed goal. The old myth that war is a purifier has faded into thin air. The great war showed us that it was the very opposite. That it made men and women more careless, more dispirited, more irreligious. It has left every nation with the most serious domestic problems to face and if we value our very existence we must see to it that no such suicidal and absolutely unnecessary follies as bloody quarrels with other nations are allowed to interfere with our home adjustments.

To all believers in the blessings of peace and goodwill we address this note, asking them to assist the great cause by becoming members of the local branch of the League.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

Will Play All Stanley Cup Games at Montreal

AGREEMENT IS REACHED BY N. H. L. OFFICIALS

Had Been Possibility Rangers Play Home Games at Boston

THREE OUT OF FIVE

Maroons Win Opening Game of Series By 2-0 Score.

MONTREAL, April 7. — Canadian Press. — Following a conference between officials of the New York Rangers and the Montreal Maroons here yesterday President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League, anounced that all Stanley Cup games would be played in Montreal.

The second game will be played here on Saturday and the third on Tuesday. There has been a possibility that the Rangers would play their "home" games in the series next week at either Detroit or Boston, but following a conference yesterday it was agreed to contest the entire series here. The best three out of five games decides the title. If the series had to go further than the third game of Tuesday, the fourth will be played Thursday and the fifth, if necessary, next Saturday.

Beaten 2-0 in the opening game of the series on Thursday night the New York Rangers will enter the second game determined to even up up the series. The Rangers are far from satisfied that the result of the initial contest gives a true indication of the relative merits of the two teams. Manager Lester Patrick is protesting vigorously against what he alleges is interference with his wings by the Maroon checks. He claims that the Maroons' system of smothering wings is not just the legal practice of skating alongside a check, but is direct interference with players not carrying the puck. Patrick claims that all N.H.L. club managers who witnessed the opening game on Thursday night, agree with him in this contention. He holds that the referees warned players for interference but did not penalize them as called for under the rules.

The rule in "interfering with an opponent" reads: "A player not in possession of the puck shall not interfere with any player of the opposing side not actually playing the puck by cross-checking ,bodying or holding or in any other way. A player shall be considered to be in possession of the puck until it has been touched by another player (other than the goal keeper) or he has passed the puck to another player."

Maroons insist that their system of play is in absolute conformity with the rules.

LONDON TYPIST CROSSES STRAITS

Mercedes Gleitz Battles with Currents for Over Twelve Hours.

GIBRALTAR, April 7 (Associated Press). — Armed with a jagged fragment of rock from Morocco, a handful of Moroccan sand, and signed testimonials from nearly 70 witnesses, Mercedes Gleitz, a London typist, came back from the African coast yesterday with the announcement that she had swum the Straits of Gibraltar.

Miss Gleitz said she started from the Spanish side on Thursday morning and battled with the currents for twelve hours and fifty minutes.

"I almost gave up at one stage of the swim,' 'she said, "but in the afternoon conditions improved and I finally made Punta Leona."

This was Miss Gleitz's fourth attempt at the straits, which are especially difficult for swimmers because of the strong currents that swirl back and forth between the pillars of Hercules.

Last October Miss Gleitz was reported to have swum the English Channel on her eighth attempt, but the Amateur Swimming Association of England refused to take cognizance of her feat because the swim was not certified by newspapermen or officials of any swimming club.

Miss Gleitz's Gibraltar swim on Thursday was escorted by fishing smacks and rowboats carrying between sixty and seventy persons all told. All of the witnesses were Spaniards.

She was suffering yesterday from swollen lips and a blistered face, but said that otherwise she felt fine.

"I did a lot of feeding en route on sandwiches, omelettes, oranges, tea, and coffee,' 'she said.

PLAY BALL.

Special mention should be made of senior hardball meeting to be held in Chamber of Commerce rooms on Monday night.

With hockey still lingering in some of the larger cities, the launching of Peterborough baseball activities is now firmly under way. The softball players have already held their annual meeting. C. H. Westbrooke is the new president for this year and is ably supported by Bill Jackson in the role of vice-president. Both of these officials have been ardent fans in the past and can be depended upon to give their best in the coming season.

The Senior Petes meet on Monday night to arrange plans for the season. Just what the prospects are in the big boys' camp cannot be determined until after the pow-wow. At the meeting of the Central Ontario Association in Port Hope it was decided to open the schedule on May 24th with the Petes playing in Oshawa. But the locals first game here will be on May 26 when they clash with the Belleville aggregation. If you see anyone tearing around in double time you can be sure it is Max Swanston after some of last year's intermediates.

• • • • • • •

The Royals will jump into the junior series this year and all prospects point to them having a stronger crew than ever yet. McFadden has been reinstated and will probably be at the helm again this year. It is rumored they have a couple of "dark horses" on the team and with the increased strength on the pitching staff, fans can expect some lively battles. For three years the youngsters have won their way to the Ontario finals and semi-finals and with the players they have at present it looks as if they will bring home the bacon this year.

• • • • • • •

The "Y" Harrier club which was organized will be seen in action more extensively this season. The interest in track and field events in this district has been nearly buried for some time but this season the Harris organization, although in its infancy, should tend to arouse the old spirit.

• • • • • • •

The Soccer Association have given the different football clubs until April 9th to register as a team. This year there will probably be a six-team league. The Canadian General Electric Company Athletic Association have formed a club and are entering a team while the De Laval have given assurance that they will participate in the schedule. For a few seasons the Electric boys were out of this sport, but the fans can remember when, with Griffin goal, Harry Mann, Parkins and some more old timers they fought such memorable battles with the Caledonians and the War Vets. The C.G.E. are setting he pace in organized industrial sports and the football club is being strongly backed by the parent organization.

DELORO CLUB MAY ENTER CENTRAL ONTARIO LEAGUE

REPORTS READ

Tennis, Bowlers and Swimming Pool Also Taken Under Consideration.

MARMORA, April 7.—Two things stood out conspicuously at the eleventh annual meeting of the Deloro Amateur Athletic Association held at the Hub on Wednesday evening. The pleasing fact was revealed that last season starting with a deficit of eighty-one dollars and thirty-nine cents, was wound up with a surplus of one hundred and seventy-seven dollars and thirty-five cents. It was also stated that Deloro's Baseball Club would seek admission in the Central Ontario League at the League's meeting in Belleville on April 14. There was a splendid attendance at the meeting which was brimful of interest and timely suggestions.

H. F. Berry, retiring president, occupied the chair, and in his opening speech referred to the fine gathering as far safer sign of spring than the return of the robins for there was no chance of any freeze up after so good a meeting. Mr. Berry extended his thanks to the managers of the various branches whom later in the meeting he would call upon to report on their various activities He thanked the company for the support again given, as all present were aware, he said, the company provided nucleus and backing.

A. V. Yates, in dealing with tennis activities referred to last year's league games. Speaking in the prospective, he declared that while other teams would not be weaker, Deloro might be stronger. S. B. Cheeseman speaking in the discussion which ensued, suggested a beginners program. The chairman outlined the year's work of the bowling management, in regretted absence of J. Judge. W. Munby as manager of playgrounds committee having reported, R. A. Elliott, suggested that a swiming pool might prove a good acquisition for the children. A. V. Yates suggested that the Sunnyside girls' softball team be taken under the wing of this committee.

The main report of the evening was forthcoming from R. A. Elliott, who said they were all aware that Deloro, he would not speak much of the past season. Deloro did not finish up Intermediate champions but they came second. "What of baseball for the coming season"? he remarked. "For the last three or four years, Deloro has won out in their own league. This is not in the best interests of the other teams. So we are trying to get into senior ball. If able to do so, some mighty good sport will be seen at Deloro this summer, win or lose.

The C. O. L. is meeting at Belleville on the 14th of May, and we have applied for entry. Deloro should have a strong team this season and the boys should be given the chance to play in that class they are entitled to play in."

The chairman, having announced that Mr. Elliott had been delighted by the Company to assure the association of its continued support. Mr. Elliott did so, remarking that the Company were behind good clean amateur support to any extent within reason.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

While I don't suppose Mister Cash and Carry Pyle needs no tips from nobody how to make money out of sport, the National Hockey magnates manage to squeeze a considerable wad of jack outa the customers in the Stanley Cup playoffs. Mister Pyle oughta use the same system. When his Bunion Derby is over let him decide the winner by running the 1st 3 birds to finish, if any, once round Madison Square Gardens. He could pack the house, and while a guy that finished mebbe a day behind the 1st runner home across the Continent might come through and win the Madison Square finish, what's the use worrying about that so long's the suckers lay their money in at the gate to see the windup. It wouldn't be much worse than the hockey playoffs when 2 teams what led the field after playing over 4 mos. is now out in the cold.

"The champs is ended,
But the second-placers linger on."

Who'll win the playoffs? It don't matter none to me, for I can't help feeling that the teams what ought to be in there fighting for the old Stanley mug is the birds what finished in front in their own sections—Boston and the Canadiens. The present system is a joke, but just so long as the customers stand for it you can bet your last dime the magnates ain't going to change nothing that brings in some velvet at the end of the season.

So much for hockey; let's talk about something more seasonable. Baseball, I'm sorry to report, ain't looking so good in the sr. series, and right now whether Peterborough has a sr. club is what you might call trembling in the balance. Unless the old boys what is still here all agree to stick for another season and 4 or 5 up and coming kids jump at the chance to make the big show, the shutters will be put up and Peterborough will be outa sr. ball for the 1st time since Mister Jake Solomon cut the weed crop at Riverside Park and flung a nondescript lot of ball tossers into the Ontario sr. playoffs. We've had sr. ball ever since, been a contender most of the time, twice in the Ont. finals, and it would be a swing to the jaw now to have to drop out now and leave this city with no major ball team. The old boys and the kids together could swing the trick, but if the old guard wants to quit and the youngsters has no ambition, well, that's that. They is a meeting Mon. night, and everybody what wants to see Peterborough kept on the sr. may better be there, otherwise the club'll drop outa the Central League.

I wanta take off my hat to Mister Doc. J. J. Craig for the fight what he is putting up to put hard ball back into the School League. Why a lotta husky Canadian kids should be brought up on a soft ball diet, a sport that was invented 1st to amuse fat men at a picnic, I can't imagine. Soft ball is all right in its place, but it should never be let drive the real game outa the schools.

Seems to me we're softening up in our games. Lacrosse is gone, from here anyway; hockey is played with so much use of subs that most birds begin to look appealing to the penalty box before they've gone 10 mins.; nobody bowls 10 pins any more because the big balls means two much work, and soft ball is played by hard ball stars. Where is it going to end, Mac?

Well, old thing, they ain't no use me going on grumbling, so I'd better cut this howl right now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

ROYALS HOLD FIRST PRACTISE

NEW PLAYERS

The Royals of All Saints' Athletic Association held the initial practice of the season at the King Edward School grounds on Good Friday. For some time, Doug. Hatton, as captain of the team, has been rounding the players together and about twenty showed up for a light workout. The grounds were in a heavy condition but nevertheless two teams were chosen and a snappy game of ball played. Most of last year's players were out, with Cuthbertson, Weir and Sturgeon trying for berths. Holmes has worked the mound for the last two seasons and will probably be better than ever this year. With a couple of new players from out of town added to the list, Manager McFadden will have plenty of material to choose from, and in all events will trot out the best team of any so far.

EVERTON DEFEATS CUP FINALISTS

Strengthens Position in First Division of English Soccer League.

LONDON, England, April 7.—Canadian Press. — Everton struggling to maintain their position in second place and get back into the lead in the first division of the English League, yesterday gathered two valuable points by beating the cup finalists Blackburn Rovers. Huddersfield town, the league leaders, and Leicester City third club, were not in action yesterday. The positions of the three clubs has not been changed. One threat for second place, that of Cardiff City, was removed for the time being as the Welshmen were badly beaten by Arsenal.

In the second division, Chelsea gets back into the leadership, at least for a day, by beating Oldham Athletic. The late leaders, Leeds United were off duty yesterday.

EASTER DAY

Christ is risen. Joy and gladness be in every heart to-day.
Vanquished are the powers of darkness, broken, death's despotic sway,
Ere the shadowy veil was lifted from the sable brow of night
Or upon the dim horizon, shone, the first faint flush of light.
From deaths cold embrace awaking, as from slumber's sweet repose
On that glorious Easter morning, from the sepulchre, he rose.
Not sealed stone, or tomb, could bind Him, prison bars were all in vain;
O'er Him, death holds no domain; Judah's lion breaks his chain.
Where, O grave, is now thy boasting; where, O death, thy cruel sting?
Over death's dark gloomy valley, Hope now spreads her silvery wing;
He is the first fruits of that harvest which from earth's wide fields shall rise,
When He comes again, in glory with bright ones, of the skies.
He's the pledge of our own rising from the dust some joyful day,
To put on the robe of immortal, and abide with Him for aye.
He has opened Heaven's portals, won for us an entrance free
To His home of many mansions, by the tideless crystal sea.
So let us to His temple hasten this Easter morn, with glad accord,
And pay our warm, heartfelt devotions, and praises to our Risen Lord.

Orland

ORLAND, April 7.—Earl Simpson has about got his saw mill ready for the spring cut. There seems to be a better quality and a larger quantitity of logs than usual.

After undergoing a critical operation at Campbellford Hospital Miss M. I. Dinner of Codrington is doing as well as can be expected.

Being confined to bed through the breaking of her hip last fall Mrs. Levi Herrington who resides with her daughter Mr. J. Dinner has been not so well recently and as a result her son William, of Milwaukee, has been sent for.

Alex. Dewey is spending a few weeks with his son-in law. Cory Zufelt of Warkworth, is suffering from blood poison.

C. A. Lawson has purchased the Hanna lot from James Herrington and intends making improvements on it as soon as weather permit.

H. F. Way is making extensive improvements in his cheese factory at Cedar Creek. J. Steacy contractor of Trenton is doing the work and at present has the cement foundation well under way.

Jame Herrington of Havelock an old resident of this place, passed throughhere on his way to Brighton.

The Campbellford and Brighton County highway has not been in so bad a condition for many years, and although the frost is out very little several places are almost impassable on account of the deep washout.

Wild geese to the number of twelve were seen passing over to the north. This the old residents claim is an omen of spring at once. But the heavy lightning so they say denotes a late spring, so now all we can do is to wait and see what the weather man will do about it.

The maple syrup will likely be a light yield here as very few bush owners [illegible].

KINSEY DEFEATED.

MEXICO CITY, April 7 (Associated Press). — William T. Tilden II. defeated Robert G. Kinsey, native-born American playing for Mexico in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4, to give the United States victories in the first two singles matches of the Davis Cup competition.

ONTARIO

Pounding of Heavy Trucks

Breaks up Highways

In early Spring when water lurks in road foundations.

During wet spring days when frost is coming out of the ground, even the best of highways are damaged by the pounding of heavy trucks. On paved roads, foundations "churn" and become fractured, while on macadam and gravel roads the surface is cut up as well.

The Ontario Highway Traffic Act has special clauses to protect roads, both paved and unpaved, from damage by heavy trucks at such periods. The Act declares that during March and April, on roads outside cities and towns:

Solid tired trucks and trailers shall not carry more than half a load;

Pneumatic tired trucks and trailers, with a carrying capacity exceeding three tons, shall be limited to half a load;

The speed limits for trucks at all seasons are: 15 miles an hour for solid tired vehicles, and 20 miles an hour for pneumatic tired vehicles of more than six tons gross.

The penalty for overloading at this season is a fine, imprisonment, or both. Licenses may be suspended also. Highway traffic officers have been directed to be especially vigilant in apprehending all who disobey.

The Department of Highways desires to impress upon truck and team owners and drivers the provisions of the law and the penalties provided. It seeks their co-operation in a decent observation of provisions so greatly in the public interest. Ontario has an investment of over $170,000,000 in roads and an annual maintenance bill of $4,000,000. This investment must be protected.

Grass-Widows Seek Husbands In Party

LONDON, Eng., April 7.—(Canadian Press)—A correspondent of a Canadian paper sends the following: A little bird told me of a rather amusing result of the Canadian farmers' tour of this country. Many excellent photographs picturing the farmers have appeared in the English papers. There are full-length pictures, farmers in profile and farmers taken "full face." But listen to the unexpected result of all this publicity. Ladies long left in grass-widowhood by husbands who emigrated to Canada have suddenly seen or imagined they have seen Bill, Tom or Bob, staring at them from the printed page! So the ladies have called, some at Canada House, some at the offices of the Canadian railway companies in London—rather wrathful ladies, claiming long-lost husbands! So far no genuine captures have been made, but if this should occur I think the erring one can be promised a pretty warm reception.

WILL ATTEMPT ATLANTIC HOP

Fitzmaurice Will Accompany German Fliers On Projected Transatlantic Flight

GIVEN OFFICIAL SANCTION

BALDONNEL, Irish Free State, April 7 (A.P.).—Colonel James C. Fitzmaurice, head of the Irish Free State Air Service, has received the permission of his government to accompany Baron von Huenefeld on the projected trans-Atlantic flight of the Junkers' plane Bremen.

Colonel Fitzmaurice will be second pilot in the Bremen accompanying Captain Hermann Koehl, who will be first pilot and Baron von Huenefeld, backer of the flight.

The colonel yesterday was granted a leave of absence by the Irish army authorities, so that the Bremen's flight could be a German-Irish adventures. The Germans are particularly anxious to have an Irish pilot accompany them. Colonel Fitzmaurice will wear the Irish Air Force uniform as the flight has the official sanction of the Free State Government. There is great interest here in having an Irishman on this pioneer venture.

The Bremen is fully fueled and the wings and body are propped to relieve the strain. She can be made ready for the flight in two hours' time. Weather conditions over the Atlantic are improving.

"THE CRYSTAL CUP" A DARING DRAMA, WITH JACK MULHALL AND DOROTHY MACKAILL, WILL BE FEATURE ATTRACTION COMMENCING MONDAY.

Based on the daring novel of the same name by Gertrude Atherton, "The Crystal Cup" is probably one of the most unusual stories ever filmed.

Its basic plot motif concerns a sensitive, impressionable girl, who goes through a terrible experience early in her life, and who is so deeply impressed and frightened by it, that its infuence never completely leaves her.

Dorothy Mackaill in the featured feminine role, gives a performance of unusual depth and sincerity. She has never been seen on the screen to better advantage.

Jack Mulhall, in the opposite role, gives a well-modulated performance of a wholly dramatic nature, in direct contrast to the many humorous roles he has played lately, demonstrating definitely the remarkable versatility which is his.

Rockliffe Fellowes, Jane Winton, Edythe Chapman and Clarissa Selwynne dserve mention for their work in prominent supporting roles.

TOM MIX IN "DAREDEVIL'S REWARD."

This is one of the real Tom Mix pictures in which the tall, lanky hero with the wide-leafed sombrero does some of his thrilling stunts with his picturesque and clever horse. Tom Mix has a reputation for clean, interesting pictures of a western type, and he never deviates from the role in which his childish friends especially get so much entertainment.

"Daredevil's Reward" has a little variation to the story in the fact that a powerful motor truck, in which by the way, Tony, the wonder horse, is concealed for the better part of the time, plays a large part in its unfolding. This truck is used by Tom Hardy, a Texas ranger, as a sort of disguise. When the bandits who pursue him at regular intervals come to close quarters, he takes the wheel, hides his horse within the truck that is supposed to house patent medicines and nostrums, and assumes the garments of a quack doctor.

By beating a gang of bandits to the job of robbing a stage coach in a feat that enables him to rob the coach before they get there and make off with the money, Tom becomes involved in a pursuit by the sheriff's men and the bandits alike and has some thrilling adventures. As usual, however, he gets away with the glory and the heroine both.

The comedy, an "Our Gang" mix-up entitled "Dog Heaven," is a hilarious affair that presents the "Gang," with its funny characters, in conjunction with some clever dog actors. It is an entertaining addition to the program.

AT THE REGENT.

WHIRLWIND THRILLS.

"Wolf's Clothing," by Warner Bros. production, coming to the Regent Theatre, is holding audiences in a steady grip of thrills and laughs. It is good comedy and good melodrama and through it all runs the glamor of a real romance.

The story of Arthur Somers Roche tells of a subway guard who has come to New York from the country in order to enjoy the life of the Great White Way. But his job is a night job and the train upon which he works, while it runs along Broadway, runs under the big street, and the guard never gets a chance to see what the White Lights are like. That is, not until one New Year's Eve, and then he sees sights that open up his great big blue eyes.

Looking on at the same time is a society girl who has never ventured to the White Way before without being heavily chaperoned. She cuts loose from convention on New Year's Eve and goes "slumming" alone away from Park avenue in a wild night club.

She meets the subway guard and thinks he is a great gentleman. And she fairly knocks him off his feet with lovelike emotions. They are having a whale of a time when they run into a crook mystery that carries them through a whirlwind of melodramatic excitement.

This excitemcnt is intensified through the excellent production that the Warner Bros. have given to the story. Monte Blue is the star, and he is a star that is steadily increasing in popularity. As the subway guard he has a chance to show melodramatic force, comedy, pathos, tenderness and rip-snorting joy of life. It is a role made for Monte Blue and he acts it with contagious glee.

Playing opposite him is Patsy Ruth Miller, as the society girl who has her Arabian Night. She plays the role beautifully. And vivid performances are given by John Miljan, and Douglas Gerrard.

AT THE GRAND.

THE WESTMINSTER GLEE SINGERS.

All too seldom does Peterborough hear vocal music such as that of the Westminster Glee Singers, whose golden voices and sheer artistry held their audience at the Grand last night spell bound for two wonderful hours of delightful entertainment.

This famous English choir, under the direction of Edward Branscombe, and embodying in its membership men and boy singers from the cathedral of the Old Land, combines chorus singing extraordinary with individual vocal ability of the highest order, with the result that its programs are remarkable in their diversity. Nothing quite like the effects that this organization is able to secure has been heard here before; its choral singing has attained the height of perfection through the long association of the singers, while the soloists one and all scored triumphs on their own account.

Last evening's program—over thirty numbers in all, and every number a gem—was outstanding, not only because of the merit of the singing, but because of the excellent choice of material that made it unique in its variety. No matter what combnaton of the wonderful voices at his command Mr. Branscombe elected to employ, the result was invariably an enchanting number that appealed afresh to an audience still enrilled by the beauty of what had gone before. What voices and what singing!

The unaccompanied part-singing of the ensemble was a revelation of what can be done in this direction. The opening number, a madrigal, "The Roundelay," opened the doors of enchantment for the audience, who realized that here was musical magic and the encore offering, a roling off-stage echo effect by one of licking hunting song with a strik-the soprano boys completed the spell. Other program numbers by the whole Glee Singers were an effective arrangement of "The Village Blacksmith," Sullivan's anthem, "I Love the Lord," the favorite old Christmas carol, "Good King Wencelas," an impressive rendition of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and the glee, "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," the latter one of the highlights of a program that was agleam with vocal gems.

The singing of the six boy sopranos, marked both by beauty of voice and a clearness of expression, was always delightful, their contribution to the ensemble numbers adding greatly to the charm of these offerings, while the unison solo, "Let the Bright Seraphin" by Handel and Dr. Arne's sprightly "Where the Bee Sucks," were delightfully given. One of the boys, Edwin Brazier, won an individual triumph by his singing of Schubert's "Cradle Song," with a striking vocal accompaniment by the ensemble. The artistry of the boys alone would have raised the program to an unusual height.

Of the adult artists it is difficult to speak without becoming fulsome. To find artists who could so wonderfully meet the exacting demands of concerted vocal work and then excel as soloists, was a most pleasant and delightful surprise. Donald Reid, male alto, the first of the soloists to sing, started the individual work at a high-level that was maintained by those who followed him. Mr. Reid has a voice of striking clearness and sweetness and he used it to the greatest advantage in Purcell's "Passing By" and in a charming recall number, "Rosebud," by Drummond. Charles Draper's baritone solo, "Harlequin," was given in splendid voice and with fine expression, and in response to the applause Mr. Draper offered a remarkable rendition of "The Volga Boat Song." James Davis, a tenor of great range and purity, and a singer who is every inch an artist, won an ovation by his solo, "My Dreams" by Tosti, and was equally successful in the beautiful "Crossing the Bar." The bass solo, "Arise Ye Subterranean Winds," was delightfully song by James Barber, who yielded to the applause that followed with an effective rendition of the old favorite, "Simon the Cellarer."

An outstanding feature was the singing of a number of old sea shanties in which the verses were effectively sung by Albert G. Green and the the ensemble scored in the choruses. There was humor as well as harmony in these old songs, and the audience enjoyed them hugely.

Besides all these delightful offerings, the program included several quartette numbers, "In Absence" by Dudley Buck, "Summer Eve" and "The Lovely Rose" by Hermes, all delightful, and still another quartette offering with Vincent Petley, one of the boy sopranos, included "My True Love Has My Heart."

The Westminster Glee Singers' present an entirely different program at the Grand to-night and there should not be a vacant seat in the house. To stay away is to deprive yourself of a seldom-given opportunity of hearing vocal music at its best.

HARD TO COLLECT FINES UNDER O.T.A.

Director of Companies Not Personally Liable, Says Attorney-General.

TORONTO, April 7. — Under the Ontario Temperance Act, directors of a limited company operating a hotel were not personally liable, and the Province from time to time experienced difficulty in collecting fines, where there was no tangible asset, other than a lease. Since the Government had no desire to step in and run a hotel, fines that could not be collected were not collected, and that is apparently the explanation of a statement that fines totalling $10,000, imposed upon two Toronto hotel concerns, were never received by the Province. Commenting upon the incident, as mentioned by Curran Morrison, police court clerk, Col. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, points out that provision has been made in the Liquor Control Act whereby no doubt is left as to responsibility of manager or directors.

The cases involving the Empress and American hotels were under the O.T.A., and prior to Col. Price's administration as Attorney-General, but he is not inclined to take issue with the statements made.

Trouble in Collecting Fines.

"If there were any instructions from Mr. Hales, as head of the Board of License Commissioners, or from the Attorney-General," he said, "it would be because they had a report from the City Hall. I know that the department—although it was before my time—had great difficulty in collecting a fine because there was no responsible party and nothing you could seize. There were a number of these cases throughout the Province. I suppose when the city tried to collect these particular fines, the report was 'nulli bonum,' and the report might be made a half-dozen times to the department and perhaps the lease would be cancelled.

"When I got into preparation of the Control Act, I put in a clause leaving no doubt about what we would do with a director or manager. But that was the situation under the O.T.A., and according to the recollection of the departmental solicitor, it no doubt explains the cases now mentioned."

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XVII—Is Religion Entitled to Survive?

IN so brief a survey as this we can not go further with the age-long controversy. Those who would follow it in detail will enjoy the History of the Warfare of Science with Theology, by Dr. Andrew D. White, a great treatise from which we, like other subsequent writers on the subject, have made liberal borrowings.

Enough has been written here to show the broad outlines of the long and losing battle. Fearing change, terror-stricken lest some new discovery might rock the ancient structures, organized religion in all countries has denied and threatened, and tortured and slain. With so bad a record, is it entitled to survive?

Are the services rendered great enough to overbalance this awful debit? Is any institution which has shown itself so unadaptable, so lacking in appreciation of the expanding life of the intellect, fitted to be useful in this modern, pulsing world?

To these questions five honest answers can be made.

First of all, when the Roman government went down before the Goths and Vandals there was one agency of civilization, and only one, which was strong enough to survive. That one was the Christian Church. Whatever of art and scholarship, whatever of idealism and faith, lived through those recurring catastrophes was saved by the care and sacrifice of priests and monks and nuns.

In Cells of Monasteries

If the church was responsible for darkening the Middle Ages by suppressing the full glow of scientific progress, it is equally true that the little spark of learning from which scientists were later to relight their larger torches was preserved not in laboratories or libraries, for there were none, but in the cells of monasteries.

The church did more than merely survive. It laid its restraining hand on the savage victors and rescued some salvage for the future. Yes, and even more. It conquered the conquerors; it taught them to worship. Was the work of regeneration superficial? Were the converts still pagan under the skin? Do we even now preserve in Christian ceremonial some things of heathen origin? Unquestionably.

Church Stood Alone

The church suffered as well as gained by its victory. But it did conquer. It did turn the tide. The sweeping floods of barbarism that threatened to wipe out all the progress won by centuries of civilized effort were brought under control. Destructive energy was directed into constructive channels. The church alone stood firm when all else tottered. It saved enough of civilization so that the structure could be rebuilt.

We need to remember, in the second place, that history touches only the high spots. It shows us kings and princes, popes and cardinals, ambassadors and generals: their ambitions, intrigues, selfishness and cruelties, and from these allows us to deduce the rest.

It does not show us what went on beneath the surface. Far down below these troubled heights there were peaceful valleys of common life. Here, and not upon the unlovely peaks, was the real life of the age. If religion meant only intolerance and bigotry above, it had a different significance below. To the masses it was faith, and encouragement, and comfort, and hope for eternal life.

The Book of Judges in the Old Testament corresponds, in a sense, to the chapters of history which deal with the "dark ages." It is an "in-between" book, bridging the gap from civilized Egypt to the later period of renaissance under David and Solomon. It is filled with ignorance and cruelty.

"No King of Israel"

Again and again it apologizes for the horrible deeds recorded, reminding the reader that "there was no king in Israel, and every man did that which was right in his own eyes."

You think as you read that it must have been an altogether depraved and hopeless era, as if life could not possibly have been worth the struggle and terror which it cost. But again only the peaks are revealed. Following the Book of Judges comes the Book of Ruth, which begins with this significant sentence: "Now it came to pass in the days when the Judges ruled."

What came to pass? What good things could possibly come to pass in such evil days? Read the answer in the four short chapters that follow. They make one of the sweetest stories in the world.

For "it came to pass in the days when the judges ruled" that Elimelech was taking good care of his wife and two boys. It came to pass in the terrible days when the judges ruled that those two boys were growing up and marrying good girls and establishing happy homes.

Ruth's Loyalty

It came to pass in the bloody days when the judges ruled that Ruth was standing loyally by her mother-in-law, saying: "Intreat me not to leave thee . . . for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

It came to pass in those awful days that a prosperous man, Boaz, was watching the women who gleaned in his fields, not to betray but to protect them, and he saw Ruth and admired her and married her, and she became the mother of a fine household, and an ancestress of Jesus of Nazareth.

A rather nice set of circumstances to have taken place in those fearful days when the judges ruled.

STOMACH TROUBLES THAT ARE DANGEROUS

(CUT THIS OUT)

Some forms of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancers—then, a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailments should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't waste time with unknown or unreliable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and obtain a few cents' worth of pure Bisurated Magnesia. This special Magnesia Compound is safe and pleasant to take—quickly, almost instantly, effective and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISURATED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

WARD HELPERS NEW PROFESSION

Workers Relieve Nurses of Minor Tasks in Toronto Hospital.

TORONTO, Ont., April 7.—A new occupation for women has opened in this city with the employment by the Toronto General Hospital of a number of girls as ward helpers. The work is not a substitution for part of the work which the men as orderlies carry on but is rather a cross between the minor tasks which have taken the time of the professionally-trained nurse or have been found a little difficult for the ward maids.

"The ward helper is not an absolutely new thing," the superintendent of nurses says. "Three large Canadian hospitals have a staff of ward helpers and the larger institutions in the United States saw fit to relieve the nurses of many little duties by bringing on the other assistants." Thirteen ward helpers have been engaged at Toronto General Hospital now, and fly around the long corridors in their smart tan uniforms, with fresh white aprons. They assist the nurses in preparing the trays for the patients, although they do not have anything to do with the preparation of the food since that requires dietetic knowledge which the nurse receives in training.

BOY'S TALE CLUE TO KIDNAPPERS

Chum of Missing Lad Tells of Man Inquiring Way To Home.

LOS ANGELES, April 7 (Canadian Press).—The story told by a small chum of nine-year-old Walter Collins of a short, bewhiskered man who inquired his way to Collins' home, was relied upon by police to-day as their strongest clue in the supposed kidnapping of the boy. Twelve-year-old Lloyd Tutor said the man resembled one of two suspected former convicts whom the police are seeking in connection with the case.

Indian Never Sees His Mother-in-Law

TORONTO, Ont., April 7.—(Canadian Press)—"When an Indian marries he takes his wife home, but he must never set eyes upon his mother-in-law", declared George Gooderham, Indian agent, addressing the members of the Electric Club. The speaker explained, however, that this prohibition was not an unmixed blessing, for in case of a domestic squabble the wife had only to return to her mother, whose presence embarrassed the husband in his efforts of reconciliation.

Infant mortality had dropped considerably since the establishment of a new hospital and the Indians were taking a great interest in surgery. "In the past 25 years the Indian has developed into an entirely different man", said Mr. Gooderham. "He is fast becoming a producer. On the Reserves today we have men who have discarded their moccasins for shoes and spats, and women who have bobbed their hair and wearing lingerie."

EASTER MESSAGE GIVEN LADIES' AID

George Street Society Transacts Much Business at Regular Meeting.

The Ladies' Aid Society of George Street United Church held its April meeting in the Board Room of the Sunday School on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance. The room was bright with baskets of yellow daffodils and red tulips. The president, Mrs. C. E. Smith, occupied the chair. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. E. E. Harvey, and the Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. P. Hagerman. After the secretary, Mrs. S. Oke, had given their reports, a number of letters of appreciation from those to whom flowers had been sent, were read by Miss Mary Elliott, corresponding secreatry. The following convenors of standing committees reported: Mrs. B. Shortly, Cupboard Committee; Mrs. G. C. Carruthers, Parsonage Committee; Miss L. Morrow, Flower Commitee; Mrs. P. Hetherington, Social Committee. Mrs. J. Stubbs, the energetic convenor of the Sick and Visiting Committee, reported that she and her assistants had made thirty-seven calls on sick and shut-ins during the month. Mrs. H F Foote gave a very encouraging report regarding the activities of the different groups who are working for the Christmas Fair. Mrs. W. R. Copp reported from her group that they had some quilts finished which they would be glad to sell. It was decided to have a rummage sale the latter part of the month.

Mrs. J. Forbes Allan gave an eloquent and inspiring Easter message. Before beginning her address she referred to the drive which is being made for increased membership for the League of Nations Society, and pleaded that women of the church, and particularly mothers with young sons, get behind this movement that is trying so hard to prevent war. The ministers of the churches are being asked to preach peace sermons on Sunday, April 15, and the choirs to sing "Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men." She asked the members of the society to receive the message sympathetically and to help it along in every way possible, and gave a brief explanation of its work. There are now 55 nations members of the League. There are 45 active branches and as Canada has now a seat in the Council branches here are forced to take a more active part in its work. The League tries to create such a strong sentiment and opinion against war that kings or governments will hesitate before opposing such an element and rushing into war. Since its formation this League of Nations at Geneva has stopped six wars, besides assisting nations in other vital matters. King George's message to all his people is "to get behind the effort."

The Easter Message.

Mrs. Allen took a verse from the Book of Deuteronomy for her subject, "Thou hast only begun to declare thy glory," saying, "Thus to my mind is a beautiful thought and sets out a fundamental conception of Hebrew religion," he said. "The entire book sets forth the highest religious principles and its outlook is most humane and charitable in its interest in strangers, foreign visitors, slaves and animals. It deals with the bitter sorrow of Moses at not being able to pass over the Jordan into the promised land but in studying God's revelations we see that changed conditions demanded new leadership. This old man would probably have been a hindrance in the new life of the Israelites.

"Man's life in this planet has been comparatively short. The world only began its business when man was created. It is difficult now to realize that 20 centuries ago conditions were of brutal tyranny, the tyranny of the conqueror. We are discovering now that humanity kindness and love is a much better way to rule the world.

"Every day is a new departure. We are only beginning to live. Not long ago the community felt no responsibility in regard to child welfare or education. The prisons and asylums were a disgrace to humanity. There is nothing more inspiring than to study the development of religion. Hundreds of unnumbered souls gave themselves literally for something we seem to value so casually. We can now read religious articles in the newspapers, see religious plays at the 'movies' and hear wonderful messages over the radio. Chist's empire girdles the earth and soon he will govern it.

"All our greatness comes from those who went before and who built for God and in this goodly land which our sons and daughters will possess we should set ourselves the task of carrying on God's work. Before us stretches a vast vista of love, loyalty and service when we shall see God face to face. Most of us have ideals and dream dreams, but ideals are poor goods unless we have some sense of practical responsibility and rededicate and reconsecrate ourselves to His service.

Miss Swayne, of Edmonton, who is visiting in the city, favored the audience with two delightful solos, accompanied by Miss Addie Batten.

A hearty vote of thanks was extedned to Mrs. Allen and Miss Swayne by Mrs. Smith.

AUXILIARY MEETS.

Helen Rogers' Branch of Knox Church Hears Good Paper.

The monthly meeting of the Helen Roger Missionary Auxiliary of Knox United Church was held at the home of Mr. H. Williamson, Reid Street, on Monday evening, with a splendid attendance. Miss Cohen gave an interesting paper on the study book "New Path for Old Purposes". A solo by Mrs. Spincer was much enjoyed. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

WEDDING BELLS

LILLEY—ANDERSON.

The marriage was solemnized at St. Paul's Manse, at two o'clock on Good Friday afternoon, of Helen Anderson, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, of Dundee, Scotland, and James Lilley, of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lilley, of Bury, England. The ceremony was performed by Rev William Allan.

The bride wore a lovely gown of cornflower crepe de chine, a small black and silver hat and black slippers and hose.

Attendants were Miss Isabel Patterson and Mr. William Hutton, both of Peterborough. The former wore a sand-colored dress, with hat to match.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served to the wedding guests at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Wm. Petrie, 521 Murray streets, where the rooms and table were prettily decorated in white and yellow, with a quantity of Easter lilies. Later Mr. and Mrs. Lilley left for a trip to Hamilton, to reside in the city on their return. They received many useful and beautiful gifts.

BOY SUCCUMBS TO WOUND RECEIVED ON HUNTING TRIP

INQUEST ORDERED.

Death Occurs Sunday Evening Nearly Thirty Hours After Accident Happened.

John B. Gauld, who was shot on Saturday afternoon when the gun carried by Philip Marrocco went off, died in Nicholls Hospital early last night. During Saturday night and early yesterday a faint hope was held out for the boy's recovery, but in the afternoon he commenced to sink, and died at 5.51.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young states that there will be an inquest, but the time has not been set. The body at present is in the Belleghem Funeral Parlors.

The four boys, Philip Marocco, George Gauld, John Gauld and Morris Hynes, were going out hunting ground hogs and were well on their way when the fatality occurred.

Recently many complaints have been received about shooting in Jackson Park, and only Saturday authority was given to erect signs forbidding shooting in that park.

The Gauld family has been in the city only a few months, coming here from near Port Hope early in the year, taking residence on Elm street, and moving a few days ago to Aylmer street.

Little John was born in Mitchell, Ont., in 1913, three weeks after the family arrived from Scotland. The boy's second name was Borden, he being called after Sir Robert Borden, who was then Premier of Canada.

Mr. Gauld has had a great deal to do with laying ghosts, and has investigated many cases in both Canada and the old land. During the time of the Keating episode in Seymour township, Mr. Gauld offered to go and find out the causes of the weird noises being heard in that home.

Four boys and two girls, besides the mother and father are left to mourn the loss of their son. Three of the boys are in Montreal and one girl is in the United States.

Crown Attorney Hatton has communicated with the Attorney-General's Department in Toronto and is now awaiting instructions.

MRS. LINDBERGH ARRIVES BY PLANE

Great Crowd Welcomes Mother of Famous Flier To Toronto.

TORONTO, April 9 (Canadian Press).—The cabin airplane carrying Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh and her companions from Detroit to Toronto arrived at Leaside Aerodrome to-day at 11.25 a.m., making the journey in the good time of two hours and twenty minutes. The trip was made with strong winds and intermittent snowstorms hampering visibility. Mrs. Lindbergh is attending the convention of the Ontario Educational Association which opens to-morrow.

A crowd gathered at the landing field to welcome Mrs. Lindbergh. She will be the guest of honor at numerous functions within the next three days, commencing with breakfast to-morrow morning. The first public convocation of the Educational Association will be at Convocation Hall to-morrow evening, when Mrs. Lindbergh will be presented with a life membership in the association. She was accompanied by Miss Maud Dawson, also a teacher at Cass High School, Detroit; Louis G. Meister, pilot, and Mrs. Meister. Delegates from all parts of the province, coming by every train, and numbering hundreds, arrived here to-day in preparation for the convention.

THE WEATHER

Easter Day usually gives us bright and pleasant weather, though occasionally, a little chilly. Yesterday, however, was a day of blustering snowstorms, high winds, and all-around disagreeableness. The temperature remained around the freezing point most of the day. This morning the thermometer stood at 20 degrees. Yesterday a gentleman who had just returned from the Niagara peninsula, told me that on Saturday the farmers everywhere were busy on the land, the grass was beautifully green, and tulips, hyacinths and other bulbs were in full bloom. He said that he had been told that rubbers had been only necessary on a few occasions this winter. The season he thought was at least a month in advance of ours.—W. P.

Bremen Still Held

DUBLIN, April 9 (Canadian Press). — A brief period of favorable flying weather gave place to-day to squalls and hail storms over the Atlantic and held the German plane Bremen here.

BRITISH SHIP RUNS AGROUND

Lumber Freighter Has Mishap Off Rhode Island Coast.

NOT IN DANGER.

WESTERLY, R. I., April 9. Canadian Press. — The British freighter Ellaston, bound for New London, Conn. From Alberta, N.S., with a cargo of lumber, went ashore off Watch Hill Point, in a fog at seven o'clock yesterday morning.

There was a large hole in her bow but she was not considered in any danger.

The fact that the vessel had grounded was not known here until the fog lifted at ten o'clock. Members of the Watch Hill Point coastguard station had received no signal from the ship.

Two coastguard boats and two tugs from the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wreckage Company came to the assistance of the Ellaston and found that she was in no danger of sinking.

The Ellaston carried a crew of 35 men, and was in command of Capt. William Morgan. Her cargo comprised three and a half million feet of lumber.

The vessel went on the rocks a short distance from the spot where the steamer Onondaga grounded in 1917 after it was reported at the time she had been pursued by a submarine. The ship has been on the reef since that time, and her hull is visible from the shore.

SAN PABLO, Calif., April 9 (Canadian Press).—Joe Vincente, a toreador, and Manuel August, a promoter, staged a bull fight with a "padded" bull yesterday. The bull was hit in an unpadded part by a bandillero, and to-day the two men are in jail on cruelty charges.

South Pole Plane Returning To Gotham

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 9 (Associated Press).—The Byrd South Pole plane, en route from Winnipeg to New York, left here yesterday for Detroit, Mich., where a night stopover was planned.

The plane arrived here on Saturday night in command of Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen after a 3½-hour flight from Winnipeg.

The plane last week completed a series of successful test flights in Canada in preparation for Byrd's projected flight to the South Pole.

Balchen and Bennett and a crew of three and five passengers, stopped here for the night, en route to New York.

THREE BURNED NEAR OTTAWA

Fire of Unknown Origin Destroys Three Frame Houses.

OTTAWA, April 9. (Canadian Press).—Three persons were burned to death in a fire on the Merivale Road near here to-day when three frame houses were completely destroyed. The victims were Mrs. Elijah Hyland, 40, her eighteen months old daughter, and Mrs. James Hyland, 84. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The occupants of the other houses destroyed escaped without injury. Elijah Hyland went to work early, after building a fire in the stove on the main floor of the house. When he left, his wife was upstairs bathing the baby and his mother was awake. The fire broke out half an hour later and the three persons were evidently immediately suffocated, as apparently no effort was made to escape.

The thirteen persons left homeless by the blaze lost practically all their worldly possessions. They are being cared for by neighbors, for they were able to save nothing from their homes, so quickly did the flames spread.

DEFENCE MOTION HEARD WEDNESDAY

Next Move in Currie's Suit Has Had To Be Postponed.

TORONTO, April 9. — (Canadian Press).—The next move in General Currie's fifty thousand dollar libel suit against W. T. R. Preston and the Port Hope Guide, which was announced for to-morrow at Cobourg, will not take place until Wednesday at least, according to Frank Regan, K.C., counsel for the defendants. Mr. Regan last week entered a motion requiring General Currie to attend examination to answer certain questions which it is contended he declined to answer during the examination for discovery some three weeks ago. The examination was set for to-morrow, but last night it was discovered that the formalities had not been fully complied with, and postponement until Wednesday is necessary, Mr. Regan said to-day.

Plan Modern Version of the Motorcade In Which Aerial Argosy Will Tour Country

NEW YORK, April 9 (Canadian Press)—A modern version of the motorcade in which, twenty years ago, hundreds of proud automobiles toured the country, was announced yesterday, when plans were made public an an aerial argosy in which 200 passengers will fly 7,820 miles, visiting 32 cities in 42 days. Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto will be visited.

Starting at New York and Washington, the party will fly westward to Seattle, down the Pacific Coast and across the Southern United States to New Orleans, thence northward to the starting point.

Giant tri-motored planes will carry the passengers, who will be invited to take golf, tennis and swimming equipment with which to vary the luncheons, dinners and fetes offered by all the cities of which they will be guests.

Present plans call for a start from New York June 25, with a few planes leaving Washington earlier to join the main party here.

The first night will be spent in Boston. The itinerary then includes Montreal, Ottawa ,Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Des Moines, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne, Rock Springs, Wyoming, Salt Lake City, Boise, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix, El Paso, Dallas, New Orleans, Atlanta, Winston-Salem, Richmond, Washington and New York. Because of climatic conditions, Mexico was omitted from the tour.

The tri-motored tour planes are to be supplied by American manufacturers. Government agencies have co-operated in determining the route offering the most from the standpoints of sightseeing, education and aeronautical enterprise. An aeronautical tourmaster, conductor and mechanical staff will accompany the party in smaller, single-motored planes.

TOWNS ON BONNECHERE RIVER IN DANGER FROM FLOOD WATERS

Warm Weather Causes Stream To Rise To Unexpected Heights.

BRIDGE DESTROYED.

Ice Floes in Niagara River Interrupts Ferry Boat Service.

RENFREW, Ont., April 9 (Canadian Press). — Sweeping a bridge before it and putting the local power plant out of commission by flooding the Bonnechere River, a tributary of the Ottawa River, and on which is situated the towns of Eganville, Douglas, and Renfrew, went on a rampage on Saturday evening, and threatens to do considerable damage unless the raging water recedes immediately.

Extremely warm weather from Wednesday to Saturday and the absence of frost at night has caused the stream to rise to unexpected heights. The bridge situated six miles upstream from this town was swept down the river on Saturday night, reaching the power dam here at two o'clock yesterday morning. It swept over the dam and was completely demolished. The water started to rise on Thursday afternoon, and by Friday night had reached a point where portions of the town power plant were flooded and put out of operation.

The town has been supplied with light and power since Friday night by a private company on the Madawaska River.

Fear was expressed here that the many lakes on the upper reaches of the Bonnechere River may, with the breaking up of the ice, pour their hoarded waters down the stream, causing even worse floods than have already been experienced.

On Saturday morning a portion of the flume at Douglas was washed away, and a flour mill put out of business temporarily.

Boat Houses Destroyed.

Boat houses at many points along the river were carried away, and washouts on roadways have taken place. Along the riverfront at Renfrew it is feared that the foundations of many industrial establishments are being undermined.

Yesterday afternoon and evening the water was subsiding, and if the weather continues cool, it is expected the river will shortly return to its normal channel.

CREEK OVERFLOWS.

NORTH BAY, Ont., April 9 (Canadian Press). — Swelled by the heavy rians of Saturday and the water occasioned by the thaw during the last week the Chippewa Creek on Saturday night overflowed and caused considerable damage in North Bay. The creek, which ordinarily is only a few yards wide, has reached the proportions of a river, being more than 20 yards wide and seven and eight feet deep, while on its crest huge cakes of ice are being carried to its outlet in Lake Nipissing.

It is estimated that probably a score of houses located on the banks of the creek have been temporarily abandoned by their occupants, as the water is more than a foot deep in some of the homes, and some damage has been done to the furniture.

A conservative estimate of the damage done by the flood is $10,000, but at no time was any life in danger.

In the south end of the city most of the cellars and basements are inundated. On Saturday night the Hydro-Electric power plant was put out of commission, and the city was plunged into darkness for a short time until an auxiliary plant was put into use. Telephone and telegraphic service was also hampered considerably.

A washout occurred at Mileage 15, near Widdifield, and delayed the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway train No. 46 and the Canadian National Railway train No. 2, both from the north, for two hours on Saturday night. The passengers on these two trains were unable to make connections with the train leaving here at 10.45 p.m. for Toronto, and an extra train was made up which left for the Queen City 45 minutes late.

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 9 (Associated Press).—High winds swept huge floes of ice from Lake Erie into the Niagara River yesterday, endangering small craft and permitting only intermittent service on ferry boats.

Two small boats, a launch and a rowboat, were carried into the west channel of the river between Grand Island and the Canadian shore and the coastguard station here was notified by Canadian officials that the craft were in danger of going over Niagara Falls.

The crew of the launch succeeded in working a channel to the Canadian shore and the two men in the rowboat were picked up by a tug.

Tries Three Times To Take Own Life

HULL, Que., April 9 (Canadian Press). — A foreigner brought into the city police station on Saturday evening on a charge of drunkenness tried to hang himself three times, according to the police who frustrated his efforts.

The first attempt was made with his belt, and when police had taken this away from him he doffed his trousers and tried to make them serve his purpose. This plan was also frustrated, and he again attempted to hang himself by using his overcoat belt.

The police are of the opinion that the man was so drunk that he was unaware of what he was doing, and it is not likely that he will be arraigned on any charge other than that of drunkenness.

SIX FIRE CALLS OVER WEEK END

Windy Weather Causes Trouble in Chimneys and Work For Firemen.

LITTLE DAMAGE DONE.

Windy weather means many alarms for the Fire Brigade, and for the past couple of days the local department has been far from idle. Some of the causes for alarm were chimney fires, overheated pipes and spontaneous combustion.

At 6.18 p.m. on Saturday the pumper, ladder truck and chief's car made the run to 403 McDonnel Street where smoke was issuing from a part of Green's Foundry. There was little damage done.

On Sunday, at 9:57 a.m., overheated pipes at 441 Parnell Street caused alarm, while $25.00 damage resulted from spontaneous combustion in oil rags at 208 Rubidge Street at 5.12 in th afternoon. To this call the ladder truck, general purpose truck, and the chief's car responded.

Three more calls were received this morning, the first being at 11.25 a.m., when a call came from 144½ Hunter Street West. A back draft from the furnace there caused the alarm.

The second run took place at 11.53 when a defective chimney at 336 Stewart Street required attention. Chemicals were used.

The last of the trio came in from 308 Townsend Street at 1.40 p.m., chemicals being again resorted to, this time to extinguish a chimney fire.

DETROIT, April 9. Canadian Press. — Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Colonel Charles Lindbergh, took off from Ford airport, at 8.55 to-day for Toronto, where she will attend the annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association.

Bigger Letter Box Installed At Corner

A new letter box has been put up at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. The new box is much larger than the old one and of modern design. Postmaster Lacheur told The Examiner that the change was necessitated by the old box not being large enough to hold the large amount of mail posted at that corner.

CITY PLEASES GLEE SINGERS

Splendid Parks and Schools Impress Visitors From Old Country.

LEAVE FOR HAMILTON.

Expressing themselves as delightfully surprised at the splendid school and public buildings, parks and number of industries possessed by the city of Peterborough, and taking great care not to lose the descriptive literature given them, the Westminster Glee Singers concluded their Sunday morning motor tour of the city as conducted by President-elect James Dutton, of the Chamber of Commerce, and James Juby, president of the Peterborough Automobile Club. They were, of course, particularly impressed with the Hydraulic Lift Lock.

The tour, as arranged by the secretary and other officers, assisted by C. H. Ackerman, E. W. Borbridge, and J. L. Gillespie, who loaned their cars, began at 9.30 yesterday morning and visited many points of interest. At its conclusion, Mr. Green, manager of the singers, was given a letter of introduction to the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce secretary, Col. F. P. Healey, by the local Chamber. They will appear in that city on leaving here.

THIRTEEN BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED DURING PAST WEEK

A. S. Zavitz Will Build House On Benson Avenue—Addition to Creamery.

MANY SMALL ITEMS.

C. Brewer Erecting Ramp at Garage—P. Luther Altering His House.

Building appeared to take a boom in this city during the first week in April when City Engineer Parsons issued thirteen building permits. The permits did not involve large amounts, for in most cases they were for the erection of garages or repair work.

A permit was granted A. S. Zavitz to build a house and garage on Lots 7 and 8 Benson avenue, at an estimated cost of $7,200. The house will be a one story and a half building with eight rooms on a concrete foundation, and brick walls. The interior finish will be in British Columbia fir and there will be a hot water heating system installed. E. Telford has received the contract and the work is expected to be completed about September 1st.

A. Olin has received the contract to build an addition to the Campbell Dairy Product plant at the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets. The new addition will be 33 feet by 17 feet, one story high, and is to be completed about May 1st.

C. Brewer has taken out a permit to erect a ramp at his garage at the corner of Brock and Water streets, and has given the contract to T. DeForge. The estimated cost is $250 and the ramp will be 70 feet long and 8 feet wide on a two-foot concrete foundation.

Percy Luther of 75 Crescent street is going to make additions to his house that are estimated to cost $1,000. The house will be bricked and a cellar excavated.

Other small permits granted were:

To W. J. Young to re-shingle a shed at 564 Charlotte street, estimated cost $12.

To George Foy, who is going to build a shoe repair shop at 97 Rubidge street, estimated cost $150.

To John Gray, to shingle a house at 246 McDonnel street.

To W. R. Turneer to make alteration to his garage. The contract is let to T. C. Ephgrave at an estimated cost of $300.

To M. Hales, to erect a shed at 387 Roger street, at estimated cost of $50.

Garages will be erected at 89 and 105 Gladstone avenue

LOW-LYING PLACES FLOODED AS RAINS RAISE WATER LEVEL

James Stevenson Park, George Street Wharf and Rye Property Under Water.

FLOODS WIDESPREAD.

Two Drowned in Northern Ontario and Three in Quebec During Week-end.

The Otonabee River is in flood, and conditions are described as the worst in years. Saturday's rain and the vast amount of water coming from the back country have increased the volume of water pouring down the course, and in the last two days the waters have risen in the south-end of the city, cutting districts off.

George Street Wharf is completely flooded, and parts of McDonald's mill out off. The water is up to within a few feet of Rye's Pavilion, and the road is flooded. James Stevenson Park is under water, and the sheds of the Canadian Packing Company are almost flooded out.

For several days these conditions have been expected, as the melting of the heavy snowfall of the winter has let go a great volume of water.

Conditions are described as worse than in 1922 when the Otonabee River established a flood record in parts of the city.

The same conditions seem to be the case all through the Trent system and Kawartha Lakes.

The floods in Haliburton are said not to be affecting this locality, as the ice still remains intact in Cameron Lake.

At Least Five Drowned.
(By Canadian Press.)

Severe floods in Ontario and Quebec are generally subsiding to-day, but five lives have been taken and fears are expressed for the safety of one man who is missing.

The victims are Mrs. Rutherford, and her infant son, engulfed in the swollen waters of Bear Creek, near North Bay, yesterday, and Treffle Roy and William Morin, drowned in the Chaudiere River, Quebec, when their rig was swept from a bridge. J. Robbin, a brakesman was killed, and R. Thivierge an express messenger, disappeared when the locomotive and baggage car of a Canadian National train, rolled into the St. Francois River, at Drummondville, breaking through a flood-weakened trestle.

Many other persons had narrow escapes from death as the floods rolled over large parts of the Eastern townships of Quebec the Montreal district, the Ottawa Valley, part of Central Ontario, the North Bay district, and Sault Ste. Marie.

Probably the most damage was done in the Eastern Townships, where loss occasioned by unruly waters is expected to amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars, though no general estimate of the total damage is yet available. Quyon and Richmond, Quebec., and North Bay and Pemboke, Ont., were particularly affected.

Various power services were put out of business by rain swollen torrents, and train services were interrupted by washout trackage.

Summer-like weather in the two provinces gave place to heavy rains on Saturday, followed by colder weather. The north country is blanketed by snow of varying depth and it was a blizzard combined with the unusual height of the creek that caused the deaths of Mrs. Rutherford and her baby, who drowned while her husband made frantic efforts to reach her as she held the infant over her head.

NEW YORK, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Colder weather to-day halted the floods in Northern New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, and the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. High temperatures, which had melted the snow and started the ice down the rivers and heavy rains over the week-end had sent many streams out of their banks, disrupting rail traffic and communication systems.

Two men were killed when the Chaudiere River swept their wagon off a bridge near St. Lambert, Que., and two members of the Canadian National passenger train crew were believed drowned when an engine and baggage car en route to Montreal from Quebec dropped through a bridge at Drummondville, Que. In the La Salle section of Niagara Falls the river was about two and a half feet above normal, and below the Falls it was almost seven feet over.

Floods Subside.

OTTAWA, April 9 (Canadian Press).—The cold west wind which has frozen up the muddy roads and sent people back into their heavy coats to-day also had control of the flood situation. From all points where the turbulent rivers were either actually doing damage or threatening to burst their banks, reports to-day showed that the floods were subsiding.

From many towns in the Ottawa district reports of flood damage were coming in yesterday. From Pembroke and Renfrew, on the Ontario side, and from Quyon, across the Ottawa River, came word of rivers overflow-

BLIND PEOPLE GIVE CONCERT

Entertainers From School For Blind Raising Funds For Institute Work.

VARIED PROGRAM.

Did you ever stop to think what it would mean to be totally blind? If you close your eyes tight and keep them that way for five minutes attempting in the meantime to make your way down the street, you will open them with a very enthusiastic sense of relief.

To-night, at the Grand Opera House a number of blind people will will give an entertainment. Press notices from other cities where they have appeared are full of praise of their efforts. The pianiste and accompanist is an Associate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and the program includes a vocal soloist, a dramatic elocutionist, a Scotch comedian, a performer on the piano-accordion, and an "Uncle Josh" character.

These musicians have been trained at the School for the Blind in Brantford. Their present tour is in the nature of a new venture to try and augment the funds of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which goes among sightless people and teaches them to use their fingers as eyes, giving them an interest in life which remedies to some extent the sense of almost intolerable affliction under which they labor.

In the various churches of the city announcements were made yesterday with regard to this concert. The Salvation Army did a little better than make the announcement. Ensign Greene, knowing that a scheduled Easter program at the Temple this evening would interfere with attendance of the members at the blind people's concert, took up a collection in their behalf, which will take the place of tickets which might have been bought otherwise.

TWO TRAINS DAILY HERE 54 YEARS AGO

Peterborough Was Way Station On Lakefield-Port Hope Line.

The Examiner has been shown a well-preserved copy of a Midland Railway time-table of 1874. In that year Adolph Hugel was president and H. G. Taylor superintendent. The railway at that date extended from Port Hope to Orillia, and from Millbrook to Lakefield only. Peterborough was only a way station as the two trains to Port Hope each day (except Sunday) arrived at and departed from Lakefield.

One train left Lakefield at 4.30 a.m. (correct), leaving Peterborough at 5.25 a.m. and reaching Port Hope at 7.35 a.m., connecting with Grand Trunk trains east and west, and steamer Norseman for Rochester, N. Y. Another train left Lakefield at 2.15 p.m., Peterborough at 4.15 p.m., reaching Port Hope at 6.15 p.m. Trains arrived here at 12.45 p.m. and 7.25 p.m. from Port Hope.

There were five trains each way between Port Hope and Millbrook, three as far as Lindsay, and two to Orillia. The 86 miles between Orillia and Port Hope were made in 4 fours and 45 minutes. This was about ten years before the line from here to Omemee was built, which for many years was known as the "missing link."

JUDGE CHARGES PLAN MADE TO STEAL ELECTION

Investigation Discloses Existence of Plots To Stuff Ballot Boxes.

WILL WATCH POLLS.

Factions Make Final Arrangements For Elections at Chicago on Tuesday.

CHICAGO, April 9 — (Canadian Press.)— Chicago's primary election campaign yesterday took on the aspect of an airport on the eve of a trans-Atlantic flight. The pilots of the two Republican factions had retreated to headquarters to snatch a brief rest before the take-off Tuesday. Only the mechanics remained on the eld to give a few final finishing touches to the machines that are to carry either the group headed by United States' Senator Deneen, or their opponents, captained by Mayor Thompson and Governor Small, to victory.

The outstanding late developments in the fight was an announcement by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municpal Court that a special elections branch of the court would be established. Judge Olson, who will preside over the court, an innovation in the city's history, has issued orders to bring before him all persons arrested for election frauds.

His decision followed charges made by County Judge Edmund Jarecki, in charge of election, that the boldest attempts ever made by lawless forces to steal an election will mark Tuesday's election.

Stuff Ballot Boxes.

"Our investigation has disclosed the existence of plots to stuff ballot boxes, to vote thousands of floaters under fictitious names which were fraudulently regisered, to make false counts, to intimidate election officials and voters and to commit other political frauds," Judge Jarecki said.

Two hundred members of the Chicago Bar Association have been appointed assistant attorneys of the Board of Election Commissioners with authority to maintain legal surveillance over the polls.

Because the balloting will include the nomination of a United States' senator, the Federal government will also have an interest in prevention of frauds. A special United States' Grand Jury has been instructed by Judge James R. Wilkerson in their duty regarding election frauds.

Thousands of volunteer watchers, members of civil organizations, will be on duty at polling places, which also will be guarded by at least one policemen, and in precincts where trouble is expected, by at least ten.

ROADS ARE BAD TO LAKE FRONT

One Driver Takes Nearly Six Hours For 20 Mile Trip From Brighton.

MIRED MANY TIMES.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9. — The Easter weather has turned out a complete disappointment to many of the citizens of town. After a few days of exceptionally fine weather, the temperature suddenly dropped, and Easter Sunday was ushered in with a high wind and driving snow. Many visitors and citizens returning to town via motor, report the roads as being practically impassable. As far as can be learned, no one from here has abandoned their car on the road, but the expense of having to be pulled out of the mud every few miles, and frequently oftener, makes motoring prohibitive and strips it of the last fragment of pleasure. One visitor to town who is well known as an expert driver of many years' experience on all kinds of roads, reports a very trying trip from Brighton to Campbellford. Leaving the former place fifteen minutes before midnight he arrived in town at exactly half-past five. On one occasion, he says, he had to have a team of horses follow him for a distance of four miles, and pull him out of soft places every once in so often during the distance.

Messrs. Joseph Jackson, brother of the groom, and Charles Anderson, cousin of the bride, acted as ushers, while only the immediate relatives were guests at the wedding.

CHURCH NEWS AT BETHANY

The congregation of St. Paul's church are planning to build a new parish hall in the near future. With this end in view a piece of land has been purchased from Thomas Morton to build their sheds on. The new shed they are planning will be a covered one, and the new hall will stand where the present sheds are. St. Paul's congregation are to be congratulated at their improvements, as only lately a new furance was installed in the church, as well as a gasoline lighting system.

CLUE OF NORTON PROVES USELESS

Provincial Police Make a Thorough Search of Dorchester Farms.

LONDON, Ont., April 9.—Provincia and city police have just completed al fruitless search for George Ernest Norton, mysterious fourth bandit of the Murrell bandit gang, who, according to recent information, was working as a farm hand in Dorchester Township.

Recently a farm worker from that district was arrested on an L.C.A. charge. When taken to the County Jail he became very bitter, declaring that the police could catch him but that they were helpless to find a notorious bandit, who, he said, worked in Dorchester, and came regularly to London. This man, he said, was Norton. He claimed that several in Dorchester knew the secret. He added that the photograph used by the police was 24 years old and totally unlike the gunman as he is now.

Though the prisoner denied the story when he sobered up a diligent search was made and practically every farmhand in Dorchester was checked up. No arrests were made.

The police have never had Norton's finger prints and it is now conceded that the man will probably never be taken unless his true identity is betrayed by some of his intimates.

FACTIONS WAGE BITTER BATTLE IN THE INTERIOR

FRONTIER UNINTERESTED.

Socialists Resorting To Musical Attractions To Draw Crowds To Meetings.

PARIS, April 9 (Canadian Press Cable).—The fortnight before the general elections in France on April 22 finds all frontier constituencies displaying very little interest in the contest, but in the interior of the country a bitter fight is being waged between the Poincare party and the Socialists led by Leon Blum.

A prominent Radical-Socialist of conservative tendencies has worked out a detailed prognosis of the final results which tends to indicate that Premier Raymond Poincare's supporters will have at least a majority of eight over the cartel composed of Radicals, Radical - Socialists and Socialists. The week-end reports indicate the Radical-Socialists as a dominant group occupying the centre of the stage are giving way to the Socialists and have withdrawn five candidates, leaving only Socialists in the field against Poincare's National Union candidates.

To date, the Socialists are the only group who have endeavored in a big way to draw crowds to their meetings. They have even resorted to musical attractions in constituencies in the centre of France. It is becoming increasingly evident that victory will perch on the banner of the group best organized. The Socialists are leaving no stone unturned. Incidentally the Socialists in certain constituencies have refused Communist aid which may switch many Radical-Socialist votes to the Socialist party. But there are no available means of gauging the strength of the drift. The provincial papers appear chary about the campaign. Edouard Daladier, successor to Herriot as leader of the Radical-Socialist group, is reported to be sick and unable to take an active part in the fight.

Good News From Mines Is Expected Shortly

Special from The Financial Post Syndicate.)

TORONTO, April 9.—Considerable good news in regard a number of mines is pending and should make its appearance during the next few weeks. These include Howey, Sherritt-Gordon, Sudbury Basin, Lake Shore, Pend Oreille, Gem Lake, and others.

"Howey Gold annual report has just been made public. It shows an encouraging condition on the four levels that have been opened up at the property. The organization at the mine has not been the best and as rapid progress as might have been expected has not been made. However, there has been a decided change for the better of late. The report does not deal with the high grade ore that has been opened up on the 500 ft. level. They are driving on this now and it is expected that considerable information as to the widths and values will be available for the annual meeting on April 12. Meanwhile, the "shorts" have been playing around with the issue and this has resulted in a widely fluctuating market. Report shows lengths of 300 ft. on the various level with values running $7.50 and $8.00s The lateral work is not yet under the section where they secured $13.00 and $14.00 values on surface."

The Rogers report on Sherritt-Gordon should soon be available. It is understood that this has been delayed until the latest information in regard the diamond drilling could be incorporated. There are six drills working on the property and in addition the company is sinking two shafts. The length of the ore has been steadily added to and it is understood that the latest information leads to the belief that the deposit is in a large basin much the same as that of Sudbury. There is a great deal of activity going on in the section as several other companies have started operations.

There are rumours that the fourth diamond drill hole on Sudbury Basin was not a success, but for the moment attention is not directed so much to this operation of the company as to two of its others. The opinion is abroad that the company has two other mines in the making, White River Lead and Cheney Copper. There is considerable optimistic news abroad in regard the White River property which is reported to have opened up in a rather spectacular way in surface trenching.

Big things are said to be pending on Lake Shore and predictions are being made that there will be material advances in the market price of these shares. One of the big changes it is said will be in a material increase in the dividend. Talk has also been revived in regard to a stock split. There is nothing official in this regard to go on and a close friend of President Harry Oakes once said that Oakes would never split the stock. Whether or not he has changed his mind, is not known.

Pend Oreille is located in the State of Washington and is not a Canadian issue. Control is held by two men residing in Spokane. However the big market interest in the stock is in Canada and the funds which are going to develop the property are Canadian. There are important negotiations now going on. Consolidated Smelter people are much interested in the venture.

Gem Lake is a new Manitoba proposition that has been well sponsored and on which there are some excellent engineers' reports. Important interests have taken charge of the financing of the operation in Toronto and Winnipeg and the shares will soon be listed.

While the public seems to have been weaned away from the gold stocks temporarily, some of the leading mining brokers are taking advantage of the weak situation in these shares to load up their clients. They state that the golds will have their turn as soon as the public gets its fill of the base metal stocks. In this regard they are making the point that quite a number of the golds of Kirkland Lake, especially the new operations in the east end are to be regarded as on the bargain counter. There have been important developments in this section. Bidgood is now generally regarded as a mine and Nipissing is making good progress on the Lebel Ore property. In addition some really spectacular ore has been picked up in drilling the Moffatt-Hall group which adjoins Bidgood. This makes the whole area look very excellent.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN TRAIN WRECK

Brooklyn-Manhattan "L" Train Collides With Three Stalled Cars.

PASSENGERS INJURED.

NEW YORK, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Two trainmen were killed and another trainman and fifteen passengers injured yesterday when a six-car "L" train of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company collided with three stalled cars at Liberty and Woodhaven Avenue, Queen's.

Joseph Curtin, motorman, of Brooklyn, was instantly killed when the trains crashed. Harry Smith, 28, another trainman, suffered injuries which resulted in his death shortly after he was taken to a hospital.

Acting Deputy Chief Inspector Jacob Ross, of police headquarters, received news of the collision at 3.20 a.m., and immediately went to the scene. The reserves from all nearby stations were called out, four ambulances and the Brooklyn emergency crew summoned, and the district attorney's office notified.

The most seriously injured survivor of the crash was Joseph Clark, 37, another B.M.T., employee, whose spine was fractured.

The passengers injured suffered cuts and bruises when they were hurled from their seats by the impact of the collision. One passenger was taken to Jamaica Hospital, while the others were removed to their homes after having their injuries dressed by ambulance surgeons at the scene of the accident.

SEYMOUR MAN BEGINS PLOWING

J. F. Bennett Makes Few Rounds in Gravelly Field But Finds Going Heavy.

LATE THIS YEAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 9. — The first plowing in the district of Campbellford was done on Friday afternoon in Seymour East. This is almost three weeks later than last year when the records show March 17th as the first date for the plow point to start making its multitude of furrows. This year the recent heavy rains have made the ground much too soft and heavy for any real work to be started, but the farmers are eagerly waiting for the first possible chance to begin their Spring work on the land.

On Friday, J. F. Bennett, a farmer on the sixth concession of Seymour started to plow one of his drier fields, which has a slight slope, and is of a light gravelly soil. He found the going, even there, a little too heavy to be worth while, and after eight rounds turned his horses out of the field to wait for the condition of the ground to improve.

Asked how long he thought it would take to put the ground in proper shape, Mr. Bennett said that if the present warm weather continued and there came a fall of rain for about three hours ,the earth would be properly settled as soon as the extra moisture has either drained off or soaked deeper into the soil. He said he did his first plowing last year on March 17, St. Patrick's Day.

Such artless tribute is the reward of women who retain "that schoolgirl complexion" by this simple rule of skin care

IN his heart every boy wants to think his mother the most beautiful mother in all the world. And thousands of mothers fulfill this hope by safeguarding their youth, past the thirties and well into the forties.

Don't let life, and its cares and responsibilities, rob you of your right to youth and beauty. Correct skin care is a large part of the formula for staying young—and looking it.

Natural ways in complexion care, ways any woman can easily follow, have supplanted the artificialities of yesterday. Proper cleansing of the skin, say leading beauty authorities, is the keynote to the preservation of that schoolgirl complexion.

This simple daily rule

That means soap and water; but NOT just "any" soap. A true complexion soap is meant. Others may prove too harsh. So, largely on expert advice, thousands use gentle Palmolive in this way:

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold.

If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, particularly at night.

Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

EASTER SERVICES IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

While cold winds and frequent snow flurries gave a parting touch of winter out-of-doors yesterday, there was warmth and brightness and joyousness in St. John's church where the great festival of Easter was celebrated by very large congregations at all services, and while bright Easter music and sermons sounding a note of fresh hope made the day one of glad rejoicing.

There were three celebrations of Holy Communion at 7.00, 8.00 and 11.00 a.m., fully choral services at 11.00 a.m. and 7.00 p.m., and a special children's service in the church in the afternoon. The guest preacher of the day was Rev. D. B. Rogers, of Toronto, editorial secretary of the General Board of Religious Education of the Anglican church, who preached at both morning and evening services and at the children's service.

At the morning service Rev. Mr. Rogers spoke on "The Power of the Resurrection," basing his sermon on Philliptians IV—10, "That I may know Him and the power of His resurrection." The power of the resurrection he said, was the power of a new faith and of a new hope. Before that great event, although here and there a man had some dim conception of a future existence people as a whole had no hope of anything after the end of this life. With the resurrection had come a fresh faith and the power of a new hope and thus a transformation into a new life.

Adlam's Festival Service in F was used at the morning service, while the anthem was, "Ye Choir of New Jerusalem" by Roland Smart. In the evening Smart's evening service in D was followed with the anthem "Hallelujah, Christ is Risen," by Clare and the Vespers Seven-fold Amen of Mr. Mann's own composition being used.

The solo parts at both services were excellently taken by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, Mrs. Groombridge and Mr. David Melton while the singing of the large choir under the direction of Mr. F. G. Mann, organist and choirmaster, added greatly to the joyous nature of the services.

Lilies and spring flowers banked on the altar were given in memory of former well-known members of St. John's congregation who have passed on.

ALL SAINTS' ANGLICAN CHURCH

Easter hymns and anthems, Easter flowers, the Easter chants from the Prayer Book and Easter sermons by the rector and the Rev. G. Napier Smith of Hamilton, marked the great festival of the Christian Church at All Saints' church yesterday. The opening words of the services, after the processional hymns, were "The Lord Is Risen Indeed," and they formed the keynote of the whole day's observances.

The chancel was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and other flowers, and the communion table was draped with white. The choir was out at full strength, while there were few vacant places in the church at either morning or evening prayer. Hundreds of members complied with the Church's rule that every member should attend communion at Easter, there being large congregations at the four communion services, the first of which was held at 7.00 a.m.

Music at the morning service included four familiar hymns, a solo and an anthem. Mrs. S. Willis sang "I know That My Redeemer Liveth," in sweet soprano voice. The anthem was "Awake, Thou That Sleepest," with W. H. Boddy taking the solo part. The choral work was well done, a special setting of the Te Deum being rendered most effectively. At the evening service the anthem was "Christ Is Risen," with Mr. Boddy again taking the solo part, while Caleb Semper's setting of the Magnificat was used.

The rector, the Rev. J. Douglas Paterson took his text for the morning sermon from first Corinthians, the fifteenth chapter, reading the passage wherein St. Paul sets forth the logical conclusions if the Resurrection had not occurred. The Apostle pointed out, said Mr. Paterson, that if Christ had not risen then the preaching of the Christians and the faith of their converts was vain, that those who had "fallen asleep" had perished, and all hope would be gone. This, Paul gave, as showing one side of the question, which could, however, be dismissed without further thought in favor of the other side, set forth in the twentieth verse. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept."

All through the ages, continued the speaker, that is the message of the Gospel: not a dead Christ but a living Christ, living in the heart of every believer. He told of the Soviet Congress in Moscow where one of the leaders told of the extermination of Christianity in Russia and gave a most learned argument against it. He asked if anyone wished to speak on the subject, and a poorly dressed village priest stood up and said only the Russian Easter greeting: "Brethren, Christ is risen," and the whole assembly responded in traditional form, "Verily, He is risen indeed."

A children's service was held in the afternoon at which the Rev. Mr Smith was the preacher.

AT ST. LUKE'S.

Large congregations attended the three communion services and the Evensong at St. Luke's Anglican church yesterday. The story of the Risen Christ was retold and the altar was banked with lilies which have come to typify the Resurrection to the Christian world.

Rev. George J. Bousfield, the rector, occupied the pulpit and preached at the services, his morning text being taken from the 1st Epistle of St Paul to the Corinthians, 13:14.

The music by the choir and the congregational singing was especially appropriate for the occasion. In the morning the choir sang "If We Believe That Jesus Died" by Simper. "Christ Our Passover" was chanted and the organ prelude was Berceuse by Rowley.

In the evening the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimitis" were chanted and the choir, under the direction of W. C. Thomson sang "Awake Thou That Sleepest."

CHURCH OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.

Easter music at the Church of the Immaculate Conception was very beautiful. The choir sang the Mass of the Angels, by A. T. McEvoy, at the High Mass at half-past ten o'clock, with a lovely rendering of the Regina Coeli during the offertory. At the half-past eight o'clock Mass, the children's choir sang, and the large choir rendered the music for benediction in the evening. Miss Leona Hummel directs the choir and acts as organist.

A very fine sermon based on the miracle of Easter morning was given at High Mass by Rev. Father Guiry.

SACRED HEART CHURCH

The Easter Sunday services at the Sacred Heart Church, sung by Rev. J. J. O'Brien was largely attended. The church was beautifully decorated for the special occasion, the high altar arranged with quantities of Easter lilies, pink roses and candelabra.

Beautiful music was rendered by a large choir under the able direction of J. L. Armstrong, organist and choirmaster. The Mass sung was in honor of St. Michael, by C. A. Engener, in strict accordance with Moto-proprio, and the "Regina Coeli Laetare," by Campizio was also splendidly rendered at the Offertory.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. Moloney, and dealt with the significance of Easter, the reverend speaker dwelling on the proof given of the Divinity of Christ in His triumphant resurrection from the tomb.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Easter services at the Cathedral yesterday were beautiful and inspiring. The dark purple palls which have covered the statues and crucifixes during the Lenten season were removed and the high and side altars were blazing with clusters of electric candles and lovely with a profusion of tall Easter lilies.

The Masses were at the usual hours, with low Masses at half past seven and nine-fifteen o'clock and Pontifical High Mass at half past ten, celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, with Rev. K. Corkery as Assistant Priest, Rev. G. Maher and Rev. Eugene Mullins of Antigonish, N.S., and St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, as Honorary Deacons, Rev. Edward Welsh as Deacon and Rev. Chas. Begley as sub-Deacon.

The music was very inspiring. The choir presented a beautiful setting for the High Mass, with Miss Hurley leading and Miss Mary Reynolds at the organ. The Kyrie and Gloria were compositions by Mueller, and the Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei were by Pietro Yon. During the Offertory, a very fine Regina Coeli was sung.

In the evening, when a sermon on the Resurrection was preached by Rev. K. Corkery, the main choir sang the Regina Coeli and Haec Dies. The High School "Schola" sang the Alleluia and several Easter hymns and Rev. Father Finn's Chancel choir of boys sang the Benediction.

At the conclusion of High Mass in the morning, the Papal Benediction was imparted by His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, who spoke briefly on the significance of Easter, naming it as the most glorious feast of the entire year. Without the Resurrection on Easter morning, fulfilling the ancient prophecy with regard to the Messiah, the promise of Christmastide would be null and void. Unbelievers have pointed with doubt to many portions of the Scriptural story, but the transcendent miracle of the Resurrection has stood the test of the ages.

Christ established His Church to be the pillar and the ground of truth, the salt of civilization, the Way, the Truth and the Life.

In this day of unbelief it is just as blasphemous to doubt the existence as God Himself as to doubt the truth enunciated by the Church, whose charter stands in the words of the Almighty: "I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world. He that heareth you, heareth Me."

His Lordship spoke in commendation of the splendid attendance at Lenten services at the Cathedral and also thanked especially the choir of the Cathedral, and the Sisters responsible for the decorations of the church.

His Lordship closed with a recommendation of the concert to be given this evening in the Grand Opera House by blind entertainers, speaking of the wonderful work done for these afflicted people by the non-sectarian Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

KNOX UNITED CHURCH

Knox United, the "Church of the Open Door," housed a large and appreciative congregation at both morning and evening services on Easter Sunday. The morning service was of especial merit with the choir at its best in special music that lent considerably to the splendid sermon delivered by the Rev. F. A. Belsmith of Toronto. Easter lilies and other floral effects at the foot of the pulpit gave the desired evidence of Easter.

Taking his text from the Act of the Apostles, the visiting minister distinguished between two pictures, one by Raphael and the other by Tissot. The former had painted the Transfiguration, while the latter's effort had depicted the dead Christ on His Mother's knee, and on the canvas each has shown the calibre of his faith. "So it is with our own pictures which correspond to the character of our religion," said he before continuing to show that the appearance of death is the primal test of faith and brings the question of Immortality most forcibly to mind. The resurrection brings beauty and glory of the story of the crucifixion and shows the meaning of God's purposes and is the sunshine of God's love shining through the cloud of sin.

In conclusion, Mr. Belsmith mentioned the many suggestions of immortality which are seen in everyday life, such as the fact that the mind is capable of learning for many centuries and purposes of the heart reach beyond the usual span of life. He challenged his auditors to live a life worthy of being made immortal as was that of Jesus.

The hymns of both services were particularly well suited to the observance of Easter, while the choir, under the leadership of R. J. Devey, was heard at its best. Quartettes, "Since Man Began," and "For As in Adam" (Handel); choruses, "By Man Came Also" and "Even So in Christ" (Messiah), and an anthem, "Christ is Risen," with solo by A. Pitchford, comprised the major portion of the morning music, while Mrs. T. E. Currin was heard in "Alleluia! Now to Our God". In all its work, the choir was ably supported by its leader.

The evening service was well up to the standard of the morning's, and the music was quite as inspirational; being as follows: Solo, "King Ever Glorious," Stanley Willis; Anthem, "The Resurrection," Solo by Mrs. Rogers; Anthem, "He is Risen," Solo by Mrs. Scholey; Chorus, "Hallelujah," from "The Messiah".

MARK STREET UNITED.

At Mark Street United, the church was tastefully decorated and the services well attended. At the morning service the choir rendered the anthem "Alleluia! Christ is Risen." Mrs. E. Wand sang "Open the Gates of the Temple."

The minister took for his text, John v., 25: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, the hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live." His theme was "Our Hope Through Christ's Resurrection of Others."

The big business of the church is not to question Christ's miracles, but to catch the inspiration of them. Being the Creator of the universe and of man, He is superior to the ordinary laws which govern that which he has created. It was to be expected that he would work miracles. His raising from the dead of the widow's son, the daughter of Jairus and Lazarus, is an earnest of His purpose and power to resurrect all His followers.

At the evening service the choir rendered the anthems, "Gladness in the Garden" and "King All Glorious." Miss Grace Currie and W. Binks sang a duet, "He Did Not Die in Vain."

The minister's text was John 14, 19, "Because I live, ye shall live also." The theme, a companion to that of the morning, "Our Hope Through Christ's Resurrection of Himself."

"We fear death and yearn for life. God hath so made us. He could not be a God of love and not take from us the fear of death and grant us the gift of eternal life. The evidence of Christ's death and resurrection is beyond question. He had power to lay down His life and to take it again. He was alive and was dead and is alive forever more. He declares to His follows, 'Because I live ye shall live also'."

AT ST. ANDREW'S

"The Easter Outlook" was the subject of Rev. J. W. Gordon's evening discourse in St. Andrew's United Church. Mr. Gordon, for the Scripture reading, read the Resurrection story as told in the Gospel of St. John.

It was a unique way Mr. Gordon took in following out his subject. He told of what England's two great, modern poets, Tennyson and Browning, had to say about the future life. He compared the great modern poets to prophets of the Old Testament, for the prophets were seers.

"Browning, in his poem, 'The Failure' which describes the scenes he saw while in Paris. While he was walking on the banks of the river Seine there, three suicides were pulled out of the water and in his meditations in the poem he expresses a belief that no man will be completely lost.

"Tennyson, in his 'In Memoriam' refers many times to the life hereafter. These poems were written at a time when he had lost his dearest friend —Arthur Hallam. In one poem he says, 'They do not die nor lose their mortal sympathy.' In Scripture we have this fact brought out for Moses and Elijah did not lose their mortal sympathy when talking on the Mount of Transfiguration.

"In another poem, he writes 'We trust that God shall be the final goal of all. That not one life shall be destroyed that God has made.' In these he expresses hope that life will not fail beyond the grave."

In conclusion Mr. Gordon turned to what these great poets had to say of death. Browning, who was a fighter in life, says in his poetry 'There is one fight more, the best and the last;' but Tennyson, who was of a different nature, wrotes on almost his death bed, "Crossing the Bar."

"What these two great poets have said is what most of us hope for, even if we cannot see it face to face," said Mr. Gordon.

Rev. Mr. Gordon's morning subject was "Our Sure Hope." Easter lilies and flowers decorated the front of the church.

The music was in keeping with the pastor's Easter messages. The anthems sung by the choir under the able direction of John Crane, were exceedingly well rendered, and the solos by Mrs. H. F. Doig were greatly appreciated by all those who were present at both services. At the evening service, "Praise Ye," by Verdi, was sung by Mrs. Doig, and Messrs. Humpage and Smith, with masterly precision and rare beauty of execution. Mrs. Doig's solos were "Awake! Awake!" by Ward Stephens, and "Hallelujah!" by O'Connor-Morris. The anthems were "King of Kings," by Simpson, and "Awake Thou That Sleepest," by Allin, with Miss Grace Allen taking the solo part, and "Open Ye the Gates," by Rockal.

AT TRINITY

"If Jesus Had Not Risen" was the subject of the Rev. David Wren's morning discourse to a congregation that almost filled Trinity United Church to capacity. The subject was taken from Job 14:14—"If a man die shall he live again?"

The minister then linked up this question asked by Job and has been asked by everyone of all ages, with the Easter message that Jesus had risen. He contrasted the outlook of the youth who is looking ahead and trying to make something out of himself; the man of 50 who is trying to make the most of happiness and attempting to fulfil the commandment, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ," and the man of 70 who is trying to peer into the future and asking himself the very words of the text, "If a man die shall he live again?" He wants to know what to-morrow has in store for him, and naturally he would ask himself the question what difference would it have made "If Jesus had not risen?" said Mr. Wren.

"After the Easter message and music has died what shall we make of this question of death and immortality to-morrow. We find a few who hope there is no answer to the question of Job but the majority of men think about immortality, they want to know if we perish as the beasts of the forest or does life exist somewhere in the great beyond."

"The tremendous significance of our faith is in the belief in immortality, and if we really believe in it then that will have an influence on ourselves. The same as the bird has the homing instinct so with man he is wrapt up in what the future life has for him."

The minister pointed out the effects the belief in immortality had on the lives of men, the wonderful achievements that have been accomplished in the past 4000 years, and if Jesus had not risen there would be no belief in immo ality or no Easter and its message.

The front of the pulpit was banked with Easter lilies and flowers. The choir opened the service with the chorale—"Hail the Day That Sees Him Rise," and "Low In The Grave He Lay." Stainer's anthem, "They Have Taken Away My Lord" was sung and Maurice Park sang as a solo, "Open The Gates Of The Temple."

The evening service was given principally to song and the choir in an able manner rendered the anthems, "We Declare Unto You Glad Tidings," by Maunder; "O Praise The Lord," by Tschaikowsky, and "Unfold Ye Portals" by Gounod. Mrs. Hohner sang "And God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," and Miss Alma Blanchard sang "A Joyous Easter Hymn." Maurice Park took the solo work in the anthems, and Miss Mable Clarry presided at the organ.

At the morning service the minister paid a tribute to the work of Miss Clarry, the Director of Music and the choir, both in the fine selection of music that is made from Sunday to Sunday, and the able way special musical programs are put o n at different times of the year.

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

The Easter services at George Street United Church were of an exceptionally fine character yesterday. At 7 a.m. there was a splendid sunrise prayer service, and at 11 a.m. an unusually large congregation assembled to hear the Easter message. Rev. J. E. Todd had charge of both services. His subject for the morning sermon was "The Resurrection," and he read the Eastern lesson from the 16th chapter of St. Mark, taking as his text the 10th and 11th verses of the third chapter of Philippians, "That I may know him and the power of his resurrection and the fellowship of his suffering being made conformable unto death. If by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead."

At the evening service Mr. Todd's subject was "The Print of the Nails," taking as his text part of the 25th verse of 20th chapter of the gospel according to St. John. "Except I shall see in the hands print of the nails and put my finger into the print of the nails and thrust my hand into his side I will not believe." "To understand this passage of scripture we must remember that Thomas saw Jesus lying dead and when Peter impulsive and erratic and a few hysterical women come with the news of Christ's resurrection, Thomas doubts them. I believe we owe Thomas a great debt of gratitude. He was not carried off his feet. He is one of those men who kept his senses celar, but when he was satisfied he said, 'My Lord and My God.'

The church was decorated with a profusion of Easter lilies, palms and ferns. The Easter music was particularly fine. At the morning service the choir's rendering of the anthem festival, Te Deum, was splendid, and Miss Daisy Murray, in her soprano solo, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," delighted the large audience.

The evening service was of a choral nature, and consisted of two anthems by the choir, "O Death Where is Thy Sting" (Turner), "Hosanna," (Gainier), a mixed quartette, "Awake and Sing the Song" (Hammond), Mrs. G. F. Liddle, Miss Daisy Murray, Mr. A. V. Lillow, Mr. D. Carlisle, contralto solo, "Christ is Risen" (Prindle Scott) by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, and a male quartette, "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day" (Gottschalk) by Messrs. D. Carlisle, A. V. Lillow, W. H. Cunningham and Mitchell.

ST. JAMES'.

Bright and inspirational sermons and special choir music, altogether in keeping with the spirit of Eastertide, marked the Sunday services at St. James' United Church. Easter messages in song and story were enjoyed by large congregations despite inclement weather, and as a result, the events of yesterday went down in the church's history as something to be looked back upon with pride by minister, choir, organist and congregation.

"Holden Eyes" proved the subject of a splendid discourse by the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon as he faced his morning congregation. The choir rendered "Why Seek Ye the Living" (Cook) as their anthem choice. The solo number by Mrs. E. Kitney, A.T.A.M., was Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." In all their work the choir reflected credit upon their leader and organist, Frank Stevens.

The evening service was a triumphant conclusion to the Easter observance with choir and minister taking the lead in gospel of sermon and song. Taking his text from the 20th chapter of John, the Rev. Mr. Dudgeon first likened Thomas to the modernist of to-day and John to the fundamentalist, while in the other disciples, he claimed, were to be found every trait of the human race. He then went on to show how through his absence, Thomas had not seen Jesus when He first came, after the resurrection, and had demanded proof of sight that He had arisen. It was in the conclusion of his sermon that the reverend gentleman brought out the full meaning of his subject, "What Thomas Missed."

"Wake Up, My Glory" (Simper), the anthem which opened the service, gave the choir ample opportunity to show the result of careful training, and the high standard set in it was maintained throughout by a solo, "King of Kings" (Simper) by H. Turner; a number, "Christ Is Risen," by the St. James' ladies' quartette, and a duet by Mrs. McLaren and Miss M. Ritchie.

At 3 p.m., the Rev. W. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial Church, addressed the brotherhood on "If a Man Dies, He Shall Live Again."

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN

"Easter is the hope for humanity, that quickens life and gives strength for life's struggles." These words of a famous Presbyterian divine sum up the event which was observed in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday. More than usual was this feeling emphasized by the choir and congregational singing. The large numbers, morning and evening enjoyed the hymns sung, and the music by the choir was splendidly rendered, Martin B. Chenhall having a large share in the efforts put forth.

At the morning diet, the solo, "The Conqueror," was rendered by Mrs. Walter Byers, the male sections assisting with the harmonized chorus. This number was fine; as was also Simper's "This Is The Day," anthem by the choir.

The evening hour of worship was even more choral. The solo, "Hosanna" (Granier) was sung by John Anderson, with choir accompaniment for the chorus giving a splendid and tuneful background. This was followed by Miles B. Foster's "The Story of The Cross," in parts, taking the form of a hymn-anthem with solo and quartette and choir selections, telling of the death and Resurrection of the Lord. The music is deeply reverential and worshipful, and was given with nice shading. The principals were Miss Byers, Miss Pattison, George East and John Anderson.

The last number by the choir was sung during the offertory, "Worthy Is The Lamb," from Handel's "Messiah" and was a fitting finale to the choir's work of the evening.

A word of praise might also be given to the ladies responsible for the decorations, lilies, tulips and ferns predominating in the organ and pulpit lofts.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST

The Easter season was especially marked at Murray Street Baptist Church yesterday by the service of song under the leadership of the choir. At the morning service the anthem was "Christ Is Risen," by Maunder, while the pastor's choir sang "Sleep 'Neath the Starlight," by Ritter. At the evening service many familiar hymns were sung, choir and congregation joining heartily in singing the praises of the risen Lord. Anthems were "Resurrexit," with solo parts taken by Mrs. L. Ingram and Dr. S. J. Graham, "O Death, Where Is Thy Sting?" in which Mrs. W. Liddell took the solo, "Lord, I'm Coming Home," with Miss Helen Barrie, soloist, and "Christ Arose." Dr. Graham, choir leader, acted as conductor, while Arthur Collison, organist, played the accompaniments most skilfully. He also gave a recital before the service.

An impressive part of last night's service was the baptizing of five young girls. The pastor, the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, performed the ceremony, reading Scriptural accounts of baptisms and speaking of it as a necessary service. During the ceremony the choir sang "Just As I Am."

The sermon subject at the morning service was "The Risen Life" and the text was "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God," taken from Colossians 3:1. The speaker called attention to the fact that in the world today there is a tendency "to forget and ignore the future life." People are reluctant to speak concerning immortality and the topic is taboo in many gatherings.

"The Christian Church ought to be unhesitating in its reply to the ancient question, 'If a man die shall he live again?' and it ought to make its answer as clear and direct as the answer of its Founder and the early Church. We must not halt between two sides. There is only one side for the Christian and that is the affirmative. While it is impossible, perhaps, to have a complete and definite idea of the life beyond, and while the details in all minds are no doubt, inadequate, yet the tremendous fact of the future life—proclaimed with utmost confidence and assurance by Jesus, ought ever to be before us and proclaimed by us. People will always differ about the Resurrection, and opinions will vary, but the fact of the Resurrection must ever be the belief of the Christian Church. Upon this fact was the Church built; upon it it has flourished and only upon it shall it go forward. Its message is one of life, not death.

"Surely we have not reached the highest stage of existence. We cannot believe that the materialistic stage of existence is the last and final stage. There must be something beyond this. That last stage must be spiritual. Our minds are immersed in the things which are seen. We must give them to the pursuit of spiritual things.

"We have no reason to despair; Christ is alive! Because He lives we, too, shall live. The souls of the righteous are in the hands of God, and no torment shall touch them."

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor, the Rev. J. L. Harton, preached two very inspiring and eloquent sermons on Easter Sunday. The messages were both appropriate to the season. In the morning Mr. Harton took for his text John 12:24, a very uncommon text for an Easter message, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." Mr. Harton pointed out how man has always been impressed by the seasons of the year. Autumn, with its falling leaves, fading flowers and bleak weather always has, to the human eye, the appearance of the coming of death. Spring, with its budding leaves, melted snows and bright outlook, always signified to man the awakening of new life. Christ really emphasized the death and renunciation of life in His Words in this Scripture.

Linking John 12:24 with the words of Christ, "Except ye be converted and become as little children ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Mr. Harton went on to point out that nothing was ever gained without sacrifice. A man cannot gain a higher level without there being first a scarifice in the lower level. Death must precede resurrection. Even a babe, leaving the nursery, must sacrifice what, to it, is very dear. Jesus' thoughts must have been turned this way when he said to Nicodemus "Ye must be born again."

There is always the impulse in man to press on to greater favor with his god, and yet, as well as this, there is always the consciousness of the fall. Man may be born in sin, but he is always born with the impulse for good, and is always conscious of his sin. Jesus knew that man could only be reinstated by a dramatic conception of God's great heart, there was only one way—that Christ should leave the Ivory Palaces, to come to earth, and to completely take upon Himself man's sins, and the whole wrath of God.

"He took upon Himself the personnel of our sins, for the propitiation and remission of them. He even died the most ignominous death that man could, yet He chose it Himself. Do we ever stop to realize what it meant to Him? It meant severance from God, His Father, and also meant taking upon Himself, the 'curse that is upon everyone that hangeth upon a tree.' Yet He accepted this, suffered, bled and died, that we might, through His sacrifice, be freed from our bondage.

"Calvary was not only a spectacle, but it was a symbolization of the inner soul. The man, whose release is received at Calvary, dies, and the old man falls off, and a new man is born, old tendencies are lost, and new desires are awakened. Oh, that men might realize the full significance of Calvary, and what it means to the world in general. 'He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities, and by His stripes we are healed'."

Following Mr. Harton's discourse the Ordinance of Baptism was observed, when five recent converts passed through the waters, signifying the putting off of the old man, and taking on the new.

In the afternoon in the Sunday school, the cantata, "We Love Our King" was rendered to a full congregation, by scholars of the school. Great credit is due to Mrs. Iredale for the able leadership she had displayed in the preparing of such a creditable performance. A short message was given by the pastor, "The Message of the Lilies." At the close seven boys of the school passed through the waters of baptism.

In the evening, taking as his text Romans 6:4, Mr. Harton emphasized the latter part of the verse: "Even so, we also should walk in newness of life."

"What is this newness of life?" Mr. Harton asked. "There has been the death, as we said this morning, but there must also be the new life in Christ's followers. There are two Greek words for the word, life. One is interpreted the life we live, the other the life we live by. One is the life which, is in us, and the other is the dynamic power which allows us to live.

"It is a common saying among men that a good man never dies, but in reality it only means that his influence will survive. John Ruskin will live for ever because of his interpretation of the mind of man; Tennyson will never die because of the multitudes that will continue to read his poems, but this is not what is meant by the newness of life. When Jesus brought Lazarus from the tomb, Lazarus carried on with his usual duties, but Christ did not rise from the dead to resume his old ministry among men. We can only understand his resurrection when we look at it through His ascension. The only way for us to walk in the newness of life is to live on the banks of the everlasting river of God's love which flows from Calvary. When Christ's hand is stretched forth and our sins are taken away, when we stand spotless before His throne, cleansed from all uncleanness, then, and only then, can we talk of the newness of life."

The choir rendered suitable music, morning and evening. In the morning the Anthem, "Christ is Risen," by E. L. Ashford was sung by the choir, and "At The Cross" by R. E. Hudson was given by Miss E. Batley, as a solo. In the Evening three anthems were sung by the choir, "Christ Is Risen" by Edmund Turner; "Crossing The Bar" by Arthur T. Crook and "Sweet Saviour Bless Us," by H. A. Fricker. "O Rejoice That The Lord Has Arisen," by Pietro Mascagni, was sung as a solo by Mrs. Iredale—and Miss Pilling rendered "There's a Beautiful Land On High."

ST GEORGE'S ANGLICAN

A new altar cloth, the gift of the members of the Women's Auxiliary, was dedicated yesterday morning at the beginning of the Communion service at 7.30 in St. George's Church. This service opened a day devoted to praise of the Risen Christ, and large congregations were present at all the services.

At 11.00 full choral Eucharist was sung, Simper's setting in E flat being used. The Rector, the Rev. J. L. Hughes, took his text from the Epistle to the Collossians, the first verse of the third chapter: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God".

A children's service was held in the afternoon at which the Lenten boxes were brought in. The amount saved by the children and presented for the missionary work of the church was the largest yet received at St. George's.

In the evening the Rector concluded a series of sermons on the letters to the seven churches in Asia. His text was Revelations 2: 8-11, the message to the church at Smyrna, which is headed "These things saith the first and the last, which was dead and is alive."

STUDIES RELIGION.

The Maharanee Sharmista, formerly Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, now the wife of the former maharajah of Indore, is said to be taking a keen interest in Hinduism to which she was converted prior to the nuptials. She is said to be sincere in the co-operation being offered her husband in his plans to tour Europe and America on a religious mission in an effort to regain the confidence of his co-religionaires in the orient. This is the first picture of the rites by which Miss Miller was converted to Hinduism just before her recent marriage at Barwahi, India. The photograph, which was cabled to Canada, shows Miss Miller, wearing sari and covering over the back of her head bowed. In front are various bowls, jars, and round objects connected with the service.

FINDS SINGING POOR.

Edward Branscombe, director of the Westminster Glee Singers of London, England, who stated publicly during the course of his present Canadian tour that choir singing in Canada faced serious obstacles to development on account of Canadian accent and diction, which he found unmusical. The flat "a" and the trilled "r" are among the more important faults he has to find with Canadian speech.

MONDAY, APRIL 9, 1928.

A CONCERT BY THE BLIND.

The opportunity is afforded Peterborough tonight to hear a musical revue given entirely by blind artists and at the same time to assist in making happier the lives of other people who are suffering from the same affliction as the members of the company appearing at the Grand to-night.

Every artist on the program is a graduate of the Ontario School for the Blind at Brantford, and the comments of the newspapers everywhere that these talented musicians have appeared leads to the conviction that local music-lovers are being offered a program of outstanding merit and interest.

The merit of the offering and the very laudable purpose for which these concerts are being held should combine to give the blind musicians a hearty reception from a large audience at the Grand this evening.

MORE CARELESS DRIVING.

During one of the momentary blizzards that made yesterday's weather conditions miserable for Easter Sunday church-goers, a woman was within an ace of being run down at Water and McDonnel streets by a corner-cutting car.

Observation goes to show that there is far too much of that kind of driving.

In this particular case the offending driver in making a left turn into McDonnel street from Water hugged the curb at the corner, many feet out of his proper path.

There is no excuse for such carelessness, and people who drive in that way should be deprived of the privilege of operating an automobile.

The pedestrian has difficulty enough keeping out of the way of motor cars on the right side of the road and turning corners properly without being called upon to dodge the drivers who take chances by ignoring the traffic rules.

ANOTHER SPRING DRIVE.

Saturday's accident will draw attention to the fact that a great deal of reckless shooting takes place in the neighborhood of Peterborough.

If Police Magistrate Langley were aware of the extent of the use of firearms in the townships fringeing the city, he might be inclined to follow the example of the magistrate in Carleton County, who has ordered the arrest of persons carrying firearms without due authority.

Those who know the number of boys and men who shoot up the woods around the city are constantly surprised by the evidences of wild life that manages to survive the bullets of the intrepid, big-game hunters from the city. Rabbits, ground hogs, squirrels, chipmunks, owls and hawks—these are some of the victims that need a little active sympathy in magisterial or other offices of authority.

Pedestrians along township roads and through the woods (and this human species, likewise, is not yet extinct), do not find the zing of bullets conducive to that expansiveness and uplift of the spirit which the freedom of the fields and roadsides should arouse and quicken.

Apparently any person with the price of a small bore rifle or a shotgun can amuse himself as he likes out in the townships, providing he doesn't shoot an unoffensive cow or the owner of one.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The attempt of the Ontario division of the Canadian Labor party to force the hand of the Ontario Government in the matter of old age pensions by organizing protest mass meetings to demand a special session of the Legislature to enact the law is not likely to cause much trepidation at Queen's Park.

The Labor party weakens its stand in this respect because of the absurdity of some of the resolutions passed at the same meeting.

A body that praises Soviet Russia, sees in such organizations as the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Boy Scouts and Girl Guides a capitalistic plot to prevent youthful workers from realizing their true positions, believes that sport leagues are designed for the same purpose, and condemns cadet training and Navy League collections all at the one session is not the right organization to successfully lead the crusade for relief for the aged needy of Ontario.

While there is a strong current of public opinion in favor of this Province's participation in the old age pension scheme, it would be difficult to creat a demand that would stampede the Government into calling a special session when it has allowed the regular session to go by without taking action.

The Premier has intimated that the question is to be studied, and that next session a plan will be proposed that will be satisfactory.

It looks as if Ontario will have to wait and see.

ACCIDENTS AND COMPENSATION.

The Hollinger disaster is beginning to show in compensation figures and the total benefits awarded by the Workmen's Compensation Board in March were higher than any one month since the commencement of the Act in Ontario.

Last month the board awarded $764,263.57, which included $108,025.06 for medical aid.

The accidents reported numbered in March 5,711, an increase over February when 5,570 were reported.

Fatalities in March, however, were considerably below the average, there having been 26 death cases reported.

The total number of accidents reported in the first quarter of 1928 was 16,337, an increase of only 216 over last year, which would be more than offset by increased employment.

Some authorities claim accidents run in cycles, and in this connection, R. B. Morley, general manager, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, tells of a recent epidemic of accidents to workers who were seriously injured by wagons or trucks. One driver for a Toronto firm was severely crushed by another truck while at the back of his own car. Another in Brantford suffered leg injuries when caught between a loaded truck and a tractor. A third case brought death to a worker in Hamilton when a large truck making deliveries backed into a worker, injuring him so severely that he died the following day.

This type and thousands of other accidents are being reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board every month in the year, and it seems to be true, as Mr. Morley says, that "it takes less times to prevent an accident than to report one."

OH, BUT IT WAS A TERRIBLE BAND!

Gilbert and Sullivan never produced anything about the "King's Navee" more ludicrous than that which is being brought out at that court-martial trial at Gibraltar. When, some weeks ago, word came from Malta that Admiral Bernard St. G. Collard had had his flag taken from the "Royal Oak," and that Commander Daniel and Captain Kenneth Dewar would be tried for insubordination, there were solemn whisperings of mutiny. In the British House of Commons men rose and asked grave questions of the First Lord of the Admiralty; communiques were issued adding to the mystery of the incident; and in every club on Piccadilly retired admirals sipped their Scotch sadly and bewailed the fate of the navy since their taking leave of it. It was bad enough, really, to have a Labor party, and Socialism, and impudent servants, and Lloyd George, but England was badly well going to the dogs when they started to mutiny in the navy.

To-day England breathes easier. In a cabin on an airplane carrier lying off Gibraltar, the sun blazing down upon the good ship, and the lazy Mediterranean waters lapping her sides, the story of what took place is being unfolded to the world, and, honestly, we'd like to know what is in the minds of those Piccadilly admirals now. Eight captains, we are informed by the despatches, "sat in full regalia, including hats," and listened to the evidence. The Law Lords of the Empire sit in lounge suits in a little room in Downing Street and pass upon questions vital to the Empire. But it's different in the navy. So, through a "long hot day," the skippers sat there, gold braid, plumed hats and everything, comforted no doubt in the thought that England expected every man to do his duty. That it was an heroic performance seems clearly evident, but, fortunately for everybody, there were compensations. Thus we are told that although the location of the court aboard the warship did not tend toward physical coolness, "there were many calls for refreshments."

And what a tale was told! One day, it appears, when Admiral St. G. Collard was departing from the "Royal Oak," Commander Daniel put the accommodation ladder down the starboard instead of the port side of the ship. That made the gallant admiral furious. Any landlubber, let alone a commander, ought to have known better than that; and Collard got so mad that he used a "bad word" right out there before the shocked tars, and everybody. It was simply terrible. Poor Daniel, who was humiliated, says he meant well. It was a rough day, especially to port, and had he put the ladder down that side all sorts of salt brine would have splashed on the admiral's uniform, and maybe he would have fallen into the sea. That, however, didn't appeal to Collard. If a ladder should be put down on the port side it shouldn't be put down on the starboard side; and so muttering, "this b—y boat—no ladder—no nothing," the admiral went off in a towering rage, and when he returned next day wouldn't salute anybody.

But the worst was yet to come. One night they gave a dance on the "Royal Oak." There were brave men and fair women, young gallants who were undoubtedly interesting, and young dark-eyed Mediterranean maidens who looked as if they might be; there was promise for a glorious night. But it broke up—as dances sometimes do—in a terrible row. The trouble was the jazz and the band. Either this chap St. G. Collard had a good ear for music, or none at all, but for one reason or the other he became furious at the band. We should like to say right here that, having had some experiences with these bands, we are in sympathy with Collard. Often, in fact, we have felt like perpetrating some terrible deed against these people, but always lacked the courage. But it wasn't so with the admiral. The evidence says that he walked right up to the bandmaster and there, right to his face, and before all and sundry, told him that he had never heard such a "b—y noise" in his life (and the admiral, mind you, was at Jutland) and that he should be sent home. Just what else Collard told this inferior fellow is not clear; though it is a suspicious fact that the chaplain had to be called in, and there was talk of a "bad name."

Collard, on the stand before the captains, defended h[illegible] he was, trying to enjoy himself, when he noticed the bandmaster half asleep and not taking the slightest interest in the dance; what was an admiral and a chivalrous gentleman to do? And that wasn't all. This dance had become such a "frost" that the ladies, Lord bless them, were sitting out, while the men were standing about, or maybe away for refreshments. What with the heat, and the excitement, and the terrible music, and soulful maidens sitting there like "wall flowers," it was a terrible night. So Collard, enraged at everything, and perhaps not even knowing that in these days all those who "sit out" are by no means "wall flowers," went over to Captain Dewar and said: "I am sick of you as a flag captain. Either you will have to go or I will shift my flag."

The trial still goes on; and all the world is in the court. What the verdict will be, nobody knows, and nobody need care. But oh, for the pen of a Gilbert and the music of a Sullivan to put it all on the stage!—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Anyway April weather can never be accused of being monotonous.

The return to colder weather will give the Alberta coal campaign a chance to get going.

The female of the species proved herself more determined than the male yesterday by wearing spring plumage in spite of the drop in temperature.

The Globe's slogan, "Look up and down before crossing the street," might have been expressed better, but it should do the work nevertheless.

Before grumbling too much about the condition of the roads, remember what they used to be like a few years ago.

Mayor Martin claims he was trimmed by the barbers. They must have gone over him twice, judging from the final result.

The United States political conventions are to be broadcast, which should make Canadians rejoice in the fact that this country now has a radio station that can be tuned in at any time—that is, any time the new arrangement allows the "Cheerio" station to be on the air.

Miss Agnes MacPhail's motion for the establishment of a peace department was "talked out" by the Commons, which thus fell back upon a feminine method.

COMMODIOUS AND COMFORTABLE

J. E. Harris, Architect.

No home can be called modern or in any way complete without a commodious and comfortable living room. The living room in this house is 13 ft. x 22 ft. and will be found equally delightful in both summer and winter. Desirable in summer for its light on three sides and subsequent cross ventilation, and for its direct access to the verandah and garden; while in winter, the open fireplace with attractive windows on either side and ample wall space for large comfortable furniture, will appeal strongly to the tired homecomers and insure many a happy hour.

The verandah is 6 ft. 6 in. x 15 ft. and could easily be made a little wider if desired as it does not affect any other part of the house from a structural viewpoint. It is also splendidly adapted for converting into a sun-room. There is now on the market an improved type of folding steel casement sash which eliminates the necessity for mullions and would be very desirable for just such a verandah as this—a verandah in summer, a sunroom in winter.

The dining room is 9 ft. x 11 ft. and as indicated by the floor plan, is approached from the living room through a wide archway. This makes the two rooms almost as one and is often found very convenient for entertaining. The kitchen is 10 ft. x 12 ft. and is supplemented by a large scullery and good sized pantry.

Between the kitchen and the front hall is another room 8 ft. x 12 ft. for a den or office. A commendable feature of the entrance to this home is the vestibule, especially appreciated during the cold weather.

On the second floor are four bedrooms, in order of size; 13 ft. x 14 ft. 6 in., 9 ft. x 16 ft., 8 ft. x 12 ft. and 9 ft. x 10 ft. 6 in. A plumbing feature is the separate toilet and two piece bathroom, 5 ft. 9 in. x 11 ft.

The outside dimensions are 23 ft. x 41 ft. and including hot water heating, the estimated cost is $5,500. This is based on frame construction on a concrete foundation.

A lot with an eastern frontage would give the verandah a desirable southern exposure, or a south aspect for the front and a western exposure for the verandah would also be suitable.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., April 9 (Canadian Press).—The export and local trade in grain here Saturday was extremely dull owing to the fact that all grain markets in the United Kingdom and the Continent were closed. Prices were fully maintained.

A moderate amount of business was done in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour and prices were firm.

The demand for all lines of millfeed was quiet but the undertone was steady. There was no change in standard grades of rolled oats and the market was inactive.

The inquiry for eggs was good and a fairly active business was done at unchanged prices. The receipts Saturday were 5,051 cases.

An easier feeling developed in the butter market and prices were reduced ½c per pound. The demand continued dull. The receipts were 368 packages.

The trade in cheese was confined to small lots but values ruled steady. The receipts were 163 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Widespread freezing temperatures looked for Saturday night, with prospects that unseasonable cold will continue several days, did a good deal to hoist wheat values Saturday. Meanwhile trade reports said that but little moisture had been received in Western Kansas, where most needed, and that in the central wheat states the growing weather of late had only served to make more evident the magnitude of damage by Winter killing.

At first the wheat market underwent something of a dip Saturday on account of further rainfalls in domestic wheat territory. However, the offerings of future deliveries proved to be light, and bull leaders soon became aggressive buyers. Unfavorable weather which was forecast at about this time gave additional impetus to price upturns that followed, as so likewise did continued reports about Winter killing on a big scale. Missouri and Ohio advices concerning the wheat crop outlook were especially pessimistic. A Chicago observer telegraphed that from St. Louis to Kansas City via Columbus the damage by Winter killing runs between 20 and 80 per cent. Messages from another source said that in the Florissant Valley, Mo., the finest wheat land has no wheat. Ohio despatches reported the greater part of the crop abandoned between Cincinnati and Columbus, and that elsewhere in Ohio after two weeks of growing weather, much wheat left undisturbed because of hope for improvement is now showing only a very light and spotted stand.

Wet weather led to considerable buying of corn and there was talk current, too, that a fair decrease would be shown in the corn visible supply total on Monday. Oats were government chiefly by the course of other cereals.

Provisions developed firmness, sympathizing with the action of hog values and of grain.

WAITING AT BALDONNEL

A Thought

YOU'LL BE SURPRISED.

Self-administered discipline is much more effective and far less embarrassing than any corrective methods that we may be subjected to by another.

Censor yourself and mete out the punishment, and if you are honest with yourself (if you are not, there is no need of either censor or punishment), you will make the punishment fit the fault and profit accordingly.

But let me recommend another plan: Make a business of self-analysis, play a game of self-discipline, and you'll be surprised how much better you will know you and what a good time you will have making you a better and a bigger individual.

GOD'S MINUTE

God is faithful by Whom you were called.—I Cor. 1:9.

Our Father, Who Art in Heaven, Thou hast graciously answered our petition for safe keeping through the darkness and dangers of another night. For these mercies we now thank Thee, Father, and life our refreshed hearts and minds to Thee in thanksgiving, and in an appeal for guidance as we start out into the duties and privileges of a new and unknown day. Graciously cause Thy Holy Spirit to dwell in us richly, and to make real unto a Father's omniscience, love and power. Help Thou us to realize what it really is to have the very hairs of our head all numbered. Show us anew the deep concern of the Good Shepherd as He feedeth His flock and nourisheth it for the Father's service.

Cause Thy Kingdom to come, and Thy will to be done in and through us each moment of the day. Bring to our rememberance, On Spirit of God, such proportions of the Divine Word as will give us the vision, and inspiration, and the faithfulness that will make us profitable—profitable to Thee by being helpful to those about us in real need of the knowledge of a Saviour's love and grace. These favors, together with the forgiveness of our own sins, we ask in the Name of Jesus—Thy Son and our Saviour. Amen.

RESURRECTION OF THE BODY

10 Victoria Ave.,
Peterboro,'
April 6th, 1928.

Editor, The Examiner:

The writer of the rather undignified article which appeared in your paper on April 5th, over the signature, M. T. Butcher, seems to think it incredible that a person maybe dead and alive at the same time.

Three of the various aspects in which death is viewed in the Scriptures are (1) Moral (Eph. 2:1); (2) Physical (Jas. 2:26); (3) Eternal (Rev. 20:14). The idea of separation is in each.

One morally dead is "alienated from the life of God" (Eph 4:18); "in trespasses and sins" (Eph. 2:1). Of such a one we read: "But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth" (1 Tim. 5:6). The prodigal son further exemplifies this point (Luke 15:11-32).

Man is a tripartite being—spirit and soul and body (1 Thess. 5:23). At physical death his spiritual leaves his material part (Job 14:10). The Bible teaches that, "the body without the spirit is dead" (Jas. 2:26), but, never the reverse. In the narrative in Luke 16:19-31 is found: "The rich man also died and was buried" (v. 22); and in hell he lift up his eyes being in torments" (v. 23). The one verse speaks of the man, with respect to his body, as having died; the other, with respect to his soul and spirit, as having gone into hell, and suffering. It is further shewn in Rev. 6:9-10, and in Matt. 9:28, that souls live beyond bodily death.

Eternal death is eternal separation from God in conscious torment in the lake of fire (Rev. 14:11; Rev. 20: 14-15).

John 3:16 says: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

In certain writings, it is taught that death, hell, and the lake of fire denote non-existence. By employing this definition, Rev. 20:14, "And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death," is made to read: "And non-existence, and non-existence were cast into non-existence This is the second non-existence"! !

Resurrection, on which subject also your contributor touched, has to do with the body, as the following Scriptures shew:

"Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up. . . .

"But He spake of the temple of His body" (John 2:19-21).

"And the graves were opened and many bodies of the saints which slept arose" (Matt. 27:52).

"So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: it is sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power: it is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body" (1 Cor. 15: 42-44).

If your contributor deem it wise to reply to this letter, may I suggest that he (or she) expound, not explode?

CANADIAN MOTHERS KEEP SONGS ALIVE

Sing While They Weave or Spin —Large Families Help.

MONTREAL, Que., April 9 (CP).—Murray Gibbon, addressing an audience of women, gave a graphic account of how the old French-Canadian folk songs have survived since the days of the early settlers. In the long winter months singing, feasting and dancing were the only relaxation for the people living on the concessions and through this singing the folk songs were kept alive A reason for the preservation of the nursery song Mr. Gibbon stated as being the large French-Canadian families. When a mother sang her seventeenth lullaby she knew it well and by that time she had probably become a grand mother and her oldest daughter was singing the same song.

The great reason, however, for the preservation of these songs today is handicraft work. During the winter months the women spin and weave. If they could not sing well themselves they could get folk-singers to come and give them the rhythm.

One song touched on particularly by the speaker was "A la Claire Fontaine." This song was brought by the "voyageurs" and was carried throughout Canada. It became so much the song of the people that everyone knew it and when Quebec was captured by the British in 1759 it came to have a symbolic meaning, because its theme deals with the lover who is separated from his mistress.

Pains in the Back Quickly Relieved

Ontario Lady Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I have taken a number of boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills for Pains in the Back and always got relief at once," writes Mrs. Geo. W. Reddick, Box 45, Spencerville, Ont. "They are just the pill for any trouble of the Kidneys."

The human body, like all other living bodies, is in a constant state of change. One of the commonest changes is a cold, which in a few hours will often derange the whole system. Symptoms are apt to mislead at such times as the weakest part will show the strain, while a few doses of Dodd's Kidney Pills will go directly to the point and remove the whole trouble. Don't delay, take DODD'S to-day.

OBITUARY

JAMES GAY

STIRLING, April 9—James Gay, who formerly lived at West Huntingdon but latterly in Frankford, passed away in the General Hospital at Kingston where he was operated on recently, having one of his legs amputated at the knee. The deceased was 83 years of age last December and was well known for his cheerful disposition. The funeral service was held in Frankford under the auspices of the I.O.O.F. Mr. Gay was a member of Stirling Lodge, No. 239 for many years.

WILLIAM HASTIE.

Otonabee lost one of its oldest and most respected residents in the death of William Hastie, on Easter Sunday, April 8 at the age of 96 years.

Born in Uphall, Scotland, January 17, 1832, he came to Canada in 1856, first settling in Keene, eight years later removing to Lang.

Mr. Hastie was a staunch Presbyterian ,and a life long Liberal.

Left to mourn his loss are his four sons and three daughters. His wife predeceased him 18 years ago.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon ,at two o'clock, to the Keene cemetery.

MRS. ELLEN CARROLL.

DOWNEYVILLE, April 9. — The death occurred on Monday morning very suddenly of an old and respected resident of this village, in the person of Mrs. Ellen Carroll, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Margaget Herlihey, with whom she resided.

The deceased was born on lot 13, con. 10, in the township of Emily, and resided there for sixty-seven years, when she moved to Lindsay twenty years ago and resided there until three years ago, when she came to reside with her daughter and remained there, when she died at the ripe old age of ninety-three years.

She leaves to mourn her loss five daughters, Mrs. Margaret Herlihey, of Downeyville; Mrs. Timothy Driscall (Terese), Mrs. John Skuse (Alice) Miss Lizzie, all of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Peter Murtha (Ellen) of Lindsay; three sons, James of Lindsay, Martin and Henry of Emily, thirty-seven grandchildren and thirty-one great grandchildren. Two daughters, Mrs. M. Murtha and Mrs. Frank Milloy, and one son, Thomas, predeceased her.

The funeral took place Thursday morning, from her daugther's residence, Mrs. Margaret Herlihey in the village, to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where requiem High mass was said by Rev. Father Galvin, who also preached the funeral sermon. In the course of his remarks he referred to the wonderful life of the deceased, who could tell of her early life and the hardships endured in the early days until the last—never sick in her life and died without a moment's sickness. What a wonderful life. The remains were afterwards placed in the vault in St. Luke's cemetery. The pallbearers were six grandsons, Messrs. Albert Carroll, Martin Carroll, Jr., Earl Milloy, Martin Herlihey, Clare Carroll of Downeyville, and Joseph Murtha, of Rochester, N.Y.

A large crowd attended the funeral and the very bad condition of the roads prevented many from attending. Among those from a distance who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cavanagh of Ennismore, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Murtha and Mr. Patrick Clancy of Lindsay, Mrs. Skuse, Mrs. Driscoll, Miss Lizzie Carroll and Joseph Murtha, all of Rochester, N.Y.

DUMMER COUNCIL.

WARSAW, April 9—The clerk was instructed at the municipal council meeting of the Township of Dummer, to notify the Sawyer-Massey Company that the council did not wish to buy a tractor grader this year.

The minutes of the last meeting in respect of the views of the council on the business assessment, which read, "That it is not the intention of the council to increase the taxes on the business men, etc," was corrected to read, "The council concluded not to take any action this year"

Applications from owners of engines to supply power was considered and on motion, the application of George Moore to supply a gasoline tractor with an engineer to operate the machinery on the roads, was accepted.

A representative of No. 1 section board of trustees came before the council in respect to the alteration of the section's boundaries being asked for, he stated that the trustees were opposed to this being done and filed a protest from the board giving their reasons.

A motion was passed that owing to the Provincial legislation pending, the council felt that there was nothing to be gained in making any transfers in the school section assessment.

THE TRAGEDY OF MANY LIVES IS CONSTIPATION

Guard against it in time

A Vital Canadian Industry

—Of whose magnitude little has ever been said

THERE is a great industry constantly at work in all parts of Canada whose product is essential to the continuance of successful individual, community and national life. It silently but surely guards and encourages every legitimate human interest and purpose. And yet, although standing high among those great national institutions which give employment to thousands of persons and circulate millions of dollars every month, its importance is seldom truly appraised. This modest but vast and influential industry is . . .

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER PRESS OF CANADA

It is a vigorous enterprise, disseminating without cessation, current news and information gathered from all parts of the earth.

It gives employment to more than 25,000 persons.

It pays in salaries and wages over $15,000,000 a year.

It buys raw newsprint to a value in excess of $8,000,000, every dollar of which is spent in Canada.

It has more than $40,000,000 invested in buildings and equipment.

It is estimated that close to $750,000 a week—at least $35,000,000 a year—is needed to keep these Daily Newspapers in operation.

THERE are in Canada 97 Daily Newspapers and their combined circulations total 1,900,000 copies a day—one for about every four persons—more than one for every literate home in settled territory.

These Newspapers are an unequalled creative force in national progress and offer Business the most powerful, efficient, swift and cheap access for its advertising, every day in the year, to the homes in any territorial zone or throughout Canada as a whole.

PIONEER CHURCH TO BE RESTORED

Former Resident of Hay Bay District Promoter of Scheme.

HISTORY RECALLED

Allan Ross Davis, Toronto, is the earnest promoter of a scheme whereby the old pioneer Hay Bay Church the mother of Methodism, may be restored and preserved. This proposal should meet with a ready response and the hearty co-operation of all former Methodists in Canada.

Mr. Davis, a former Adolphuston boy, outlines a very interesting story of this comparatively little known historical site.

"Seven years after the advent of the United Empire Loyalists to the Bay of Quinte district of Upper Canada, the plucky wilderness, settlers of Fourth Town, afterwards named Adolphuston, raised a subscription list out of their penury, in the year 1791, to build a chapel for the worship of Almighty God. They supplemented this early in the following year by giving their services in the chopping, sawing and framing of the majestic oak, pine and cedar, growing along the south shore of Hay Bay, an arm of the Bay of Quinte. The choicest material was used, and the solid, rustic edifice, with galleries and a high pulpit, was completed and dedicated in 1792, from which time until 1860, great throngs of people from far and near of all denominations, including many Indians of various tribes, mustered in this Methodist chapel from Sabbath to Sabbath, by means of boats and forest-pathways in summer and over the ice in winter. Then, when roads had improved, and clearings had enlarged, and prosperity had rewarded faithful service, a more central church was built in that community by the Methodists, who robbed their mother-church of her pulpit and furniture; sold her for a paltry fifty dollars, and abandoned her to bats and rats and all the trumpery of a general farm storehouse. Again in 1884, the second church was replaced by the beautiful brick Centennial church, which still adorns the site.

"But," said Mr. Davis, "I could not forget the place where my United Empire Loyalist forefathers had worshipped; and when I moved back from Western prairies to Toronto in 1910, I found a sympathetic friend in Chancellor Burwash; and together we bombarded the Methodists of Toronto for a "Hay Bay Church restoration fund". They realized the sum of $1,500, which included a liberal contribution from the Bay of Quinte Conference. This enabled them to purchase the property, renovate the structure, build a new wharf, and a clear title of the site was placed in the possession of the Methodist Church of Canada.

For the years following the reopening of the church the place was crowded with visitors and all meetings well attended. Then came the world war and all else was forgotten. The lonely sentinel on Hay Bay, defying wind and rain and frost, valiantly stood throughout those anxious years, with few visitors to lift the latch-string, always hanging on the outside of the front door. Meanwhile, the elements are causing decay, and soon the mother-church of Methodism in Canada must, perforce fall in ruins, after 136 years of service, unless immediate action is taken to preserve it.

Adjoining the Hay Bay church, is the boyhood home-site of the late Sir John A. MacDonald, who worshipped there with his good Presbyterian mother for several years when a lad, soon after their arrival as immigrants from Scotland.

Last year the Mackenzie King Government, in rounding out their Confederation-Jubilee plans, erected a beautiful cairn on the site, out of the foundation stones of the MacDonald home. The cairn, adjoining the Hay Bay church plot on the east and near the water's edge, has been enclosed with an iron fence, and will be preserved by the Government as a historic site for all time to come.

It now seems that many former Methodists in the Bay of Quinte district, in the city of Toronto, and in fact throughout all Canada, should be fitted up and made into a useful and attractive place of worship for the United church in general, and an interesting historic spot, which tourists will visit in increasing numbers, when boating on the Bay of Quinte, or motoring from Lennox to Prince Edward County, and crossing the ferry over the bay on the picturesque Napanee-Picton route.

Roughly, it is estimated that the cost will not exceed five thousand dollars. The original hand-sawed clapboards have weathered down to the thinness of wafers, and in order to preserve the rustic appearance, these will need to be carefully taken off, the studding solidly boarded with new material, and the clapboard replaced over the latter, and closely nailed. New windows and doors will be needed and, for the most part, a new roof. Repairs to the foundation, floors, galleries, etc., with renewals here and there, will be necessary. While preserving the rustic, open-roof appearance, the whole interior will need renovating, with new platform, railing, pulpit, chairs, and a full set of modern, comfortable seats.

The grounds should be fenced, cultivated and planted with trees, shrubs and flowers, and the shoreline, for about a thousand feet in length, cleared up, the banks graded and seeded, and a concrete boat-landing platform built at the rear of the church. Other minor demands will naturally arise, as is always the case when such a work is undertaken but the above outline roughly measures the extent of the actual expense necessary to preserve the Hay Bay Church for another century; make it a delightful place for worship; visitation by Conferences or Presbyteries, church and Sunday School excursions, and as in all Roman Catholic churches, a quiet retreat for meditation and prayer by individuals passing that way. Who knows but that this spot, where Methodism was planted 136 years ago, may not thus become a veritable Mecca to returning missionaries from all parts of the world long before another century has passed away. The spirit of William Losee, the New York missionary who first preached there, would, if then free, certainly come back and revisit the scenes of his early ministry.

The Government would be glad to grant an allowance to a church caretaker for looking after the cairn on the Macdonald home-site. Pictures writings and bric-a-brac, concerning both the Hay Bay church and Canada's greatest statesman, could find ample room in the galleries of the of interest to tourists and of educational value to the youth of our church, which would become, in time fo interest to tourists and of educational value to the youth of our country. The local historical society could materially aid in developing this feature of the proposal.

If more funds were collected than was necessary for the restoration of the church, it was suggested that a small comfortable bungalow might be built on the acre and a half Hay Bay Church property, for a home for a worn-out missionary, where on a small salary, with free house and garden, he or she would become the custodian of the Church.

A start in this direction might induce the other United Church denominations, Presbyterians and Congregational, to select representative churches, on which, as memorials, they would concentrate in a similar way, and thus there would become a series of them in the United Church, each with its distinguishing features. It would certainly awaken a keener interest, generally, in our country, in the old churches we are so prone to forget and forsake. Of what use will all our Canadian prosperity be, if we neglect veneration for the spiritual instincts of our nature

RAILWAY CLERK STEALS FREIGHT

Goods Worth $10,000 Found In His Home At Orangeville

NOTHING SOLD

ORANGEVILLE, April 9.—Enough goods stolen from C.P.R. freight cars to stock a good-sized general store have been recovered here by Railway Investigators H. D. Oswald and E. J. Thornloe. All were stolen by Fred. Crisp, freight clerk, he confessed to police yesterday. No one else was implicated.

Crisp has been steadily looting way cars since November, 1924. He has never attempted to sell the goods. Nor has he revealed what use he intended to make of piles and piles of general merchandise, hardware, furniture and drugs. His house was packed, police say, with what to him was practically useless junk, though its value is placed at approximately $10,000. With the exception of about $200 worth, all has been recovered. The $200 is said to represent groceries used by the Crisp family.

Miniature Drug Store.

Yesterday a huge roll-top desk, thought before to have belonged to Crisp, was found to be part of the loot. The drawers represented a miniature drug store. Neatly packed away were boxes of fountain pens, razor blades, shaving cream, cigarettes, patent medicine, rubbing alcohol and ammunition. A large revolver, reported lost some time ago by a bank manager, occupied a prominent place in the collection. Automobile tires, four large rolls of linoleum and odds and ends made up the loot discovered to-day. Hardware, groceries, boots and shoes, blankets and bedding were found yesterday.

The value of the salvaged goods cannot be accurately stated until a detailed check is made, Provincial Constable Joseph Nelson said last night. The check will start next week. At present the loot is stored in the express office, baggage room and freight shed at the local station.

After the clean breast he made to police yesterday of the whole affair, Crisp was released on $5,000 bail. James Armstrong, lacrosse supporter, and J. Henderson, blacksmith, put up $1,500 each and the accused $3,000.

MANY NATIONS USE ONE CHURCH

Old Queen Street Church in Toronto To Be Re-opened at Easter.

TORONTO, Ont., April 9 (by the Canadian Press).—Worshipping groups drawn from many nationalities in Ontario will in future look to the Church of All Nations, Toronto, as a centre.

This church is to be open at Easter. It will be a new congregation in an old and improved church—Queen street—well known throughout Canada as a one time vigorous centre of Methodism and now under the jurisdiction of the United Church of Canada.

Czech, Swedish, Hungarian, Finnish, Bulgarian and Ukrainian groups have already met in the building for study or recreation during recent weeks, with reconstruction almost completed, and the various chapels will be dedicated for public worship Easter morning by the President of Toronto Conference, Rev. J. D. Byrnes, D.D., of Barrie, Ont. The programme of services has been announced by Rev. J. I. MacKay B.D., superintendent in charge.

Rebuilding of the old Queen Street Church, undertaken on the initiative of the Board of Home Missions of the United Church, has proceeded rapidly. There will be a gymnasium, club rooms and class rooms for secular as well as religious education.

In advance of formal dedication, fifty Hungarians assembled recently for worship under the leadership of a Winnipeg pastor who was passing through the city and could conduct service in Magyar. They met in a small and as yet undecorated class room.

Services in several languages at 11 and 7 o'clock and in English at 8.30 p.m. on Sundays wil be the usual order, after the special opening services are past.

The opening reception is announced for the evening of April 9.

WILL TEACH NURSES TO TRAIN STUDENTS

Course Being Provided By University of Toronto After Many Requests.

TORONTO, April 9 (Canadian Press).—A new course of instruction to prepare graduate nurses for teaching positions in hospitals is announced by the senate of the University of Toronto. The course is being planned as a result of numerous requests for such training from nurses' organizations in the province.

Before approving the course the University last year sent out a questionnaire, to which 82 per cent. of the schools for nurses replied. In these schools, 3,092 girls were taking a three-year course in nursing, of whom 964 graduate each year. Yet, of 512 graduate nurses engaged in teaching in these hospitals, only 10 have had special training in the work of teaching. The University's proposed course will be carried on by the departments of University extension and public health nursing in co-operation.

Sudbury Overrun With Prospectors

Sudbury is being overrun with prospectors. Reports from The Pas in Northern Manitoba are to the effect that there is a great gathering of prospectors already taking place in that district as well waiting for the easing of winter before they rush into the Sherritt-Gordon section and the area to the north. Snow is in no way retarding the staking in Sudbury area and by the time spring arrives, in full, there will be little available ground open. New companies to operate in the Sudbury section are springing up at the rate of three or four a week and the end of the year will see close to one hundred different operations going on in the camp. This is in marked contrast to the long period of years up until two years ago when International Nickel and Mond Nickel were the only two operations in the area.

The public is going to find it hard to pick and choose among these Sudbury operations. For years the slate area which composes the centre of the great basin was regarded as worthless. Now, as a result of the work of Treadwell Yukon and Sudbury Basin Mines, a narrow area with a northeast-southwest strike has been shown to carry commercial deposits of copper-lead-zinc ore. This is proven ground in a limited way and the great rush on the part of new companies has been to get properties in line of strike with these deposits. No one, however, can say that the rest of the basin will not ultimately reveal deposits that are equally important. Close study of the report of Dr. Coleman on the Sudbury area, leaves the impression that at some unknown depth, the whole area of slate is underlaid with nickel-copper deposits. The dip of the nickel deposits on the southern rim of the norite formation, in which Frood, Creighton, Coppercliff and other deposits are found, is about 45 degrees to the northwest while the dip of the Levack on the north rim is the same to the southeast. It is this fact that has led to the area being termed a basin. A large number of diamond drills will be operating in the area during the coming summer.

In connection with the Sherritt-Gordon section in Northern Manitoba, which as has been said, promises to share the boom honors with Sudbury, there are engineers who express the opinion that it will ultimately be proven that this section is also a basin, similar to that of Sudbury. It is believed that this conclusion is due to the strike of the Sherritt ore body which on the east strikes off to the north and it is believed that work on the cold Lake mines will prove that it takes a similar turn on the west side. It is understood that the Sherritt Gordon engineering report will soon be made public.

A report is about to be made public on the Howey. This will be the first public statement since lateral work was undertaken on the property. Drifts have been driven in the ore on four levels. President Jack Hammell would not anticipate the report by giving out any facts in regard to results, but it is believed that the ore will have been found to retain the excellent widths on surface with fairly consistent values a little below those indicated by surface assays.

Quite a number of new operations are starting up in the Red Lake Section again and an active year is expected. The public is still wondering what has become of a great many of the numerous syndicates that were floated during the early boom in this camp. Many have not been heard of since. Two or three syndicates that have held well located ground, are now making plans to form companies and take up active mining.

Activity continues in the eastern section of Kirkland Lake, Bidgood, whose success focused attention on this area, continues to open up commercial ore on the sublevel above the 400-ft. horizon. The last report was that drills were close to the 100-ft. mark and the ore for this distance had averaged $35 per ton. This is higher than the Kirkland Lake average. It is understood that some good news is pending on Lebel Oro which is the west of Bidgood and which is now being operated by Nipissing Mining Co. What the nature of this news is, has not been revealed. Before Nipissing took the operation over, some very high grade ore was encountered. Nipissing is diamond drilling.

BURNT RIVER IN FLOOD.

Causes Washout On C. N. R. Tracks in Kinmount District.

LINDSAY, April 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Burnt River, in Haliburton county, overflowed its banks to-day, causing a washout on the Canadian National Railway tracks at Howland Junction and at Fells Station, where it is three feet over the tracks. A torrent of water rushed down the main street at Kinmount, flooding homes and stores. The postmaster at that village had to use a punt to cart the mail from the office to the station, a hundred yards distant.

THE USE OF PRUNES

The jokesmiths used to be very liberal with their stories about the lowly prune. This was, however, in the days when its cheapness was its best recommendation, and consequently the boarding house landlady placed great dependence upon this fruit for an easily prepared and reasonably priced dessert.

The persistence of the ridicule that has pursued the prune is in part a relic of the time when the common prune was a cheap fruit imported in barrels from Central Europe and the Balkans, and in part, due to the wide ignorance concerning its proper preparation.

Until as recently as 1890 the entire supply was imported from Europe, the principal sources being France, Spain, Central Europe and the Balkans, but today the general market is fully supplied by California and the other Pacific states. Even a great many millions of pounds of the California product are annually exported to every part of the world, the best customers being Canada, England, Northern Europe, Germany and France.

The California industry started in the Santa Clara Valley where it was soon found that the prune grows so well because of the hot dry summer which brings out its full flavor and sugar quality. The French type of prune is that produced mostly in the Santa Clara Valley, while farther north in Oregon and Washington other varieties of the Italian fruit are grown. An average French prune tree will yield from 150 to as high as 1000 pounds a year.

The drying process requires a considerable degree of skill, the aim being to develop the sugar of the prune without changing its flavor or detracting from its fruity character. By one method of drying, the prunes are placed in ovens and dried in a short time, but the usual California method is to dry the prunes in the sun. Before being placed in the sun to dry, the prunes are first immersed in a mild lye solution and then treated to a cleansing bath of scalding water. The use of sulphur in curing prunes has been almost entirely discontinued owing to the drastic pure food laws which discourage the use of sulphur or sulphur fumes in preparing fruit for the market.

The fruit should be cooked very slowly, and never boiled. It is a good plan to let the prunes soak overnight for at least twelve hours. They should then be cooked very slowly on a low fire for from ten to twenty minutes. No sugar should be added, as a well grown prune is really about fifty per cent sugar.

Many people make the mistake of eating too many prunes in a day. A good practice is to use only about five prunes daily, for if more are used fermentation is liable to result from the excess of sugar which the system cannot use.

Prunes contain a slightly laxative property which will be found effective in overcoming constipation. If a few senna leaves are added to the water in which the prunes are soaked and cooked, the laxative effect will be more pronounced.

Questions and Answers.

Question: V.V.H. writes: "I am a constant reader of your health items and certainly have derived a great deal of benefit from them. Will you please let me know if the constant use of an electric belt, that is, ten minutes morning, noon and night, will cure varicose veins? It seems since I have used the belt it has softened them, although the swelling is still there. Do you think I should use the belt in conjunction with the application of cold water cloths to relieve the swelling?"

Answer: The treatment you write about will have little effect upon the varicose veins unless it can increase the circulation of blood to all parts of the body. Take standing-up exercises to cure the abdominal prolapsus which no doubt exists, and treat the affected parts with applications of cold towels or by slowly rubbing ice over the veins that are enlarged.

Question: Mrs. E. K. L. writes: "Please tell me if the following vegetables contain starch: beets, asparagus, cabbage, cucumbers, peas and corn?"

Answer: All vegetables contain a certain amount of starch, but beets, asparagus, cabbage and cucumbers are referred to as non-starchy vegetables as they contain only from three to eight per cent of starch, while peas and corn should really be placed in the starchy class, the green peas being seventeen per cent starch and the dried peas fifty-two per cent.

Question: S. J. asks: "Do you think a person can get too much sleep.

Answer: Yes, it is possible that one can become lazy and spend so much time in bed that he is really weakened from too much rest. If eight hours of sleep do not seem sufficient, it is because the body is toxic from wrong eating or mental overwork.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1928.

Benefic aspects again are strong in this government of the stars, according to astrology, but there is an adverse influence.

The early morning is especially auspicious for leaders of men and for those who form public opinion.

Lawyers and legislators should benefit from this planetary rule which makes for constructive public work.

This is a favorable sway for wills and legacies, from which churches and hospitals may expect benefits.

There is a sign of promise regarding the building of churches and the finishing of cathedrals.

One of the outstanding prophecies for 1928 is its progress in all forms of architecture, especially in public buildings.

The aged, especially those in the service of the public, should guard their health today.

A London astrologer repeats his prognostication that a new political party may arise and it may have its origin in a schism in one of the old organizations.

Neptune is held responsible for a tendency, which is to be more and more apparent, for churches and political organizations to be split into factions.

Corruption among public employees is likely to spread rapidly although much that is past will be uncovered. Again Neptune is blamed.

Wind storms and earthquakes are to be numerous this year and nature is supposed to reflect the mental condition of the people.

Sports today are subject to first rate influences that presage a season of great interest.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of anxiety regarding property, but they should prosper.

Children born on this day probably will be wonderfully endowed with brains and exceedingly given to religious study.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

For the girl whose Zorf a sign is the Bull, the belt, hat, sca apnd handkerchief shown here are propriate. The foundation color was beige and the embroidered motif was of brown. The pin of gold and silver shows the same lucky sign. Below is a linen handkerchief trimmed at one corner with a lucky elephant device in filet lace.

To wear one's monogram on sweater pocket or handbag was a personal touch affected a few years ago. Now to be really up to date you must wear the sign of the zodiac, under which you were born, on the corner of your handkerchief, at one side of your hat, on your sweater or on your belt. And though you may consider claims for personal influence of zodiac signs pure tommy-rot you'll probably admit that the idea is a clever one. It really is surprising that the idea of using the emblems of the zodiac signs for decorative purposes on women's clothes and accessories never prevailed before.

Some of the shops are selling colored crepe de chine handkerchiefs with painted signs of the zodiac on the corners. The idea is that if you carry a handkerchief bearing the sign of your own particular planetary period you will have good luck. They make amusing gifts.

The sketch shows a hat, scarf, handkerchief, belt and pin all bearing the emblem or hieroglyph for the sign of the bull or Taurus—suitable for those born in the latter part of April and the first part of May.

Jane Regny of Paris—noted for her distinctive sports apparel— has been showing belts, each with the whole series of Zodiac signs done in embossed metal.

To reproduce the full sign to which your birthday entitles you would require some skill as an artist, but the heiroglyphs are extremely simple—all as simple as the Taurus sign shown in the sketch Next week I shall have ready for you designs for these various signs, suitable for appliquee and embroidery work, with a chart showing just which sign you are entitled to.

This is the pattern diagram that comes each week with the Mary Marshall fashion service.

HERE IS YOUR SIGN OF THE ZODIAC

THE word zodiac comes from two Greek words meaning "little animal," and though we take the names and devices from the ancient Greeks most of them are of Babylonian origin. From remote times the belief existed that the various "signs" brought good luck to those born under their influence.

Now the interest in these symbols has been revived and here and abroad women are wearing their proper signs as decorations in a variety of ways. They are made in metal ornaments for the adornment of hats. Embroidered they appear on overblouses and handkerchiefs, and they are worked into the design of some of the new sweaters. Some of the new silks are printed with the signs and made into court-plaster patches that are worn on the legs to show beneath transparent stockings.

The signs themselves are sometimes used—but the simplified symbols of the signs are more appropriate for many purposes and are much easier to reproduce.

You will see below a list of the different signs of the zodiac, with the dates for which they are used. Number 1 in the small designs is Capricorn, the goat. Number 2 is Aquarius, the water bearer, and so on.

The larger sketches suggest ways of enlarging the little symbols as you might use them on frocks or hats. You can outline or work them solid, or paint them.

1—Capricorn — December 21-January 21—Goat.

2—Aquarius—January 21-February 19—Water bearer.

3—Pisces—February 19-March 21—Fishes.

4—Aries—March 21-April 21—Ram.

5—Taurus—April 21-May 22—Bull.

6—Gemini—May 22-June 22—Twins.

7—Cancer—June 22-July 24—Crab.

8—Leo—July 24-August 24—Lion.

9—Virgo — August 24-September 24—Virgin.

10—Libra—September 24-October 24—Balance.

11—Scorpio — October 24-November 23—Scorpion.

12—Sagittarius—November 23-December 23—Archer.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE FRIENDS WHO JUST HAPPEN

There are friends who are friends through the days and the years,
There are chums of our boyhood that manhood endears,
There are friends who are links with the beautiful past,
Who were friends from the start and are friends to the last.
But many a time I as gently recall
The friends that I knew I knew hardly at all:
The friend in the smoker, the friend on the street,
The men in the world I just happened to meet.
We had only an hour for a smoke and a chat,
But we talked of our town, and our kids, and all that.
Neither mentioned his firm, neither mentioned his name,
But we found that our hearts and our hopes were the same.
Then we came to his stop, or the station was mine;
Neither mentioned his house, neither mentioned his line,
But the journey was short, and the morning was sweet,
Because of some fellow I happened to meet.

It's a busy old world, with a kindly old heart,
Though so swiftly we meet and so quickly we part.
I have walked many lands, I have sailed many seas,
And have found the whole world full of fellows like these.
So here's to you, brothers, wherever you dwell;
I hope business is good, and the kids are all well.
Though no face I recall, and no name I repeat.
God bless you—the men I just happened to meet.

HOW I DEVELOPED EFFICIENCY IN HOUSEWORK

by HILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

"I can remember when housewives put their clothes to soak Sunday night, in order to be the first in the neighborhood to hang out their washing on Monday morning. Then, 'wash day' was a whole day. Now, you can finish your washing in a few hours.

"Just put your clothes in a tub or machine full of snowy, foaming suds made from Princess Soap Flakes. Quickly these suds will dissolve the dirt and grease. They save a lot of the hard, back-aching rubbing. When you hang your clothes out, you will be proud of the white linens and bright, clean, colored things. White things will be snowy white and your colored clothes won't fade and 'wash out' if they are washable at all. Use Princess Soap Flakes for finest, daintiest garments because this pure soap will not hurt anything which can stand plain water. Economical too."

Maroons and Rangers Tied in Stanley Cup Series

RANGERS WIN SECOND GAME FROM MAROONS

Gotham Squad Defeat Montreal Team in Hard Fought Battle 2-1.

PLAY DEFENSIVE HOCKEY

Patrick Replaces Chabot in Goal After Latter Injured in Second.

MONTREAL, Que., April 9.—(Canadian Press)—The 1928 Stanley Cup series now stands tied, with the competing teams, Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers, each having won a game. The Rangers knotted the series count by scoring a gallant 2 to 1 overtime victory over the Maroons in the second game of the titular contests. A display of fighting defensive hockey, tempered with an ever-dangerous offensive, following the loss of their regular goalie, Lorne Chabot, early in the second period, was responsible for the Gotham squad's victory.

Lester Patrick, veteran manager of the New Yorkers, proved the hero of the game, for it was the wily Lester that donned the pads and replaced the unfortunate Chabot in the Ranger net for more than half the game. Patrick had never before played as goaltender in any kind of a contest, let alone a Stanley Cup game. He was game, however, and aided by the inspired display of the members of his team, led the blue-clad New Yorkers to a surprising and wonderful victory.

Chabot was injured early in the second period when Stewart sent in a high backhander from the left side of the net which caught the goalie full in the left eye. He fell to the ice and had to be assisted off. He was later rushed to hospital, where it was announced that he was suffering from hemmorhages of the anterior and posterior chambers of the left eye. It was also made known that Chabot would be unable to take part in any further games during the present series.

Refused Use of Outsiders.

Following the loss of their goalie, the Rangers applied for permission to use Alex Connell, Ottawa net-minder, who was in the rink. The Maroons refused this and also refused the New Yorkers permission to use Hughie McCormick, gaolie of the London team in the Canadian professional League, who also witnessed the game. The Montreal team averred that there was too much at stake to allow the opposing team the use of an outside goalie. They claimed that the Rangers should have been equipped with a substitute goalie, pointing out that the Maroons themselves, had carried Flat Walsh as spare net-minder for the past two seasons.

The Rangers had no substitute available, however, so Lester Patrick announced that he himself would enter the New York net. The veteran 44-year old mentor was given an ovation by the crowd when he finally made his appearance.

The score at the time of Chabot's unfortunate injury stood at nothing all. When the game was finally concluded after seven minutes and five seconds of overtime play, the Rangers, with Patrick at the helm and in the net, had won the game. Patrick's appearance evidently inspired his men to rise to hockey heights. The entire team immediately turned into a well-nigh perfect defensive machine, which tempered their brilliant defensive work with an ever-dangerous offensive. They were fighting mad following the injury to Chabot, and gave all they had to protect their heroic manager in the net. In their protection-giving act they were successful ,and the majority of the eighteen shots made directly on the Rangers' net during Patrick's tenure there, were of the easy variety, owing to the close-checking tactics of his team mates. In all, the Maroons had eighteen drives on Patrick, one of them slipping through for the tying goal late in the third period, after Bill Cook had put the visitors ahead thirty seconds after the start of the final scheduled session.

Scored for Maroons.

Stewart scored the lone Maroon counter when he snapped Hooley Smith's rebound past Patrick. The winning goal was scored after seven minutes and five seconds of overtime when Frank Boucher took a pass from Big Ching Johnson to shoot the disc past Benedict. He shot from the side and the puck was partially deflected past the goalie when it struck Hooley Smith's skate.

The management of the Rangers stated yesterday that they have once again applied to the Maroons for permission to use some outside goalie in the remaining cup series. They declined to state as to what would be done should their request be refused. It is expected that the Montreal team will make known a definite decision to-day. The teams:

REPLACE CHABOT WITH SUBSTITUTE

Rangers Will Have Goalkeeper From Some Other Pro. Hockey Club.

MONTREAL, April 9 (Canadian Press). — New York Rangers will have a goalkeepr from some other pro. hockey club to replace Lorne Chabot, the regular Ranger net guardian, whose eye was severely injured in the second Stanley Cup game on Saturday night.

The directors of the Montreal Maroons announced that they had decided to ask President Frank Calder to waive the rule of the league regarding the substitution of injured goalkeepers, and stated that they would confer with the heads of the New York Rangers to reach an agreement as to the relief player to fill the Ranger net for the remainder of the series.

When Chabot was injured on Saturday night in the second period, and it was seen that his left eye was in a serious condition and that he was certainly out for the series, it was suggested by the Rangers that they be allowed to send in some of the experienced goalkeepers who were spectators at the game, among whom were Alex. Connell, of Ottawa, and Hugh McCormick, of the London, Ont., minor league team.

There was considerable debate over the matter, while the spectators were becoming impatient. The Maroon management on the basis that they regard the series as much a players' affair as the club's, left the question up to the Maroon players. It was stated that the players decided that for the game on Saturday the rule of the N. H. L. governing substitution for injured goalies should govern, but they added a rider that they were willing to discuss the matter of another goalkeeper from some other club to fill the Ranger net in case Chabot could not carry on in the series, which it now develops he will not be able to do.

The attitude of the Maroons was influenced, too, by the fact that the Montreal club carries a substitute goalie for some emergencies, and has done so for two seasons, Flat Walsh having been called upon in that time to relieve Benedict.

Rangers' officials, while recognizing the N.H.L. rule governing substitution of an injured goalkeeper, appealed on the ground of precedent, Manager Lister Patrick, who led Pacific Coast teams in Stanley Cup games with N.H.L. champions in previous years, pointing out the occasions on which the Westerners had allowed Eddie Gerard, then a star with Ottawa, to play for Toronto during part of a series, which the coast team lost, largely, Parick claims, through their sporting offer to allow Gerard to compete until the injured Toronto player was ready to compete again. He also instanced precedents in which Sprague Cleghorn and Billy Boucher had been allowed to play for eastern teams.

Quebec Beavers Win From Ottawa Champs

MONTREAL, April 9 (Canadian Press). — Beavers, juvenile absketball champions of Quebec, advanced one step further along the road to the Dominion title when they defeated Technical High School, Ottawa District champions, 34-13, in the return game of a home-and-home series here on Saturday night. The Ottawa District champions won the first game at home, 35-23, but by their win on Saturday night the local champions easily took the round by a 57-49 score.

Goodman of Quebec was easily the outstanding player on the floor, and with 11 points to his credit led the scorers of both teams. Silverstone got nine points and Rosenthal six. Purdy at right forward for the visitors, although the smallest man on either squad, was high scorer for his team with seven points. Wilf. Toole refereed the game.

NEWS OI SPORT

Most of the amendments in amateur softball rules were received with favor at the annual meeting of the Ontario Association held recently.

Peterborough is now represented well to the fore in baseball circles. H. T. McFadden is president of the Central Senior Baseball League, while Jack Sullivan was recently elected first vice-president of the Ontario Softball Association.

The introduction of a softball league of late years in the public schools has somewhat dampened the spirits of those who are supporting the development of the youngsters in hardball. If the softball league continues in the schools, where will the players for our ball teams of the future come from? A hardball league in the schools would give the youngsters an early training and develop any budding young stars for the senior teams.

All over Ontario organized school sports are being boosted and are rapidly claiming a great deal of attention in some districts. The Ontario championships are being held this year on September 7th at which any public or high school student can compete providing he has a certain proficiency in his studies. The high school events are divided according to age into three divisions. Interest in track and field events has been lacking around here for a few summers, and it is felt an interschool competition would perhaps get the youngsters interested and help revive the old spirit.

Deloro's intermediates want to step up with the seniors in the Central League this summer. They certainly put up some lively arguments last summer, and whatever league they enter fans can be assured that they will be right there with the goods.

SENIOR BASEBALL MEETING TO-NIGHT

All Players and Others Interested Invited to Attend.

Everybody interested in senior baseball is reminded of the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 o'clock to-night to discuss plans and prospects for the season. All players are especially invited and youngsters who would like to make the jump into senior company will receive a hearty welcome at this meeting.

LIVERPOOL DEFEATS HUDDERSFIELD

English League Soccer Matches on Saturday Played in Ideal Weather.

LONDON, England, April 9. Canadian Press Cable. — Soccer football matches were played in England and Scotland on Saturday in ideal weather and huge crowds attended the games. Twenty-five thousand saw Huddersfield Town lose to Liverpool at Huddersfield, and incidentally lose the lead in the championship table. Their lapse was unaccountable, but perhaps an explanation can be found in the number of league matches and cup replays the team has been compelled to compete in the last three weeks. Huddersfield never got going and despite frequent reshuffling of the forwards it made little difference.

Liverpool led by three goals to nil at half time. Walsh added Liverpool's third. The Huddersfield counters came through Jackson, who was about the only member of the team who got anywhere.

Everton was lucky to get their draw from Bury which lifts them to the top of the averages again. Ball got a goal for Bury and Dean equalized only eight minutes from the finish. Dean missed a penalty earlier in the match. Thirty five thousand saw the game.

Blackburn Rovers had an off day like the other cup finalists, Huddersfield. Aston Villa's winning tally came from Armfield, who headed in in the 18th minute of the match.

Leicester City swamped Newcastle United. Chandler was the hero of the event, scoring no fewer than four goals for Leicester. Chalmers got the other counter. Hine registered for Newcastle.

Naturally the match between Arsenal and Tottenham Hotspurs at Highbury drew a capacity crowd. It was estimated fifty thousand were at the game. Arsenal had the misfortune to lose their goalkeeper, Lewis, who was carried off the field on a stretcher while Buchan was also absent. This probably explains their rather unexpected defeat. O'Callaghan got both the 'Spurs goals.

Thirty-five thousand Birminghamites saw their team defeat Portsmouth. Bond scored for Birmingham in the first minute and Ellis added another in the second half.

The Wednesday, fighting hard to escape relegation to the second division got a point by drawing with Derby County. Trotter and Seed found the net for the Wednesday and Stephenson and McIntyre goaled for Derby.

Another drawn game was that between Middlesbrough and West Ham United. Moore and Ruffell scored for West Ham and Carr for Middlesbrough in the first half. Ferguson tied up the match in the closing phases of the game.

RIVER TOWNS IN DANGER OF FLOODS

land, where the Tittabawassee River is on a rampage, was the hardest hit. Bottoms farm land for a stretch of nearly forty miles between the town and Saginaw was under water. At places the backwater was a mile wide. More than a score of homes in one section of Midland were flooded, and all roads leading into the place were under water.

At Sanford, Mich., on the Tittabawassee, similar conditions prevailed, with backwash flooding homes along the river and cutting off road communication.

Scores of farmers in the vicinity of Saginaw were marooned in their homes yesterday, but chose to remain at their posts in order to care for their stock. The Saginaw River, in which the Tittabawassee empties, was swelling rapidly last night, and fear was expressed that if the rise continues, much damage will be wrought in the residential section of Saginaw through which the river passes.

The Boardman River, in the vicinity of Traverse City and the Muskegon River also continued on the rise last night. Scores of persons worked throughout the day bolstering the levees, but numerous breaks resulted in addition, stretches of lowlands being flooded.

Decrepit Old Men of the Links Defeat Team of Young Players in Golf Match

ST. ALBAN'S, England, April 5 (Canadian Press). — The pride of Britain's young golfers was considerably shattered and the prestige of famous veterans correspondingly increased yesterday when ten old-timers gave a stiff beating to a team of young professionals.

The "decrepit old men of the links," including champions of an era when British golf ruled supreme, lost only one match to the youngsters.

James Braid defeated R. E. Ballantine five and four, while J. H. Taylor was beating Henry Cotton two up. Harry Vardon stopped B. Hodson four and three. Ted Ray and Abe Mitchell also turned in victories for the seniors, the aged Alec Herd lost to R. A. Whitcombe, but the juniors could find little consolation in the single triumph.

The losers showed superiority in only one department of play. They were longer from the tee.

MANY CHANGES IN BOTH LEAGUES

Yankees Will Have Fight to Repeat Victory of Last Year.

OPPOSITION STRENGTHENED

(By The Associated Press)

Major league baseball clubs face the opening of another campaign with many between season changes and in great physical condition, as the players wait at the barrier, two reasonable suppositions stand out, one in each league.

The New York Yankees, favored to repeat as champions of the American League, will have to fight for it. Last season New York swept to the championship, 19 games ahead of the nearest opposition. This season the world champions have given no convincing indications that they were better that they were in 1927, while the opposition has been strengthened.

The National League race, thrilling to the final moments last year, promises to be just as exciting in 1928. Pittsburgh, St. Louis, New York and Chicago have their supporters who confidently believe that they can win.

Will Stand in Way

The Philadelphia Athletics, Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers are expected to stand in the way of a Yankee runaway race.

While the American league second division places have been conceded, without their approval or consent, to Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston, with Hornsby at second, betional League clubs to places in the also ran class provokes an argument that grows heated as the opening of the season approaches.

Boston, with Oornsby at second, believes the Braves will be hard to beat, and Cincinnati fans see hopes for the Reds, with better pitching indicated by early returns. Brooklyn, well fortified with battery strength, pins its hopes to a team that has undergone radical revision. The pace at the moment seems too fast for the Phillies.

Pitching will tell the tale in both leagues before the final gun is fired. The heavy artillery of the Yankees must be silenced to get the American League champions out, while bidders for the choice positions in the National League are counting on their moundsmen placing them there.

Rumored Varsity Grads Stars Have Agreed To Terms From Montreal Maroons

MONTREAL, Que, April 9 (Canadian Press)—Rumors are current here that two stars of the Varsity Grads, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, had agreed to terms from the Montreal Maroons. The two players concerned are Dave Trottier, much-sought left winger, and Dr. Joe Sullivan, goalkeeper. Both President James Strachan and Manager Eddie Gerard denied that they had talked terms with the two Grads' players.

Trottier is on the reserve list of the Toronto team, and Sullivan of the Boston team, according to report, and if they were signed by Maroons it would mean probably a break in the agreement between a number of O.H.L. clubs regarding players placed on reserve.

It seems fairly certain that Sailor Herberts, formerly of Boston, but with Toronto the latter part of this season, may go to Detroit, who are offering a handsome price for the hustling centre player. Herberts was sought by Detroit at the time Toronto secured him from Boston, but were unsuccessful. Detroit need a centre badly and Herberts, who has a business in Windsor, Ont, is anxious to play for Detroit so as to be near his business as much as possible in the hockey season. If Herberts goes to Detroit, Jack Arbour will be thrown in with cash by the Detroit club, it is stated.

If Herberts goes to Detroit, it will mean an end to the reputed deal which was reported to be underway between Toronto and the New York Americans, in which Toronto was to secure Conacher and Billy Burch for Herberts and one other.

OTTAWA CLUB WINS ON ROUND

Engineers Refuse to Continue Game After 13 Minutes of Play.

DID NOT LIKE REFEREEING

OTTAWA, Ont., April 9 (Canadian Press).—When the Montreal Engineers' basketball team walked off the floor of the local Y.M.C.A. Saturday night at the end of thirteen minutes of play with the score 18 to 2 against them, and refused to resume the contest, the Ottawa basketball club team continued to play, although unopposed, and scored twelve more points to make the score 30 to 2, and so overcome the lead gained by Montreal in the first of the series at Montreal Wednesday night. Referee M. Appel then awarded the game and the round to the Ottawa team.

When asked why he withdrew his team, Colonel Harrison gave as his reason that he 'did not like the refereeing."

Following the first game of the series in Montreal, which the Engineers won 50 to 25, the Ottawa club protested on the ground that the floor on which the game was played was less than regulation size. Their protest was not allowed.

It is altogether likely further protests will be entered.

From the opening whistle the Ottawa team struck a fast pace and appeared to outclass the visitors. On only a few occasions did the Engineers gain possession of the ball and when they did they were checked so hard and fast that they were unable to take advantage of their opportunities. It may have been the larger floor that accounted for the brilliant play of the Ottawa team and proportionately handicapped the visitors, but local fans incline to the belief that the home team merely snapped back into form.

The teams and individual scoring for the thirteen minutes of contested play follow:

Ottawas.—T. Spear, 0; S. Farrell, 4; Don Young, 4; Dave Young, 10; E. Burke, E. Stanyar, J. MsNee, T. Langford, 0. Total, 18.

Millers Leading American League

MINNEAPOLIS, April 9 (Canadian Press).—The Minneapolis Millers went into the lead in the American Hockey Association championship series Saturday night when they defeated the Duluth Hornets in the fourth game, one goal to nothing. "Red" Stuart brought the 5,000 spectators to their feet in the third period when he drove the puck past Goalie Turner to end the long siege of scoreless periods that the Millers and Hornets played in the current series.

The goal brought to an end 262 minutes of scoreless hockey and climaxed one of the greatest battles ever waged between two clubs in this league. With a one-goal and a one-game lead, the Millers may clinch the league championship to-night by holding the Duluthians to a tie.

TORONTO, Ont., April 7 (CP).—The papers have been full of the wonderful annual skating carnival just over—"the greatest ice spectacle in the world, better than anything in Switzerland, Berlin or Paris. Those who skate there are not for profit but for adventure. This skating is an art. It looks easy and is desperately hard. After you work at it for a couple of years, patiently, you may be able to do the elementary school figures well enough to find a place in the carnival. It will be in one of the simpler courts doing edges and threes. This court will practise two nights a week for six weeks before the carnival and every night for the final week. When you are skilful enough for one of the ballets there will be eight weeks of training, and for the individual in both groups hour upon hour of private effort."

But it is when you aspire to solo skating that the test of courage really comes, for the solo skater trains as relentlessly as a fighter. You see Constance Wilson or Cecil Smith or young Veronica Clark or Elizabeth Fisher soar through a long swift spiral and it is entrancing in its effortless ease. But each of them has put in an average of five hours' work a day for weeks and back of that are months and even years of endless drudgery.

Mrs. Ellen C. Thomas Batstone of Sarnia, Ont., writes to a Toronto paper saying:—When I was a girl in my 'teens, I had a list of thirty-five figures which I had cut in the ice. One difficult figure then called the "double locomotive" step, I used to cut backwards, alone. I skated (for my own pleasure) for fifty years and over, and only missed one winter in all that time. I still have the skates I learned upon, but for figure-skating I used the spring skate, ground for the purpose.

When I was about seventeen I skated across the St. Clair river at this point (Sarnia) in three minutes. I think I am the only woman who ever did it in that time. The river had been blocked with ice, which was rough, but a thaw, a rain and a freeze-up made the surface as smooth as glass. About seven of us started, and, I being the leader, they timed me.

INDIANS WIN FROM QUEBEC

Take 5-0 Victory for Canadian-American Hockey League Championship.

ONE-SIDED GAME

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 9 (Associated Press).—Springfield clinched the championship of the Canadian-American Hockey League for the second successive year by defeating Quebec 5 to 0 in a one-sided game, the final of a four-game series, played here Saturday night.

Springfield entered the game one point behind Quebec, the total score of the three preceding games of the series being Quebec 7, Springfield 6. Last night's game lacked the close-drawn tensity of earlier games, Springfield taking the lead early in the game and scoring in every period, while they held the Canadian scoreless throughout the game.

Maracle was the first to score for Springfield, making his goal unassisted midway in the first period. Three minutes after the start of the second period, Goldsworthy scored the second goal, while Waite followed with the third in the same period on a pass from Maracle.

What chances there were remaining for Quebec vanished in the final period when Cawkell and Whyte added two more goals to the score, making the final score of the series 11 to 7 in favor of Springfield.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

Weasels, and How to Destroy Them.

Now, as a field-mouse destroyer we have come to the king of them all. I have found as high as twenty-seven adult field mice stored in a weasel's winter home. Yet of all the four-legged enemies our birds have, I know of none to compare with the weasel. But if I were to ask the experienced hunters of America if they know the weasel all would be disgusted, because the weasel is so common throughout this country. I was once in that class myself; I thought I knew all there was to be known about them. I had shot them out of the tops of trees, and dug them out of the ground; I had called them into the tile shed and even into the engine room; I had sat here in the woods and called them so they would come up and smell of the ends of my fingers; I had seen dozens of the little rascals in Northern Ontario when I had been hunting moose, and had sat down and called them across the creek to me. Yes, I thought I was well acquainted with them.

Now, when I come to think of it I am always reminded of a middle-aged, corpulent gentleman who once came to our tile yard. After he had his wagon loaded he climbed down over the wheel; as he struck the earth, he took both hands and pulled his loose trousers up over the dome of his constitution; then pushing his right hand down into his pants pocket he pulled it out full of what looked to be tobacco, Canada thistles and milk-weed chaff; after pouring this from one hand to the other and blowing the coarse gravel out, he tipped his mouth on top of his face, and raising his hand above, he let this junk roll into the cavity, just like throwing garbage into a skunk-hole. Then he turned and said, "Mr. Miner, do you know Mr.——?" calling his neighbor by name. "Yes," I replied, "I am well acquainted with him." "Well," he said, as he raised one hand and came towards me, "that is just where you are mistaken. Now, Mr. Miner, you think you know him, but you don't." Then raising both hands, he continued, "Now let me tell you who he is, Mr. Miner. He is a limb of the devil," and he continued coming closer and going from bad to worse, saying nasty, unclean things about his neighbor until this combination in his mouth was all churned into a dirty froth, with the over-splush slopping out the corners and running down his chin like tar boiling out of a hot-box on a manure-spreader. So I excused myself: The engine in the factory needed my attention.

So now, whenever I think of this man's conversation I always think of the weasel, as I was sure I knew him. To prove I didn't, the third year I raised pheasants these innocent-looking little vermin took over two-thirds of what were hatched. You talk about worms bothering the farmer's crops; they weren't in it. Really, these weasels bothered me more than the heavy mortgage that held my buildings down and took care of my insurance policy.

I watched them day and night. I shut the birds in so tight that they smothered in their pens, and yet the weasels got them. I sat on the fence and blew several into fragments with a load of shot, and would go to the house quite light-hearted; next morning likely I would find ten or fifteen more dead pheasants. I put traps everywhere and caught as many pheasants as weasels. I used all kinds of bait, and failed. I tried to call them, but no, no, I took young, live birds and put them in a small mesh wire cage and set traps on the outside, but nothing doing. At last I brought the pheasants near the house, and all hands watched them, and even then we lost some. I studied weasels night and day, but I was beaten. Where did they come from?

For there were weasels in the dooryard,
Weasels in the barn,
There were weasels in the hen-house,
Weasels all over the farm;
There were weasels in the engine-room,
Weasels in the shed,
And when I went to sleep at night
There were weasels in my head.

I could see weasels on the bare ground,
Weasels in the weeds;
I could see weasels in the pheasant-coops
Doing their bloody deeds;
I could see weasels coming across the road;
I could see weasels in the lane;
And in the morning when I awoke
I had weasels on the brain.

For in spite of all my determined efforts the weasels were increasing by leaps and bounds. Not that they were getting more numerous throughout the whole country, but they were simply attracted here by the pheasants, and it was no use, as there would be more and more next season. I thought I would have to give in, beaten. But Mr. Weasel had run up against a determined fellow to kill, and I was dying hard; and while it is not my intention to preach a sermon, yet I want to tell you what happened.

A few years previous to this, a dear little boy whom God lent to me for a short time climbed upon my lap, and putting his little arms around my neck with his sweet face looking into mine, pleaded with me to go to Sunday school with him and mamma. I unclasped his little arms one at a time, and told him to get down and go along as it was all right; but he insisted, stating it looked lonesome to leave me at home all alone. His sincere request took such a hold on me that I could not resist, and the very next Sunday found him and his father, hand in hand, on their way to the little old red school-house. And although against my will, as I had no schooling, but finally to my delight, in about three months I was teaching a class of boys. They, of course, did the reading, but I was general manager and furnished the brute force if required. It took us several Sundays to get acquainted, and when we read the 26th verse of first Genesis we were very much encouraged to know that we were given "Dominion over all." Now, dear reader, lest I forget I want you to know His promise in this verse is the foundation of a great percentage of my success in taming and controlling these so-called wild creatures during the last twenty years. Although the weasel had me beaten, yet my mind kept drifting back on His words, "Let man have dominion over all."

Eventually I thought, "Why did the weasel take the remnants of pheasants over to the rail pile, nearly one hundred yards away?" Yes, it was plain enough he was over there and knew that hiding place before he got the birds. Well then, if I had had a trap over there I would have headed him off. So I would reverse my plans, and instead of destroying their homes I would build them some as perfect as I knew how. So with bright prospects and a light heart I went at it again and built three weasels' houses as follows:

For each one I took four pieces of two-by-four scantling, three feet long, laid them down on the level ground, pointing these scantling east, west, north and south, but leaving them about six inches apart in the centre—just room enough to set a No. 1 or 1½ jump trap. Then I covered the top with old lumber and nailed it fast, leaving a hole in the centre about a foot square, right over the trap, which I covered with a loose board.

Now I had a weasel house, complete, six or seven feet square, the cover just two inches from the ground, with all the runs leading to the trap like the spokes lead to the hub.

I placed these three platforms around in the most likely places, two in the enclosure and one on the outside. I then threw pieces of stumps, rails, or anything I could find, around to make a complete weasel harbor. Then I scratched a hole out about an inch deep in the centre and put in a handful of soft hen feathers, and placed trap down on them, setting the trigger of the trap very light. Then I dropped two or three light feathers on top, making it appear like a perfect mouse-nest. I now put the loose board cover over. I set the traps early in the spring, but weasels did not come until I put the pheasants out. Then the real fun began, for I caught three in one trap in one day; this was in the trap on the outside of the enclosure. To prove to your satisfaction that my weasel story is not exaggerated, I caught fifty-seven weasels the first summer, and they only got four pheasants; for three seasons in succession I got over fifty weasels each year. But now they are so nearly exterminated that we only keep one weasel platform, as we call them, and catch two or three weasels a year.

Please let me ask you to excuse me for writing so much to say a little, but I want you to understand just how to head off this pest, as one weasel will kill as high as twenty or thirty young fowl in one night, and to know how to catch him the night before, instead of the morning after, is worth the price of this book a good many times a year if you have had a taste of my experience. And the great beauty of it is you cannot help yourself without helping your neighbor. Previous to my exterminating over ninety per cent. of the weasels in this neighborhood, some of my neighbors were almost discouraged trying to raise young turkeys, and, in fact, any domestic fowl, but to-day these complaints seem to be a thing of the past and the weasel annoyance, ancient history.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

JACK MULHALL AND DOROTHY MACKAILL, IN "THE CRYSTAL CUP", A DARING DRAMA THAT BARES THE SOUL OF A BEAUTIFUL GIRL, AT THE CAPITOL TONIGHT.

A "villain" who appears only in the first scene, but whose sinister influence is manifest during the entire story is an unusual feature of "The Crystal Cup", the feature attraction at the Capitol to-night.

The villain of the story, nameless and without a definite personality, provides a psychological menace throughout the entire plot.

Attacked by a brute at an early age, "Gita Carteret", the character played by Dorothy Mackaill, has the terrible scene stamped so indelibly on her mind that she never completely recovers and in her consciousness is developed a life-long hatred of men.

"The Crystal Cup" adapted from the daring novel by Gertrude Atherton, promises to be one of the most unusual pictures ever filmed.

WOLF'S CLOTHING.

In "Wolf's Clothing," the Warner Bros.' picture starring Monte Blue, the Regent Theatre has one of the most diverting pictures of the season. Founded upon Arthur Somers Roche's story, it tells a tale that recalls the spirit of O. Henry. For here New York is once more transformed into Bagdad-on-the-Subway, and once more adventure comes to commonplace people and turns them into types of true romance.

Like a character in the Arabian Nights, Barry Baline, a subway guard, is transported into scenes of great pomp and circumstance, and whirled through a night of mad excitement. The night is New Year's Eve and the place is New York. A gang of crooks are out to get $50,000 in loot and Barry Baline finds himself out to get the crooks.

Monte Blue is Barry and Barry is a role that suits Mr. Blue in every particular. A big husky, laughing roughneck, he plays with a rip-snorting zest that sweeps the adventure along into the realm of convincing probability.

Playing opposite him is Patsy Ruth Miller, as a society girl who wants to see life without a chaperone. She is out to capture her freedom. She captures, instead, the affections of the subway guard.

Other outstanding performances are given by John Miljan, Douglas Gerrard, Lee Moran and Kala Pasha.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JUMBLED LETTERS

"Well," said the Weasel as he laid down the piece of molasses cake, "so you want me to find a funny tree face, do you?"

"Yes," answered Uncle Wiggily, "I do! A funny face, with eyes, nose and a mouth, somewhere in that tree. It's a puzzle and if you can't do it you can't have Bunty's cake."

The Weasel crept farther out of his hole and looked carefully at the tree. He looked up among the branches, but he should have looked in the tree trunk near the roots, twisted and gnarled. For there you will find, if you will turn it upside down and look at the picture at the end of last night's story, a funny face hidden. But the Weasel wasn't as smart as you, perhaps.

He kept on looking, turning his head

this way and that way, and at last he snarled and said:

"There's no face in that tree! I don't want your old cake, anyhow! With that he slunk down into his den and went to sleep.

"Goodie!" laughed Baby Bunty. Picking up her piece of molasses cake she hurried on with Uncle Wiggily. The two were going adventuring and had been on their way, when Bunty dropped her cake which was taken by the sly Weasel. But before he could eat it Uncle Wiggily thought of a trick. "Now, let's see what will happen next," said the little orphan rabbit.

As they hopped along all of a sudden there was a rustling in the bushes and Bunty gave such a jump that she would have dropped her molasses cake again, only she hadn't any of it left to drop, for she had eaten it all up—to the last crumb.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, whose cake, having been eaten, was also gone. "What's the matter, Bunty?"

"Did you hear that?" whispered the little orphan rabbit.

Once again the bushes rustled and Uncle Wiggily was just going to pick up his pink, twinkling nose to throw it—Oh, excuse me, if you please! I mean he was just going to pick up a rock and throw it at whatever Bad Chap was hidden in the rustling bushes, when, all of a sudden, out crept the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School.

"Oh! how do you do, Lady Mouse!" greeted Mr. Longears. "Are you looking for Baby Bunty? I let her stay home from school this morning, as she knew her lessons, but I was going to send her this afternoon."

"No, I wasn't looking for Bunty," squeaked the Lady Mouse. "But Jackie Bow Wow has run away from school and I came out to find him."

"My goodness! Why did Jackie run away from school?" asked Bunty.

"Because he didn't know his reading lesson," said Miss Mouse. "I think he may have thought I'd punish him, but I wouldn't. I wish I could find him. I'd take him back to school and teach him to read.

Just then there was another rustling in the next bush, and this time out crept Jackie, the puppy boy.

"Oh! I'm so sorry I ran out of school," Jackie barked. "But I think it did me good, for now I can read very well. Show me something to read!"

Uncle Wiggily looked down the path and near a dark tree at the foot of a hill saw a queer sign on which the painter had jumbled the letters in a strange way.

"Jackie, see if you can make two words out of those queer, mixed, jumbled letters," said the rabbit gentleman.

"That is a good trick if he does it!" whispered the Lady Mouse.

"Bow wow!" barked Jackie. "This is very easy for me!" But it wasn't as easy as he had thought. Finally he had to stand on his head to make the jumbled letters come together properly to spell two words.

See if you can do it from the sign picture at the end of this story.

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XIX—The Pilgrims.

THERE has not been one St. Francis. There have been thousands of them. Some have turned their backs on the entanglements and problems of ordinary life and devoted their hole energy to religious service.

The larger number have attained their sublime characters through the duties and sacrifices of the common lot. These latter have left no record on the pages of history, but they have passed faith down through the ages.

Because of them we can forgive the cruelties of popes, the excesses of Luther, the burning of Servetus by Calvin, the bloody trail of inquisitions and "holy" wars. Despite the terrible shortcomings of the church, the noblest spirits of all ages have somehow found their inspiration in it. Their lives are its atonement.

Those institutions in our modern life which we look on as the best fruits of civilization had their roots—almost all of them—in the church. This is the fourth thing which must be set down to its credit.

At the very tip of Cape Cod rises a conspicuous monument erected both to commemorate a notable event and to serve as a guide for vessels bound for the ports of Boston or New York.

The event was the signing of the Mayflower Compact. The Pilgrims had not expected to need any such compact. They carried to this new continent a charter from the Crown authorizing them to found a colony in "the northern parts of Virginia," which meant New Jersey. But the Mayflower had been driven from her course by winter gales and was too much weakened to undertake the further voyage.

Needed Authority

They must land near where they were, as they did a few days later at Plymouth; and, since they believed that their charter was valueless in this part of the country, something had to be provided in its place. Already discontent had shown itself on the little boat. Some of the passengers were hired servants who began to say that, since the charter was void, they were no longer compelled to work their passage or be obedient to orders. Some sort of government must be established, and at once.

The Pilgrims learned all this on Friday night, November 10, 1620, Old Style, or November 20, New Style. On Saturday morning they assembled every man on the Mayflower, except two or three who died a few days later and may be presumed to have been too sick to attend.

Forty-one men, the minister and the magistrate, the freeman and the indentured servant, and every one signed the Compact. Their authority was stated to be "by these presents," which means by their free voice and equal vote.

Own Government

Under that simple Compact they organized their little army, legislated as to the ownership of shares in the red cow when she arrived, established limits within which roofs should not be made of thatch and thus imperil other buildings, settled small disagreements, and, when a murder was committed by one of their own number, summoned a jury, gave the culprit a fair trial, and sentenced him to be hanged by the neck until dead.

Thus seriously did they later regard their act in creating a government. And the whole thing was done in a few hours. Between Friday night and Saturday noon, there in the cabin of the Mayflower, the machinery was set up and put in operation.

Where had they learned the science of statecraft? Who had taught them to carry an empire in their brains and bring it forth full-fledged at a moment's notice?

Roosevelt Amazed

Theodore Roosevelt, in laying the corner-stone of the Pilgrim Monument, expressed amazement at the feat and asked the questions without being able to answer them. William Howard Taft, in dedicating the monument three years later, showed in his speech that he had given the Compact much more careful study than his predecessor, but he also expressed the same amazement. But on each occasion there was a second speaker: Senator Henry Cabot Lodge at the corner-stone laying, and President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard at the dedication. These two men gently corrected the failure of the two Presidents to understand. They answered the question: "Where and how did the Pilgrims learn to create a ready-made democracy?"

Said Doctor Eliot: "Although the signing of the Compact was a sudden act, caused by the refusal of the captain of the Mayflower on the day before to take his vessel through the dangerous shoals which lie off the southeastern coast of Massachusetts, and so to bring it to the Hudson River, where the English charter obtained by the Pilgrims before leaving Leyden authorized them to establish their colony, it was an act which their whole experience of their church in England and in Holland, and the essence of the doctrines taught by their pastor and elders, naturally led up to."

He went on to quote a paragraph from the teaching of the Pilgrim minister, Rev. John Robinson, and said:

"The whole doctrine and method of co-operative good will cannot be better stated today. . . . Everything that is good in modern socialism is contained in that single sentence, and nothing of the bad or foolish."

Tomorrow—"Heal the Sick."

If you remove "off-color" FILM from teeth

IT'S been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. Thus brushing failed.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. It is an enemy of teeth and gums. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Its action is to curdle the film and remove it. Then teeth regain their gleaming whiteness.

Leading dentists urge it. Druggists have it. Test sent free.

O.B.A.A. ALLOWS SUNDAY BALL

Western and Eastern Delegates Force Through Amendment.

DELORO MAN IN OFFICE.

The laws that stopped Sunday baseball were lifted from the constitution of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association at the annual meeting held in the Carls-Rite Hotel on Saturday, the deluge of delegates from the West and East swamping the Toronto and district vote. The Sunday ball controversy has produced a battle at the O.B.A.A. annual for many years as Border and Western baseball centres have always opposed the clause that restricted it while Toronto and other central locations were powerful enough to keep it in the code, but Saturday's session was ruled by Western delegates, with the aid of the Eastern representatives.

The power, which the combined forces of outside delegates held, swayed every vote, only one Toronto candidate getting a position on the executive and that was by acclamation. The presidency went to George S. Martin, of London, who beat Arthur Hillmer, of Oakville, while W. C. LaMarsh, of Chatham, took the first vice-president's office, Hillmer again being beaten. R. A. Elliott, of Deloro, was elected second vice, while the executive is composed of the following: T. J. Birney, Copper Cliff; Bruce Chick, Windsor; A. G. Emerson, Caledonia, and W. Wiley, elected by ballot with W. A. Smith, Galt, A. Hillmer, Oakville, A. J. Walsh, Toronto, and J. Turner, Toronto, selected by the president. W. J. Snyder, Hamilton, the new secretary, and C. K. Gullen, also of Hamilton, treasurer.

T. I. A. To Be Promoted.

Toronto was mostly interested in the T.I.T. application for senior rating and it was decided to have a special committee confer with the Industrials and the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association to consider the question. If the T.A.B.A. refused to promote the commercial clubs from the intermediate to the senior class, the O.B.A.A. has decided to give then a senior ranking for a year. The T.A.B.A constitution, which can only be changed at the annual meeting, keeps the T.I.A. in the intermediate series and with the O.B.A.A. temporary advancement the Industrials will have plenty of time to make proper application to the Toronto body before next year.

The meeting was one of the best in many years with a record attendance of delegates from all over Ontario. The debate on Sunday baseball was the big feature of the session and with heated arguments on both sides. The outside delegates were firm to their purpose of asking that baseball be allowed on the Sabbath, by naming numerous other sports, like golfing, badminton, tennis, and boating, that were freely indulged in on Sunday. The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of allowing Sunday ball, although the executive committee will have to sanction all games.

The power to change a sub-committee's ruling was granted the executive, and in future any decisions of the sub-committee's may be appealed to the executive at the next regular meeting, while special sessions may be called, if the president considers such an emergency necessary.

In future birth certificates must be either from the Ontario Government, Municipal Recorder, or a Church, which will prevent trouble of the past, when home-made documents have upset the Junior, Juvenile and Bantam series. The usual amendments to have sudden death games in all the minor play-offs was again defeated.

The amendment to hold the annual convention in different sections of Ontario every year was left over for consideration next season. The 1929 annual meeting will be held in London when the question will again be brought up. It was suggested to hold the meeting in Toronto, the West and the East alternately.

All the reports of the various officers and committees were considered favorable, the financial statement showing a balance in the bank of $2,713.

Transfers Ratified

Transfers were ratified by the executive as follows:

George C. Scott, Renfrew to Deloro.

L. D. Collins, Peterborough to Deloro.

R. St. Louis, Renfrew to Oshawa.

J. C. Quinn, Deloro to Oshawa.

M. W. Sutton, Flint, Mich, to Oshawa.

H. C. Hainer, Robertsville, N.C., to Oshawa.

In answer to an inquiry The Examiner states 23 members of 93rd band are residents of Peterboro.

Pte. Jack Foster, a Peterboro boy, with Mounted Rifles sent the following original poem from the trenches:

Out in a war-stricken country,
Shattered by shot and shell;
Thinking of home and loved ones,
And wondering if all is well.
With those we have left behind us,
Who are thousands of miles away;
Oh, what would we give for a letter,
That would bring the good news and say,
That all is well in the home we left,
And everyone feeling O.K.

Out in the rain-sodden trenches
Watching by night and by day
Watching for Germans but thinking
While our chums in their dug-outs lay,
That shrapnel may burst all around us,
And bullets whiz close to our dome;
But these things count as trifles,
When we get a letter from home.

So, mothers and wives and sweethearts,
And sisters and brothers as well,
Just think of the boys who left their home joys,
For a life better than Hell.
And when you have time at your leisure,
Around our fair city to roam;
If there is not much in it, just spare them a minute,
And send on a letter from home.

Kiwanis Show To Eclipse All Past Efforts

The Kiwanis Club, after a lapse of two years, is preparing to stage the biggest and best show ever given under their auspices. The production to be given at the Grand Opera House next week is described as a minstrel-musical revue. More than a hundred performers will be seen in the cast.

New and startling effects will be used in the show, according to Vern Morphet, who is chairman of the committee. This is the only production staged with amateurs using the new Radio Lite costumes and scenery. The flashing minstrels with striking and elaborate costuming, new songs and music, and the fastest dancing ever seen here will open the show. The second act will be devoted to sketches, and pleasingly staged scenes featuring some of Peterborough's best dramatic and singing talent, backed up with sixty local girls in the smartest dances and attired in beautiful costumes.

The Kiwanis Club committee, consisting of Charles D. Cook, Publicity, Frank Dawson, Tickets, H. Huffman, Properties, Isaac McNabb, Program, and Vern Morphet, Talent, met with Harrington Adams, the director, last week, and all are determined to put this show over big for the benefit of the underprivileged children. A preliminary rehearsal was held at the Lyceum Hall last Thursday, but rehearsals begin in earnest to-night at the same place. It is reported that the committee and cast have already had inquiries for tickets, and judging from the manner in which the various chairmen and helpers are organized, the Kiwanis Club intends to pack the house both nights.

After the meeting the committee went to the Opera House with Director Adams and inspected the stage. The local stage is large enough for the complete production, and thirteen sets of lines will be made ready to hang the different scenes. Owing to the talent available to the Kiwanis Club, certain groups are being enlarged, and it is fortunate that we have a theatre that will allow the big production to be staged to its greatest advantage.

20 Families Driven Out

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Colder weather has alleviated flood conditions at Searchmont, where the Goulais River yesterday overflowed its banks, and also in the Bar River flats east of the sault. Twenty families had been forced to seek shelter on higher ground, while canoes and other small craft, brought freely into use, provided the only means of conveyance in the flooded areas.

Two Drowned in North

NORTH BAY, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. W. Rutherford, wife of a North Himsworth farmer, and her 11-months'-old son were drowned in the swollen waters of Bear Creek near here yesterday. The woman and the child were swept into the creek while the father was engaged in rescuing another son who had been swept out of a light wagon when the father drove his team into the river approaching the bridge. Ordinarily Bear Creek is just a few yards wide, but recent thaws swelled it until it became a raging torrent.

Burnt River Still High

LINDSAY, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Burnt River, overflowing its banks since Saturday, to-day still flooded the low lying districts in this section. Kinmount village spent the night in darkness, the power house having been carried away by the greater current caused by the breaking of the Austin Mill dam at Kinmount.

BREAK UP DELAYED BY COLD WEATHER

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 9 (Canadian Press). — The freezing weather of the last two days will delay the break-up of the ice in the St. Mary's River and in Whitefish Bay for at least a week, it is said in marine circles here. The steamer Eades, which has been fast in Neebish Channel since last fall, moved about two thousand yards down stream on Friday, but was again held up there and has since been unable to move.

CATCHACOMA LAKE RESORTS EXPAND

Many Improvements Planned For Coming Season in North Country.

Catchacoma is to have a large lunch-counter tent with camping grounds and bathing parties. This will no doubt be a favorite resort for Peterborough people as well as American tourists. There may be a tent dancing pavilion too, it is said, all on the grounds east of the post office, near the lake. The new landlord, J. Pearson, is going in for extensive improvements, and will entertain a very large number of people this summer at Gull Lake, which is near Lake Catchacoma.

Cochrane's has new and beautiful cottages this year, and will rejoice the hearts of its many guests as of yore.

The road from Catchacoma to Gooderham is to be opened by the Government for motors, and will make a belt line for tourists.

The Windovers, as usual, are ready for the large patronage which they enjoy.

Catchacoma is the capital of the Mississaga waters, and is the beginning of a country not yet spoiled by too much picnicking.

HUSBAND LOST AT SEA

The picture of Mrs. Walter Hinchliffe with her daughter, Joan, and their pet dog was taken the day after the daring British aviator took off with the Hon. Elsie Mackay, daughter of Lord Inchcape, in the Stinson-Detroiter monoplane "Endeavor" in an attempt to span the Atlantic from east to west.

Forty Point Gain Made By Cast Iron Pipe

NEW YORK, April 9 (Canadian Press).—Disregarding a marked stiffening of call money rates, coincident with the calling of about $20,000,000 in loans, the stock market swept forward again to-day in response to a series of bullish demonstrations in several classes of stocks. Early gains ranged from two to eight points in the active issues, with U.S. Cast Iron Pipe soaring 40¼ points to a new high record at 300 on a turnover of only 1,100 shares.

Railroad shares were again heavily bought on the reported agreement of eastern executives on a four trunk line consolidation plane. New high prices for the year, or longer, were registered by Western Maryland Common and Second Preferred, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Kansas City Southern, Reading, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, Gulf, Mobile, and Northern and Delaware and Hudson, some of the gains running as high as 5½ points.

Cold In Wheat Belt Causes Rise In Prices

CHICAGO, April 9 (Canadian Press)—Influenced by unseasonable cold in the winter wheat belt, wheat values made a brisk early upturn today. Fears were expressed that damage had been done to new wheat in the more advanced sections. Opening ⅝ to ¾c higher, the wheat market later scored additional gains. Corn, oats, and provisions were likewise firmer, with corn starting at ⅛ to ⅛ cent rise, and continuing to point upward.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 144⅛, July 143⅛. Corn, May 98⅝, July 101¼. Oats, May 57, July 51⅛.

FISHERMEN ADRIFT IN DISABLED BOAT

TOLEDO, April 9 (Canadian Press). — Two Toledo fishermen are believed adrift on the wind-swept waters of Lake Erie to-day, without food and in a disabled cabin cruiser which has been unable to make port since Saturday. They are Herman Bush and W. Brown. The Flora, the boat in which the men are drifting, disappeared to-day from a point five miles off the beach where it was seen yesterday apparently anchored and unable to make shore because of low water and motor trouble. A rescue party which went to the place where the boat was seen, returned to-day, reporting they were unable to find trace of it.

JOE MILLER IN GOAL.

MONTREAL, April 9 (Canadian Press)—President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League announced to-day that Joe Miller, former New York American goalie, would replace Lorne Chabot in the Rangers' net for the remaining games of the Stanley Cup series. THE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND.

Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Having lived in the city of Brantford for a number of years, and having had in my congregation a large number of the pupils of the school for the blind, I beg leave to make an appeal for the public support of the concert which is being given by pupils of that school in the Opera House to-night. I have listened many times to concerts put on by these artists and can assure the public they are highly talented and cultured musicians; and on their artistic merits alone, they deserve sympathetic patronage of the citizens of Peterborough.

BIRTH.

DEYELL.—At Nicholls Hospital, April 8th, to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Deyell, 564 Bolivar street, a son.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAHAM—In ever loving memory of my dear brother, Edgar Graham, late of Pontypool; killed at Vimy Ridge, April 9, 1917.
He fell at his post like a soldier brave;
He answered His Majesty's call.
He sleeps far away in a hero's grave,
For his country's cause he did fall.
In the bloom of life, death claimed him.
In the pride of his manhood days
None knew him but to love him;
None mentioned his name but in praise.
Time may heal a broken heart,
Time may make a wound less sore;
But time will never stop the longing
For the dear ones gone before.
Earth, with all its joys and sorrows,
Soon to us will be no more;
There we'll cross the River Jordan
And meet him on the other shore.
—Inserted by his loving sister Edna and brother-in-law, Wesley Hayes, Cameron Street, Peterborough, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM.

(Inserted by Mrs. George Russel, and Her Family.)

On slow grief laden pinions, two years have passed by
Since he went to dwell in the mansions on high,
Two years, since from suffering, he found sweet surcease,
And kind heaven granted him grateful release.
From its fetters of flesh the worn spirit set free,
Winged glad flight to the land where no sickness can be.

For through green fields Elysian life's broad river flows,
And 'neath skies unbeclouded blooms Sharon's sweet Rose,
Naught of evil can enter, that heavenly zone;
There gladness and light for the righteous are sown,
But the bliss of that home, where the blood washed ones dwell,
No heart can conceive, and no mortal tongue tell.

He is far beyond now, earth's vain turmoils and fret,
Where peace flows like a river, but can he forget
The loved ones left behind, in lone sorrow and tears
To mourn, and miss, and yearn for him through weary years;
No, memory still with undiminished ray
Shall still shine on, and brighten an eternal day.

And true love immortal, as its blest Source Divine,
In Time or Eternity, knows no decline,
He has finished his trial course, nobly below,
And shall never return, but some day we will go
To meet him above, where the tears from all eyes
Shall be wiped, and united those long-sundered ties.

If through good, and through ill, we hold steadfast the faith,
Bear the Cross, follow Jesus, be faithful till death,
Live the life of the righteous, in duty and love,
Then the gateway to Paradise, death will but prove,
Where we'll meet him again, on that fair, fadeless shore,
Where sorrow and death, pain and parting, are o'er;
And a star-begemed crown, they for evermore wear
Who seek here His grace, and for glory prepare.

CHARACTER STUDY COURSE PROPOSED

Toronto Man Wants I.O.D.E. To Take Charge of Series in City.

Announcement of the concert to be held this evening in the Grand Opera House, in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was made at the monthly meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., held in Saturday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. The regent, Miss Olga Johnston, was in the chair. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Florence Adams.

A letter received from John Tully of Toronto made an offer with regard to a course in practical psychology and character study, with study of mental healing, public speaking and debate and parliamentary procedure from a psychological standpoint, this course to consist of 20 lessons and to cost $34.50, and to be preceded by a series of free, introductory lectures. Mr. Tully made two offers: one to pay his own expenses, such as hall rent and advertising, and to allow the Chapter twenty per cent. on sale of the study courses, the society to be responsible for any advertising other than newspaper publicity. The second offer was to have the Chapter handle the entire campaign, for which he would allow fifty per cent. of the proceeds.

The report of the treasurer was given by Miss V. McKeown, showing a total of $198.27 derived from the large bridge party held by the January-February group of the Chapter at the Empress Hotel.

The Regent, Miss Olga Johnston, was appointed as delegate to the Provincial Chapter meeting in the Royal Connaugh Hotel, Hamilton, from April 17th to 19th, with Miss Florence Adams as alternate. The sum of $30 was voted towards delegate's expenses.

Miss Johnston announced the draw for a fox scarf and two other prizes, a silk parasol and a leather hand-bag, to be made by the March-April group, with Mrs. C. S. Browne and Miss Margaret Cameron as convenors.

Miss Hazel Buller was appointed in charge of ushers for the Y.W.C.A. pageant at the Grand Opera House on May 5th and 6th, on a request for Chapter ushers from Miss C. Littlefield.

With regard to the recent get together party of the Chapter, held at the Empress Hotel, Miss Johnston thanked the committees in charge and all who had assisted in any way, also J. K. Hughes for the gift of a car used as a prize for the lucky number draw.

ACRE OF MARSH LAND FLOATS DOWN TRENT RIVER DURING FLOOD

Trees Growing On Piece of Land Which Grounds in Cove Above Bridge.

RIVER VERY HIGH.

Ice Is Moving Out Of Rice Lake —Roads in District Very Bad.

TRENT RIVER, April 10.—About an acre of marsh land covered with trees, broke away up the river on Sunday and made its way swiftly down stream, but fortunately got fast in a cove. If it had sruck the big bridge it might have caused considerable damage.

Traffic for cars is blocked again on the Havelock road near John Scott's residence. Some managed to get through, but the mud is very deep.

A terrific gale, accompanied by heavy rains, ushered in Easter Day. The river has risen alarmingly high, flooding the boat houses along the north shore above the bridge, and water has come up to a numebr of barns and woodsheds. The little bridge leading to the cottages on the Campbellford Island, is flooded on both sides, making traffic impossible. Peter Corkery's lot is almost submerged and the water is even with the main pier at the wharf.

Ice Moving Out.

BAILIEBORO, April 10. — The ice on Rice Lake began to move toward the mouth of the river during Monday morning's extremely high winds. At the north and east shores on Monday noon the ice had gone out several hundred yards from the shore. The great body of ice is almost similar to honey combed snow, and it will only be a short time now until it will be completely off the lake. Up to date it has been doing very little jamming against the shores or buildings, and it is hoped that the ice this year will do very little damage to the wharves or boat houses in going off the lake.

The highways and rural roads throughout the district are in the worst condition for many years. On Sunday evening a man was placed on the highway near the village and each motorist was stopped and warned that it was almost impossible to get through to Port Hope. The road gangs are, however, doing all within their power to assist the cars through the mud. It is likely that guides will be stationed on the Provincial Highway night and day to warn all motorists travelling from the north of the danger ahead. The terrible condition of the roads is no doubt due to the open wet winter up to February. As there was so little snow upon the roads the frost penetrated deep into the road bed. The traffic of heavy trucks and busses has also been exceptionally heavy between Port Hope and Peterborough during the entire winter.

ORPHANAGE GIRL IS ENTICED AWAY

Police Search All Through New Jersey For Girl and Abductor.

TRENTON, N.J., April 10 (Canadian Press).—The State police today broadcast an alarm throughout New Jersey for Patricia Grover, 14-year-old inmate of St. Michael's Orphanages at Hopewell, who was reported to have been abuducted on Sunday. The child was playing on the lawn when a man approached and asked if she wanted an Easter candy. Patricia accompanied him and neither has been found since.

Bridges Destroyed At Burnt River

LINDSAY, Ont., April 10.—(Canadian Press).—Owners of yachts and other boats on Cameron Lake removed them yesterday when the flood waters of Burnt River emptied into Cameron Lake and swept over the ice. Two bridges on Burnt River near the village were wiped out and some boathouses were carried away.

The C.N.R. operated from Lindsay to Fenelon Falls yesterday and will try to run a train between Haliburton and Kinmount Tuesday. The line between Kinmount and Fells Station is under eight feet of water in spots.

Passengers from the north, who are in Lindsay, are seeking redress from the company.

PENSION RULES TO BE CHANGED SAYS MR. PECK

More Sympathetic Treatment By Federal Member. For Veterans Predicted

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Assistance For Scientific Research Another Feature of Session.

That the two most important features of the present session of Parliament would be the passing of legislation providing for more sympathetic treatment of war veterans and the authorization of Federal assistance for scientific research was the prediction made to the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon to-day by E. A. Peck, Federal Member for West Peterborough. Mr. Peck, who gave a most interesting address to the club in regard to the duties of members of Parliament, also conveyed the information that the present session would not see any progress made in regard to the St. Lawrence development scheme.

The speaker, who was introduced by Rotarian John Crane, defended Parliament against the indictment that too much time was wasted in the transaction of public affairs. He declared that there were so many matters that had to be attended to that the 27 hours each week in which the House sat, were not long enough to permit greater speed. As an exhibit, the order paper for the final day before the Easter recess, was read to show the Rotarians how many different matters had to be dealt with. The two principal debates on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and on the Budget, took up a great deal of time, he explained.

Mr. Peck outlined some of the duties and privileges of private members. They had no rights, he pointed out, in regard to administration, but they had some limited privileges concerning legislation inasmuch as they were permitted to introduce bills and resolutions for the consideration of Parliament. The right to question the government was extensively acted upon by private members, however, and Mr. Peck read a number of the questions asked during the present session to show the wide range over which the government had to travel to produce the information demanded. "The government does its best to answer these questions," declared Mr. Peck, in commenting upon this feature of Parliamentary procedure.

Reviewing the legislation yet to be dealt with, the member for West Peterborough said that there was little doubt that the regulations in regard to pensions would be considerably broadened so as to ensure better treatment for Canadian ex-service men. There would be provision made for Government assistance for research work, and none too soon, in the opinion of the speaker, who pointed out that practically all the developments along this line had been made by private individuals, without government assistanec.

Rotarian R. G. Kingan expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Peck for his instructive address.

President A. L. Killaly, commenting upon the fact that this would be the last meeting at which Rotarian Dave Melton would attend, expressed regret at his departure and thanked him for his splendid services as editor of the bulletin for the past year.

In reply Rotarian Melton wished the Rotary Club every success and voiced his regret at having to leave Peterborough. While not a native of the city he had learned to look upon it as his home, he said.

Miss H. F. M. Court, who has been appointed head of the costing and accounts department of the House of Lords, is the first woman to be selected for an important administrative position in the British Houses of Parliament.

The Ministers of Afghanistan, Turkey and Persia, a group of Afghan students and two officials from the Berlin Foreign Office welcomed the party at the station.

PRESENTATIONS MADE.

Five new men began their careers as firemen when on Sunday morning, T. Baxter, George Gimblett, Watson Butcher, Ernest Jones and Garnet Brown, all of Peterborough, and all under thirty years of age, entered the brigade here. They replace H. Cooney, who has resigned, Lieutenant R. Wilson and George Crouter, who are now off the force, and F. Degan and J. Weyer, who though still in the service, will leave it after the summer holidays are over. The first three new men will be members of No. 1 platoon, and the other two will be listed with No. 2.

Presentations Made.

On Saturday night, at 6 o'clock, as the shifts were changing at the fire hall, two presentations were made, Bob. Wilson being presented with a smoker's set, and Herb. Cooney with a signet ring, from brother firemen. Fire Chief Gimblett addressed the men while the presentations, together with the best wishes of the brigade, were tendered by V. Carr.

The recipients, quite overcome with surprise made suitable acknowledgment of the gifts.

Whittaker was found by the fireman wandering about the backyard, blinded by the flames. His wife and three children were dead.

GOVERNMENT BILLS HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

House of Commons Resumes Sessions To-day After Easter Recess.

OTTAWA, April 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Government bills and estimates will have the right of way when the House of Commons reassembles here to-day. Few if any government measures remain to be introduced and the main discussion will be on supply. Many members of the Cabinet returned to the capital last night and to-day following the Easter recess. Several ministers, however, are still absent and are not expected to resume their parliamentary duties for a few days.

Rorin was a former resident of Bienville, Que., near Leves where he had been councillor and mayor. He was 51 years of age and is survived by a widow and eight children. Thivierge is survived by a wife and child. He was 32 years of age and a resident of Quebec.

FLOODS RECEDE AS COLD BLASTS STRIKE STATES

New York, New Hampshire and Vermont Threatened By High Waters.

BRIDGES DESTROYED.

Train Service Disrupted in Many Sections as Result of Washouts.

BOSTON, Mass, April 10 (A.P.)—Although streams throughout New England were above normal height, danger of floods appeared to have been averted by colder weather last night.

In Vermont, however, train service was still disrupted as a result of washouts which occurred where rivers had overflown their banks, while many highways were impassable because of deep mud. Train service between St. Johnsbury and Burlington on the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain Railroad had to be suspended yesterday when two bridges near Cambridge Junction were weakened by the flood waters.

Washouts on the line between St. Johnsbury and Wells River by Lyndonville were repaired during the day, so that trains were again able to operate over that route. There were many cellars flooded in St. Johnsbury as a result of the rise of the Passumpsic River, and a temporary bridge built at East Barnett after the flood of last November was swept away.

Reconstruct Tracks

Repair crews were laboring to reconstruct tracks washed out at several points in the Lamoille River Valley, where the high water also had damaged a temporary bridge between Morrisville and Wolcott and another linking Johnson and Hyde Park.

The Connecticut River, which had cut off train service into Colebrook, N.H., as a result of overflows between Lancaster and West Stewartstown, was reported to be dropping yesterday.

Railroads in Northern Maine found their service disrupted by the high waters. There were no trains on the Canadian Pacific line into Caribou because of the swollen streams in that vicinity.

The St. John River, which flows along the border of Maine and New Brunswick, had risen more than ten feet since Sunday night at Van Buren, but had caused no serious damage.

Dam Bursts

PARRY SOUND, Ont, April 10 (Canadian Press)—About two o'clock yesterday afternoon a part of the dam on the Seguin River at the town power plant gave way under the force of a great torrent of water which has been rushing down from the north for the last forty-eight hours. A washout at the Manitowaba dam eleven miles from here is supposed to have caused the onrush of water and ever since Saturday night gangs of men have been busy trying to avert a washout on the west wing of the dam here by reinforcing it with sand bags and timbers but at four o'clock yesterday morning the flood overcame all bounds, sweeping away the road on the north side of the bridge and making a fine course for the mighty torrent that is still sweeping down past the power house. When the break in the dam occurred yesterday afternoon, the power was immediately turned off, but it is hoped that the power house may yet come through uninjured. The only residence endangered by the washout was quicked vacated and the part of the Canadian National track which it was feared was in danger of being undermined has been fortified with rock. Country roads north and west of here are flooded at places. The water from inland lakes is being diverted. It is altogether the worst experience that this part of the country has had for many years.

$100,000 Damage

SHERBROOKE, Que, April 10 (C.P.) — With flood conditions greatly improved as compared with yesterday morning, residents of the Eastern Townships affected by the high waters of the past two days were last night totalling up the damage, and it is estimated that it will amount to in the neighborhood of $100,000. This sum includes personal property loss suffered by residents, and storekeepers, damage to roadways and the expense of repairs to railways.

With the breaking up of the ice jams on the St. Francis River, the flood level all yesterday has been hourly diminishing. In East Sherbrooke the water yesterday afternoon went down three feet, while reports from Richmond, where in the lower section of the town the flood waters reached a depth of six or seven feet, state that conditions are greatly improved. The breaking up of the ice jams, coupled with a decided drop in temperature, relieved the situation. However, the colder weather brought additional trials to those who suffered from the flood. Many residents, both in this city and in Richmond, with their cellars flooded by the high water, experienced considerable suffering from the cold as a consequence of not being able to keep their home fires burning.

BARON WANTS TO START ON LONG FLIGHT

Von Huenefeld Anxious To Take Off On Trans-Atlantic Flight.

DANGER IN TAKE-OFF.

Companions on the Expedition Refuse To Take Any Unnecessary Risks.

BALDONNEL AERODROME, IRELAND, April 10 (Canadian Press). — The German plane Bremen will not start its trans-Atlantic flight to-day.

BALDONNEL, Irish Free State, April 10.—(Associated Press.) — An even fortnight of waiting has impressed the German-Irish crew of the Junkers monoplane Bremen with the perils of crossing the Atlantic from East to West. Captain Hermann Koehl and Col. James Fitzmaurice, pilots of the machine, have one characteristic in common despite their unrelated nationality. They are determined that the flight shall be as scientific as possible with the meagre meteorological reports that are obtainable respecting flying conditions over the Atlantic ocean.

Oddly enough, this truly German methodical and painstaking precaution does not appeal to Baron von Huenefeld, the youthful promoter of the venture. He is like a hound straining at a leash, the tie that binds him to Irish soil being the firm refusal of his two companions to take any unnecessary risk.

Danger in Take-off.

One of the greatest dangers in the whole flight will be the hazardous task of getting the Bremen off the ground. Fully loaded, the plane will weigh five tons. Half of the weight, however, is fuel and the further the machine goes, the less dead weight burden it will have to carry.

Captain Koehl fully realizes the dangers that will attend the take-off and yesterday an expert from the Junkers factory in Germany arrived here at the captain's request to study the four runways which are available at this field. He is also to advise whether the Bremen's unique undercarriage should be used.

Irish airmen, for all their native venturesomeness, were surprised when they learned that this undercarriage, consisting of two wheels like motor bicycle wheels, has never been tested with the Bremen fully loaded. On the trip from Berlin to Dublin, the plane carried only a third of its full cargo of fuel.

The undercarriage is fixed under the tail of the machine. The Junkers expert has been asked to calculate the stresses and strains to which the entire plane will be subjected at the time of the start.

The Baldonnel runway provides a 2,000 yard strech for the getaway. Captain Koehl wants a speed of 80 miles an hour before he attempts to get the wheels off the ground. He said to-day, however, that 700 yards should prove sufficient run to make the hop possible.

FEARED SOME ONE SWEPT OVER FALLS

Police and Residents Heard Cries Out in Niagara River Late at Night.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 10 —Canadian Press. — The authorities were investigating to-day to determine if anyone was swept over the Falls with the ice floes during the night. Shortly before last midnight residents of the Lasalle section, an I the police stationed there, were attracted by cries for help coming from far-out in the upper Niagara.

A search by the police and rivermen, failed to reveal any trace of persons in need of assistance. The glare of a flashlight as it was turned on and off was also seen, but no objects, could be discerned by the watchers.

IS PURCHASING CATTLE

New Jersey Buyer Visits Hastings County—First Plowing Done.

STIRLING, April 10.—As another evidence of the fact that Hastings County is one of the leading dairy counties in Ontario, H. H. Bair, of Heightstown, New Jersey, is in this vicinity purchasing a carload of Holstein cattle, young and milch cows, and is paying around one hundred dollars for the milkers. He is accompanied by a veterinarian, and has the animals he purcahses subjected to the T. B. test. Millar Call is directing the party where they are most apt to find the animals they desire.

Mortimers Return After Trip Abroad

NEW YORK, April 10 (Canadian Press).—Mortimer B. Davis, Jr., and Mrs. Davis, the former Roszika Dolly, of the Dolly Sisters dancing team, arrived here yesterday on the steamship Leviathan. He is the son of Sir Mortimer Davis of Montreal, who died at Cannes March 22, leaving an estate estimated at $150,000,000.

William Hayward, attorney for Mr. Davis, denied reports that his client had been disinherited in his father's will and that the bulk of the fortune would go to the widow, his stepmother. There had been a complete reconciliation before Sir Mortimer's death, Mr. Hayward said.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CONVENTION

Presbyterial Conference Being Held at St. Paul's To-day and To-morrow.

BANQUET TO-NIGHT.

At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church there was in progress this afternoon and evening a convention to which the young people of the entire Peterborough Presbytery have rallied at the call of President J. Townsend, of Hastings, who, assisted by the vice-president, Miss Wilson of Keene, and the secretary-treasurer, Horace Hope, of Peterborough, has played a big part in arranging it.

The afternoon session opened at 3 o'clock, with Rev. J. C. Grier, of Campbellford, in the chair, and representatives from such places as Hastings, Warkworth, Colborne, Port Hope, Campbellford, Bowmanville, Keene, Cobourg, and Peterborough present. A brief but impressive devotional period concluded with prayer by Mrs. William Allan, and Scripture reading by Adam Sands of Peterborough, was followed by an address of welcome delivered by H. B. Cowan, also of this city.

Dr. Kannawin Spoke.

The introduction of Dr. Kannawin, whose address will appear to-morrow, fell to the lot of the chairman who, briefly but comprehensively reviewed the steps leading up to the speaker's coming to address this convention. His remarks were most complimentary to the visitor.

Group discussion under five groups was the concluding item, but quite as interesting an event as any on the program; for in it, the problems of organization were discussed by H. B. Cowan, the desirability of co-operation being stressed and election of officers dealt with, social activities outlined by Mrs. Scott, and program work, though last of the five, proved most interesting when in the hands of Perrin Rork.

Hold Banquet

At 6.30 a get-together banquet is being held in the Sunday School hall. Among those present are the delegates from Keene, namely, Kathleen, Hazel, Herb. and Allan Thompson; the Rev. J. The account of the evening serrvice at which was presented a bright and varied program, will appear in Wednesday's issue.

Trouble Is Frequent In Chicago Election

CHICAGO, April 10 (Canadian Press). — One shooting, several kidnappings, ballot box stuffing, and minor disorders were reported today less than two hours after the polls had opened at the close of Chicago's hottest and most vituperative primary campaign.

Perfection of Past In Old Church Wood

ST. THOMAS, April 10.—Workmen engaged in the renovation of the 105-year-old St. Thomas church found two exceptionally well-preserved mementos of the past yesterday when removing the old facia boards. They are the original wooden eavetroughs erected on the historic church. Each is made from a 40-foot hand-hewn pine log, 8 by 12 inches. The tops were neatly scooped out to form the troughs, while the sides were hand-carved in pleasing design. The old eavetroughs are being preserved as evidence of the excellent craftsmanship obtaining a century ago.

LITTLE CHANGE IN LEVELS IN OTONABEE RIVER TO-DAY

McDonald Lumber Company Unable To Operate Box Factory.

HIGHER IN UPPER LAKES.

No Trouble Yet Met, Although Tributary Streams Are Running High.

Flood conditions in the city have not changed considerably from yesterday although there has been a slight raising of the water in some sections. The water in the upper lakes has risen from two to five inches since yesteray and the discharge of water is higher than it has been since 1870.

Water conditions in the south part of the city have been rather serious since yesterday afternoon. The MacDonald Lumber Company is unable to oprate the box factory as the water has risen so high that it flowed into the cellar and submerged the motor and shafting. George street wharf was completely flooded, the water being up around the waiting room. At Ryes pavilion, conditions were found to be the worst and Mr. Rye was getting ready to move out. The water gradually rose up the bank of the river during Saturday and Sunday, and by 4 p.m. yesterday it was up to the very steps of the pavilion, and flooding around the building. The lower locks dam was practically submerged and the water was within a few feet of the C.N.R. bridge. The back part of the C.P.C. yard was flooded and the small sheds to the south almost floating away. Never before has the water been known to be as high in the James Stevenson park.

Conditions up the river were not as bad. The Goose pond appeared to contain a greater amount of water than usual, and the water was flowing over the Quaker Oats dam in great torrents. Farther north all dams were quite full, but no trouble was reported.

River Highest Since 1870

"The discharge of the Otonabee River is to-day higher than it has been since 1870," Superintendent A. L. Killaly announced to-day while speaking at the Rotary Club. 'Since that year the highest recorded discharge of the Otonabee occurred in 1922 when the discharge amounted to 12,700 cubic feet per second. The discharge to-day is 15,400 and is increasing. This, however, does not fully express the magnitude of the existing freshet, for water is being stored on Stoney Lake to the amount of 2,700 cubic feet per second; therefore for purposes of comparison with 1922 the natural flow may be regarded as 18,100.

"It does not appear that the discharge has yet reached its peak, for the following lakes have risen since yesterday:

Cameron Lake, 5 inches; Sturgeon Lake, 2 inches; Buckhorn Lake, 3 inches; Stoney Lake, 5 inches.

"Slight reductions in the inflow to the Kawartha Lakes is to-day observed in the Gull, Burnt and Scugog Rivers.

There have been many rumors to the effect that dams have been carried away, causing the present conditions. These rumors are entirely unfounded, for up to the present all of the dams under the control of the Department of Railways and Canals are intact and functioning. The only dam which has been carried away is the dam at Kinmount. As there is little storage above this dam its destruction has in no way affected the volume of freshet."

. . . . . Recession General. . . . . .

Reports received to-day by Canadian Press from the Eastern Canadian district suffering as a result of rivers and creeks overflowing during the past few days indicate that in nearly all instances the swollen rivers are receding and persons forced to leave their homes are returning. No further deaths directly traceable to flood conditions in the various provinces were received to-day, and the list of victims stands at six, four in Quebec and two in Ontario.

No authentic estimate of the total damage caused by runaway streams has been made, but it is expected that the sum will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The losses were particularly heavy in the Province of Quebec.

Indications from the eastern townships of Quebec to-day pointed to quick release from the menace caused by the rising waters of the St. Francois and Chaudier Rivers, and it is estimated that the damage in this area will reach more than a hundred thousand dollars. Railways in the province, with the exception of the Beauceville branch of the Quebec Central, are again functioning normally.

All danger is past in the Ottawa district where the Ottawa River and its tributaries caused extensive damage during the past few days, and residents of Pembroke, Renfrew, and other towns and villages are busily engaged in clearing the debris and effecting repairs caused by swirling waters.

While conditions are serious in the vicinity of Parry Sound, officials are confident that the Seguin River waters have reached their highest mark.

A sudden drop in temperature checked the rise of the St. John River at Fredericton in New Brunswick, while the Naswaak River was lowering following the destruction of a dam near the Durham Bridge.

Alleged Kidnappers Indicted At Chicago

CHICAGO, April 10 (Canadian Press).—Eight alleged members of the kidnapping ring which held Thomas Gaynor, wealthy automobile dealer, and hotel owner, a week and negotiated for his release for $100,000 ransom were indicted yesterday. If found guilty, their maximum punishment could be electrocution.

Six of the reputed kidnappers in custody were arraigned and pleaded not guilty. They are Frank Carson, James O'Brien, William "Big Bill" Lewis, Harry Burton, Otto Schoen and Herman Harms.

All but Burton were remanded to jail, as the offence upon which they were held is not bailable. Burton was taken to detective headquarters for further interrogation.

James Albert Reynard, of Harvey, Faces Charge of Attempted Murder.

REMANDED FOR WEEK.

Cut Wife in Arm During Quarrel at Their Home Near Bobcaygeon.

James Albert Reynard of the township of Harvey appeared before Magistrate Langley this afternoon, charged with attempting to commit murder, and causing actual bodily harm to his wife, Beatrice Reynard, on Monday, April 2nd. J. A. O'Brien has been retained by the accused, and though he was ready to go on with the preliminary hearing this afternoon, the Crown through Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, asked for one week's adjournment, as the wife is still in the hospital in Lindsay, and may be for some time.

Reynard is 46 years old and his wife 26, and a bride of one month, when the offence is supposed to have been committed. The two were taken to Lindsay, where she was put in the hospital, and he was retained in the jail on a charge of vagrancy.

It took fourteen stitches to close the wound Mrs. Reynard received The two had their home in the Township of Harvey, very near the Victoria County boundary and he worked in Bobcaygeon.

Provincial Constables N. F. Maker of Peterborough, and Wetheral of the County of Victoria, investigated the case during the week-end, and as a result of their investigations a charge of attempted murder was laid. Constable Maker brought Reynard from Lindsay this morning.

STIRLING COMMUNITY HALL IS CROWDED FOR OPENING

FORMAL OPENING LATER.

New Community Centre is Splendid Building, Well Fitted For Use of Citizens.

STIRLING, April 10. — Practically five hundred enthusiastic citizens of the village of Stirling and vicinity were present at the opening of the theatre in the new $30,000 Community Hall, of which they are justly proud. The management had not expected an absolutely full house, but with the exception of perhaps twenty "singles" at intervals throughout the auditorium there were no seats available when the curtain rose on the silver screen. The picture for the occasion was "Ben Hur," the Metro Goldwyn-Mayer screen adaptation of the immortal story by Gen. Lew Wallace. For two hours and forty minutes this great screen production held the undivided attention of the entire house. When the picture ended, all who had seen it were of the same opinion, "The best picture that will ever be shown in Stirling." To such an extent did some appreciation mount that many have secured seats for the second showing to-night.

Midway through the picture there was a brief intermission of about six minutes. Reeve Thomas Montgomery took this occasion to express the appreciation of the managers to those who were in attendance. He hoped they would enjoy this first picture, and the others that were to follow as time passed. In his opinion the picture was very seasonable, and, just as the event of last night marked one of the greatest in the history of Stirling, the picture, "Ben Hur," told the story of the greatest event of all history. The opening last night, he said, was not considered by the managers to be the formal opening and dedication of the building. This event would not take place till later in the season, when the condition of the roads in the district had improved. At the present time, many are practically impassable.

Among those who officiated at the opening night were: Donald Morton, Clinton McGee, Gordon Bailey, Thomas Ackers, Ivan Morton, George Tulloch, Ned Potts, and Duncan Marshall, ushers, and G. L. "Jerry" Clute pianist. Frank Sprentall has the honor of being the first operator to run the machines in the new theatre.

Mrs. Margaret Ward, Mrs. Walter Barber, Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Grace Ackers, Betty McGee, Duncan Marshall, and Harold Chambers received free seats for finding the twenty words having each an extra letter and located somewhere among the advertisements in the local paper, the News-Argus.

The committee responsible for the theatre and building consists of Reeve Montgomery, Councillor W. H. Patterson, J. S. Morton ,Dr. C. F. Walt, representing the Board of Trade, Mrs Clinton McGee, representing the Women's Institute, Mrs. C. W. Thompson, representing the Agricultural Society, and Mrs. J. B. Belshaw, who represents the Horticultural Society. The theatre bookings will be in charge of Reeve Montgomery and J. S. Morton.

The building is of brick and hallow tile construction on a concrete foundation. It is finished in stucco and rough cast materials. Its situation on the south side of Front street on the properites formerly owned by Mr. O'Flynn of Belleville and Miss Parker of Stirling is practically the centre of the town, and, as such, is ideal for a community hall. Although its cost was approximately $30,000, a manager and owner of a city theatre expressed the opinion that $50,000 would be a reasonable price if the building were for sale. In a city, he said, it would be worth much more.

Under construction since the first week in August, 1927, the building which opened last night will be operated for and by the citizens of the town who are represented by a management committee. Profits are to be devoted to community finances.

The theatre with its seating capacity of five hundred, occupies the major portion of the building. It is of modern construction from the street doors of the foyer to the rear wall of the stage. The foyer is wide enough to accommodate hurrying theatre goers even in the last moment rush for seats at the two box offices one on each side. Rows of pictures along the walls in oak frames advertise present and coming attractions. Opening off the foyer are accommodations for ladies and gentlemen. In the ladies' rest room, a nursery is included for the use of mothers with small children.

The floor of the auditorium is of the modern, sloping type with the seats arranged so that every one may have a full view of the stage. The stage itself is approximately 32x22' and has been equipped at a cost exceeding $1600, the foot lights are of three colours and the entire stage lighting is controlled by a modern sixteen-circuit switch cabinet. For moving pictures, the most modern material has been used in constructing the "silver screen". Dressing rooms for small troupers are also included in the theatre. The orchestra pit will accommodate a fair size group of musicians.

C.G.I.T. DISCUSS CANADIAN POETS

Millbrook Group Hears Inspiring Talks—Pleasant Program.

MILLBROOK, April 10.—A study of Canadian Poets was taken up at the regular meeting of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group, held at the home of the president, Miss Elsie Spence. Miss Wilma Fallis giving a brief outline of the life of Jean Blewett, and reading two of her poems, "The Passage", and "What Time the Morning Stars Arise." Miss Elinor Fallis gave a talk on the life of Archibald Lampman, reading one of his poems, "April in the Hills" and also took up a sketch of Isabella Valancey Crawford and read from her works.

Following the usual opening and business period in which the treasurer, Miss Elinor Fallis reported nearly thirty dollars in the bank, the Easter story was read from the last two chapters of Matthew and a number of girls led in prayer.

Two contests, jumbled names of Canadian authors, and fitting the names of world writers to the questions asked, appropriately followed the program, after which music and the serving light refreshments brought a very pleasant evening to a close. The group will meet with the Golden Links Mission Circle at its Easter meeting this week, the gathering to be at the home of the president, Miss Jean L. Burnham, with Rev. Joseph Wilks giving the address.

The regular group meetings have unavoidably withdrawn for the past three weeks owing to serious illness in the leader's home, the girls themselves planning, and successfully carrying out the meeting held at the week-end.

RYLSTONE CLUB EXCELS ITSELF

Presents "An Arizona Cowboy" at Sentinel Hall to Big Audience.

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, April 10 Surpassing all previous performances, the members of the Rylstone Dramatic Club excelled themselves in the presentation of the four act comedy-drama, "An Arizone Cowboy," at the Sentinel Hall on Thursday evening. Bad roads failed to daunt the friends of the club and when the curtain slid back shortly after eight o'clock, the spacious home of the L. O. L. 2322, was filled to the doors. The cast of the play was as follows: Farley Gantt, the Cowboy Sherriff, Reginald McKeown; Duke Blackshear, a stranger from Frisco, F. Futherford; Hezekoah Bugg, a glorious liar, Eldon Anderson; Bog Elk, a Navy's Chief, Wilfred Spencer; Grizzly Grim, cattle thief, Granville Meiklejohn; You Kee, a heathen Chinese, Douglas Barnum; Marguerite Moore, the pretty ranch owner, Evelyn Bonnycastle; Mrs. Petunia Bugg, from Old Indianny, Evelyn Hotten; Carolie Blackshear, Duke's sister, Beatrice Lain; Fawn Afraid, an Indian Maid, Gladys Spencer; Young'un, not much of anybody, Winnie Spencer; cowboys, John Lain, Lorne Anderson.

With the scenes shifting from hot, western sentiment to sudden almost farcial episodes, the crowd was kept always interested and the applause at the end of each act left no doubt as to the approval of the play. While it is impossible to pick a star from the cast, as each one played the parts well, some parts appealed more due to the emotional side of the character. Mr. and Mrs. Bugg were splendid in the comic parts, while Douglas Barnum impersonated the Oriental to the King's taste. The Partners were splendid and handled the heavy scenes in professional manner.

The first act was the exterior of the Palace Hotel, Purple Dog, Arizona, on a morning in October, while the second was in the afternoon of the same day, when the sheriff does his duty. Act three was the same as one and two being the abduction of Marguerite by Blackshear and Grim. Act four was the outlaw's cave in the mountains and the sacrifice of the Indian for Gantt, the man she loves.

It is expected that the Club will present the play at other points soon and the success of the presentation is now assured. Mrs. F. M. Rutherford, is the skilful director of the cast and much credit is due to her for the success obtained. The proceeds, which are in the interests of Rylstone Sunday School, were more than forty-six dollars.

GOOD RESULTS FROM FARM AUCTION SALE

Heber Preston, Manvers, Obtains High Prices for His Stock.

BETHANY, April 10. — The auction sale of farm stock and implements belonging to H. Preston, 8th line of Manvers, four miles west of the village, was held on Saturday afternoon, and was one of the largest seen in these parts for some time. George Jackson and son, of Port Hope, were the auctioneers.

The stock was all in first class condition and readily brought good prices. Horses sold as high as $230; cows for $150, and sheep, $26. Implements and other things saleable brought equally good prices and more than $4500 was realized.

Herb. Neil has purchased Mr. Preston's farm and expects to move there almost immediately.

On the way to Mr. Preston's sale on Saturday, a number of venturesome automobiles met with grief, getting mired in the mud holes on the road of which several very bad holes are to be found on the 8th line of Manvers. Owing to the rain and the very bad condition of the roads on Saturday evening the village was almost deserted by the country folks.

Special Easter services were held in both St. Paul's church and the United Church, on Sunday, and were well attended.

MILLBROOK ROADS MUDDY AT PRESENT

Highways Leading From Village Practically Impassable Now.

MILLBROOK, April 10.—The roads in the village are exceptionally bad at present, the frost coming out, combined with the recent rains and a temperature reaching seventy degrees on Good Friday.

Cars have had to be drawn out of the mud at both the east and west ends of King street, as well as just over Allen's hill. One motor party starting for Toronto by way of Pontypool on Good Friday was abruptly stopped at the extreme west end of King street when their car sank to the fenders; it was extricated with great difficulty, having apparently gone into a depression with a quicksand 'foundation'. The party had been informed that the road east to the highway was practicallly impassible hence decided to try to reach the other highway leading to their destination; they returned home rather than try to complete their journey.

"Life Itself is not short, but we Ourselves Shorten It"

by Barbara B. Brooks

The title of this article was taken from a bulletin published by a Department of Public Health. The author says that men has always lamented the fact that his existence on earth is too short and at the same time has neglected the fundamental health principals which would help him to reach his goal. It is not of so much importance to lengthen life as not to cut it short.

Among the things which tend to shorten life are lax methods of bringing up children, impure air, poorly selected food and excesses of any kind. Intelligence as to sleep food, recreation and personal hygiene helps to insure the normal span of life.

Many families in comfortable circumstances get sufficient sleep, play and observe a high degree of cleanliness but are negligent where food is concerned. It is not easy to instill good food habits into children and if they are not founded during the early years, they are apt never to be acquired.

There are several things to consider about everyday menus. If these rules are observed an adequate diet will be assured.

1. Cereals
2. Milk, a quart for each child, a pint for each adult.
3. Fruit.
4. Dark bread, bran muffins, graham whole wheat.
5. Two vegetables or more, one raw if possible.
6. Eggs, meat or fish.
7. Do not eat too much of any one food.

Below are several recipes which are wholesome and which will aid in furnishing regulating material which is so essential to health:

Bran Nut Bread

½ cup sugar.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon butter (melted).
½ cup milk.
1½ cups flour.
2 tablespoons baking powder.
¾ tablespoon salt.
½ cup all bran.
½ cup chopped walnuts.

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking powder. Beat eggs and sugar until light, add milk to which melted butter has been added alternately with dry ingredients. Beat well, then stir in bran and nuts. Fill greased bread pan ¾ full, and bake in 350 degree oven about 45 minutes.

Bran Pudding

2 eggs.
2 cups All-Bran.
2 cups sweet milk.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 cup chopped walnuts.

Soak the all-bran in the mild. Beat eggs and sugar, then add butter, bran, milk and raisins. Bake in moderate oven about twenty minutes, until firm. Serve with cream or with hard sauce.

Warsaw

WARSAW, April 10.—Just a little snow is seen in fence corners, and drifts on the boundary. Rarely has the snow gone so rapidly. So far fall grains and meadows look well, the water has gone off the land much more rapidly than usual, and it is drying rapidly.

Some one undertook to come down the boundary on Friday evening after dark, but did not get beyond the big drifts below Mr. Drains. Anyone attempting to get down the boundary at night with a car has a big job on his hands, for there are a few places where the big drifts remain, and they break away easily. Where the road is bare it is good enough, and there is good crushed stone on part of it.

Farm Sale

Considering the state of the roads, on Thursday, the sale of Mr. McIlvena was well attended. The bidding was fair, the stove going for forty-seven dollars and fifty cents.

Frogs Heard

Frogs were heard croaking on Good Friday.

GILLETT'S PURE FLAKE LYE

International Commerce

THE current of world trade was running in the direction of Canada before the Great War, and running at such a strong pace that even the greatest conflict in history could not stem it. In the short space of 13 years, from 1913 to 1926, the physical volume of Canada's exports doubled. To-day, Canadian grain and flour are sold in 54 countries—rubber belting manufactured in Canada turns the wheels of industry in South Africa—Canadian cement is used in construction projects in Brazil—Roumania buys automobiles made in Canada.

Recognizing that foreign trade revolves around a banking service extending to the four corners of the earth, The Canadian Bank of Commerce has built up an organization that has placed the most remote hamlet and the largest industrial centre practically on equal terms in the sale and shipment of Canadian products to over 120 countries.

Prices Are Reactionary Trading Not As Active

NEW YORK, April 10 (Canadian Press). — Reactionary price movements predominated in to-day's stock market, although pools succeeded in lifting more than a score of issues to new high records. Trading was not as broad nor as active as it was yesterday, although sales crossed the 2,000,000 share mark again before the end of the third hour.

Further calling of about $25,000,000 in bank loans and the higher renewal rate for call loans led to extensive profit-taking in several of the recent speculative favorites, and also some short selling. The decrease of 62,983, tons in March unfilled orders of United States Steel Corporation was about in line with expectations and the stock held nearly steady around 147.

Trading Is Heavy After Four Day Holiday

TORONTO, April 10 (Canadian Press).—Trading was heavy when the Toronto Stock Exchange resumed activities to-day after a four-day holiday. The outstanding feature of the list was Steel of Canada, which set a new high record at 240 and at noon sold around 237 for a gain of eleven points. Dominion Stores was another strong spot, climbing more than four at 128¾. Page Hersey firmed at 97⅝ and Canadian Industrial Alcohol was higher at 44¼. Massey Harris, another active leader, softened a half at 45⅜, and International Nickel sold down 2⅛ at 91. Banks were firm and the unlisted section largely unchanged. British American Oil weakened at 36¾, and Service Station at 40 7-8 was lower but most other issues were steady.

Pend Oreille Advances, Bidgood Remains Strong

TORONTO, April 10.—(Canadian Press.)— The readjustments on the standard mining exchange, when it opened to-day after four day holiday, were perhaps not so large as had been expected. Trading, however, was swelled to a total of over 1,300,000 shares in the first session. Without definite trend, the largest movement was the advance in Pend Oreille of more than a dollar at 21.40. Bidgood gaining 4 at 1.05, was another strong issue, while Laval Quebec improved more than a point at 17¾ and Noranda at 17.55, Hudson Bay at 17.45 and Sherritt at 735 were all firmer. Moffatt Hall, making its debut, sold down from 35 to 31. Sudbury Basin weakened 11 to 9.99 and Lake Shore eased a quarter of a dollar at 24.00. Kirkland Lake Gold itself was four lower at 2.00 with Wright Hargreaves easier at 4.70. Dome at 10.55 and Barry Hollinger at 1.36 were weaker.

JAMES AKEY TRIED FOR HAVING LIQUOR

Employee Says He Bought and Consumed Liquor and Owned That Found.

James Akey appeared before Magistrate Langley this morning, and pleaded not guilty to a charge of keeping for sale liquor. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the accused, and G. W. Hatton K.C., for the Crown. When the evidence for the prosecution had been heard the charge was amended to read "having liquor in his possession without a permit."

The case is progressing this afternoon, when the evidence of the defence is being heard. At the opening of the trial Mr. O'Brien asked for an adjournment as he had a case in the Division Court in Millbrook this afternoon. Mr. Hatton argued against the adjournment as the Crown had brought four provincial officers from Toronto as witnesses. His Worship ordered the case to go on.

Three officers in charge of Inspector Sarvis raided the premises of Akey on Brock street on Saturday March 24, and there found eight quarts of beer, and a number of empty bottles.

The evidence for the Crown was given by five Provincial officers, four of whom searched the premises on March 24. Provincial Officer Charles W. Wood of Toronto was the first witness called. He told the court that on March 24, in company with Inspector Sarvis and Officers Scouse and Taylor, he went to Akey's barns on Brock Street and there searched for liquor. Wood went upstairs to the hay loft and there in a little room which was fitted up like a bedroom, he found eight quarts of vendor's Dominion beer. In the room, according to the witness, were a bed, a table, some old clothes, an empty beer carton with James Akey's address on and the eight quarts that were found in a little ante chamber to the bedroom. On being questioned, Akey told the officers that the beer belonged to an employee of his, Milton Barnard, who had a permit, and that Barnard slept in the room sometimes.

Offficer Taylor corroborated the evidence given by Wood. Officer Scouse told of searching the office, and there he found four men and a glass that had contained liquor, as there was about a thimblefull left in the bottom. He also searched among the hay and straw in the loft but did not find any liquor. Outside in the yard he found a large number of empty bottles and also a few under the stairway in the building.

Inspector Sarvis, who conducted the raid, was called, and he told of his search through the horse stable, where he found Akey but no liquor. He asked Akey if he had a permit but was told, "No, it was taken away from me some time ago." The inspector asserted that Akey told him the room belonged to him, and was occupied by his men, but on cross-examination by Mr. O'Brien, admitted that Barnard was the only man spoken of.

The last witness for the Crown was Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart of this city. It was to his home that the eight bottles of beer were taken, and Mr. Stewart produced them in court. Mr. Stewart produced a filthy permit which he had taken from Barnard, and on it was recorded the purchase of twenty-four bottles of beer on March 22. His Worship, in looking at the dirt of the permit, remarked, "If I get many of these I will take it upon myself to ask the vendor to cancel the permit."

Before the defence proceeded with its case the Crown had the charge amended to having liquor in his possession without a permit. Milton Barnard was the first witness called by Mr. O'Brien. The witness said he was the trainer of Mr. Akey's horses and that he lived in the livery barn in the room where the officers found the liquor. Some of his meals were brought in to him, while he went out to the hotel for the rest. He was paid $20 a week and was given his board and lodging. The liquor which the officers found he claimed to be his and he produced the slip with his own signature showing the purchase. He swore that he consumed the 15 bottles and that no one was ever given a drink.

In cross examination by Mr. Hatton the permit was examined and on it was recorded the purchase of 132 quarts of beer, 48 bottles of spirits and one gallon of wine, all purchased since November 5. For the first 24 days in March, 24 quarts of beer and 19 bottles of spirits had been purchased. The Crown had estimated the money spent in beer and liquor and had $42.90 for beer and $168 for spirits. Witness thought that these estimates were rather high. Barnard told the court that he consumed practically all this beer and spirits in his room and that nobody helped him. Eight quarts of the beer were seized and nine bottles of spirits has been consumed before he went to Akey's in the middle of November. Mr. Hatton expressed wonder at his saying that he consumed it all himself and was able to tell the tale.

DEFENDS FRILLS ON CURRICULUM

CONVENTION OPENS.

TORONTO, April 10 (Canadian Press).— Defence of the subjects on the school curriculum occasionally described as "frills,' 'and a plea for furthering Canadian unity by the use of common textbooks in the schools of all the Provinces was made by Samuel Farmer, Port Perry, Ontario, in his presidential address to the trustees' and ratepayers' section of the Ontario Educational Association meeting to-day.

Each of the "frills," such as manual training, nature study, music, hygiene and art, play a valuable part in developing the mind and character of the pupil, Mr. Farmer declared What was often meant in condemnation of the frills was merely that the student should have a thorough grounding on the essentials, such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and observation, he contended.

Two thousand or more educationists from all parts of Ontario gathered for the annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association got down to business to-day in many separate meetings at the University of Toronto. All phases of work in the schools and colleges of the province were taken under discussion, from Kindergarten to classical studies. These sectional meetings, in which the greater part of the accomplishments of convention occur, conclude to-morrow.

NORTH MONAGHAN IS BUYING GRADER

Council Decides To Buy Machine Made By Dominion Road Machine Company.

North Monaghan Council held its regular meeting at the Court House yesterday. All the members of the Council were present. Representatives of various road machinery companies were present for the purpose of inducing the Council to purchase a power grader or road maintainer, which they have been contemplating for some time.

Mr. Potts, representing the Dominion Road Machine Company, addressed the Council first, followed by Mr. Tummins, of the Sawyer Massey Company, and W. B. Graby, special representative of the Cletrac crawler tractor, who addressed the Council on the merits of the tractor. Mr. Cumming, of Hood and Cumming, addressed the Council in regard to a Fordson power grader.

Tenders were received from the various machinery companies for their power graders.

A resolution was passed unanimously in favor of the purchase from the Dominion Machinery Company of the power grader.

T. B. Henry, township relief officer, was present and a discussion took place in regard to certain moneys to be deducted from pay sheets for accounts incurred by the relief officer for some of those persons receiving employment from the township.

The following bills were passed for payment: H. B. Taylor, $7.50; A. E. Saunders, $7.09; A. Thompson, $33.45.

A resolution was passed that the treasurer deposit the remaining outstanding moneys on pay sheets numbers 218, 220, 221, and 222, to the Bank of Nova Scotia, and that the charity account receive credit for this. The outstanding bills amount to $19.75.

The meeting adjourned for lunch and resumed business at 7.30.

By-law No. 911 was passed, appointing T. B. Henry, sanitary inspector, relief officer and school attendance officer, salary $200 per annum.

By-law No. 912 was finally passed, authorizing the conveyance to John McIntosh of the property owned by the corporation and known as the Town Hall, the same not being of any further use to the corporation, for the price offered in the tender, $100.

A resolution was passed that it be left with the clerk and township solicitor to settle with Mr. Gillister, solicitor in Toronto, in regard to the costs of the sale of lot 29, plan 56, year 1925.

Messrs. Arthur Church, Joseph McCarthy and several other residents of Edison Avenue and Brioux Avenue, were present and addressed the Council in regard to relief from the spring freshets, from the creek running through the De Laval property. The gentlemen who spoke on behalf of the deputation expressed their opinion that much relief would be derived to the section of the territory by the opening of the drain on the south side of Lansdowne Street from the C.N.R. to Park Street, and by throwing the earth removed from the drain upon the south bank. No action was taken by the Council, but during the annual road inspection the Council intends to look into the situation.

A resolution was passed that the Reeve and Clerk be a special committee, with power to act, to deal with the matter of the removal of the steel rails from the track of the Peterborough Radial Railroad so that the township may be able to put its street in proper shape.

TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1928.

CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED.

The committee of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, which has in charge the arrangements for local participation in the Empire Shopping Week campaign, is appealing for the co-operation of the manufacturers and merchants, and in view of the importance of the occasion, should receive a 100 per cent. response.

Merchants are being asked not only to display Empire-made goods but to order their sales staffs to interest customers in such goods during the week, and those whose stores have two or more show windows are urged to share their window space with local manufacturers who desire to display made-in-Peterborough goods.

Of the manufacturers the committee is asking that they make displays of their products in show windows which will be secured for them by the committee.

These are reasonable requests that should be readily acted upon in order to make Empire Shopping Week as successful as its importance justifies.

The campaign is expected to boost the sales of made-in-Peterborough, made-in-Canada and made-in-the-Empire goods in that order, and local merchants and manufacturers will undoubtedly be eager to assist an effort that has such laudable purposes.

RADIO PROBLEMS.

The fact that President Coolidge has signed the bill continuing the existence of the United States Federal Radio Commission for another year is of more interest to Canadians than American legislation usually is.

So many people in this country own receiving sets that any measure dealing with broadcasting control has as much significance here as across the border.

It cannot scarcely be claimed that the Radio Commission has made a glittering success of clearing the air channels and improving broadcasting to any appreciable extent, for over-lapping and many inferior programs still exist, there are too many stations, and it seems as if the judgment of the commission has not always been sound in the changes that have been ordered.

Possibly, however, the experience gained during the year will be turned to advantage in the months ahead and conditions will be improved.

Admittedly, the task is not an easy one.

Our own authorities have had to deal with a similar problem, and in their case, too, there is a good deal of criticism from listeners-in, who believe that the equipment possessed by broadcasting stations should receive first consideration.

An arrangement that gives full time on the air to one Toronto station that does not reach even into all sections of Ontario with consistent success, while a powerful station that covers the whole country is forced to share its air wave, does not appeal to Ontario radio fans as either sensible or just.

LET THEM PLAY REAL BALL.

Dr. J. J. Craig's fight to have hardball restored to a place in the sport calendar of Peterborough's Public Schools will have considerable support.

There is a strong current of public opinion opposed to a tendency that is all too apparent of substituting less strenuous forms of sport for the games that there is reason to believe have played a great part in making Canadians a hardy and lusty people.

Lacrosse, with its challenge to the gameness and endurance of those who yielded to its lure, is only a memory in many Ontario towns.

It, in its day, made better, healthier and more reasonable men out of the youths who played it before the less vigorous sport, baseball, drove it off the field.

And now baseball in many communities is menaced by the ansemic substitute, softball, a game designed in the first place for those unfit to play real baseball and to be played on small lots where baseball would not be feasible.

The Public Schools of this city have not only adopted the imitation baseball but have dropped the real thing, and many citizens will agree with Dr. Craig that such a policy was a mistake.

Peterborough's school boys are not milk-and-water fellows for whom baseball is too strenuous, and for their own sake and for the sake of sport in general they should be given a chance to play the regular game instead of the modified edition.

CITY BUILDING.

The industrial expansion of some cities, by methods suggestive of the figure of lifting themselves by their own bootstraps, affords encouragement for any community whose restless ambitions, more or less thwarted, continuously outrun local progress and achievement. The example of several cities which have really pushed their way into prominence and prosperity may be of interest to members of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and other citizens who believe that such things can be done.

Muskegon, Michigan, in 1888 was a thriving lumber city of 24,000 population. That year its 47 sawmills cut more than 800,000,000 board feet of lumber, a world's record. The lumber barons declared that the time would never come when the pine forests tributary to the Muskegon River would be cut away. But within twenty years every one of the mills was gone, and the city faced extinction. The citizens bonded the city for $100,000 to pay bonuses to factories that would locate there, and later increased the amount by an additional $100,000. It was illegal, so the bonds were sold as park and wharf bonds, and the money diverted to the bonus fund.

To-day Muskegon is a city of 60,000 people, with more than 200 factories producing nearly $80,000,000 of products a year. Six of its industries are world leaders. Every industry there, except four, was attracted and brought in under the original bonus fund and its successor fund, the present Muskegon Industrial Foundation.

Atlanta, Ga., raised $250,000 for advertising its advantages and subsequently produced $1,000,000 for a similar campaign. As a result of that confident effort 169 new industries located in Atlanta in one year, with payrolls of $7,723,750, and employing 4,909. This represented a return of 3,000 per cent. on the initial investment in advertising.

The mere recitation of these facts does not signify their recommendation for local application. The wildest fancy could never conjure up a picture of Peterborough raising $200,000 for the bonusing of new industries, not even with oblivion waiting to receive us.

But Muskegon was crazy enough to risk its precarious credit on one grand fling of the dice with a success that demonstrated the comparative or possibly superlative wisdom of their desperate device. Their enterprise is related in a recent issue of the American Review of Reviews.

One of the agencies of city building is the Chamber of Commerce, which is still but an infant. The Review says that of the 2,100 Chambers of Commerce in the United States not 10 per cent. of them are geared to put on an industrial development program. One reason is that for years, especially during the war, their conception of any chamber's prime function was to develop a community civically, rather than industrially. Emphasis was placed on building a "better city" rather than a "bigger city." But business men, realizing that they could make money only as their respective cities increased their populations, transferred the emphasis of the "bigger city," and executives of the Chamber of Commerce have had to adjust themselves to the new viewpoint.

Portland, Oregon, has developed a plan that indicates the extent to which the work of an industrial commissioner has grown. The manager of its industrial bureau makes a nation-wide circuit, lasting two months, twice a year. On reaching a city he runs from a quarter page to full page, advertising his presence in the community and inviting manufacturers to visit him. Portland has been very successful in using this plan.

The Review article is a comprehensive one, and although tuned to a higher pitch than a small Canadian city probably could reach, it discusses the essential problems, and deals at length with the bonus evil, which, it says, can be remedied only by the establishment of proper standards and trade practices in the new science of city building.

RURAL EDUCATION.

Mr. A. Mewhinney, Liberal member of the Legislature for North Bruce, speaking of agricultural education in rural schools, says: "The boys and girls of rural schools are sick and tired of agriculture. They get it two hours before they go to school and three or four hours afterward."

There is some truth as well as humor in this. But if you agree with it, what becomes of the charge, made by Miss MacPhail and other rural representatives, that the education given in rural schools tends to lure children away from the farm to the city? If agriculture is not to be taught, in what respect ought education in the country to differ from education in the town?

The truth is that very much the same complaint is made in regard to schools in urban as in rural communities, namely, that education tends to give a distaste for manual labor, and a craving for "white collar" occupations. To find the true explanation we must go deeper. Young people seek white collar occupations because they seem to be easier and more genteel. Of course, these are not aims of education in the true sense. Education is intended to train young people to think, and to open up to their minds the riches of literature, history, philosophy and science.

Nourishing a youth sublime
With the fairy tales of science and the long result of time;
When the centuries behind me like a fruitful land reposed,
When I clung to all the present for the promise that it closed;
When I dipt into the future far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world and all the wonder that would be.

This range of thought is just as open to a mechanic or a working farmer as to a clerk or a salesman; and in all probability there are as many readers and thinkers in the one class as in the other. Professional men are necessarily students, but this class is numerically small. The bulk of the people are employed in farming, manufacturing, transportation and commerce. They all need and could use the same kind of education, in the sense of liberalizing culture.

When one comes to vocational education, there is a broad difference between town and country. The city boy gets no vocational training unless it is specially provided. The bricklayer's son does not learn the trade by helping his father. There are few chores to be done about the city home in modern days. The farmer's boy is made to help as soon as he can use his hands, and in that way obtains a practical knowledge of agriculture. At the same time he may acquire a distaste for it, for the work he is assigned to do is likely to be the least interesting and the most irksome. It is probably this experience rather than what he learns in school that tempts him to leave the farm. The school may show him the means of escape. But this is inevitable unless he is kept in total ignorance. The true solution seems to be to make country life more attractive and to lessen its drudgery.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

This will doubtless be a normal summer in spite of the present weather. The Kingston ball team is already claiming the championship of the Central Ontario League.

The usual combination of heavy trucks and broken down roads is again in evidence. This problem will have to be dealt with in more determined fashion if the situation is not to be repeated each spring.

Those court martial decisions may be in the interest of discipline, but it will be difficult to convince most people of the justice of the punishment meted out to Commander Daniel and Captain Dewar.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 10 (Canadian Press). — Trade was of a holiday character on the local grain market yesterday, and offerings were light. Owing to the Easter holidays in the United Kingdom and the Continent, little business of importance was accomplished in the grain for export account. The undertone was steady, and prices were unchanged. There was little change in the local flour market. The tone of the market was firm and prices for spring wheat grades were fully maintained.

The condition of the other markets was reflected in the market for millfeed, prices being steady and unchanged, with very little demand noted.

The demand for supplies in the egg market proved very limited. The receipts were 2,359 cases. Prices were unchanged.

The smaller receipts and the reduction in the stocks of potatoes on track here resulted in a firm feeling in the potato market and prices were maintained.

There was no change in the imported bean market, but prices were firmly maintained on account of small stocks on spot. Car lots of choice white hand-picked beans were quoted at $4.00 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities at $4.20 per bushel, ex-store.

Trade in butter was exceedingly quiet ,buyers in most cases having sufficient stocks on hand. No change in prices was announced. Receipts were 399 packages.

Nothing of importance developed in the cheese trade. Receipts were 455 boxes. The only business was of a local character for home consumption.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 10 (Canadian Press). — Unseasonable cold threatening new winter wheat did much to lift grain values yesterday, and so likewise did a big decrease of the corn visible supply. No. 2 red winter wheat, immediate delivery, rose to $1.74¼ a bushel, 30 cents over May, the topmost premium yet this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¼c to ½c net higher, with corn ¾c to 1c up, oats unchanged to 7c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 to 12 cents.

Fears were expressed that damage by low temperatures had been done to new wheat in the more advanced sections, but apprehension of harm was somewhat relieved by predictions of warmer weather. On the other hand, the Government crop report to-day was expected to show a low condition for winter wheat. Bullish sentiment received additional stimulus from reports of increasing discard of wheat acreage east of the Mississippi. In thi s connection, a leading authority advised that from Chicago to Champaign, Danville, and Paris, Ills., fully two-thirds of the crop will be abandoned outright. Unfavorable reports abount unusual losses of acreage were also received from Missouri.

Further buying of wheat was based on advices that little or no moisture had been supplied of late to Western Kansas and Western Nebraska, despite generous rains elsewhere in sections not so dry. Moreover, world shipments last week proved to be only 16,769,000 bushels, compared with 20,943,000 bushels a year ago, and there were reports current that German crop prospects are unsatisfactory, wheat and rye in particular.

Corn suddenly developed greater strength than was shown by wheat, a circumstance associated with the fact that the corn visible supply total was curtailed yesterday as much as 2,536,000 bushels. Exports of 1,159,000 bushels of corn from North America in the last week tended also to arouse bullish comment. Oats were firmer as a result of cold weather and because of word of damage in parts of Iowa.

Provisions tended up-grade, responsive to action of hog values and of corn.

GOD'S MINUTE

Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; And walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling savour.—Ephes. 5:1-2.

Our Father, Who dost so deeply care about all that we have to do this day, help us to do everything as in Thy sight. Make us faithful in all our work, and help us always to do our best. May we be ashamed to shirk or neglect any task that is set before us to-day, at home, in business, or at school, and may we have Thy guidance as we face it. In all our work and play, help us to be fair and honest, considerate of our mates, and even more anxious to play squarely and well than to win. Keep us thoughtful of others and friendly toward them.

Guard us from the quick word, the unworthy thought, the selfish deed. Bind us more firmly to our dear ones and our friends this day, and to Thee, the Friend that sticketh closer than a brother. So bring us to the end of the day wiser and stronger, and more able to serve Thee better tomorrow. In Jesus' Name. Amen.

Charles W. Gilkey, D.D., Chicago, Ill.

A Thought

INTENSITY.

A well-known business man writes: "Sales success is the project of intensity."

To be "intensive," to be "anxiously diligent," to have "purpose," or to have "aim," is the real definition of intensity, and all these qualities may make for high-power selling, but selling is only one side of the story.

Actually selling the second order to the same customer is the true test of successful buying, and it is only through "successful buying" that we can determine whether we have successfully sold.

Marmora

MARMORA, April 10.—The evening service at St. Paul's Church on Good Friday was well attended. The Rev. A. B. Caldwell delivered an appropriate sermon on "The seven words on the Cross," enlarging principally on the fourth word, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me"? After the offertory, the congregation sang kneeling, "The Story of the Cross."

CHAPTER X.

Robins.

Now I have tested your staying qualities, giving you the worst first, and we have come to the bright side of what the birds have taught me. After all, I have a lot to thank the cannibal birds for, as there is about thirty acres in this piece of second growth woods where I am now sitting, and during the summer months I take a stroll down here at least once a week. This is the most perfect place for robins to build that one could find in a day's travel, yet the last four or five years I haven't seen five of their nests down here; but just one-half mile away, at my home, there were seventeen nests last summer, all within one hundred yards of the house, and outside of the thirteen maples that shade our door-yard the shrubbery is very young. All thinking humanity must admit that they come there for protection from their natural enemies, as there is usually a crow's nest hidden away in this or the neighboring woods. But remember a crow knows better than to venture near my house. And the robins know it.

The chief reason the robins leave us early in the fall is because their choice food, the worms, have gone into the ground for the winter; but as soon as the worms start coming to the surface again the robins come back, and the beauty of it is they come to the same homes, and perch on the same limbs of our trees, sounding their cheerful notes to brighten the dark spots in our paths. Between songs they drop down on the lawn and hop and listen; all at once they start pecking at a grub in the grass; as soon as they have pecked him out and turned him into a robin they either listen for more, or jump up and give us another song. By catching so many mothers of the season's grubs they render us tens of dollars worth of service.

Then about July the first the grubs that are not destroyed are under the hard, dry soil, and the robin has its second family to support; and Shame! Shame! Shame! on the man who claims to be intelligent who will slip out and shoot him because he took two cents' worth of sour cherries that possibly were not worth picking. Has this man got a heart? If so, let him go under the tree where the little starving young robins are calling, "Mamma! mamma! mamma!" That's the exact interpretation of these three chirps that are getting fainter and fainter. Now, my brother, let me ask you again—Have you got a heart? You love your little baby brother or your darling baby boy, and the very thought of King Pharaoh makes you wicked within; but remember, as cruel as he was, he never demanded that a baby boy should die a lingering death as these dear little robins have to do through the fact that you shot their mother. Personally, I hate to shoot a crow or a grackle, as bad as they are, during the nesting season, on that account.

Now it would not be fair for me to pass the robin by without giving you a taste of our enjoyable experience, as while I know that by times robins will annoy fruit growers by congregating there in hundreds, yet to be fair we must consider the most good for the most people. So let us take the average farm, occupied by the cleanest of farmers, with his corn, potatoes, tomatoes, cabbages, and other crops too numerous to mention, all coming up through the clean, fertile soil. And now, like a sneaking thief in the night, the annoying cut-worm crawls out like a snail, cuts down the promising plant and then passes on to another and repeats his destructive doings. Then when he has gorged himself to the limit he will just dig himself in under the soil near the stump of the last plant he has destroyed. I have known fully one fourth of the plants in a field to be destroyed by cut-worms in less than five days. Not that there are so many of them, but, like the weasel, each one is so destructive. Now just think of the expense and drawback to this farmer, having to replant. Moreover, the second planting never produces the same crop as the original one would have done. Here is only one of the valuable points I could explain for Robin Red Breast. For long before the average farmer is out of bed, he is in the field, hopping from one plant to another in search of these worms; and when he gets two or three in his throat he flies across to his family, and in less than three minutes he is back again.

Yes, I know there are men who will tell you the robin will not eat cut-worms and that his song is no better than that of a warty toad. One of these statements is just as true as the other. The robin will eat about all kinds of worms I have ever seen excepting the dirty tobacco worm, and we must give him credit for that. Last summer I saw a young robin not over six weeks old, picking up ants at the rate of sixty per minute. What does this mean to your lawn?

Some years ago a boy was passing my house carrying a .22 rifle. I heard him shoot, so I went out to the road and investigated; went and picked up the old robin that was fluttering, a few rods away, and as she gasped her last, two cut-worms spued out of her mouth and a third was squirming on the ground near where I picked her up. After this boy and I had had a heart to heart talk about the matter we separated, but that afternoon I found another robin with a bullet in its back. The next day was Sunday, and at ten a.m. I was sitting near the window trying to read, and as I glanced out I saw a young robin, dying, under the fir tree. I soon found a nest above it, and two larger ones were still alive, but cold. We brought them in, nest and all, and when they got warm I dropped a little custard in the mouth of the larger one. This caused number two to realize that there was some to be had and he, too, awoke from his slumber, and apparently put all his strength into his neck and jaw bones, for he opened his mouth so wide that it seemed to split his head completely in two. The little bits they choked down them immediately gave them strength to want more, and as soon as they were satisfied, we covered them up with good warm flannel. When we returned from church about an hour and a half later and uncovered them, one hopped right up on the edge of the nest and just squealed for more custard, and in two days they were out, hopping around us for their feed. In fact I have never had robins accept us as their step-parents so quickly as these two did. Possibly when they were in their unconscious state they forgot their original parent to a certain extent. In two weeks they were flying all over the premises, but always came to the back door and chirped when they got hungry, and would stay until some one fed them. Finally they would follow us men over to the factory and often have I seen them sitting on the mill, watching the stream of clay run out, now and then turning their heads sidewise as if they doubted their best eye. Once or twice I saw them alight on a hot gas pipe; this always made me laugh, because they got off long before one had to tell them. The next one might see of them they would be out at the clay bank, watching the man dig clay, now and then picking out an earth worm. But they never went near any stranger that happened around, and this point alone brought us a lot of satisfaction, just to know that these two innocent robins, that had scarcely been acquainted with us a month, knew every person that worked around the premises.

These two stayed with us until October and disappeared. But they taught me one good lesson: What a great mistake I had made, through life, by keeping my pets shut up, as one bird having its liberty to go and come at will is worth a hundred in a cage.

Well, that is some years ago, but we have had pet robins ever since. The last seven or eight years, strangers have been coming here by the thousands, and all want to feed our robins; we, of course, let them, and sometimes I will not feed them myself for days. But I often see them come flying when a bunch of strange people arrives. Why? Just because they are fed so much by strangers; that is why.

A laughable thing happened last summer. I heard the lady of the house scolding and shooing with the broom; I found that little Jasper had left the screen door open and three of his pet robins had flown in and roosted on his mother's choice picture that hangs in the cold storage room, or parlor, as some call it. When Jasper found what the noise was about he just took the feed tin and went in, gave the pan a few taps with his spoon, and the birds at once flew down into the pan, the boy walked out with it and ended all confusion.

In 1917 we had twenty-one pet robins, and I have often seen little Jasper start for school and have to come back and feed his pets to keep them from following him away.

The way we get them is when some neighbor gets afraid his cats are going to kill the young robins around his place, we get them. If you want to try it, keep them warm, in a small dry-goods box. When you have had them about six hours, open their mouths and slip a little custard in them. The second day they will open their own mouths and in about three days they will accept you as their stepmother and you can let them out. Be sure and keep them good and warm, and feed often.

We put tags on some of our robins, and odd ones returned the next spring, and they are always more wild; in fact when they return they will not let you near them. This fact I do not understand. My last experiment was to take two robins out of a nest of four where the parent birds were the tamest of any I knew; then I went and got one out of a nest of two, with exceptionally wild parents. The birds were all taken the same hour. But the two were tamer in two days than the one was in four.

LIGHTEST MEAL CAUSED PAIN

Tanlac Completely Relieved Nervous Indigestion

Stomach trouble causes about as much pain and suffering as any other disease that attacks the human system. It is an extremely dangerous condition, too, because the food is not properly digested, the body is not nourished, the blood become thin, and there is constant weakness, nervousness.

Anyone who has Nervous Indigestion "goes through a trying experience", says Mr. Edgar LaMontagne, 320½ Third Ave., Quebec. He knows; for he suffered intensely. "My lightest meal caused pain and bloating. I couldn't properly digest anything. In a short time, I lost 9 pounds in weight. Tanlac gave me my first real relief. In a short time after starting Tanlac, the pain and gas disappeared and my digestion was fine. I was eating and sleeping well, and had almost forgotten I had a stomach. I have put on ten pounds of firm flesh and am in splendid health."

2,500 TO ATTEND O.E.A. CONVNETION

Various Sections of Association To Have Large Meetings During Week.

TORONTO, April 10—At headquarters of the Ontario Educational Association convention at the University of Toronto yesterday, officials anticipated a heavy influx this morning for the opening features of the big convention. It is estimated that 2,500 persons or more will be in attendance when the big convention gets fully under way.

More than 1,300 registration already have been received by mail, and several hundred more were filed yesterday at University College, where officials have set up a registration bureau. Additional hundreds are expected to pour into the city to-day to bring the number of delegates and visitors up to the estimated total. The visitors coming will swell the attendance considerably this year, it is believed, particularly in view of the presence of Mrs. Evangeline Land Lindbergh as the guest of honor of the association.

This should bring a number of teachers and others from the United States and elsewhere to see her presented with life membership in the association to-night. The certificate is engraved on a gold plate and enclosed in a silver casket. The presentation will take place in Convocation Hall, where the general sessions of the association are to be held. It was originally intended to hold the ceremony in the Coliseum at the Exhibition Grounds, but Convocation Hall was later chosen as being easier of access for the delegates.

Headquarters in Convocation Hall

Practically all the sessions of the association and its multitudinous sections will be held in Convocation Hall and University College, although several gatherings are to be convened in downtown hotels. These last include the annual meetings of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation and of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario. The former will meet at noon to-morrow in the Carls-Rite Hotel for lunch, the annual meeting to follow the conclusion of the luncheon, and the women teachers will meet at the same time in the King Edward Hotel.

The main work of the association will be done in the meetings of the sections, the gatherings of the general association numbering only two. The first will be this evening in honor of Mrs. Lindbergh, when Rev. Dr. Robert Johnson of St. Catharines will speak on "The Nation in the Making." Charles E. Kelly, principal of the Hamilton Memorial School and president of the association, will speak on "The Romance of Education in Ontario." Singing by pupils of Mr. Kellys' school and discussion of general business will round out the program.

To-morrow evenin a general meeting, also in Convocation Hall, will be addressed by Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto. He will welcome them to Toronto and later preside over the reception to be given by the University to all members of the O.E.A. A discussion of Canadian history is to be given to-morrow night by Henry F. Munro, superintendent of education at Halifax.

The departments of the association are the elementary, college and secondary, supervising and training, and trustees and ratepayers, while these, in turn, are split into sections which included the kindergarten, primary, manual arts, school health, home and school, classical, technical, inspectors, music, and school attendance. All will hold sessions of their own.

Millions of Years

Countless years ago, when the world was in the making, Peruvian Crude Petroleum acquired its peculiarly rich lubricating qualities. Stored for ages in the rich oil bearing sands of Peru, it came into use as a base for lubricating oil when the resources and equipment of IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED made Marvelube possible.

IMPERIAL OIL alone controls Peruvian Crude production, and Peruvian Crude alone is used in making Marvelube. The result is an inherently better oil of exclusive properties, an oil that fully meets all requirements of motor lubrication under all conditions of operation.

Back of Marvelube are the experience, resources and integrity of IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED, for forty-seven years Canada's largest refiners of petroleum products.

PROMINENT CHINESE FAMILIES UNITED

The marriage of Miss Phyllis W. Y. Lin to Shih Cheng-Liang at Ottawa united representatives of two of the most prominent families of the moderate Republican party in China and heirs of two old aristocracies of Pekin and Fu Chow. The bride is a sister-in-law of the Chinese consul-general in the dominion capital and is a graduate of Pennsylvania University, as is also the groom. The latter is the oldest son and heir of Liang Chi-chao, the man who after thirteen years of exile overthrew the last of the Manchus and with Sun Yat-Sen established the Chinese republic. He is even more famous as China's leading intellectual, as the exponent of western thought to China and as the man who, more than any other, influenced China to join the war on the side of the Allies. The newlyweds are to honeymoon in Europe where they will also do postgraduate university work. The illustration shows the bride in her wedding gown and a group scene taken at the wedding.

HOW FINAL OLYMPIC GOAL WAS SCORED

This photograph shows the scoring of the thirteenth and final goal by Canada against Switzerland in the final game for the Olympic hockey championship. The final score was 13-0. The goal was scored on a double pass between Hugh Plaxton and Dave Trottier. Plaxton, on the LEFT, is shown just as he made the final pass across to Trottier. The puck which is seen in front of the goalkeeper of the Swiss team was in motion when the photo was snapped. Trottier picked the puck up and with a quick wrist shot dropped it into the net. The ice was very sticky and slushy for the final game and the players could not show all they had. The photo also shows the temporary stands erected for the hockey tournament. These stands, which accommodate seven thousand people, are built up against the side of the mountain.

WILL FLY TO OTTAWA

Eager and unafraid, Lorna MacPherson of Toronto is facing her first venture in the air. She will be a passenger in the airplane which will fly to Ottawa to be christened by Premier King. In the picture ABOVE (1) is Lorna, (2) the plane to be used in the flight, (3) Miss MacPherson's queer pets, one a lizard, two tortises which positively refused to remain still for the cameraman, (4) Major Kenneth MacPherson. Lorna's father, who may also make the flight.

SOUTH AFRICAN LADY VISITS CANADA

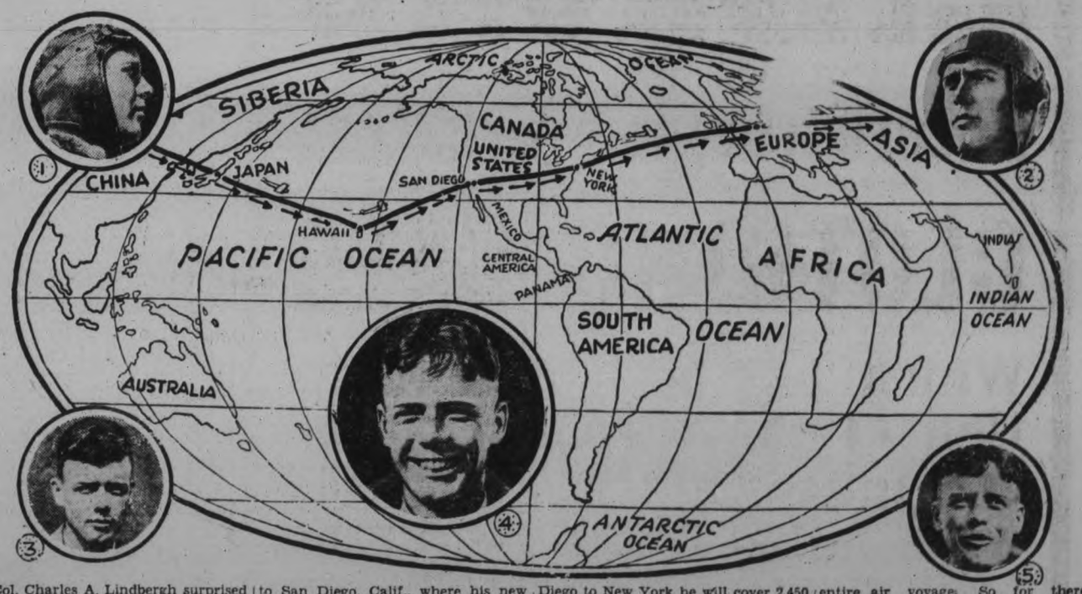
PRINCE MEETS AFGHAN RULER

The Prince of Wales, clad in full Guards regalia, was present at Dover to welcome the Emir Amanullah, king of Afghanistan, when the latter landed for his state visit to England. Amanullah, who rules the mountain principality which acts as a buffer between India and Soviet Russia, has been the guest of the king and queen, and a continuous series of demonstrations and receptions has been arranged for his edification. He has witnessed the Royal Air Force show their skill at aerial bombing, he has seen a sham tank battle, he has personally gone down in a British submarine and has made a royal progress above London in an Imperial Airways liner plane. This air flight over the British metropolis he described as the greatest thrill which the west had yet given him although he had been tremendously impressed with the deadly efficency of the bombing exhibition put on by the British Grebe planes.

These are types of Canada's northern wards. This family is a typical Eskimo one. It consists of the mighty hunter Mirpho-too-it, his wife Lirna-hik and their daughter. They were photographed at Iglooli on Melville peninsula last May. Note the feminine grace with which Mrs. Lirna-hik puffs at her pipe of tobacco.

The Irish horse, Tipperary Tim, 100 to 1 shot, which won the famous Grand National steeplechase over the gruelling four-mile Aintree course. Billy Barton, an American entry, was the only other horse to negotiate the mud-sprinkled route. Because only two horses finished the race, widespread confusion has developed in connection with the distribution of sweepstake prize money. Some basis of settlement likely will be effected. Tim's followers hope they will benefit.

LINDBERGH PLANS FLIGHT ROUND WORLD



Col. Charles A. Lindbergh surprised the world when he was reported to have announced to his army friends that he soon would attempt another flight across the Atlantic as the first leg of a contemplated air trip around the world. He plans to visit Germany, Russia, China and Japan and will return via the Pacific. He is on his way to San Diego, Calif., where his new Ryan monoplane awaits him. After testing the machine he will fly to Mitchell Field, N. Y., from where he will hop off on his long flight. ABOVE are shown a map of the tentative course to be followed and five pictures of Col. Lindbergh in his various moods. On the flight from San Diego to New York he will cover 2,450 miles, then will make a hop of 4,115 miles to Berlin, approximatley 11,100 miles in his flight to Russia, China and Japan; 3,915 miles to Hawaii, and 2,418 miles from Honolulu to San-Diego, where it is believed he will terminate the trip. This makes an approximate mileage of 24,000 for the entire air voyage. So far there have been fourteen attempts made to cross the Atlantic from America. Eight of these have been successful and six proved disastrous. Eleven persons were killed in the futile trials. Lindbergh's friends contend his new venture will be far more perilious than his former trip across the Atlantic.

Auguste Parent, former captain in the French infantry and now owner of four weaving plants that produce fabrics for the feminine world of fashion is a visitor in Canada at present. The illustration shows (1) his wife, who served as an assistant-surgeon in the French [illegible] corps, who was gassed on the Belgian front and is still an invalid; (2) M. Parent and (3) a picture of him in his army uniform. Among the eight decorations he is wearing is the Legion of Honor.

BLIND MUSICIANS PLEASE AUDIENCE

Present Fine Program in Spite of Lack of Sight.

(By Jeanette)

Hearty, infectious laughter, bright, vivid, gay music and the type of soliloquizing joke that brings answering chuckles from the hearers, are all items expected of the ordinary sort of entertainment, but seem a bit extraordinary when the entertainers are blind. The people who entertained the audience at the Grand Opera House last night were all blind and they were all cheerful.

It was a revelation of the wonderful training imparted by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to these sightless young men and women, for all, with one exception, were quite young. Miss Katheryn Sells, A.T.C.M., and Kenneth Young are composers, whose compositions were heard on the program last evening. The latter is a clever pianist as well as elocutionist and Stan. McBeth, who plays the piano and the piano accordion with equal facility, is now taking up the study of the violin, learning it through the medium of Braille instructions and bestowing on it the concentrated attention which is given by these sightless musicians to all their work.

Possibly the outstanding performer was Miss Katheryn Sells. It is not long since audiences would acclaim as very clever a young lady who could sit down at the piano, and, without the aid of a musical score, play difficult music. She would be considered quite exceptional if she included also a composition of her own that would pass muster, for brilliancy and general attractiveness, with any similar work. To see all this done by a girl who is totally blind is to realize the extent to which courage and an indomitable spirit can carry one ho is afflicted in a terrible way.

Miss Sells played a Schubert-Liszt arrangement of "Soiree de Vienne," the bright, gay music ringing out under the swift fingers, with a dainty encore. Later, she played her own composition, a Polonaise in E flat that demonstrated once more the joyous, buoyant, vital music of this sightless player. She also played unfalteringly, the accompaniments for vocal numbers.

Miss Gladys Bickerton, a youthful singer possessed of a strong, clear, sweet soprano voice, sang in the same gay style that animated the entire program, several brightly pretty numbers, including "Down in Lover's Lane," "An Open Secret," with its encore in the little "daisy" song, also "Pale Moon" and "A May Morning," all vivid little bits of cheerful vocal music.

Alex Graham, in his suit of tartan, complete with kilts, flat cap and sporran, was a real entertainer. His supply of jokes and interesting manner of presenting his "Harry Lauder" type of entertainment kept his audience in a constant gale of laughter.

Probably the funniest sketch of the entire entertainment was the "Uncle Josh from Punkin Centre," dual number given by Kenneth Young, the lad with the tight-shut eyes and the sensitive lips that opened to laugh in such infectious, unaffected style. As a prototype of the well-known and well-liked "Uncle Josh," this young man could not be surpassed anywhere. He was extremely good, with his drawl and his rural outfit.

This same Kenneth Young, whose program included a monologue, with piano accompanment by Stan McBeth, entitled "Mrs. Schlagenhauer," also proved himself as versatile as several of the others, when he sat down at the piano with Stan McBeth, to join in playing a composition of his own, a gay thing of syncopated, popular atmosphere and with the same swift, bright, vivid calibre that characterized the birdlike music of Miss Sells. The affliction of these blind people is not mirrored in their music, which sings with vitality and cheer.

Robert Richardson was an elocutionist whose rendering of several readings was dramatic and unusual. He used the intense concentration of these sightless folk to put over the tense atmosphere of two seldom-heard and splendidly-rendered numbers, "The Highwayman" and a habitant composition by Dr. Drummond, entitled "The Last Portage."

Stan McBeth had a place in several sections of the program. A youthful musician, he played accompaniments for many of the numbers, a duet with Kenneth Young on the piano, and also displayed his skill with the piano accordion, demonstrating on the latter instrument his skill and proficiency in finely-played, difficult music. The singing tone of the silver accordion echoed under the sensitive, long fingers, drawing out from it the lilting strains of the "Blue Danube Waltz," the fascianting music of "The Shepherd Girl's Dream," the melody of the Sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor," and the swift catchiness of "My Blue Heaven."

It was a "Smilin 'Thru" program, from beginning to end. Wonderful qualities of concentration, patience, of memorization of difficult music and readings, of intense and vivid interest in their own efforts to amuse and entertain, and a subordination of the affliction which cast its shadow over them all, were presented to the hundred and eighty people who patronized the entertainment last night.

Hearty and enthusiastic applause and numerous encores kept the sightless entertainers, however, from realizing the smallness of the crowd. Their manager, G. H. Gustar, attended them carefully, bringing them on the stage and accompanying them to the wings. From here, the entertainers go to Trenton, Brockville and Kingston, to present similar concerts.

CANADIAN PRODUCE WANTED IN ORIENT

Big Cold Storage Plant Being Built at Vancouver to Care For Goods.

WINNIPEG Man., April 10. (Special.)) — Growing shipments of ice cream to Shanghai from Vancouver occasioned within the past year by the parched throats of British and American troops in China is one of the contributing causes of the construction of the new cold-storage plant at New Westminster, says C. A. Cotterell, General Superintendent for British Columbia, Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived here yesterday morning. Mr. Cotterell reports that results of a gradual education in China and in Japan for Canadian fruits, particularly apples, and butter, as well as for Canadian beef and bacon, have played a part in planning for this new plant which will be used for the storage of perishable goods grown on the prairies and in British Columbia before shipment to the United Kingdom and the Orient by boat. The plant owned by the Pacific Coast Terminals, will cost about two million dollars.

Grain movement through the port of Vancouver, is maintaining its average, and the construction of new elevators will bring the storage capacity at that port up to ten million bushels for next year's crop, Mr. Cotterell says. The new pool elevator on Burrard Inlet with a capacity of two million bushels, is well under way. Another elevator is under contemplation on the north shore of the Inlet with a million bushel capacity, while a further one is proposed for the Fraser River across from New Westminster, with storage facilities for one and a half million bushels.

RAILWAYS ARRANGE FOR SUGAR BEES

Have Sleighs Ready To Take Parties From Station To Sugar House.

MONTREAL, Que., April 10. — (Canadian Press)—"Sugaring bees" have lately been in vogue, organized by the railways, sleighs being in readiness to convey parties to the sugar groves near Mont Holland. Maple sugar was bought on the spot and a special "sugaring-off" dinner with a menu of eggs in syrup, toffee, maple syrup and maple sugar, rounded off with pork and beans, was provided. Many quaint old-fashioned French-Canadian customs that have grown up around the sugaring bees were observed and everything was carried out according to long-established traditions.

THE CHURCHES

AT GOSPEL HALL.

At Gospel Hall last night Evangelist Sam Taylor gave a stirring address full of power and blessing. His subject was "Opened Eyes." Four times especial mention is made in the Scriptures of eyes being opened. First Adam and Eve had their eyes opened to see a way of escape. Third God clothed them. Second, Hagar when she was cast out had her eyes opende to see a way of escape. Third, Elisha's servant and, and fourth Baal lam's eyes were opened to see he was heading for death. These were taken up by the speaker to show man in his simple state and seeking his own way to bridge the span from earth to heaven. Some try the bridge of good deeds, others try the bridge of prayers others, again, try the bridge of religion, but Mr. Taylor made it very clear that none of these or all of these put together could save a soul. It must be 'Christ' alone. Nothing but precious blood could atone for man's sin, and this was given by Christ and accepted by God, and told man in the Gospel that which if accepted was sufficient to give the soul a sure and safe passage to glory.

The meetings continue every night this week.

CLERGYMAN HELPS BOOTLEGGER CROSS

Changes Seats With Him Just Before Customs Official Comes Along.

VANCOUVER, April 5.—One sunny morning, not long ago, Lieut.-Col. G. O. Fallis, pastor of the Canadian Memorial Church in Vancouver, and instigator of International Good-will Day, boarded the Seattle train on his way to Bellingham.

Shortly before reaching the Customs at Blaine, a rather drowsy down-at-the-heel looking fellow, who occupied the seat across the aisle, enquired of the clergyman if he would be kind enough to exchange seats. "I have not been feeling well of late," said he, "and would like to take a sleep in the sun."

"By all means," replied Col. Fallis, who is intensely human and always ready to "serve." "Just coil up here and make yourself comfortable and if there is anything I can do for you, let me know," and without any intervention the clergyman occupying his time with a copy of the London Illustrated News, while his newly formed acquaintance developed his drowsiness into a well ordered snore.

A mile or two more of glittering steel and the Customs officer was seen ambling down the aisle.

"Good morning, Col. Fallis. Going down to Bellingham?"

The man across the aisle pulled himself together, evidently wishing the crisis was over, as he glanced at the ever-observant eye of the examiner.

"Have you any liquor about you," inquired the officer.

"No, sir," replied the man.

"Stand up," said the officer, then proceeded to search the seat.

Failing in his efforts he passed on, assuring himself that all was well.

Half an hour later the train pulled into a country station. "Excuse me," said the man across the aisle, as he bent forward and pulled from under the seat where Col. Fallis was sitting, two bottles of Scotch.

SEES PROGRESS TOWARDS TREATY

Submission of Franco-American Notes To Indicate Accord in Principle.

PARIS, April 10.—In Paris, Washington's concurrence in the proposal to submit the correspondence which has passed between the two Foreign Departments on the possibility of framing a multi-lateral compact outlawing war is to-day interpreted as meaning that there is now agreement in principle as the result of M. Briand's last note.

This result was almost more than was hoped for, as the first indications from Washington were that the reserves which M. Briand attached to such a compact were entirely inacceptable, Mr. Kellogg desiring an absolutely unconditional agreement. There nevertheless remained hope in France that a formula could be found which would proclaim the principles which Mr. Kellogg holds dear and at the same time take into account the actual situation of the world as at present organized, which in M. Briand's opinion necessitated the reserves that he enumerated.

Agreement by Washington to the extension of the conversations by official communication of the correspondence to England, Germany, Italy and Spain has now given confirmation to this hope, for otherwise it is felt there could have been no such answer to the last French note.

Of course, between "agreement in principle" and the working out of a defined treaty there is still a long way to go. Extension of the discussion seems, too, certain to raise new viewpoints and perhaps new principles. England, especially, may be expected to find concurrence difficult, for the present constitution of the Empire will necessitate consultation with all the dominions.

At least there must elapse considerable time before anything like a full exchange of views is possible.

TWO BOYS PERISH NEAR OWEN SOUND

News of Drownings On Saturday Reaches City From Outlying Points.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 10. — News was received in Owen Sound yesterday of two drownings on Saturday in widely separated districts in Grey and Bruce Counties. At Mountain Lake, in the extreme north end of Grey County, Ashley Johnston, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Johnston, lost his life on Saturday morning, while he was attempting to retrieve a duck his brother had shot. Arthur Johnston, an older brother, shot a wild duck, which fell on the ice some distance from shore, and in going out to get it, the lad broke through the ice only an inch and a half thick, and sank to his death. The body was recovered about an hour and a half later in 15 feet of water.

Thomas King, 17-year-old son of John King, formerly of Hope Bay, Bruce Peninsula, but now residing near Listowel, was the victim of a drowning accident at Hope Bay. King and a friend, Earl Hepburn, had built a raft to sail on the large pond, about four acres in extent which formed at the back of the farms owned by their fathers. They started across the pond for the Hepburn farm, but young Hepburn concluded the raft was not large enough for two of them, and he jumped off, and waded to shore. The raft, with King aboard, drifted out on the pond, and the lad becoming panicstricken, jumped off. After swimming about ten feet he disappeared. When help came, no sign of the lad could be seen.

Coroner Dr. C. A. Wigle, of Wiarton, decided an inquest was unnecessary, and the body was sent to Listowel for burial.

SNEAK THIEF TAKES CHURCH COLLECTION

Treasurer of Lindsay Church is Robbed of $140.

LINDSAY, Ont., April 10.—A sneak thief entered the home of Mr. Mat Sisson, treasurer of St. Paul's Anglican Church, on Sunday and stole $140, the Easter collection. Mr. Sisson had taken home the money from morning services for safe keeping. Three hundred in another bag was in the same desk, but was overlooked by the thief. Chief Lawler was notified at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, but on account of the storm no foot prints were discernible. The entry was made through a window just off the verandah. Many houses have been broken into in Lindsay lately though not such a large sum of money has been stolen.

BOARD OF TRADE FORMED TWICE

Organizations at Hastings Short Lived—Revival Considered.

MAY MOVE MEMORIAL.

HASTINGS, April 10.—Two separate and distinct efforts have been made to establish and maintain a Board of Trade in the village of Hastings. Each time the board was fully organized and before anything of major importance had been accomplished, the organization ceased to exist, or lay dormant since there was apparently no definite motion made to discontinue. At the present time there is no Board of Trade in the village but several energetic and ambitious men are working together for the benefit of the community, and for the advancement of its interests. Whenever there is even the faintest opportunity to interest a manufacturer or other business man in the possibilities which Hastings has to offer his business, every effort is put forward. Although nothing definite has been done as yet, there are rumors to the effect that a third attempt may be made to establish the Board sometime in the near future.

The original Board of Trade of the village of Hastings was organized April 2, 1913, and continued to function till April 22, 1914. At the first meeting, T. A. Coughlin was appointed secretary of the Board and the other officers were not elected till the following meeting, April 17th. The first president, F. W. Fowlds, and the vice-president, C. B. Beamish were elected at this meeting. C. B. Beamish and the Late T. R. Learmonth, were appointed a committee to chase up as many new members as possible, and the council was also appointed at the same meeting. This consisted of Messrs. W. Turner, W. P. Plant, Rev. C. S. Bretherton, J. F. McCarthy, J. B. Moore and John Coughlan. At the third meeting, April 22, there were other committees appointed.

In all there were some eleven meetings and when the Board entered on its second year, C. B. Beamish was elected president. His term was not long since the final meeting was held March 28th of that year and for many years the Board of Trade did not exist actively. During its existence, one of the important matters with which it dealt was a better railroad service on the Canadian National, then the Grand Trunk Railway. In this effort, other towns and villages along the line from Peterboro to Belleville joined them, but no appreciable difference was made in the train schedule.

In 1920 some attempt was made to reorganize the Board but nothing came of it till early in the summer of the following year, 1921, when the efforts of some of the business men and citizens seemed about to bear fruit. The officers of the Board on this occasion were: W. B. Plant, president; L. E. Kelly, vice-president Malcolm Baker, treasurer, and C. P. Doughty, secretary. This time the board was even shorter lived than the original Board had been. After nine meetings, the organization ceased to be in active existence although several citizens feel that some organization should be in the village. There is a feeling that individual effort can not possibly obtain the results that the concentrated effort of a group of men who represent the entire community, would bring about.

At the present time there is some discussion as to the advisability of removing the war memorial from its present site near the town dock in the park to a site near the Town Hall on the top of the hill at the head of Memorial Avenue. As yet, no action has been taken. The memorial is a grey granite structure standing some ten feet high. It is mounted on a two tier base which elevated the monument itself approximately another four feet. On the side next to the river are inscribed the names of the twenty men from the community who were killed overseas. The monument is flanked on either side by a German machine gun and in rear, a mobile trench mortar of one of the smaller types. Should this monument be moved to the purposed site, the tribute to men of the community would be represented by a very complete ensemble. The street itself has been named Memorial Avenue. The twenty nine trees planted along it are in memory of the fallen heroes. Now it is proposed to place the memorial in a prominent position on the brow of the hill overlooking this wide, paved street with its line of shade trees along either edge of the pavement. The condition of the ground, due to the season of the year would not permit the work to be commenced immediately, but several have expressed the opinion that with the drying up of the soil, some definite move will be made.

SEEK TO RECOVER GRAFTON CHURCH

Action Entered For Assizes at Cobourg By Continuing Presbyterians.

PORT HOPE, Ont., April 10.—(Canadan Press.)— Action was entered in the Supreme Court of Ontario yesterday by John W. Aird, on behalf of himself and all other members of the Presbyterian Church at Grafton, against William H. Johnston, J. C. Hutchison, and John Underwood, Grafton, seeking recovery of the church and manse property at that village, long known as St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. It is expected that the action will come before Hon. Mr. Justice Rose for hearing at the Spring assizes of the Supreme Court, which opens at Cobourg on April 16.

Owing to the fact that the Sir Arthur Currie-Wilson-Preston libel action, which is expected to last two or three weeks and another jury action were entered prior to this, it is thought that the Aird v. Johnston, Hutchison, Underwood case will not be heard until some time in May.

At the recent session of the Ontario Legislature, application was made by Mr. Aird and the congregation he represents, to the Private Bills Committee for legislation covering the unusual situation which has arisen in connection with the church property. In view of the fact that the matter is already before the courts, the Private Bills committee did not report to the Legislature on the application.

The statements of claim and defence, filed to-day, are very extensive. The plaintiff, in his statement of claim, points out that the church property and manse property were conveyed to the trustees of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by John Grover and Hon. George Strange Boulton. It is claimed that in conformity with the provisions of the trust daed, the congregation worships under the Westminster Confession of Faith.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR SPRING TIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic Is All You Need.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children active and strong. Send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and you will receive free a little booklet, "Building Up the Blood." You will find it very useful.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

COUNTRIES FORGING TRADE AGREEMENTS

WASHINGTON, April 10. —Basil Miles, American administrative commissioner at the Paris headquarters of the International Chamber of Commerce, thinks economic rapprochement between France and Germany, is being accelerated because of a growing understanding of self interest in the results, and that real stability in Europe is no longer a dream but a practical realization.

More powerful forces than those of politics have impelled this economic "getting together" of the former enemies, according to Mr. Miles, in a report to the American section of the International Chamber made public to-day by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"Too often political considerations have dominated European business policies," he said. "In this case, natural forces have proved more powerful, although many writers have tried to screen them behind the shadow of a national policy.

"But Germany and France have natural economic associations—they are associated by the fact that each produces in large degree what the other desires to consume in corresponding proportion—the wines, silks and other luxury articles of France, against the varied industrial production of Germany.

"Critics are beginning to regard this growing development as marking another milestone in the economic isolation of Great Britain from the Continent of Europe, Great Britain turning more and more to the consolidation of the far-flung British Empire as an economic unit, as the other countries turn more and more to their immediate neighbors.

"At the same time, Great Britain has not participated as largely as others in the cartelization of Europe, and there is a growing tendency to ignore British collaboration as being too complicated to obtain.

"The result creates much comment on the possible continuation of the process until Great Britain drifts into another unit—the British Empire."

Reporting that the first quarter of 1928 was probably the best period in a general sense since the war Mr. Miles continued:

"This period showed many tendencies at work which proved more permanent than others which have preceded them for the reason that European economic reconstruction is no longer an ideal of the vague future but something clearly in sight, most of whose difficulties have been overcome. For lack of a better practical measure, the stabilization of currencies—the life blood of trade—may be applied with remarkable results.

"Apprehension that any important country is to have its currency go in off the the deep end and descend to the submarine abysses of the past, have practically vanished. On the contrary, present apprehensions, as in the case of France, are that stabilization is going more and more in an upward, not downward, direction.

"The net result is that Europe has prosperity in clear view. In individual countries this prosperity is already assured; in general it is certainly regarded as imminent."

MOUNT FOREST MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Other Occupants of Car Badly Shaken Up in Accident.

Guelph, Ont., April 10. -- Jack Doyle, of Mount Forest, died in the General Hospital last night as the result of injuries received when a car in which he was a passenger was struck by the 5.30 C.P.R. passenger train from Hamilton, at the Allen Bridge level crossing. Jiacome Carrere, driver of the car, was injured, while William Ancell, from Guelph, suffered only a slight shaking up. The car, which was proceeding toward the downtown district, was badly wrecked. Coroner Dr. T. Horton examined the body last night, and ordered an inquest for the morning.

GREAT OIL TERMINAL BUILDING IN RUSSIA

American Engineer Tells of Activities He Saw in Caucasian Fields.

MOSCOW, April 10—An interesting sidelight on the Anglo-American oil war is given by an American industrial, Stephen Brooks, President of the Brooks Engineering Corporation of Los Angeles, manufacturing oil fields equipment, who has just returned from a two months' tour of the Caucasian fields.

Mr. Brooks was particularly impressed by the new field of the "Grozneft," as the Grozny Oil Trust is called here, which he said was now producing 100,000 barrels a day of high-quality oil.

Under the efficient management of M. Oparin and M. Akerman, both of whom spent a considerable period in the United States studying the latest American methods, the Grozny field is exploited in model fashion, with wells so spaced as to give the maximum results at lowest cost. All this post-revolution development is on former Crown land.

The chief feature of the Grozny project is a new ten-inch pipe line to pump crude oil 350 kilometers to the port of Tuapse, where work is in progress which by the end of the year will make it, in Mr. Brooks' opinion, the finest refinery and export terminal in the world. One-third of the pipe line already has been laid under the supervision of an American expert, J. I. Allen of Los Angeles, who spent the Winter training 130 Russian engineers to complete the welding of the rest of the pipe already strung across country as soon as the weather permits.

The refinery building at Tuapse will have a daily output of 40,000 barrels and the terminal will be able to load tankers from each unit at the rate of 10,000 barrels hourly.

The winding river is being straightened down a mile long valley and solid stone houses to accommodate 240 families are already scattered artistically over the hillside. Concrete roads are building and the foundation of the refinery, which will be accompanied by a complete machine plant, foundry, storage tanks, etc, has been laid.

"During ten months since the work began,' said Mr. Brooks, "the rate of progress and the scope and disposition of the plant compare more than favorably with anything I have seen in America."

SAYS IMPROBABLE POWERS WILL AGREE TO RESERVATIONS

Borah Voices Opinion Regarding U. S. Entry Into World Court.

TWO MOVES POSSIBLE.

Discuss Proposal President Coolidge Re-opens Negotiations With Powers.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (A.P.)—Echoes of the Senates fight over United States entry into the world court were stirred yesterday by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, implacable foe of the tribunal, who voiced his opinion that it was "altogether improbable" that foreign powers would agree on reservations attached to this country's proposed membership.

The chairman of the foreign relations committee was discussing the resolution of Senator Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, now before the committee, proposing that President Coolidge reopen negotiations with world powers who have objected to the reservations under which this country would join the court. His attack was listened to with hardly a word of protest from Senators, who at the last session voted for the court entry.

Two Moves Possible

Senator Borah declared there were only two moves possible in the deadlock, and that action on either seemed "altogether improbable." The president, he said, is without power to act, even at the suggestion of the Senate. He declared the only possible avenues of progress lay in reconsideration by the objecting nations to their positions and he did not think either likely.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, and who led the successful fight for Senate ratification of the world court protocol, confirmed the declaration of the Idaho senator, that the Senate would not recede from its position.

However, the Virginian did think the twenty-three world powers who had objected particularly to Article 5 of the reservations—forbidding the court to give advisory opinions without the consent of all countries involved—had left the door open to further negotiations, and he complained that Mr. Coolidge had not taken adantage of such opportunity.

While Senator Swanson could see no harm in Senate approval of a resolution suggestion to the president that he seek further word from the world powers on their opposition to America's reservations, Senator Borah insisted such a move was "idle," that the only action possible to be taken would be reconsideration by the Senate of its position. He offered to ask the Senate to reconsider Article 5 and freely predicted overwhelming defeat of such a move. The debate broke over protests by Senator Reed, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota, against propaganda for the Gillett Resolution emanating, they said, from the American Foundation, Inc, maintaining the American peace award. Senator Shipstead resented activities of those who would capitalize ideals for peace to "carry on a swindle".

HISTORY EXPLAINED.

School Children of British Columbia Observe Anniversary of Discovery.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 10. —(Canadian Press.)—School children of the province on the 150th anniversary of the landing of Capt. James Cook at Nootka were given a historical outline of the event and its significance in retaining what is today the province of British Columbia under the British flag. The historical extract was prepared under the auspices of the Native Sons of British Columbia, and was circulated to all schools by the provincial department of education.

COLD WEATHER STOPS FLOODS

Conditions Still Serious in Eastern Ontario and Quebec.

ICE JAMS DANGEROUS.

MONTREAL, April 10 (Canadian Press).—The cold weather which continued to prevail throughout the Province of Quebec to-day prevented a further rise in many rivers and the flood situation in many districts, though still serious, was considered halted, at least temporarily. While the waters in the swollen rivers continued to recede, ice jams, which were holding up the natural courses of streams, presented a constant menace and several districts experienced still further damages from that source. The condition in the eastern townships, the heaviest sufferers, continued to improve.

Waters Receding.

OTTAWA, April 10 (Canadian Press).—Continued cold weather has practically eliminated the flood menace in this district. All yesterday and last night the waters receded before the chilling wind around Ottawa, whereas from Pembroke, Renfrew and Quyon reports were that the floods were disappearing and citizens were busily engaged in repairing the damage which had been done.

OSTEOPATH UNABLE TO RECOVER FEES

MONTREAL, Que., April 10. —(Canadian Press.)—The right of an osteopath, who is not licensed to practice medicine by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, to recover alleged fees for services rendered, is denied by Mr. Justice Bond, of the Superior Court, who, while awarding Philip Holliday, osteopath, $31 on a claim of $1,472 against Lady C. Minnie Reid, widow of the Newfoundland Railway magnate, dismissed the rest of the claim on the ground that it was for medical services which the plaintiff had no right to render.

MILLBROOK MAN INJURED BY SAW

Irwin Hatherly Has Index Finger of Left Hand Badly Cut.

MILLBROOK, April 10. — Irwin Hatherly had the index finger of his left hand rather badly cut on Friday while assisting with the wood-cutting machine at his neighbor's, L. Larmer's. Mr. Hatherly had been helping with the cutting all week and was placing the last wood in position, a bundle of light limb, which bent unexpectedly before the rapidly-revolving saw, giving no time to save his hand before a slice had been cut from the outside of the finger by the circular disk. Miss Helen Larmer, who has had some practical training as a nurse, gave first aid in binding up the wound, Mr. Hatherly coming as soon as possible to Dr. H. A. Turner's office, where the needed medical attention was secured. Five minutes more and the work with the wood cutting would have been completed, had not the accident occurred.

STIRLING COMMUNITY.

in rear, over the foyer, is of generous proportions to permit efficient work at the machines. Of these, there are two. They are not entirely new, but have been brought up-to-date and silenced by the replacement and addition of parts.

The entire front of the first floor of the building is occupied by a dance floor and accommodations such as cloak rooms and kitchen for preparing lunches, the kitchen is equipped to cater to as large a crowd as could possibly be accommodated by the floor.

The west side front of the ground floor will be the Stirling Hydro Shop and it is expected that it will be open for business almost immediately. The entire building is heated by a 'Keewanee steam heating plant' manufactured in Keewanee Ill. The decorations are of fumed oak with walls and ceilings in old ivory, with the exception of dance hall and other upper floors which are of highly polished hardwood, the floors are of a concrete like substance finished with an oil polish.

The entire building is a decided credit to the community and the management has every reason to anticipate a substantial financial realization on the funds invested.

EASTER MUSIC WELL RENDERED

Campbellford Congregations Observe Day With Songs of Praise.

IN ALL CHURCHES.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 10.—All the churches in Campbellford marked the Easter season with special services. Some of the local pulpits were occupied by visiting clergymen, and in all the churches there was special music.

At the morning service in St. John's United Church there was a duet, "Magdalene" (Warren, sung by Miss Ruth Taylor and Miss Irene Stephens; and an anthem, "Awake, Thou That Sleepest," (Maher). In the evening, there were two anthems, "We Declare Unto You Glad Tidings" (Maunder), and the anthem of the morning repeated after the benediction. The solo in the first number was sung by Mrs. H. O. Richardson. "An Easter Allelujah," quartette was sung by Misses Cherrie Turner and Irene Stephens and Messrs. George Lucy and Walter Henson; a violin solo by Cecil Searles, "Hosanna" (Jules Grainer) and a selection by the orchestra completed the musical program for the service. The orchestra consisted of Messrs A. Hazell, R. Hazel, and Searles, and E. C. Dolman.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church the morning service had as musical numbers, "Open the Gates of the Temple" (Fanny Crosby); a tenor solo by J. W. Russel, Buffalo, "O, Man of Sorrows" (H. Baynton-Powers); a soprano solo by Miss Helen MacDonald, and an anthem, "Awake Up, My Glory" (Barnby) by the choir.

In the evening, Mrs. Fred Free sang Jules Granier's "Hosanna." Mr. Russell also sang D'Armand's "When I Look In His Face." The anthems by the choir were "The Victory" (Caleb Simper) and "Hallelujah! King of Kings" (Clare). The solos in the anthem were sung by Miss Helen MacDonald. The Rev. L. H. Fowler, Warkworth, occupied the pulpit at both services.

In Christ Church, the Holy Communion was dispensed at eight o'clock. At the eleven o'clock service the Holy Communion was sung, using the setting by Maunder in F. There was a special children's service at three o'clock, and in the evening the evensong service. The Easter music consisted of two anthems by the choir, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" and "He is Risen." The former as sung at the morning service; the latter in the evening. The Rev. N. Clarke Wallace conducted the services.

The Baptist Church also enjoyed special Easter music, both morning and evening. The services were conducted by the Rev. L. M. Smith, who selected as his subjects, "The Easter Glory" for the morning, and "The Easter Message" for the evening.

In St. Mary's Church, Mass and Holy Communion were celebrated at 8.30, with High Mass being sung at 10.30. At 7 o'clock in the evening, Vespers were sung. The Rev. Father O'Hara, Toronto, and the Rev. Father Phelan of the local parish officiated at the services.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES E. BAILEY.

MARMORA, April 10.—It is a long time since so many horse drawn vehicles were seen to enter Marmora village from the surrounding townships as on Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. James E. Bailey was laid to rest. Roads, bad as they were, were not considered an obstacle too great when it came to paying last respects to that life so marked with devotion.

The impressive service at St. Paul's Church was taken by the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, before an overflowing congregation. His comforting message was based on the familiar text, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth, but I go that I may awake him out of sleep." The large number of floral emblems included one from St Paul's Church choir, of which the deceased was a members, and one from the A.Y.P.A., of which Miss Annie Bailey is president.

The pall bearers were: W. Linn, R. E. Bonter, C. Jones, I. McCoy, Don Shannon, and F. Billings.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Peters, and Mrs. R. Jones, of Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. G. Bailey and Mrs. I. Heath, of Harold; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Lough, of Springbrook.

The Governor of Trebizond, in Asiatic Turkey, has issued an order prohibiting women from wearing the veil publicly, because it interferes with their right to earn their own living by working, is unhealthful, and furnishes an easy disguise against police.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

Above at the right the big collar sanctioned by Vionet of Paris. It is of white georgette and is worn with a black cloth dress. Below this is a deep bertha collar with a bow of ecru Alencon lace. The lace collar with ruffle at one side and jabot at the other shows an unusual arrangement of gold ring. The long pleated jabot at the left is of chiffon attached to a narrow collar with hemstitched cuffs to match. It is worn with a printed green and white frock with a green belt placed over the end of the jabot.

Patou—a conservative French dressmaker who was among the first to design special sports apparel—

Drecoll—whose faultless creations so many well-dressed actresses admire—

Cyber—famous for picturesque afternoon frocks—

Premet—always very Parisienne, simple, elegant—

Worth—still first choice with the old aristocracy of France—still the dressmaker of queens—

Chanel—who knows the value of youthful lines, fine handwork, and the patronage of well-dressed Americans—

Doucet—known for more than a hundred years for clothes of conservative good taste—

These are the dressmakers who at present sponsor the touch of lingerie at the neckline—sometimes at neck and cuff. Endorsed by a list like this who can doubt that the "touch of lingerie" will win out and that before long the frock that touches skin at neck or throat without some bit of lace or lawn, pique or muslin will be as unusual as it was in days before the war? After all the collarless frock was a war measure—a war measure that continued because women had grown lazy in matters of dress and didn't want to be bothered with bits of lingerie that showed marks of soil and had to be changed every day or two.

On black satin frocks these lingerie accessories are often of flesh-colored georgette. Sometimes they are of cream color or beige or even of a light tinted color to blend with the darker tone of the frock. Worth has hit upon the clever idea of making a sort of fichu from large linen handkerchiefs.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1928.

This should be a favorable day for most of the activities of men and women on this planet, Earth.

The early morning is an auspicious time to seek advice from lawyers or men of experience, but not from women.

There is a fair prospect of success for those who seek any sort of employment. Women may be less lucky than men.

Positions of great prominence are to be attained by women in the year of 1928, but there may be many disappointments among the ambitious, the seers foretell.

This is a lucky day for dealing with banks and for settling all financial matters.

Under this sway it is well to avoid courtship unless for a marriage of convenience.

Love is likely to be capricious in its manifestations and those who follow the direction of the heart may be easily deceived, astrologers declare.

Again there is a sign presaging unrest and dissatisfaction in labor circles.

The problem of turnover and unemployment is to be solved, or at least aided by a policy that will win a great following for a legislator, it is foretold.

Manufacturers are warned by astrologers that fashions are to bring them great losses as well as great gains.

Leather dealers have the forecast of prosperity and profit, even they are to have a jar from Dame Fashion.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of journeys and increase of responsibility. They should concentrate on business and avoid courtship this year.

Children born on this day may be fond of dress and amusement. The subjects of this sign usually like all the luxuries.

TURNS WOOD INTO METAL

That he has perfected a process for turning wood into metal is the claim of Wladimir J. Einstein, who has been demonstrating his discovery before the Air Ministry of England. If his claims are substantiated it is proposed to construct of this material the envelope of the new British semi-rigid airship now being designed. Einstein claims that by his process any substance may be dipped into a metal bath and become five to 10 times as strong as the original, waterproof, and of three times greater durability.

MILLER WILL REPLACE GOALIE

Play for Rangers in Third Game of Stanley Cup Series.

CHABOT INJURED

MONTREAL, Que., April 10.—(Canadian Press)—Joe Miller, relief goalkeeper of the National Hockey League, will replace the injured Lorne Chabot in the nets for the New York Rangers in the third of the series of Stanley Cup games against the Montreal Maroons at the Forum to-night. Miller, down from his home in Ottawa, went through a light practice with the New York team this morning to fit himself as far as possible into the system of the champions of the United States section.

Decision to use the Ottawa athlete in the Ranger net for the balance of the series was reached at a meeting yesterday between leaders of the two contending clubs and President Frank Calder of the N.H.L. In Miller, the Rangers obtain for the remainder of the finals a goalie who is fairly conversant with the team's system. Miller having played the first half of the N.H.L. campaign in goal for the New York Americans. He was later sent to Niagara Falls by the Americans, but Boston claimed that they had not waived on the goalie and he was placed on the Boston list. Miller, however, being allowed to remain at Niagara Falls, but on the understanding that he would be available as a relief goalkeeper in the N.H.L. if his services were required.

Smart Goalkeeper.

Miller, a hockey, rugby and baseball star in his amateur days in Ottawa, is regarded as a smart goalkeeper.

There is a coincidence in the appearance of Joe Miller in Chabot's position to-night. In the same net that Chabot received a serious injury to his left eye when struck by a puck in the game Saturday night, Miller was also laid low by a hard-driven shot in one of the last games on local ice, the puck striking him near the right eye. Miller, though wanting to return to the fray after a short rest, was kept out for the balance of the game. Just as Lester Patrick rose to the heights as a relief for Chabot Saturday, so in that game in which Miller was injured, Normie Himes, crafty American centre, earned the plaudits of the crowd for his plucky display against the Canadien sharpshooters.

Heartened by their victory in the second game of the Stanley Cup series, in which they tied the series with Maroons at one game each, the New York Rangers are itching to get into the third contest at the Forum to-night. The New Yorkers have been worked up to a fighting pitch over the developments in the series to date; there is perfect confidence between players and manager and manager and players, as was exemplified Saturday; and in such brilliant stars as Frank Boucher, Bill Cook and Ching Johnson, they pack a scoring threat.

With the series knotted and the winner of the third game certain to take immense benefit into any future games in the series which is for the best three out of five, the Maroons will be a determined crew when they take the ice to-night. The players came out of Saturday's conflict in excellent condition.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

JIMMY HERBERTS GOES TO DETROIT

Cash and Player Exchanged for Leaf's Star Centre Man.

DETROIT, Mich., April 10.—(A.P.)—The deal completed Saturday which brings Jimmy "Sailor" Herberts, centre ice man on the Toronto Maple Leafs to the Detroit Cougars in exchange for $15,000 cash and Jack Arbour, late manager of the Detroit Olympics, has elated local hockey fans.

In acquiring the rugged, sure shooting Herberts, the Detroit hockey club has succeeded in filling a big hole in the Cougars front line besides uniting former teammates, Herberts and Carson Cooper, who played together with the Boston Bruins.

Hays, a third member of the vanguard, completes a splendid combination.

It is also considered fair that Arbour who left the Cougars to manage the Olympics should be given another go in the major circuit.

Charles A. Hughes, president of the Detroit Club, considers Herberts one of the best centre ice players in the game.

HUDDERSFIELD BACK IN LEAD

Deposed Leader of English League Moves Up Past Everton.

BEATS BIRMINGHAM

LONDON, England, April 10 (Canadian Press Cable)—Attendance at soccer matches in England yesterday were:

Aston Villa versus West Ham United	35,000
Portsmouth versus Sheffield United	33,000
Huddersfield Town versus Birmingham	30,000
Leicester City versus Bury	30,000
Manchester United versus Bolton Wanderers	30,000
Oldham Athletic versus Chelsea	30,000

Games were played on the grounds of the clubs named first.

Huddersfield Town, after a slump on Saturday, were back in tip-top form again yesterday. They were never in danger against Birmingham. Dent resigstered in the sixth minute of play and again just before half time. Huddersfield just monkeyed with their opponents in the second half, but made no effort to increase their score.

Naturally Portsmouths win against Sheffield United was a popular one with a home town crowd, as it put them further away from the chance of relegation at the end of the season. Portsmouth went into the lead after three minutes of play through Cook. Johnson equalized on a brilliant shot from Gillespies pass. After half time Portsmouth scored through Irvine and Weddle, the latter netting twice.

Leicester City and Bury battled along in dour fashion, though Leicester had a lead until almost the last minute. Hine and Lockhead put the city ahead in the first half, though Bradshaw reduced them to one up. Robbie got the equalized a minute from the final whistle.

Manchester United owed their victory over Bolton Wanderers to the clever goaling of Johnstone and Rawlings. McClelland scored for Bolton.

Chelsea were ahead of Oldham at the interval through Thains goal. After the turn-round Oldham started bustling tactics which came off. Watson registered for Oldham five minutes from time and then Harris netted on a snap-shot.

Fulham put up a fine game against Manchester City. They got into a lead through Temple, but Tait equalized before half time. The second half was well contested, neither side being able to find the net.

Scorers in Scottish games were: McPhail and Cunningham, the latter three times for the Rangers; Muir, twice, and Wood for Airdrieonians, and Thomson for Celtic.

ELECT OFFICERS AT MEETING

Bob. Batley to Head C. G. E. Softball League on Coming Year.

RULES DISCUSSED

The annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric softball club was held last night in the laboratory lecture hall of the local plant. Last year the softball intershop league was formed previous to the founding of the Social and Athletic Association while this season it is affiliated with the parent organization. E. Hardie, past president of the league occupied the chair, and explained a list of by-laws which seemed to be too indefinite in last year's rules. The office team captured the cup last year and it will be presented to them at the next social event. It was decided that the games will be seven innings affairs and will be played under the Ontario Softball rules with additional by-laws.

Bob Batley of the Industrial Control was elected for the ensuing year while Ed. Barry of the office is to act as secretary. The executive committee consists of C. H. Jay, Bud Weese and Jack McCarney.

Eight different zones were represented and prospects are for a bumper year in the league. Another meeting will be held next Monday to discuss new ruling and make further plans.

YANKEES ARE FAVORITES TO WIN PENNANT

Open American League Season With Washington at U. S. Capital.

PRO. COMMENT

National League Race Showing Great Season for Long Shots.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

The New York Yankees are the odds-on-favorite in the American League race that has an advance and solitary showing today in the nation's capital, but it is a great season for long shots in the National League derby.

Seven of the eight clubs in the older circuit will have at least a voice in the debate even if all are not actually able to carry the argument into the final stages of the campaign. Only the Phillies are dismissed from calculations that promise the biggest and most exciting National League scramble in years.

The National's policy seems to be for more and louder pennant arguments in contrast to the Yankee notion of making it a private fight. There were four outstanding pennant contenders in the National League race last year and a fifth club, Cincinnati, having a lot to say about the order of finish.

In such a free-for-all as the one that gets under way this Wednesday it is only natural to find in blossom, if not in full bloom, hopes and aspirations that have not been so conspicuous through the last few years. The Chicago Cubs, for instance, haven't won a pennant since 1918. They threatened last year but didn't have enough experience to stand the gaff. Right now Joe McCarthy's ambitious young men are perhaps the best long shot of the National League campaign.

Main Contenders.

The Cubs are not the only worry in sight for the twin-favorites of the race, the Pirates and Cardinals. These two are generally picked to be the main contenders. They were only a game and a half apart at the close of last season and they may be just as close again but in addition to watching each other they will need to keep an eye on the Giants, Braves, Robins and Reds.

It was the headache they acquired trying to win the pennant-deciding game from Cincinnati last season that affected the Pirates in the world's series. The Bucs were exhausted from the strain of battling a club that was only fifth in the final standing but which was playing as good ball as any outfit in the league at the close. These Reds are starting the race with the same outfit that was so troublesome late last year, plus the benefit of having their Cuban star, Adolfo Luque, in the best shape of his career.

The guiding hand of Rogers Hornsby is already apparent in the progress of the Boston Braves. Rogers has displayed a genius for leadership. He brought the Cardinals up in the first division after a hard fight in 1925, led them to the pennant in 1926 and had a big part in the great drive of the Giants last season. He has different material to work with this season but his dynamic presence on the field will make the Braves a tough team to beat.

Meanwhile the Giants, under the indomitable guidance of McGraw, seems to have overcome much of the handicap of Hornsby's sudden departure. If Cohen can plug the second base gap the club will be a contender.

Brooklyn, with as great a pitching staff as any club in either league and new strength elsewhere, may be an important factor in the race. The Robins have a habit of making themselves conspicuous every four years and this is the year they are due.

But like most of the other clubs, even among the favorites, Brooklyn has some weak spots. The Cubs have infield uncertainties and the Pirates a pitching worry or two. The Cardinals could use another outfield star. Ther are question marks at second base and in the box for the Giants.

As in the National, seven American League clubs are shooting at the same mark. The difference is that one group is aiming at the pennant while the other is shooting at the Yankees. The Athletics seem well equipped to do the most consistent firing. Connie Mack has plenty of reserves on hand to replace any of his veterans who show signs of weakening.

Dyspepsia Troubled Him for Many Years

Senior Petes to enter C.O.B.L. despite rumors to the contrary, settled at meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

Bob Batley was elected president of the C.G.E. Intershop Softball League at an enthusiastic meeting held last night. The boys of the electric plant had a strong league last year and every indication points to another bumper season. It is rumored that they may enter a team in the City Softball League.

Sunday amateur baseball has at last been favored by a majority at the O.B.A.A. annual meeting. For many years Sabbath ball has been strongly debated at the annual sessions but this year it was definitely decided by the delegates of the West and East combining their votes to defeat Toronto and other central points.

• • • • • • •

The Holy Name is to have a baseball league this year composed of teams made up from the three parishes, St. Peter's, Sacred Heart and Immaculate Conception. While nothing definite is known as yet, the league will be divided into three ranks, midget, juvenile and junior. A meeting will be held in the near future to elect officers and draw up a schedule.

• • • • • • •

Manager Joe Daley of the Kingston Ponies is anxious to get his team candidates into action as soon as possible. His line-up is a mystery but he has most of last year's regulars and a big flock of youngsters to pick from. Belleville has much the same team as they had in 1926 and with the addition of a few youngsters from the junior leagues they are counting on making a good showing this season.

President Coolidge Opens Ball Season

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(Canadian Press)—Opening the American League's 1928 campaign a day ahead of the other entries, Washington and Boston will play here to-day with President Coolidge in the grandstand. Mr. Coolidge will do the usual tossing of the first ball onto the diamond, aiming it at Clarence Owens, umpire-in-chief for the opening ceremony.

Vice-President Dawes, Speaker Longworth, members of the Cabinet and other officials are expected to be among the spectators for part of the game at least.

TEACHERS ENDORSE INTERCHANGE PLAN

Secondary School Federation of Ontario Discusses Many Matters.

TORONTO, April 10. — The interchange of teachers among the provinces of the Dominion, was approved by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation yesterday.

The motion, which was introduced by Dr. E. A. Hardy, is intended to provide opportunity for teachers, in the several Canadian provinces, to change for periods of one year with teachers in other provinces. It is hoped that such interchange if approved by the Department of Education, will make for a better understanding among the provinces.

The question of granting teachers whose academic course was interrupted by their sepwice overseas, recognition which would place them in the position to which they would have attained had they not lost time through war service, was discussed. The matter will be taken up with the Department of Education. Teachers, who were teaching at the time they enlisted have been generously dealt with by the Department.

Plan to Present Play.

A committee was appointed to work in conjunction with Hart House with a view to the presentation in Ontario centres of plays that are on the high school curriculum.

F. W. Goldstone, secretary of the National Union of Teachers of England and Wales offered visiting Ontario teachers membership in that association. The local association reciprocated by passing a motion that will give a similar privilege to teachers from the National Union visiting in Ontario.

With a view to ascertaining how much teachers are paid in the various high school districts, and how much the ratepayers can afford to pay, a financial survey will be taken.

The Federation endorsed the Central Ontario Secondary School Association, which will take charge of all inter-school activities in the district. The West and East inter-school districts have been most successful. The new district will have its head office in Toronto.

Group Insurance.

If a sufficient number of teachers support the scheme, it was decided that a system of group insurance will be inaugurated.

A happy incident of the meeting was a brief call in which Mrs. Groves introduced to the gathering Mrs. Lindbergh and Miss Dawson. Mrs. Lindbergh graciously thanked the educationists for their welcome.

W. Keast, B.A., president, was in the chair, and there were present delegates from 14 Ontario districts. A membership of 2400, the highest record, was reported by the secretary. Officers in attendance, included W. D. Lowe, M.A., Windsor; Lieut.-Col. W. C. Michell, M.C., W. T. Sinclair, B.A. Miss R. J. McQueen, B.A. Stratford; J. H. Hardy, B.A., Perth; G. A. Clark, Drayton; A. G. McLeish, B.A.Sc., Hamilton; W. H. Tuke, B.A., Haileybury; A. S. Zavitz, B.A. Peterboro; E. A. Hardy, B.A., D.Paed., and S. H. Henry, M.A.

Opening Ball Game May Be Postponed

WASHINGTON, April 10 (Canadian Press)—A mixture of rain, sleet, and snow greeted local fans early to-day and made doubtful the chances of the American League opener getting under way between Washington and Boston. President Coolidge will start the curtain raiser with no chance that he will be batted from the mound, for he has to throw but one ball, and the fireworks can start.

The opening a day ahead here was arranged so that the President could participate in the ceremonies initiating the season of 1928. The Senators will jump to Boston to-morrow for the second game of the series.

WHIRLWIND THRILLS.

"Wolf's Clothing," the Warner Bros. production, now playing at the Regent Theatre, is holding audiences in a steady grip of thrills and laughs. It is good comedy and good melodrama and through it all runs the glamor of a real romance.

The story by Arthur Somers Roche tells of a subway guard who has come to New York from the country in order to enjoy the life of the Great White Way. But his job is a night job and the train upon which he works, while it runs along Broadway, runs under the big street, and the guard never gets a chance to see what the White Lights are like. That is, not until one New Year's Eve, and then he sees sights that open up his great big blue eyes.

Looking on at the same time is a society girl, who had never ventured to the White Way before without being heavily chaperoned. She cuts loose from convention on New Year's Eve and goes "slumming" alone away from Park Avenue in a wild night club.

She meets the subway guard and thinks he is a great gentleman. And she fairly knocks him off his feet with lovelike emotion. They are having a whale of a time when they run into a crook mystery that carries them through a whirlwind of melodramatic excitement.

This excitement is intensifiied through the excellent production that the Warner Bros. have given to the story. Monte Blue is the star, and he is a star who is steadily increasing in popularity. As the subway guard he has a chance to show melodramatic force, somedy, pathos, tenderness, and rip-snorting joy of life. It is a role made for Monte Blue and he acts it with contagious glee.

Playing opposite him is Patsy Ruth Miller, as the society girl, who has her Arabian Night. She plays the role beautifully. And vivid performances are given by John Miljan and Douglas Gerrard.

Roy Del Ruth gets credit for the excellent direction.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE CRYSTAL CUP."

This is one of the pictures that depict the woes of the idle rich, and is interesting, as it draws portraits of the exotic lives of the more luxurious denizens of society. In its early stages it gives the impression of censoring shears, and because of that, loses some of the planned effect. Later, there is a sudden let down in the attitude of the heroine. She has posed constantly as a mannish type abhorring the idea of love and marriage, and then without any particular reason, except the assertion of a couple of gossiping women that she requires a chaperon, capitulates completely.

Dorothy Mackaill has the role of Gita Carteret, who has a gambling, drink-ridden father, and decides early in life that all men are beasts. She swaggers through several scenes, clad in masculine attire, except for a straight skirt, that is made rather long, drives her nice, white-haired grandmother to distraction with her repeated exclamations of hatred of men, and gives a very creditable imitation of the Prince of Wales. Whenever conversation fails her she lights a cigarette, man-style, and continues this pantomine for some time.

Her grandmother has assured her that love is the cup of happiness, crystal clear ,but she scoffs at the idea. Eustace Bylant an author in search of novel material, happens along, and cultivates her acquaintance, while the real hero, Geoffrey Pleyden (Jack Mulhall) proves a laggard sultor and lingers in the offing while Gita proposes to Eustace, and finally marries him. An extraordinary scene is filmed in the episode where the girl proposes and the man accepts her.

Later, the girl shoots her husband when he pays her an unexpected visit at midnight. He feels that he is not hardy enough to stand up under such treatment, and releases her from her marriage vows. The next scene shows her on a honeymoon trip with Geoffrey—both blissfully happy.

There is a very funny comedy of midnight masqueraders with the serio-comic Hamilton as the main figure. —Jeanette.

Health Worker Suggests Plan To Force Betterment of Housing Conditions.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 10. — (Canadian Press.)—The Health Convenor of the Local Branch of the National Council of Women at a recent meeting said there were houses in the city which caused astonishment that people were allowed to live there. She wondered if a practice of placarding the names of the owners of those, which was done in England, might not have a good effect in remedying conditions.

Mrs. Hooper urged members to interest themselves in the curative powers of sun rays through a glass. She told the interesting story of how an infant welfare centre in London owed its establishment to money left by Queen Matilda in 1148 for masses for her dead children, and become a living prayer for the infant life of the country.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WRONG PICTURE

Jackie Bow Wow, with the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School on one side of him and Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit girl, on the other side, stood looking at the queer, jumbled sign which seemed to read FLA ESOR.

"We ought to paint that sign over for the man who made it," said Jackie, after he had solved the puzzle.

"I think, so, myself," agreed Uncle Wiggily. With a stick dipped in some red mud near a spring of water the rabbit gentleman made the sign read FOR SALE, which it should have been at first. If you did not guess the puzzle last night you know now what it is.

4-5
"I'm in a hurry!" said Mr. Twistytail.

"Well, now that's over," said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose backward, the way the jumbled letters had been, "I think you two children had better go to school."

"Yes, indeed," squeaked the Lady Mouse Teacher. So she took Bunty by one paw and Jackie by the other, though the little mouse lady looked very small between her larger pupils, and back to the Hollow Stump School she hurried with them.

"What are you going to do, Uncle Wiggily?" called back Baby Bunty before she hopped down over the hill and out of sight.

"I'll go look for more adventures," said Mr. Longears.

Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and Uncle Wiggily hopped through the woods and pretty soon Uncle Wiggily saw just ahead of him fat Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman.

"Hello, Mr. Twistytail; please wait for me!" called the rabbit gentleman like a loud speaker on the radio.

Mr. Twistytail, hearing the rabbit's voice, turned about and, shouting like two loud speakers on two radios, said:

"I can't wait! I'm in a hurry taking Squeakie Squealer to Dr. Possum. I'm in a hurry!"

"I wonder what he means—taking Squeakie Squealer to the doctor's?" murmured Mr. Longears. "He hasn't any little pig boy with him. I guess Mr. Twistytail thinks I'm the Fuzzy Fox and he wants to get away. But I'll catch up to him!"

Hopping fast, Uncle Wiggily was soon beside the pig gentleman, and then, to his surprise, Mr. Longears saw that, surely enough, Squeakie Squealer was with his big fat daddy. Only the daddy pig was so fat that when he stood in front of Squeakie no one could see the little chap.

"What's the matter with Squeakie Squealer?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"He seems to have the cryootis," grunted the fat pig.

"The crycotis?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "What in the world is that?"

"Why, Squeakie Squealer cries all the time," said the pig gentleman. "I'm taking him to Dr. Possum to find out the reason for his tears."

Surely enough, Squeakie was crying. But Uncle Wiggily kindly wiped away the tears and said: "I think Squeakie wants to be amused and to think of something besides himself. Here, Squeakie, see if you can tell me what is wrong with this picture?"

With a stick, the rabbit quickly drew in the sand a picture of a barn with a weather vane on top. The arrow of the vane was pointing to show that the wind came from the southwest. Uncle Wiggily made some smoke come out of the chimney of the picture barn and said again:

"What's wrong with that picture, Squeakie?" And the little pig boy was so interested that he forgot all about crying.

WHAT IS WRONG HERE?

PETES STAYING IN SENIOR BALL

Will Enter Central Ontario League As Usual This Year.

WANT SINGLE SCHEDULE.

It was the unanimous decision of a well-attended baseball meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce last night, with President G. S. Matthews in the chair, that Peterborough should continue to be represented in Senior ball, and that the Petes should enter the Central Ontario League with Belleville, Kingston and Oshawa.

It was decided to press for a single schedule with one game a week in preference to the two-game-a-week schedule usually followed in the Central Ontario League. Difficulty in getting players away from work was the chief reason for favoring a schedule of fewer games.

Most of the discussion was in regard to material and to the selection of a manager. Finally a committee composed of Max Swanston, T. H. Holyman, P. A. Johnston, Ray Rose, Alex. Kay, Vic Hamilton and F. D. Craig was appointed to select a manager for this year's team.

Vic Hamilton will represent the Petes at the league meeting in Belleville on Saturday, when the schedule is to be drawn up.

The election of officers will take place at a meeting to be held in the near future.

EMIGRATION RING LEADERS ARRESTED

Fascist Authorities Break Up System of Smuggling People From Italy.

ROME, April 10. — Canadian Press. — A round up of the leaders of a widespread and elaborately organized ring aiding clandestine emigration chiefly to North and South America, was announced by Fascist militia headquarters to-day.

The organization had agents at important points, who aided in stowing away persons aboard ships and in falsifying passports. Prior to embarkation, elaborate provisions were made for harboring the emigrants.

There was a system of motor transport to speed them from one port to another in order to avoid the vigilance of the authorities.

FRIGIDAIRE SALES INCREASE PREDICTED

Local Dealer Returns From Sales Convention Held in Toronto.

"Sales of Frigidaire Electric Refrigerators in 1928 will make this year an unusually successful one—the best in the Frigidaire Corporation's history", it was predicted today by M. B. Perrin, local Frigidaire dealer, on his return from the annual sales convention held in Toronto.

The meeting was one of a series being held in important points throughout the continent.

"We have returned from the convention with a greater realization than ever of the widespread demand for efficient low-priced electric refrigeration," the local dealer said.

"The Company expects to break all records in the current year. In convention covering only sixty per cent. of the continent, dealers have turned in business with a retail volume of over five million dollars, and have pledged volume for the first quarter of nearly thirty million dollars.

"The Frigidaire Corporation, a General Motors subsidiary, has sold more electric refrigerators than all other makes combined. In this convention, we were shown that opportunities for business in 1928 are greater than ever before.

"Selling plans for Frigidaire were announced at the convention. The Company has arranged for vigorous advertising campaigns both in national publications and in newspapers in local fields."

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XX—"Heal the Sick"

IN other words, our American democratic institutions which we cherish with so much pride came not from statesmen or business executives but from church conferences and prayer meetings, from the long continued practice of the Pilgrims in choosing their own pastors, fixing their own conditions of membership, and managing generally their own church affairs.

Our higher education came to us from the same source. Stop for a moment before the gates of Harvard and read the inscription copied from a quaint old document called "New England's First Fruits":

> "After God had carried us safe to New England, and wee had bilded our houses, provided necessaries for our livli-hood, rear'd convenient places for Gods worship, and settled the civill government; one of the next things we longed for, and looked after was to advance learning and perpetuate it to posterity; dreading to leave an illiterate ministry to the churches, when our present ministers shall lie in the dust."

A few ministers coming together, and each of them giving a few books—this was how Harvard College began. Education in America did not start with some millionaire donating a stadium; it started with a sincere hope that learning and religious leadership might be preserved.

"And Godliness"

The charter said that Harvard was founded to promote "the advancement of all good literature, arts and sciences," and the "education of English and Indian youth in knowledge and godliness."

The five great historic New England colleges for men—Harvard, Yale, Amherst, Williams, Dartmouth; the three historic schools for women—Mount Holyoke, Wellesley and Smith—all grew out of the same impulse. And so did the colleges that went with the westward march of civilization toward the Pacic Coast.

If democracy and modern education are the gifts of the church, so also are hospitals for the sick and insane, and all the multitude of agencies for social service in which our civilization has so much pride. "And, as ye go," said Jesus of Nazareth, "preach, saying, The kingdom of Heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils; freely ye have received; freely give."

Body and Soul

His message was a twofold gospel—good news for the body as well as the soul. For a long time the healing portion of the command was considerably neglected. But some centuries before the crusades certain rich and pious merchants of Amalfi were distressed because many people who made pilgrimages to the Holy Land trusted the Lord for everything, including even the common-sense necessities which they ought to have provided for themselves, and so suffered from poverty and sickness.

These Christian merchants determined to establish a hospital and hotel at Jerusalem for poor sick pilgrims. The twin institutions were dedicated to St. John the Almoner, and later to St. John the Baptist, patron saint of the Knights of St. John.

With the coming of the crusades these institutions, and the order which supported them, became one of the most famous of Christian institutions. The Knights were not content to heal wounds, to be sure; they sallied forth to inflict a few on the Saracens—but this is no part of our present story.

The point is that the first people in all the world who ever took it into their heads to establish special care for the sick and unfortunate were Christian men, inspired by the teaching of Him who said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Later on we shall have something to say of the other great religions and how each of them has discovered a magnificent part of the same big truth. We shall ask the question: Which, of all these various faiths, is the best?

Christianity Alone

And we shall find much to be said in favor of the teachings of the gentle Buddha, of the serene Confucius, and even of the vigorous Mohammed. But we shall not find a record of the followers of any of these religions going forth on to battle-fields at the risk of their lives to ease the pain of friends and foes alike. Only Christianity rises to that height.

The American Red Cross is not ostensibly a religious organization. But who was Clara Barton, its founder? I saw her in our home when I was a lad, a quiet and forceful little woman, a distant relative of mine. She made no parade of her religion and hardly admitted that she had a creed. But she had one. And the symbol of the organization which she founded was and is the Cross.

Four Honest Points

So there are these four honest things to be said on the side of the church, as against the record of bigotry and selfishness with which too many of its official pages are indelibly stained:

First—It alone stood firm through vandal invasions and salvaged enough to provide foundations for a new civilization.

Second—Through all the ages it has been faith and kindliness and the hope of immortality to the submerged millions.

Third—Through all the ages it has inspired the finest characters, the sweetest spirits.

Fourth—It gave us our democracy, our higher education, and the tender impulses on which physicians and legislators and social workers have erected their works for the suffering and the poor.

To these four counts we add a final fifth. The church is the one institution in the modern world whose sole business is to create in men dissatisfaction with their own characters, their achievements and ideals.

Tomorrow—The Best Religion?

YOUNG WASHINGTON VISITS WHITE HOUSE

Annual Egg Rolling On Lawns Attracts Hundreds To U.S. Executive Mansion.

WASHINGTON, April 9. — Despite a chilly overcast day, Washington children began early today to take advantage of the hospitality always offered them on Easter Monday at the annual egg rolling on the White House lawn.

From the number of children that entered the Executive grounds as soon as the gates were opened and the rate at which their numbers increased as the day wore on, White House attaches judged that the traditional festivity had lost none of its fascination for Washington's youngsters.

Huntingdon Man Found Drowned Near Madoc

BORN YEAR BEFORE ACCESSION OF THE GOOD QUEEN VICTORIA; MARMORA MAN IS NINETY-TWO

George Albert Wright, Oldest Man in Village, Celebrates Birthday.

TAMED WILD ANIMALS

With Faculties Wonderfully Preserved, He Recalls Pioneer Days.

MARMORA, April 11.—To have been born in the year preceding Queen Victoria's accession is the claim of Marmora's oldest resident, George Albert Wright, who on April 4 passed the ninety-second milestone of his life. Al's great age is not realized by many for his faculties have been wonderfully preserved and it is only recently that failing sight has been complained of and the wonder expressed as to whether or not second sight will be vouchsafed him as he claims it was to a deceased sister. Al is one of several sons born to Weston and Margaret Wright in Adolphustown. His father kept a foundry there following years of employment in the Marmora Iron Works. About seventy years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Weston Wright moved to Rawdon township. Albert, Philip, Dorland Stephen and Cecelia of their children accompanied them, while Zedekiah chose Kingston for his home and Willette emigrated to Michigan. In one year, the Wrights cleared 18 acres in Rawdon Township and sowed it in '1 wheat. This land is in the 11th concession and is at present owned by Alfred Williams. Philip fancied a military career and fought for the north against the south, later taking up land in the States. Al, asked if he was fond of a rifle, replied "You will maybe be surprised, but I never shot with a gun three times in my life." He admitted when interviewed, that he was always fond of driving, not only had he driven oxen, and plowed with them like many an old poineer, but he had taken delight in breaking in steers. Many a time was he chased by wolves. He remarked that they had a fondness of invading the high ridges of what is now known as the Spry Settlement. Taming wild animals was another pet hobby of Marmora's nonagenerian. He delights to speak of the fawns and cubs raised by him. He tells of how he once bargained with a travelling showman to sell him a bear for ten dollars. Money was handed him in payment which after being counted, proved only to be five dollars. By this time the showman and bruin had gone. Al later learnt that the bear broke away from his new owner and successfully hid under a large straw stack. Al recalled the bird life of those early days, eagles were quite numerous, woodpigeons were very plentiful and most destructive in the harvest. Al, with others saved the life of his brother, Dorland when both were lads. They came upon him just as a vicious buck was trampling upon him. Stephen, another brother was drowned in Mud Lake in Rawdon Township at the age of nineteen.

On St. Patrick's Day, 1862, the Rev. Mr. Baxter, Methodist pastor of the then local circuit, united in marriage George Albert Wright and Sarah Ann Danford. Of a large family of children, the following survive: Samuel Robert, Jesse and Milton; Mrs. Sarah Bowen and Mrs. Maggie Sinclair, the last mentioned now resident in Sarnia.

Five years ago Mr. Wright was bereft of his wife, but he afterwards remarried. He has always been gifted with a good memory and is very active for one of his age. He confesses that he never was much addicted to the use of tobacco and that practically he has belonged throughout life to the temperance class. He has keen enjoyment of the modern life of Marmora though it so much varied from that of pre confederation days. He has vivid recollection of the building of St. Paul's Church and expresses admiration for the work of the masons engaged in its erection, namely the brothers, Charles and John Gay, of Rawden Township.

On the occasion of his birthday last week, descendants of the various generations showered him with much appreciated presents.

Among those making the birthday call were: Mrs. John Morrison, of Springbrook, Mrs. William Jones, of Bonarlaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray, Mr. and Mrs. L. Gray and Mrs. A. Yatton, all of Marmora.

Open Inquest Into Death of Baby

KINGSTON, April 11. — Canadian Press. — An inquest was opened at Sharbot Lake on Tuesday afternoon into the death of a five months old child of Mrs. Wistard which died on April 4th, the object of the inquest being to determine if the child died of under-nourishment or of a natural death.

The inquest was presided over by Coroner Suddaby of Sharbot Lake, and was conducted by Crown Attorney Rigney, but it was enlarged for a week after little evidence had been taken. The circumstances of the death of the child was such that an investigation was deemed advisable.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK HELPS PUT SERMON INTO PRACTICE SAYS SPEAKER AT BIG RALLY

Rev. Dr. Kannawin Gives Two Addresses at Presbyterial Convention.

BANQUET IS HELD.

Speaker Urges Hearers at Time of Decision to Cherish Ideal of World Redeemed.

Meeting in St. Paul's Sunday School on Tuesday afternoon, representatives of young people's societies from all over the Peterborough Presbytery enjoyed, as part of the regular program, a highly informing as well as interesting address delivered by Dr. Kannawin, who is the general secretary of the General Assembly's Board of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies, in which he outlined the work and values of the Y.P.S. to its members, saying:

"The Young People's Society is organized that we may learn the truths of religion by giving them back to others. In other words, we hear the sermon on Sunday, but unless we go out and put into practice what it preaches, we do not gain a proper appreciation of it. The reason you need such work as the Y.P.S. provides is that as young people, you are preparing for life. While it was sufficient in the olden days to have only the members of the royal family educated, because they alone were called upon to bear responsibilities, now we have, not one ruler, but many, registering their will through the franchise and crystalizing that will into laws. The church and the home play a big part in the education of the young person, developing not only the intellect but also giving a moral and spiritual training."

Dr. Kannawin went on to give some valuable advice to the delegates on the work of their various societies, advising them against trying to compete with other forms of entertainment; to keep the Bible supreme for it is a library and the finest collection of good friends, and in the organization and life of the Y.P.S. to keep everyone interested by frequently electing new officers, and getting the listeners to take a part. "Perhaps no department suffered in disruption as did the work of the Y.P.S., but throughout Canada, we have a noble band working steadily forward," said he in conclusion.

Banquet Is Held.

Following the afternoon session of the Presbyterial Young People's societies' rally in St. Paul's Sunday School Hall on Tuesday, the delegates, together with many Peterborough young people, sat down to a splendid banquet prepared by the ladies of the church. A good supper makes anyone happy and as a result, Horace Hope, in charge of the community singing was accorded a world of co-operation. The program of the evening, under the chairmanship of R. J. Townsend, president of the Presbyterial Y. P. S., got under way at eight o'clock, and was all that could be desired, being both profitable and entertaining to a marked degree.

Introduced by the chairman, T. Foulkes, president of the Y. P. S., briefly extended a welcome to the visitors and in so doing, referred to the value of such a rally, not only in promoting the work of the young people's societies throughout the presbytery but also in giving something to the individual lives of every delegate.

Apart from the community singing, there was much more dignified musical entertainment during the evening, for Miss Hunter, of Keene, contributed a particularly pleasing piano instrumental; John Anderson, of St.

Police Posse Seek North Bay Marauder

NORTH BAY, April 11. Canadian Press. — The growling animal-like maniac who attacked terrorized, defenceless women of Sturgeon Falls for more than a week, but who has not been active for almost a week, again made his appearance on Monday evening, when he tried the doors of three houses, and peered in as many windows. The mysterious marauder made his first appearance at the home of Mrs. O. Quanneville, King street, at 8.30, when he frightened Mrs. Quanneville and her sister, Miss Epilon, who were alone in the house. After trying the front door he rapped at the window, following which Mrs. Quanneville courageously looked out to see if she could locate the man, while her sister gave an alarm. The mysterious marauder made his second call at the home of Mrs. Mayer's, a short distance from the Quanneville home, and from there he proceeded to Holditch street, where he repeated the same performances at the home of J. E. S. Martin. In no instance did he gain admittance to the homes or molest anyone. Thinking that the culprit made his headquarters in the vicinity of the planing mills, a thorough search of the mill and vicinity was conducted by a posse, but no trace of the stranger could be found. The police are again active on the case and will leave no stone unturned in an endeavor to apprehend the man.

AIRMAN'S BODY IS FOUND IN BAY

Commander Ellyson, Missing With Companions Since Feb. 28, Is Recovered.

COMPANIONS MISSING.

NORFOLK, Va. April 11.—Canadian Press. — The body of Commander Ellyson, one of the three naval airmen, who disappeared with a seaplane after leaving Hampton Roads for Annapolis on February 23, was recovered to-day at Willoughby, near here, where it was ashore. Identification was established by a radiogram from his wife, found in the pocket, telling of the illness of their child. It was in response to this message that the flight from Norfolk to Annapolis was undertaken. The child recovered. She passed the crisis of her illness the night her father was lost. Ellyson's body will be buried at Annapolis with full naval honors.

PROPOSES BILL FOR PREVENTION OF SMUGGLING

Provides For Seizure of Vessels Within Twelve Mile Limit.

EULER INTRODUCES BILL.

Importers Must Keep Records in Respect To Their Importations.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 11.— (Canadian Press.)—More adequate enforcement of the customs act and the prevention of smuggling operations in the territorial waters of Canada are proposed in a bill which received first reading in the house to-day.

Provision for the seizure of vessels of Canadian or British registry within twelve miles from our shores in place of the three-mile limit, and for the seizure of all vessels within territorial waters were included in the proposed legislation, Hon. W. D. Euler Minister of National Revenue, stated. A further provision provided that importers must keep books of record in respect to their importations.

The measure proposed, stated Mr. Euler, was as a result of recommendations made by the customs commission, in accordance with the commission report.

Hon. Charles Marcil (Liberal, Bonaventure) congratulated Mr. Euler for bringing down the enactments proposed. The practice for years on the Bay of Chaleur had been for boats to stay outside the three-mile limit from which they could carry on their smuggling operations. Fishermen would buy liquor from these vessels from the proceeds received by them from the sale of fish. The result was demoralizing to the fishermen in this district and disastrous to their families.

International Viewpoint.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, said he recalled that Bishop Rees had written a letter in respect to the situation on the Bay of Chaleur. When the customs commission was sitting, it was felt that legislation in order to be effective might have to be considered not only from a national but an international viewpoint. He asked what was the department's definition of the term territorial waters.

Mr. Euler replied that there was some legal doubt as to the exact meaning of the term. The question of deciding just what territorial waters constituted might possibly have to be ultimately decided by the courts. The bill had been carefully scrutin-

WATER DEEPER IN RIVER TO-DAY

Has Risen Several Inches, Inundating More Low Areas.

PARK SUBMERGED.

The water has risen several inches in the river since yesterday and to-day finds flood condition the worst for many years. Stoney Lake at present is holding its capacity and the surplus water is finding its way down the river. Levels in the back lakes have not raised to any great degree in the last 24 hours.

Rye's pavilion and boat house seem to be affected the worst by the flood conditions. The pavilion is surrounded by water and looks like an island. On the opposite side of the river the large Grafton sign which stood out prominently to all who travelled the river is more than half under water.

Little Lake is full, and the water is backing up into the yards of the McDonald Lumber Company and the Canadian Packing Company. At the McDonald plant the box factory is completely shut down and is separated from the other parts of the plant. The water is backing up further in the C.P.C. yards, and at the George street wharf the water is creeping up the banks to the pavement.

At the lower locks the logs have been removed from the dam and in the locks the water shows only a few inches difference in level.

The James Stevenson Park is completely under water. Other years the waters in the park came up close to the grandstands, but this year the water is several feet deep all over.

The water at the Quaker Oats dam is going through in a mad rushing torrent.

OPERATIONS AT MOTOR FACTORY BEGIN MAY 1ST

Hy Wood, Factory Foreman, Back From Parent Plant.

GREATLY IMPRESSED.

Hugh Campbell, the General Manager, Pleased With

Hy Wood, mechanical superintendent of the Johnston Outboard Motor Company's new Peterborough factory, has returned from a week's visit to the company's parent plant in Waukeegan, Ill., glowing with enthusiasm for the future of this city's latest addition to its industrial community.

"They have a wonderful plant," Mr. Wood told The Examiner yesterday. "It is right on the shore of Lake Michigan, and as close to the beach as the pavilion is at Cobourg. It is a daylight factory. Everyone understands that description. I was told that it cost half a million dollars. Its floor space is 142,000 square feet, and although it is new and has been occupied only since last November the company is already talking of another 108,000 square feet extension. They are working night and day, all around the week, Sundays included, with 400 employees in the day shift and 300 at night. Their output is between 200 and 250 motors a day, and their recent maximum was 270 motors in one day. It is a thoroughly modern plant, and I could not help but realize that Peterborough has another splendid connexion across the border. As a Peterborough man I was delighted with everything I saw, and I know every citizen would have been as greatly impressed as I was if they had the same chance to see it."

Mr. Wood's visit to the Waukeegan factory was for the purpose of studying the parent company's methods. Production in the local plant, he said, would begin on May 1st. The work of fitting up the offices and shop quarters is well under way.

Mr. Campbell Delighted

Hugh Campbell, general manager of the local plant, remarked to The Examiner that he had found the people of Peterborough most friendly, and his personal contacts here had been very delightful.

'We have our staff all ready for operations, and every employee is a Canadian. That is the policy which we intend to carry out as closely as possible I have taken the house at 608 Gilmour street, and am beginning to feel almost at home. When things get going and settled down I expect to make a direct personal survey of Canada, practically from coast to coast. I know something of British Columbia already, but I want to see the rest of the country myself, get acquainted with it, visit all the larger cities and get a first hand idea of the business possibilities. I expect to be away about half this year. We are continuing our existing arrangements with the Peterborough Canoe Company as Canadian distributors for the present. Mr. Van Sickle, who is secretary-treasurer of the parent company, was here recently, and was quite pleased with the outlook. We have orders for around 2,500 motors, and we'll soon be all set to go to work."

Mr. Wood is a young Peterborough man who has had considerable responsible factory experience. In his position with the new company he is not on unfamiliar ground, as he had held a similar position with the Henry Hope Company, who erected the building and carried on operations in it for some years prior to and during the war.

BARRING OF ODELL SURPRISES TORONTO

Explorer's Admission To States Not Allowed Under Quota Exemption Laws.

TORONTO, April 11.— (Canadian Press.)— Toronto educationists were surprised to-day at the news that Captain Noel Odell, an Englishman resident in Toronto for a year or so, cannot accept the offer of a position in the geology department at Harvard University because the United States' immigration quota regulations prevent him entering that country. Emil Sauer, U. S. Consul here, explained to-day that Captain Odell's case did not come under the provision of exemption in the matter of admitting university professors. This applies only to professors in colleges and universities who have had three years' experience as such immediately preceding their applications. Captain Odell is a former member of one of the Mount Everest expeditions.

REV. D. A. THOMSON RECEIVES DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF DIVINITY AT KNOX COLLEGE CONVOCATION

Hastings Presbyterian Minister Gives Address To Graduating Class.

44 YEARS IN ONE CHARGE.

Minister Honored By Convocation Urges Students To Be Men of Prayer.

TORONTI, April 11 (Special).—Forty-four years of service as a Christian scholar and minister of the Presbyterian Church were recognized last night by the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Divinity on Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings at the eighty-fourth convocation of Knox College. The attendance was the largest hitherto recorded at a Knox College convocation.

Besides Dr. Thomson, five other veteran ministers of the church were similarly honored.

One of them was Rev. H. B. Ketchen of Hamilton, a former assistant minister of St. Pauls Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Among those who received diplomas at the ceremony was S. M. Scott, formerly a lawyer in Lindsay, who left the legal profession to preach the Gospel and for some time ministered in the Presbyterian Church at Omemee.

Dr. Thomson was presented for his degree by the Rev. Dr. Perrie of Wingham. 'One who has nobly sustained the finest traditions of the Presbyterian ministry,' was Dr. Perrie's description of Dr. Thomson. Dr. Thomson, he said, had remained for nearly forty-five years in Hastings, his first and only charge. He was one of the men who faithfully and unflinchingly exercised the duties of the ministry as a preacher and a teacher in one of the outlying charges of the church. Recalling the names of some of the great champions of the Covenant in the dark days of the Presbyterians in Scotland, Dr. Perrie said Dr. Thomson had remained loyal to the heritage left to the Presbyterian Church by men like Henderson and Rutherford.

Dr. Thomson was then invested with the Doctors hood by Dr. Thomas Eakin, Principal of Knox College.

Addresses Graduates

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Rev. Dr. Thomson delivered the following address to the members of the graduation class:

"Gentlemen of the graduating class, I cannot proceed with thtis address without first acknowledging the kindness of the Senate and of the Faculty for the double honour conferred upon me to-night. A greater honor, I feel, than I am entitled to; for, it seems to me, that such honors impress one with a great sense of unworthiness. I accept such honor as a tribute to lengthy service in the Master's vineyard. And even in that "we are unprofitable servants; we have only done what it is our duty to do."

" Iam sure you will bear with me "I am sure you will bear with me in the field in the service in which in the field, still in the service in which ing and battling amid the difficulties that you will soon contend with. As you start to build and to battle it is well to count the cost.

"Let me base my remarks at this time on the words of counsel with which the Apostle Paul councilled the presbyters of Ephesus, in the Acts of the Apostles, 20:28, "Take heed unto yourselves, and to all the flock over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseer, to feed the church of God which He hath purchased with His own blood." I do not think we could get words more appropriate to this occasion than these great words.

"As ministers of Christ we must first take heed unto ourselves in our

TWO TENDERS FOR PARK CARE

Chairman J. M. Greene Authorized To Negotiate For Caretaker For Summer.

COMMITTEE MEETS.

Only two tenders were received for the caretaking of the parks, and as the lowest price seemed high when the decrease in the work was considered, Ald. Greene, chairman of the Parks Committee, was instructed to meet the men and negotiate with them.

P. Chard submitted a number of recommendations with his tender for $775. He cared for the parks in 1926.

D. Hayward, also a former caretaker, asked $985.

Last year's figure was $920.

The work differs this year, in that the caretaker of James Stevenson Park will operate the power mower. He will have more time on his hands and will be required to run the mower in Victoria Park and Confederation Square.

Mayor Denne and Ald Stocker objected that the difference in price is not enough for the cut in the work. Ald. Stocker pointed out that the man looking after the park would have practically nothing to do from July 1 until fall.

Ald. Greene replied that the big item of the cost is the bulbs and flowers, which still have to be supplied. The caretaker would have to do all the cleaning up, as the man on the gasoline mower would simply cut the grass.

Alderman Phelan and McIntyre agreed that the difference didn't seem enough and moved that Ald. Greene be given authority to engage a man. Ald. Phelan suggested offering $700, but the figure was not incorporated in the motion.

Ald. Stocker demurred, saying the chairman might pay the $775, but Ald. Greene retorted that he knew the value of $75 as well as any other member of the council.

Ald. Greene was authorized to advertise for a man to care for James Stevenson Park, who can run the gasoline mower; also to buy amusement tax tickets, a license, etc. He will also arrange with the football association for the use of King Edward Park, and negotiate for the erection of a new advertising scoreboard at the James Stevenson Park.

On Mayor Denne's advice, the chairman and City Engineer will inspect the stands in James Stevenson Park. Ald. Greene expressed the opinion that if the park is to be retained as a baseball field a new stand of proper construction will have to be put up.

Mayor Denne informed the aldermen that the Hydro is sending statements of the business of the gas plant and a valuator's report, which will be submitted to the council at a special meeting of the council next week.

JAMES ROGERS' BODY TAKEN FROM MOIRA LAKE YESTERDAY CLOSE TO FATHER'S DWELLING

Young Man Had Been Missing From Home Since Dec. 5.

HAD BEEN SKATING.

Little Attention Paid To Disappearance at Time as He Planned To Go Away.

MADOC, April 11.—The body of James Rogers was taken from Moira Lake yesterday afternoon. He had apparently fallen in while skating alone early in the winter. His disappearance on December 5 did not much worry as he had planned to leave the district, and his parents thought he might have gone away suddenly. The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers of Huntingdon Township, who lived close to the lake.

Skate marks were seen leading to the ice at the time of the disappearance but little attention was paid to them.

Coroner Dr. Eagleson viewed the body and gave permission for burial.

WILL CLEAR OUT NEEBISH CHANNEL

Eight Dredges To Start In August at Sault St. Marie.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 11 (Canadian Press). — Dredging of the middle Neebish Channel a distance of 10 miles to a width of 500 feet and depth of 22 feet at a cost of $3,842,000, will start with eight dredges on the job in August or September, it was announced yesterday at the offices of the St. Mary's Falls Canal by Isaac DeYoung, general superintendent, who will supervise the improvement personally.

Money for the work had been appropriated and will be released shortly, Mr. DeYoung was told by Col. C. J. Dent, district engineer, Detroit. Congress recommended the improvement last year but failed to make the necessary appropriation. The memory of two costly ice blockades in 1926 and 1927 caused in part by the narrowness of the channel is believed to have precipitated the decision to have the work done as quickly as possible.

Specifications for the work have been completed. The work will be divided among eight contractors, who will have eight dredges with accessory scows, tugs, drills on hand to work 16 hours a day. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of 300 men will be employed on the job and the dredging will be complete in three seasons.

The present channel width is 300 feet through the dyke. This will be made 500 feet to a depth of 22 feet. Dredging will extend from Lake Nicoletto at the head of Neebish Island through the dyke, past No. 1 lookout station to a point where the middle Neebish Channel joins with Lake Munuscong. Part of the way will lead through solid rock necessitating drills and blasting equipment.

The appropriation of nearly four million dollars for the work is the largest for river improvements since the building of the third and fourth locks, when in the neighborhood of 200 men were employed. The construction work will open up work in both Saults, with resulting business boom and employment for river workers.

Dredging of the middle ground shoal at the lower end of Whitefish Bay has been approved by Congress and an appropriation of $801,000 recommended. This work will not commence this year. Nor will construction work start on the extension to the northwest pier, although $277,000 for the work has been recommended.

In all, the government plans to spend close to five million dollars here in the next three or four years at the rate of more than a million dollars a year.

MILLBROOK HOLDS EASTER SERVICES

Large Congregations Attend Various Churches of Village on Sunday.

MILLBROOK, April 11.—Special Easter services were held in the three local churches on Sunday, the congregations being as large, in each case, as could be expected considering the unfavorable state of roads and weather.

Easter lilies and other spring flowers made appropriate decorations, those which banked the altar in Saint Thomas' Church being donated by various members of the congregation in loving memory of friends called home.

The celebration of Holy Communion in Saint Thomas' Church at 8 a.m. was in charge of Rev. P. C. Howard, Rev. Mr. DeLom of Cobourg preaching at morning worship at 11 o'clock, and being the celebrant of the Communion service at the close. Rev. Mr. Howard was at Saint John's Church Ida, for the morning service, and at Trinity Church (The Marsh) in the afternoon, Rev. Mr. DeLom taking charge at Christ Church, Bailieboro, at 3 p.m. The observance of Holy Communion was a feature of the service at each church in the parish throughout the day.

Service was held at Saint Thomas' Church in the evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Howard being in charge and preaching from the text, "And if Christ be not risen then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." I. Corinthians 15, 14. The teaching of Saint Paul on the resurrection, from the viewpoint of a post-resurrection apostle, formed the theme of the sermon. Immediately following the offertory the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Allen, sang a number of Easter carols: "On This Glorious Easter Morning," "Rise, Rise, Free From Mourning," "Ye Happy Bells of Easter Day," "O Joyous Easter Morning," "Hear the Bells," and "Christ Is Risen." A solo, "Hosanna" (Jules Gaimer), was sung by Miss Elizabeth Russell, and was much appreciated, coming midway in the carol program.

Rev. John Riddell, pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church, preached an inspiring Easter sermon from Luke 24, 6, 7: "He is not here, but is risen; remember how He spake unto you while He was yet in Galilee saying, The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again." The thought emphasized by the speaker was that the mistake made by the followers of Christ in seeking the living among the dead is repeated to-day. "Religion, which consists of love, obedience and gratitude, is best understood when most practised."

The choir, under the leadership of Mr. C. Thorndyke, sang an anthem, "Rejoice 'tis Eastertide," and Mrs. L. C. Russell a solo, "Outside the Gates of Paradise." Miss Myrtle Russell presided at the organ.

In the United Church, at morning worship, the centre front pews were reserved for the members of the woman's Missionary Auxiliary, the Mission Circle, and the Mission Band, who attended in a body and took up their usual Easter thankofferings. The pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, spoke to the boys and girls on Easter customs prevailing in Russia; and also on what rising from the dead means, as illustrated by lilies and other flowers.

The sermon was from the text, John 12, 31: "Now is the judgment of this world; now shall the prince of this world be cast out," and was taken up under three heads: (a) The world judged; (b) Satan overthrown; (c) the power of Christ and of the cross begun. "God allowed Christ to be crucified by sin because in His wisdom He saw that to impress the world with the vast difference between sin and holiness sin must act unrestrained. So to-day sin is disguised by many names: Materialism, militarism, worldliness, pleasure-seeking, etc., and the world to-day will be judged by its response to the cross."

Two anthems were sung by the choir: "He Dieth No More, Hallelujah" and "Calvary." In the evening there was a special song service which was much enjoyed, the selections including three anthems by the choir: "Hallelujah, Now Is Christ Risen" (Caleb Simper), "Why Seek Ye the Living" (Cooke), and "He Dieth No More" (Simper); a quartette, "How Calm, How Beautiful," by Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, V. C. Lambert, and M. McDowell, and a duet, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling" (Stainer), which Mr. and Mrs. Johnston sang by special request.

INDEX SYSTEM NOW PATENTED

E. C. McKeel, of Campbellford Receives Patent For His Freight Rate Cards.

ALREADY IN USE.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11. — After expending considerable time and effort, Ernest C. McKeel, has finally been granted a patent on his rate index freight car system. The system consists of a series of specially designed looseleaf sheets, related in such a manner as to greatly simplify freight and express rates and other data. It appears that the system has been on the market for some time and has been leased and endorsed by many well-known firms. Mr. McKeel says that three of these firms are in Peterborough. The system has also received favorable recognition by several railways, he says.

ANNUAL "AT HOME" IS GREAT SUCCESS

St. Mary's C. W. L. Arranges Social Evening at Campbellford High School.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 11. — Though the attendance at St. Mary's "At Home" this year was not quite as great as at the one of last year, the affair was a complete success. Logan's Merry Makers Peterborough) six-piece orchestra furnished such excellent music for the dancing that difficulty was experienced in serving lunch. The dancers appeared to prefer dancing to eating, and repeated announcements had to be made that supper for each successive group was served in the domestic science room of the building.

The "At Home," one of the social events of the year in this district, was held in the High School with dancing in the auditorium and cards in the second floor rooms and corridors. The building was tastefully decorated for the occasion of Easter and particularly in the science room were the effects most artistic. Mrs. James Kerr was in charge of this work. The lunch was served under the direction of Mrs. M. Mulhearn, and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Until lunch time, the card tables were fully occupied. Mrs. P. Corkery and Mrs. Thomas Dewey won the prizes for ladies' games and the lone hand prize was won by Miss Mary McGrath. The prizes for the men's games went to Councillor Abernethy and Warden Davidson. Charles McGrath won the lone hand prize.

The entire program was arranged by the Catholic Women's League, assisted by the men of the parish where necessary. The success of the evening may be judged from the fact that many dancers endeavored in vain to have the music continue till an even later hour. There appeared little or none of the usual fatigue which dancers experience as a general rule about two hours after midnight.

FLIERS POSTPONE ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Adverse Weather Conditions Holds Up Crew of Junkers Plane.

BALDONNEL AIRDROME, Irish Free State, April 11 (A.P.).—After a prolonged conference over last night's weather report, the crew of the Junkers' monoplane decided not to start for the United States to-day. Captain Hermann Koehl and Colonel James Fitzmaurice, pilots of the machine, and Baron von Huenefeld, backer of the flight, agreed on this decision.

The weather charts showed that southerly winds on the Atlantic had veered to a westerly direction with a velocity of twenty to thirty miles at the surface and of twenty-five to forty-five miles at a height of two thousand feet. There are many cloudy patches and occasional squalls of rain, snow and hail which hold the visibility to from six to twelve miles.

Colonel Fitzmaurice expressed the keenest disappointment at the continued delay as he confidently believed the weather would justify a Wednesday start.

CROPS ARE GOOD

Winter Failed to Injure Wheat in Vicinity of Bailieboro.

BAILIEBORO, April 11.—The snow and ice are now entirely off the wheat and fresh seeds. The fall wheat and clover, despite the prophecies of pessimistic farmers, who claimed that the wheat and seeds were all killed by the winter ice, have come to the sunlight looking exceptionally fine this spring. If the weather is not too severe during the next few weeks, the prospects are fine for a good crop of wheat and hay. The frost is now out of the ground and soon many farmers will be working on the land.

EASTER SERVICE

St. Paul's Church, Marmora, Brightly Decorated for Occasion.

MARMORA, April 10.—The festival of Easter was observed at St. Paul's with its old time joyousness. The sacred edifice was brightly decorated with daffodil and foliage plants.

There were two celebrations of Holy Communion, the joint number of communicants being fifty-four.

At the eleven o'clock service, the choir sang "O Jesus, Thou art standing" by J. C. Warhurst. The rector preached an appropriate though somewhat original sermon from 1 Corinthians 15:17. His subject was "Daybreak on the pathway," the contrast being drawn between the assumption that there was no resurrection and the historical fact that Christians have a risen Lord.

In the evening, the subject was "Some evidence of Easter," references being made to the integrity of Jesus Christ who foretold His resurrection, the testimony of eye witnesses and the latter experiences of the presence of Christ by such Christians as Stephen and Paul.

Instead of morning Sunday School, a bright children's service was held at which an Easter message was delivered. Mite boxes handed in realised twenty-three dollars for the missionary work of the church.

Bright Easter services were conducted by the Rev. C. J. Beckley at Deloro in the morning and at Marmora United Church in the evening. At the latter service the sermon touched upon Religion and Hope. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The Rev. A. J. Terrill, of Consecon, was in charge on Wednesday evening. This being Mr. Terrill's birthplace, he renewed old acquaintances. On Thursday, the Rev. W. H. Much encouragement is given to the farmers in these April showers followed by sunshine, allowing the land to absorb the water and the sooner it will dry out.

LAKEFIELD ENJOYS COMMUNITY DANCE

New Machine Shop of Canada Cement Co. is Used for Occasion.

LAKEFIELD, April 11.—In spite of pouring rain and accompanying wind, bad walking, and worse driving, about two hundred and fifty people gathered in the new machine shop of the Canada Cement Co., for an evening's recreation on Saturday evening. The dance was held in the large machine shop while other rooms in the building were used as cloak rooms, card rooms and kitchen. The building, which is situated south of the plant, has just been completed and the entertainment was given to celebrate the event. Monday the work of installing the machinery will begin and the rooms which were on Saturday night gay with flags and bunting will be used in a more practical but less picturesque manner.

The committee in charge consisted of the heads of the departments and the foreman, headed by E. W. Bailey, the plant superintendent. The committee was Messrs. R. G. Mulkins, W. J. Millage, J. R. Hill, E. S. Kelsey, G. A. Charlton, George Hamilton, George Allen, F. Crapp, W. Adamson, H. Jones, Fred Bolton and Morgan Abram.

Music for dancing was provided by an orchestra with G. G. Connell at the piano, K. Wannamaker, violinist and W. Hendren, with traps.

The music was excellent, the program consisting of the newest waltzes and fox trots. For the square dances Ira Lennox played the violin and Messrs. McManus and Meade acted as floor managers.

During the intermission Victor McManus and Maurice Meade gave a splendid exhibition of step dancing, which was encored.

Roland Alford and his partner were prize winners in the lucky number dance. The evening's program was entirely informal and old and young enjoyed themselves equally; it was a family affair and children accompanied their parents and enjoyed themselves hugely. The committee spared no trouble or expense to make it a success, a competent group of young men serving refreshments shortly after eleven o'clock and soon after midnight, the crowd dispersed to their homes after an evening which will long remain a pleasant memory of a truly representation community gathering, where good behaviour was the rule and where the enjoyment was for everyone.

To the foods you eat to live

add YEAST

for Healthful living!

EVER have "that tired feeling? Heavy? Listless? Food uninteresting? Not getting any enjoyment and very little real nourishment from your meals?"

Our hurrying habits of living make it difficult now-a-days to get full benefit from food. We eat soft, fiberless food where palate-tickling flavors replace the stimulating nutritive stuff of nature.

Chronic constipation—with its dismal companions, indigestion, skin disorders, and run-down condition is almost inevitably the result. Often it is the cause of "that tired feeling".

One single food added to your normal diet helps to correct this condition. Fleischmann's Yeast is a healthful vegetable food in concentrated form, millions of the tiny yeast plants being contained in each dainty cake.

Yeast stimulates the digestive processes, and aids your system to get the elements of real value in other foods. It conditions and cleans the intestinal tract, promotes regular elimination, helping to clear up constipation, and keeps the intestinal muscles functioning in the regular manner that means glowing vigorous health.

Give it a fair trial—say ninety days. Remember you expect it to condition the intestinal muscles, the muscles of the arm cannot be conditioned with only a few days' exercise.

Start eating three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day, before or between meals, and you will notice how much better you feel, how clear your complexion has become, how much greater your enjoyment of life.

Tell your grocer to add your name to his list for regular delivery; three cakes for each member of your family.

A very interesting booklet on "Regaining Health" will be sent to you, gladly. Write to The Fleischmann Co., Dept. 163B, 1449 St. Alexander Street, Montreal, Que.

"For years I had been troubled with sick headaches for which constipation was undoubtedly responsible. When I first heard of Fleischmann's Yeast I couldn't believe that it would really help me. But when I learned how it had benefited several people I knew, I came to the conclusion that there was hope for me. I began drinking it in hot water before each meal and noticed that I felt better. After two months I was rid of constipation. My headaches had become less frequent and it is a long time now since I have had one."

EVA BISSONNETTE, Montreal, P. Q.

"I have been doing office work for the past five years. During this time my system became run down, probably from the need of exercise. I lost all appetite for food.

"I was advised to take Fleischmann's Yeast. After eating three cakes a day for nearly a month, I found my condition had certainly improved. Now I would not pass a day without it. I appreciate what Fleischmann's Yeast has done in helping me regain my health and vigor, and so wish to recommend it for anyone in run down condition or with indigestion."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BEAR'S HONEY.

Uncle Wiggily started to hop away when the Wolf popped out of the bushes near where the owl had scratched on the white birch bark the magic nine-numbered squares inside the one larger square. For Uncle Wiggily well knew what a hungry Wolf would want and that was his ears.

"Don't be afraid of him!" hooted the owl to Uncle Wiggily. The bunny gentleman had hopped over to tell the owl that to make an omelet he must break the shells of the eggs. The owl didn't seem to know that himself, though his own wife laid the eggs. Some owls aren't as wise as they look. This one wasn't, anyhow.

"I'm stung! That's what the matter."

"Don't be afraid of this Wolf. I don't believe he can fix the numbers so they will add up to fifteen in every way," hooted the owl.

"Yes I can!" howled the Wolf. "Give me time! As soon as I do the puzzle I'm going to do some nibbling!" and he looked at the bunny's ears. But though the wolf jiggled the numbers every which way, he couldn't do the trick, and at last Uncle Wiggily said:

"I'm tired of waiting for you! I'm going to hop on!" So away hopped the bunny and later, when the Wolf had such a headache from not being able to do the puzzle that he had to go to bed, the owl showed the rabbit how the trick was done.

"That's a good trick to remember," said Mr. Longears, when he had helped the owl make the omelet. "Maybe I can fool the Bob Cat with it next time he chases me."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped on and on over the fields and through the woods until, all of a sudden, as he was jumping over a bush he heard, on the other side, a loud grilling and growling noise.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily, seeing what he thought was a large, brown rock on the ground near the bush.

"Matter enough," growled a voice. "I'm stung! That's what's the matter?"

"Who stung you?" asked the rabbit, and now he saw that what he had thought was a big brown rock, was a big, brown bear, rubbing his nose in the wet mud near a spring. "Who stung you?"

"The bees in that hollow tree," groaned the Bear, pointing with his paw. "Oh, how they stung me on my soft and tender nose! Oh! Oh! Oh!"

"Why did the bees sting you?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

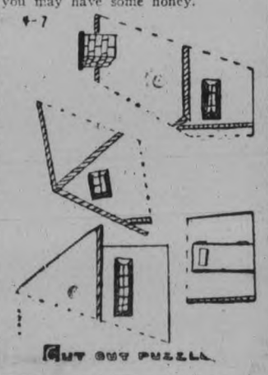
"Because I tried to take some of their honey!" sighed the Bear. "I love sweet stuff! I felt I must have some honey but when I tried to take it from the bees they stung me! Oh, my nose! My poor nose!"

Uncle Wiggily did not say it served the Bear right. Instead, the bunny gentleman hopped over to the hollow tree and, speaking to the Queen Bee, kindly asked: "If I make a puzzle for you, will you let the Bear have some of your honey?"

"Yes," buzzed the queen. "But it must be a hard puzzle and you must make us a new house."

"I will!" said Mr. Longears. With a blackened stick the rabbit drew on some white birch bark the picture that you will see at the end of this story. "Cut out the four pieces," said Mr. Longears, "and fit them together properly and see what you have."

So the Queen Bee cut out the little puzzle and while trying to fit it together her worker bees gave the Bear all the honey he wanted. So now you try to see what you can make by cutting out the black pieces and pasting them in the right way together on a white piece of paper. If you do the trick you may have some honey.



HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1928.

Although this is not an important day in planetary direction, astrologers read the aspects as adverse.

Under this rule there may be a sense of nervous tension and a consequent irritability. It is well to cultivate poise.

The sway is menacing to domestic harmony since both men and women may suffer from an excess of egotism at this time.

Neptune frowns on Earth today, making for increase of facility in deception or dishonesty, it is asserted.

This is not a lucky day for starting ocean voyages but it is better to sail westward than in the opposite direction, it is foretold.

The planetary government is believed to encourage card-playing as well as speculation. Betting will be an especially strong temptation to those who like games of hazard.

Fashionable summer resorts are to be centres of bridge enthusiasm that amuses even the most staid, it is indicated.

College boys and girls may find this a day of hoodoo influences if they take any chances in cutting classes.

France, Spain and Italy may continue to suffer from the adverse sway of Mars which prevents serenity on the part of the people or their rulers.

Destructive fires in cities as well as forests are indicated for this spring and there should be heavy penalties for careless smokers, astrologers point out.

Taxes are not likely to decrease appreciably for some time, the seers foretell. Instead, they may rise if events now presaged take place.

Money will be spent lavishly in entertaining all through the summer which will bring important visitors to the United States.

Thrift is preached earnestly by astrologers who foresee that America must pay the piper for careless extravagance.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have extraordinary experiences in the coming year which will be generally eventful.

Children born on this day probably will be hard-working, practical and enterprising. Care should be given to the training.

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fulness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instances, relief comes instantly. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

RAZ-MAH

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A large printed handkerchief is worn around the waist—as shown in the sketch above—and a small handkerchief to match is thrust through the buttonhole. Below a large handkerchief is used for a scarf with two small matching handkerchiefs used for cuffs.

But a set of two matching large handkerchiefs, or one large one and one or two smaller ones to match is a great deal more desirable.

You may use the two matching large handkerchiefs with a sweater, sports blouse or jumper—one round the neck and the other round the hips. The single large handkerchief may be worn collar-wise, with a small handkerchief around each wrist as shown in the sketch. Or if you have a sports blouse or frock with close-fitting very short sleeves, you may achieve an attractive effect by using the large handkerchief round the hips—with the smaller ones tied in perky little bows at the edges of the little sleeves. With a sleeveless blouse a large square may be worn round the hips with a small handkerchief tied high up on one bare arm—the right arm if the large handkerchief is knotted at the left hip. If you wear the large square as a collar, then the small square may be tied around the left wrist.

If you cannot afford the attractive kerchiefs that you see in the shops you may make them for yourself at quite a saving. If you have good sized pieces of silk in your "scrap box" you may find that some of these are large enough to be made into the desired squares. Pieces of plain colored crepe de chine may be cut into even squares and sent out to be machine picot edged. Then if you want a decorative effect you may paint or stencil the designs you like.

Here is a suggestion for the girl who makes her own clothes. A pleated skirt of black georgette with an overblouse of gaily printed silk—and with it a neckerchief of the black georgette bound around with a narrow fold of the printed silk.

CORSET PRINCIPLES ARE ILLUSTRATED

Interesting Display Given of Foundation Garments at Hall Store.

Foundation garments, as corsets and their variations are now termed, were the subject of an interesting session at the Richard Hall Store yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Dennison, of The House of Gossard lectured on the basic principles of corsetry, her lecture being illustrated by a parade on living models, who showed to good advantage the different types of garments used as foundations for pretty frocks.

"A corset must be put on properly and the supporters must be adjusted propertly to get the right effect," said Mrs. Dennison. "Gossard corsets are manufactured after they have been fitted on living models, and they are endorsed by physicians. It is better to adjust a corset lying down, because the organs are then in proper position. The supporters should be loose in front, so as not to pull the garment down, and the corset should be adjusted well up in the front and down in the back."

Mrs. Dennison recommended strongly the buying of several types of foundation garments, with variation in the style used for afternoon and evening wear from the sort worn for working. "It is better and more economical to have two or three garments than just one that is worn constantly. The French say, By being economical with corsets, you spoil the figure'."

orsets of many types were shown, including the "hook around" type which has no boning, the "step ins," that pull over the head or slip over the feet, and have side lacings to facilitate adjustment, the long "completes" that combine in one garment a corset and brassiere, the little low corsets that have a wide space between themselves and the formed "cup" brassieres that come in satin, net and lace, the front lacing garments and those without perceptible fastenings of any type, the heavily boned and the boneless, all in the porous elastic and satin and Treco fabrics that seem to be developed in pink, with one or two models in pure white.

Mrs. Dennison demonstrated a small garter belt, but spoke rather disapprovingly of the practise of wearing such light supports. She declared that the prevalent difficulties with prolapsed stomachs were due in large measure to young girls who engage in athletic sports going without proper support for the diaphragm, saying that this was needed in every case, even when sports were not indulged in.

A number of pretty things, such as pyjamas and robes, were shown, a set of both being developed in pale green for the pyjamas and in a black satin robe with quilted green collar and cuffs. Rose pink pyjamas trimmed with black, made another attractive example of the mode in such things.

Her Kidney Ailment Has Now Disappeared

That's Why This Quebec Lady Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Madame T. Thurston Suffered With Kidney Trouble for Three Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Relieved Her.

Acton Vale, P.Q., April 10.—(Special).—"For three years I suffered from kidney trouble," writes Madame T. Thurston, a well-known resident of this place. "Having read your almanac for many years, I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. I only took five boxes and found relief. To-day I am very well, but I always keep a box in the house. I recommend them to all my friends."

The relief that Madame Thurston found has come to thousands of other Canadian women through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Only a few people realize the great importance of keeping the kidneys in good order at all times. The kidneys are the purifiers of your blood. If the kidneys become clogged with impurities they cannot perform their functions properly. The blood, instead of being purified, is poisoned and, in turn, poisons the whole system, with the result that a condition may develop very serious.

IN NORTHERN MEXICO.

MEGICO CITY, April 11 (Canadian Press).—Despatches from Torreon to-day said that a tornado which struck the State of Coahuila on Monday caused damage estimated at between five and twelve and a half million dollars. Cotton plantations over a wide area were completely ruined. They will need to be resowed, with the prospect that the harvest will be injured by the boll weevil.

Neuritis

In combating, relieving and defeating Neuritis, Thermogene is soothing, comforting and persuasive. But it is also definitely commanding.

The action of Thermogene is that of assured authority, of complete confidence in superior force. The Neuritis pain may shift its position from limb to limb, but Thermogene will follow it. It may vary its attack, but Thermogene will circumvent it. It may take refuge in a muscle or a joint, but Thermogene will hunt it out. There's only one end to this conflict. Neuritis must capitulate, Thermogene must win.

And when its healing warmth has done its work, Thermogene may be removed layer by layer—safely and comfortably.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

CHAPTER XI.

The Bluebirds.

To the average middle-aged person of America, this bird needs little or no introduction, but to the younger people they are now quite rare. In fact I was speaking to a young lady quite recently, and she has camped out every summer for the longer part of her life (but of course, like all other girls at her age, she has just passed sixteen; passed it coming back, of course) and she told me she had never seen a bluebird. They have decreased over ninety-five per cent. the last forty years, but when I was a boy they were as common as the robin is to-day. They usually arrive the same day in the spring, bringing with them their beautiful note that no musician has ever been able to imitate correctly.

In 1908 I put up three or four nests for them and in 1909 a pair came and built in one. These nests were made of wood; so it occurred to me possibly they would build in tile houses, and I set to work and made six or eight different varieties of drain-tile, and to my surprise and delight the wrens and bluebirds both took to the tile houses and have never built in the frame one since. Last summer I put a wren house up on Monday and the very next morning Mrs. Wren had her nest half built; or in other words, the tile house had hardly gotten cold before she started carrying in sticks.

I had one pair of bluebirds raise their first family for three successive years in the same house. So last summer I made about two hundred bluebird houses, taking this, their choice house, as a pattern. This pair of birds I know raised three families one summer, but they usually raise two. The same house does for both wrens and bluebirds; if the wrens use it, they will stop the large hole up with sticks so the English sparrows cannot get in, but of course leaving door-room enough to get in themselves, as they are so much smaller. This is my experience, but whether these birds will take to tile houses away from here, where they are not accustomed to seeing red tile and a red man, remains to be proven.

In case they do not, there are several remedies. The houses could be painted any color in order to get them coming. But first of all, leave it to the birds, as they seem to know whom it was put there for. So, knowing that the birds prefer them, and as the tile house can be made for about one-fourth of the cost of the wood and, like Pat said about the stone coffin "Sure it will last a lifetime," I know I have secured a home run for the birds.

The removable top can be left off all winter if preferred. The wet and frost will rid the house of mites and so forth, which sometimes kill fledglings. By the use of these little fireproof bird dwellings around our home, the wrens have become far more plentiful than English sparrows, as the latter know they are not wanted. Although we have four or five pairs of bluebirds each year, yet they do not seem to multiply as rapidly as the wrens; I believe this is due to the wrens' cunningness in barring the door against these cruel "flying rats." This experience has compelled me to believe that the sparrows are responsible for the decrease of our lovable bluebird. I say "lovable," and so will any person who is acquainted with the bluebird, for they expose their love for humanity by preferring to build their nests near our dwellings so they can rely on our protection.

We usually toe-nail their houses on top of the fence posts around our premises. I have never tagged the bluebirds, therefore I have no positive proof the same one returns year after year; yet I am like the Scotchman who said he was open to conviction but he would like to see the man who could convince him otherwise, for we have several old birds any one of which will permit us to climb up the fence post and remove the roof from her house, and when we peep in she will sit there on her eggs, within eight inches of our eyebrows, and, turning her head sidewise she will cover our whole face with her one little eye as much as to say, "Beg your pardon, sir, but you should have rapped before you opened the door." If a stranger is permitted to do this, she will fly out, every time, though after I have taken the top off she will permit him to look in and will not fly out.

The chief cause of the decrease of the bluebird is English sparrows. One of man's great mistakes was when he introduced this little, domineering Bolshevik into America. Not that he doesn't destroy insects enough to counterbalance the amount of grain he takes, but here is my charge against him: He is doing all in his power to exterminate several varieties of birds that God put here, and any one of these birds will destroy more insects in a day than he will in a week.

Last summer when I awoke one Sunday morning I heard the voices of sparrows and bluebirds fighting at the bluebird house, which was about one hundred feet from my open window; but as I knew the young bluebirds were hatched, I just rolled over and had another snooze. About an hour later I saw that the English sparrows had possession. So I went over, and found five young bluebirds lying dead at the foot of the post. Now I did not see the sparrows throw them out. I only know that the old bluebirds were chirping and hovering around the nest and were driven back by the sparrows, and that the little dead birds were still warm. In fact, one was just gasping its last when I picked them up, and each showed marks where it had been pecked. I pinned the five little murdered babies to a piece of cardboard and hung them out and took their picture.

OUTWITTED.

"No, sir," said Mr. Benjamin Trebbit, "it's all wrong. What with the latest discoveries and the newest inventions, a man dies just through sheer carelessness. Not for me. I'm going to watch my step and live forever." And so—

He brushed his teeth twice daily.

He got himself examined—every three months.

He always went in when it rained.

He slept with his windows open.

He stuck to his diet—with plenty of fresh vegetables.

He relinquished his tonsils and traded in several worn-down glands.

He wore spectacles.

He never smoked, drank or lost his temper.

He wore reform shoes, and white socks.

He did his daily dozen.

The funeral of the late Benjamin Trebbit will be held next Thursday. He is survived by 18 specialists, four health institutes, six gymnasiums and numerous manufacturers of antiseptic appliances and sanitary foods. (He had forgotten about taxicabs.)—Exchange.

WHY AN EMPIRE SHOPPING WEEK?

It would seem that it cannot be too often stated in regard to the Empire Shopping Week campaign during the week of April 21-28 that it is a recognized principle in Empire Shopping Weeks that the products of the country in which the week is being held should be favored first—then the products of the Empire.

It rests, therefore, with Peterborough producers and manufacturers to create for themselves the best retail and advertising link-up they can with the general educational and publicity campaign of the Empire Shopping Week in Canada along these lines.

The drive should encourage Peterborough people to buy, first, made-in-Peterborough goods; second, made-in-Canada goods; third, made-in-the-Empire goods.

Why is such a campaign necessary?

Here is one answer:

Since 1914 our imports from foreign countries have risen from $298,000,000 to $800,000,000 in 1927—they have, in fact, increased 32 per cent. in the last five years.

Many of those imported articles could have been bought in Canada, many more could have been secured in some other part of the Empire.

Isn't it good business to see that there is a change that will show that we realize that Empire buyers are Empire builders?

BETTER TREATMENT FOR VETERANS.

It is to be hoped that the prediction made in a local address by E. A. Peck, Federal member for West Peterborough, that the present session of Parliament would see the pension regulations broadened so as to ensure more sympathetic treatment for Canada's disabled war veterans will be verified.

The present regulations need revision, and their administration should be carried out with not so much anxiety to emulate the methods of the efficiency expert as has been shown in the past.

The people of Canada may desire economy in the public service—preferably at the expense of some other district than their own—but they resent a cheese paring attitude toward those who offered their lives when this country needed fighting men.

They have watched the long struggle that has been needed to secure pensions for many ex-soldiers, who are obviously not the men they were before they enlisted, and they have had no patience with the attempts made to crowd as many of these veterans as possible off the list of pensionables and into the category of men whose disabilities are not to be regarded as caused by service.

It has always been a source of wonderment, too, that a soldier who was accepted by the state as physically fit for active service, sent to the front and served there, and came home broken in health, should be told by pension authorities that his condition is due to some weakness or other that existed when he enlisted.

A broader sympathy toward those whose efficiency has been impaired by their war service is needed, and we hope Mr. Peck is not too sanguine in stating that the present session will bring about such a condition.

PROMOTING PEACE.

Preparations for the local drive on behalf of the League of Nations Society scheduled for April 17th are well under way, and the committee in charge are satisfied that the campaign will be successful in securing a large number of Peterborough members for this organization which seeks to promote the cause of peace and disarmament.

The words of His Majesty King George in regard to the League of Nations will be recalled in this connection.

"Nothing is more essential than a strong and enduring League of Nations," said His Majesty. "Millions of British men and women stand ready to help if only they be shown the way. I commend the cause to all the citizens of my Empire."

The League of Nations Society in Canada is intended to show the way. Its objects have been published before, but they may be repeated now for the benefit of those who have not so far given much thought to this important matter.

They are as follows:

1.—To promote international peace;

2.—To furnish information about the League of Nations, its principles, its organization and its work;

3.—To study international problems and Canada's relation thereto as a member of the British Commonwealth and of the League of Nations;

4.—To foster mutual understanding, goodwill and the habits of co-operation between the people of Canada and of other countries, in accordance with the spirit of the League of Nations;

5.—To promote the establishment of provincial or local associations, clubs, or other bodies having like objects, and to co-operate with any existing organizations for such purposes.

Peterborough people will be asked next week to assist in these objects by making a $1.00 subscription and becoming members of the society.

There should be no doubt as to the answer.

OUR ALLOTTED SPAN.

One of the phenomena of our day is the increasing average length of man's life. Dr. Mayo, of the famous clinic, touched upon this subject in an interview with reporters in Toronto a few days ago. The last available figures, those for 1920, show that in the United States the average man lived to 55 years and the woman to 57 years; and since 1800 the expectation of life has been increased by 25 years.

It is almost inconceivable that the ordinary span of life centuries ago was not the three score years and ten of Biblical promise, but a brief twenty-five years. At that age to-day most young men are only emerging from college to begin their life's work; at fifty he takes a new lease of life, and at seventy-five he decides that if he quits he will rust out quickly and die.

In the early centuries the average length of life was 25 years. There were no statistics to confirm that figure, but as an estimate it tends to explain the early and, in a modern sense, untimely deaths of so many writers and other artists who had made their mark in comparative youth. It is true that the early centuries record the work and achievements of men whose lives were long and active, but they seem to have been the exception. Only a century ago, in 1814, an insurance company in Philadelphia figured the average length of life at only 26. Up to that time, therefore, there had been little or no gain in the fight against mortality. At the time of the Civil War in the United States the average span had increased to 46 years, and the intelligence of the Twentieth Century has pushed forward man's expectation of life to 55 and 57 years, or approximately 60 years.

We are healthier apparently because we are wealthier. Countless millions of dollars have been and are being expended in research work in wonder-working laboratories; houses are more sanitary than ever; insurance companies are powerful agencies in life extension, and finally, newspapers are a great factor in disseminating the knowledge which society is discovering.

A striking anomaly of this accomplishment in viability is that while the length of men's lives, on the average, is being extended, the tendency in industrial management is to diminish the period of active employment. Many men of sixty, and beyond even that age, retain a productive usefulness which should be recognized by employers, and certainly there are plenty of men of 55 who are physically and mentally keener than many others of 40.

At any rate, while science is giving men a longer average lifetime, there must be compensating endeavour to make the additional years gainful of happiness and serenity, otherwise our progress in longevity may become a mocking cruelty. But, probably defeat and despair will continue to cut short lives that wear out from the worry and bitterness and loneliness of later empty years. The longer span will be, therefore, only for those who desire it, who find life is still sweet in the graying years.

PLAY SAFE!

More than ordinary effort is being made just now to persuade young people to take greater care when out on the streets. And when we say "out on the streets," we do not want to be taken literally. No boy or girl is really justified in being "on" the street—that is to say, the part on which traffic moves; the sidewalk has been made for the use of foot-passengers, and that is the only part of the street which should be considered safe. There are, of course, times when it is necessary to step off the sidewalk; for instance, when one wishes to cross the road. But the proper place to cross the road is at street intersections, where a clear view of traffic in all directions can be had. The simple rule to look up and down the street before stepping off the curb should always be rigidly observed. If it was, there would be fewer accidents, with their unfortunate consequences.

It is terrible to think that young people are themselves so much to blame for the large number of accidents which occur in the big cities, through careless conduct in the streets. It is not, of course, always the child's fault, and, unfortunately some accidents are quite unavoidable. At other times, the driver is to blame. But the awful toll of suffering—and even death—exacted by modern traffic conditions could very greatly be reduced indeed, if young people would only take the matter more seriously and think always before they act. Every one almost has seen a boy run out into the street after a ball and just escaped being knocked down by a passing motor car—sometimes he does not escape. The sight of groups of young people playing games right in the middle of the road is very common. Now that spring is here this source of danger will be increased. Boys playing ball, girls skipping, little ones riding their tricycles—the street turned into a regular playground—this is often the condition of things in streets that are quite busy thoroughfares. How is it possible to expect that no one will ever get hit, under such circumstances? And then there is that very dangerous habit of "stealing a ride." To climb on to a swift-moving vehicle is risky enough, but there is always the necessity of jumping off, which is more dangerous still, especially in crowded traffic. These foolish practices are merely inviting trouble. Common sense forbids them and no sensible boy or girl should be guilty of them. All should remember to take the little precautions which are so necessary—to keep on the sidewalk, to look up and down when desiring to cross the street and never to step out into the road when the view is obstructed.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Otonabee is bound to have its place in the sun. When all the little second-rate rivers in Ontario are getting their names in the papers our own river cannot be ignored.

James Stevenson Park just now would be an admirable site for the Olympic swimming trials.

Remember Empire buyers are Empire builders.

A Waterloo woman pulled a fire alarm box trying to post a letter. And then the fire department went to the wrong box anyway. The item looks as if it ought to be dated April 1.

Saskatchewan will soon put the old age pension scheme into operation. It looks as if they were all out of step but "Our Fergie."

No figures are yet available as to the mortality in the United States among grandmothers, but the opening of the baseball season is expected to have the usual dire results along this line.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 11 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was quiet, there being little or no demand from foreign buyers. The domestic trade was also dull, but the undertone to the market was firm.

The flour market was without any new feature, business being of a limited character in spring and winter wheat grades, but prices were unchanged.

An active business was done in alll lines of millfeed and values were steady. Only a small trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats, but the undertone was firm.

In a wholesale way there was a better demand for eggs and a moderate amount of business was done with sales of odd cars of Western at 30½c per dozen for extras, at 28½c for firsts, and at 25½c for seconds, Montreal freights, f.o.b. shipping point, while Ontario extras sold at 31½c, firsts at 29½c, and seconds at 26½c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping point. The jobbing trade was quiet but the prices were unchanged. The receipts were 3,299 cases.

Owing to the falling off in the demand, an easier feeling developed in the potato market, and prices were reduced ten to fifteen cents per bag.

A firm feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans under a steady demand. Sales of odd cars of choice white hand-picked beans were made at $4.00 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots at $4.20 per bushel, ex-store.

The inquiry for butter was again confined to small lots, but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 259 packages.

Prices for all grades of cheese were firmly maintained, but the demand was quiet. The receipts were 611 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 11 (Canadian Press). — Wheat traders yesterday failed to anticipate fully the bullish character of the government crop report issued after the close of business. The official figures on conditions of new winter wheat were 5.1 points under the average of recent estimates, and were the lowest on record with one exception.

Price changes in all grain were small throughout the day, a disposition to wait for the government crop figures being rather general. Wheat finished easy, ¼c to ½c net lower, with corn ¼c to ½c off, oats varying from ¼c decline to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

It was generally expected that the government crop report would prove bullish, but private estimates were mostly above 73.9 as to the condition of winter wheat, whereas the official figures proved to be only 68.8, against 86 in December, 84.5 a year ago, and a ten year average of 81.9. Some selling-out on the part of holders took place in the late dealings, but as a rule the chief influence of the government report beforehand was to bring about evening-up of accounts.

Dry weather complaints from Western sections of domestic winter wheat territory, however, gave a transient upward trend to the market at times, and notice was also taken on reports about Hessian fly in early-planted Kansas wheat and of green bugs in Oklahoma. Besides, a leading British authority indicated that world import requirements had been raised to 800,000,000 bushels from 772,000,000 bushels. Weekly world shipments would therefore have to exceed 16,000,000 bushels between now and the end of July. On the other hand, actual export buying of wheat from North America amounted yesterday to only about 250,000 bushels.

Favorable weather conditions led to more speculative selling than the corn market was ready to absorb. Oats were also minus an adequate demand for the time being.

Provisions reflected the circumstance that carriers and cash interests were on the selling side of the lard market.

BARTON'S BOOK.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Sir:

As a war of hatred and abuse is likely to break out over Barton's so-called book let me say that it is well known to be Republican campaign literature to discredit and, if possible, beat Governor Smith, who is a Catholic and likely to be the Democratic candidate. Anybody who knows anything knows that Calvin, the founder of the Presbyterian church, burned Servetiss another "reformer" at the stake, at Geneva and sat watching him die giving, however, all the glory of the horrible death to God. Theorists of history have been amused if not edified to read of the burning of independents.

Protestant congregationalists, by Puritans and vice versa. It was the true spirit of Prohibition and is with us yet. All mankind is loaded with continued for many days and nights) it. It is Christians, however, who are the fiercest haters and we should not be surprised to read of the massacre of St. Bartholemew (which or ramming people into jail for taking a glass of beer. It is the Christian's way. He must hate something and just now it is the Bible.

From Mr Boorman

Jer. 31-15, Matt. 2, 18, Thus saith the Lord. A voice was heard in Ramah Lamentation and bitter weeping Rachel weeping for her children, refused to be comforted for her children because they were not. Thus saith the Lord, refrain thy voice from weeping and thine eyes from tears, for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the Lord, and they shall come again from the land of the enemy (death) and there is hope in thine end that thy children shall come again to their own border. This earth is our border. Matt. 13, 44, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid in a field, which when a man hath found he hideth and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath and buyeth the field. Christ said; just before: "the field is the world, the greatest treasure is the human family" He gave his life a ransom for all bad,good or indifferent and made no difference in letting them all go back into the field (in death) for the joy of one day bringing them out of the death condition to the glorious inheritance of the purchased possession, (which Adam lost forfeited by disobedience) prepared from the foundation of the world. the garden of Eden, beautiful but small for two, it was Paradise to be enlarged for the whole obedient human family, then shall the earth yield her increase in the wilderness, shall waters break out and streams in desert. Isa. 32, 1, Behold a King shall reign in rightouness, and princes shall rule in judgement, 15-18

Isa. 11, 3-4 And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord, and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes neither after the hearing of his ears the sight of his eyes, neither after the hearing of his ears. But with righteousness shall he judge the poor and reprove with equality the meek of the earth and shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

When the judgements of the Lord are in the earth men will learn righteousness. Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth, when Jesus Christ which before was preached unto you till the times of restitution (restoration) of all thing, spoken by all the prophets and to Abraham in thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

EDUCATED PEOPLE MUTILATE THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

The Editor of The Examiner.
Dear Sir:

The above can be answered by a "why?" Principally affectation and lack of true culture. If teachers do not instil the proper meaning of the three essentials, along with breath control, diction, accent and poise, how can the student learn to sing or speak correctly? St. John Ervine, the well-known Irish playwright and author, on the subject of pronunciation and English language, in a debate, has said, "It is the high people of England and not the people from suburbs, but those who have had the advantage of an Oxford education, are primarily responsible for the depradation of the mother tongue. You will hear them say, "howpe" for "hope"; "Doka Yawk" for "Duke of York"; and "lecchaw" for 'lecture'; "oh no, do noo, or aw naw, or even ow now." It's laziness and they do not take the trouble to open their mouths to speak or sing clearly. Let us be liberal and give them the benefit of the doubt. Other words, "recawnoise, sawpraise and quoite", which are even more objectionable than "recaignaise" or "surpraise" or "quate." Another charge, not only against the English people, but apply with equal force against Canadian and American, not to say "five" through the telephone, but to say, something like "fife". The reason being that over the telephone it is extremely difficult to distinguish between five and nine. Users should be obliged to say ninee. Then again, mispronunciation is doing its share in undermining the religious life of the community for increasing numbers remain from church because they cannot hear what the preacher is saying or else they shrink from hearing the beautiful liturgy mutilated. Forbes Robertson says his understanding of English is aided by two things: convention tempered by good taste, and context. Bernard Shaw once suggested that this eminent actor should be engaged to make numerous records to be set aside for future generations so that they might know the English is spoken, by a master of pronunciation, in the early part of the twentieth century; but, it would seem more advisable if the records should be supplied to the public schools so that the knowledge might be available for the present generation.

Those who elude their R's habitually and who make diphthongs out of their vowels or use "dinnah" instead of "dinner", should not be encouraged to talk at all.

Now, while attending the Opera or concert, instead of being equipped with opera glasses, we should take ear trumpets with us. Vowel production is after all but tone production. Toronto's eminent choir has demonstrated to what peaks of tonal beauty our native tongue may be carried, and that choral standards have been attained on this side of the ocean, regardless of the fact that Mr. Edward Branscombe thinks otherwise. And as Mr. Carey of Hamilton has said, our women have virility and brilliance that refute any contentions that our language is unvocal.

Bruce Barton's Articles

Columbus Hall,
216 Simcoe St.,
Peterboro, April 10, 1928

To the Editor,
'Peterboro Examiner'

Sir,

Bruce Barton's Articles

Mr. Bruce Barton attacks religions more or less all of them, but especially Catholics, by mentioning various historical incidents of past ages. I have already called attention to his inaccuracy in the reference to the massacre of St. Bartholomew; unfortunately that is not an isolated slip on his part; there are other errors; and, as his articles continue, it is only right that readers should understand to what extent his historical statements are reliable.

It is a little difficult to deal with them, for the reason that instead of making charges plainly in a full and connected narrative, he makes them in brief disconnected fashion, some by innuendo, and some by telling only half-truths. In two recent installments, Copernicus, Bruno, and Galileo, are mentioned.

Copernicus. Mr. Barton says that Copernicus, by dying, passed beyond the reach of those who would have persecuted him and perhaps have taken his life, and the context shows that the Congregation of the Index (the Inquisition) is meant. It is difficult, in this case for instance, to defend the Inquisition against the charge that it would have done what it did not do, nor ever contemplated doing. The actual facts are that the Inquisition did not take any steps against his book until more than 70 years afterwards, although in the meantime some Protestant theologians were opposing it, and that, when the Inquisition did deal with it, they merely required some trivial verbal alterations to be made.

Bruno. Mr. Barton suggests unmistakably, though he does not say it in so many words, that Bruno was condemned because he said, "that the world was round and moved about the sun." The truth is different. He was condemned, not for that reason, but for publishing attacks on the Church, scoffing at religion, denying the Old Testament as a collection of myths, and saying that Christ was not God but a skilful magician.

Galileo. After Galileo's recantation before the Inquisition, Mr. Barton says of him, "to the end of his days he was confined and annoyed until, blind, wasted, and pitiful, he passed away." This is less than half the truth. The facts are that, although Galileo remained nominally under sentence of imprisonment, he was allowed to reside in comfort in the houses of his friends; first, for about six months, at Siena in the house of the Archbishop a friend of his, after which, at his own earnest wish, he was allowed to return to Florence, where he spent the remaining eight years of his life in the Villa Martellini, engaged in scientific work and correspondence, and where he was visited by Milton. It is true that five years before his death he became blind, but that was the infirmity of age not the result of bad treatment. He lay dying, at the age of 78, he received a special blessing from the Pope. This 'confinement' is hardly what Bruce Barton's paragraph would lead us to suppose.

It is not practicable to go into all that is said and suggested about Galileo; he was a 'difficult' man, and there is something to be said on both sides. I will content myself with giving the opinion of the famous Agnostic, Professor Huxley, and if there was anything for which he had any reverence it was for scientific truth. He visited Rome and examined all the evidence for himself, after which he came to the conclusion that Galileo's opponents "had rather the best of it."

This letter however is not written for the purpose of defending all the actions of the sixteenth century theologians and scientists. I am merely giving a few facts to prove that, in his attacks, Mr. Barton fails to state his cases either accurately or impartially, and I leave it at that.

Yours,
F. J. MacKenzie

OTTAWA FIRM TO DO PAVING

Campbellford Contract Let To Standard Paving Company —Over $60,000.

WORK TO START QUICKLY.

Contracts for the paving of Campbellford's streets were let last night to the Standard Paving Company of Ottawa. The council met for the purpose of opening the tenders in the clerk's office at eight o'clock. No one but the members of the council and officials directly concerned was allowed to be present during the session. Mr. Fellows, government road engineer, was present in the interests of the Department of Public Highways.

The amount of the tender is in excess of $60,000.00, and of this, the town will be obliged to pay all in excess of $50,000.00, which is the amount granted by the government to carry on the work.

Although very little could be learned of the actual procedure of the meeting, it is understood that the work will proceed with the minimum possible delay, so as to have the streets opened for traffic by midsummer.

INTRUDERS BOIL AND STEAL SAP

Hastings Man Finds That Sap He Left in Evening Was Finished and Taken.

MORE SAP GATHERED.

HASTINGS, April 11.—Willis Preston, who owns a large sugar bush about a mile north of the town, was surprised on Monday morning last, upon arriving at his camp in the woods, to find it had had visitors through the night previous. Mr. Preston had gathered the sap from his trees and had boiled it partly down and left it in the boiling house over the week-end, thinking it safe from intruders, as the house was locked. When he arrived on Monday morning the syrup had been finished and taken. It appears the miscreants had a key that fitted the lock and had gained entrance and finished the boiling down without molestation. They were kind enough to fill the vat up again with sap which they gathered.

Obituary

JOSEPH SULLIVAN

Joseph Sullivan, son of Mrs. John Sullivan, 11 Park Street South, Peterborough, died last night in Detroit. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MRS. FRANK HOOPER.

HAVELOCK, April 11. — In the death of Mrs. Frank Hooper on Friday, April 6th, Havelock has lost a very highly respected citizen. On Tuesday evening, Mrs. Hooper was stricken with a stroke and although everything was done to prolong her life she passed peacefully away on Friday. About eighteen months ago she was critically ill with a similar affliction and from then until the second seizure she has been in ill health. The deceased, whose maiden name was Mary E. Keene has lived all her life in Havelock and vicinity. She was born in the township of Bemont on April 9th, 1882 and was a daughter of the late James and Emma Keene. In January, 1901, she was united in marriage to Mr. Hooper. She was a member of the United church and when health permitted was a regular attendant at all its services.

Left to mourn a devoted wife and mother are her husband, three daughters, Misses Edris, Hazel and Evelyn, two sons, James and Lorne, all at home.

The funeral was held on Monday, April 9th, which was Mrs. Hoopers 46th birthday. The service was held in the United church at 2.30 p.m. and interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, showing a glowing tribute of the love and esteem in which the deceased was held.

TOKYO ORDERS DISSOLUTION OF EXTREME ORGANIZATIONS IN ATTEMPT TO CURB COMMUNISM

Japanese Government Determined To Suppress Communist Movement Within Its Borders.

RADICALS ARRESTED.

TOKIO, April 11 (A.P.).—Communism is apparently beginning to take deep root in the Japanese Empire. Because of this the government has begun a series of active steps to suppress agitators and to round up extremists. Dissolution of the Ronoto, an extreme political organization, as well as two other extremist bodies, has been ordered, as they were declared to menace order and security.

In connection with the recent arrest of many Communists, the procurator-general made the statement yesterday that "the predominant aspect of the whole affair is the serious fact that Japan now is confronted by an unusually grave national difficulty, inasmuch as revolutionism is pretty well diffused."

The official opinion was that "the present attempt to undermine the foundation of the Empire from within is more serious than the threat of armed force from without."

The strength of the Communist movement in Japan is attributed in part to the return from Russia last year of "leaders trained in fighting methods by the leaders of the Third Internationale."

Wait Popularity

Those at the head of the dissolved Ronoto party are in co-operation with the Communists and allege that the government is attempting to gain popularity owing to the difficult position confronting the coming Diet. They contend that the suppression of the party will not affect its influence, but on the contrary will add strength to the party.

The leaders of the Seiyu-kai, the government party, hint at further suppression, saying that the government will not be satisfied until Communism is eradicated. The Minseito.

Of several hundred under arrest government acted rightly though mistaken in thinking to regain its popularity by this action.

It is understood that the government plans to dismiss numerous college professors and to dissolve student groups owing to their radical sympathies.

Of the several persons under arrest the prosecution of 150 has already begun, and if the investigations now going on produce sufficient evidence, the prosecution of many others is certain.

The Communist movement is said to be highly organized, with local groups under commissars and every facility for carrying out extensive propaganda.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT CAUSES BARN FIRE

Man Shoots Himself and Sets Relative's Barn On Fire.

STRATFORD, March 11. — Attempting to kill himself Henry Schenk, Logan farmer, destroyed the barn of Andrew Weir, his brother-in-law, on Sunday, he admitted yesterday. A flash from the gun when he shot himself in the shoulder is believed to have started the fire which utterly destroyed the barn buildings.

"I went there to kill myself. I had been thinking of killing myself for the past year," Schenk said. He is seriously, perhaps fatally hurt, but was able to give a concise account in the presence of witnesses.

Schenk is a young bachelor farmer who lives alone. On Sunday morning he left his home to go to Monkton for matches. He took his gun along but did not get the matches, he said. Instead he went to his brother-in-law's place. "I went up to the loft went to the middle of the floor and shot myself. I crawled down to the stable, laid there for a while, and then crawled outside and stayed there until Roy Weir and William Dalling came to the fire and found me.

"I did not fire the barn. It must have been fired by the gunshot. If I had to do it over again I would not do it."

The gun was found in the cellar of the barn directly under the spot where Schenk says he used it.

Evidence that Schenk had planned suicide was found in a little memorandum book in his possession. In a note in the back he thanks his friends for the help they had given him in various ways, and signs the message.

One night Professor Gazor, the great astronomer noticed through his telescope that various stars in one of the great constellations had different numbers of points to them. He was able to group these odd stars. This discovery so startled the scientific world that it was decided to find out what it all meant. After tremendous research it was decided that one of the planets was using this method to send the world an important message. By mathematical calculation Professor Gazor was able to decipher the message. His colleagues naturally wanted to know all about it, but he would not give them the message. He told them to work it out for themselves.

How He Did It

"You will notice," the professor told them, "some stars have three points, others four points, some five, or six points, etc. The number of points each star has determines what letter of the word of the message that star stands for. For instance if a star has three points it is the letter a. However, if it has four points it is either d, e, or f. Some stars represent only one letter, some 2 letters and some 3 letters. I have worked out the table code for you, now you count the number of points on each star and try to find what letter each star stands for, by referring to the table code. I have correctly arranged the stars so that each row of stars spells a word of the message. In order to help you a bit the first word is "Greatest."

PROPOSES NEW SMUGGLING BILL

ized by the department of justice, which department had approved the measure.

T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto, Northwest), asked Mr. Euler if Canada could not enforce her own customs laws. Was it necessary to rely on the U. S. preventive officers to enforce Canadian anti-smuggling laws. He stated that newspapers recently carried a despatch saying that U. S. officers had entered the port of Walkerville, fired shots which broke windows and otherwise created a disturbance. This action, which took place in the territorial waters of Canada, was designed, according to the despatch to enforce anti-smuggling regulations.

"We're quite able to enforce the regulations in the Detroit river without employing the admiralty of the U. S. which won the war," Mr. Church remarked.

Liquor Export Not Illegal.

Mr. Euler said he had no knowledge of what Mr. Church referred to. If the facts were as stated he thought the matter should be taken up. He He pointed out, however, that export of liquor from Canada was not illegal.

W. G. Ernst (Conservative, Lunenburg) asked how the government proposed to legislate outside the three mile limit. The courts had decided that governments had no jurisdiction.

Hon. R. B. Bennett agreed with this viewpoint. He suggested that if the government proposed to seize British vessels outside the three-mile limit it should negotiate a treaty with the government of Great Britain.

Mr. Euler promised to consult the law officers of the crown with respect to the legal points involved. He suggested that the resolution be allowed to pass, and an amendment might be brought in during the progress of the bill if necessary.

CANADA AWAKE.

The following poem was composed by Miss Jessie Goodwin, who lives in Hamilton and is now visiting the city, the guest of her sister Mrs. W. H. Lacey:

Oh! Canada, the land of gold,
With wealth of pulp and power untold,
Sound do ye sleep, yet wonder why,
From your vast lands the youth all fly.

You send your gold across the line,
To foreign schemes your wealth confine,
By cold neglect your children fling,
To exile "Under the Eagle's Wing".

Awake, arise, cast off the spell
Of doubt. Have faith! Your fears dispell.
Invest! Expand! Create demand
For the products of this mighty land.

Does Your Back THROB! THROB! THROB?

Maroons Take Lead in Stanley Cup Series

MAROONS LEAD IN FINAL SERIES

Defeat Rangers 2-0 in Game Packed With Action—Many Penalties.

MILLER STARS IN GOAL.

MONTREAL, April 11. — A 2 to 0 victory over the New York Rangers here last night in the third game of the 1928 Stanley Cup series gave the Montreal Maroons a lead of two games to one on the series and an excellent chance to cop the premier world hockey honors, as they now have to win only one of a possible two remaining contests.

The game was packed with action throughout, and was by far the best of the series so far. There was scarcely a dull moment in the sixty minutes of play, which saw the winners display superior hockey throughout. A feature of the peppery game was a fistic display staged by two substitutes—Lamb of the Maroons, and Thompson of the Rangers — in the third period, for which both participants drew match penalties. The teams were, therefore, forced to play the remaining fifteen minutes of the last period with only five men apiece, while both Lamb and Thompson are automatically suspended for the next game on Thursday night. It was a tough hand-to-hand combat while it lasted. Referee Rodden attempted to separate the pair at the outset, but was dragged to the ice with the battling pair before they were finally separated.

Miller Stars for Rangers.

The Rangers had Joe Miller, former New York American and Niagara Falls goalie, in the net in place of Lorne Chabot, who was seriously injured in last Saturday's game. It was no fault of Miller's that the Rangers lost. The former Ottawa amateur star played a magnificent game between the Ranger nets, and had it not been for his sterling work the locals would have won by a larger margin. The goals that beat him were well-earned Maroon counters.

Stewart opened the scoring in the second period, when he coasted in through the Ranger defence to take a pass-out from Hooley Smith to whip a fast back-hand shot past Miller. Siebert counted the second goal when he beat Miller with a fast shot from the Ranger defence late in the final session. The Maroons were playing four men against the Rangers' five at the time.

The largest crowd of the series witnessed the game and saw the Maroons play their best hockey of the series. The Rangers played good enough hockey to win any ordinary game, but the Montrealers were too good last night. At that, the Montreal net had many close calls from Boucher and the Cook brothers, but Benedict was in top form and turned everything aside.

The teams:

Rangers — Miller, goal; Johnson and Abel, defence; Boucher, centre; W. Cook and F. Cook, wings; Murdoch, Gray, Thompson, Gallighen, Bourgeault, and Boyd, subs.

Maroons — Benedict, goal; Siebert and Dutton, defence; H. Smith, centre; Ward and Stewart, wings; Munro, Lamb, Oatman, F. Brown, and Phillips, subs.

Referees — Mike Rodden and Lou Marsh, Toronto.

The Summary.

First Period.

No score.

Second Period.

1—Montreal, Stewart (Smith), 9.00.

Third Period.

2—Montreal, Siebert, 17.20

Final score—Montreal 2, Rangers 1.

Penalties — First period (Murdoch 2, Abel, Johnson, W. Cook, Siebert, Oatman); second period (Murdoch, Lamb, Phillips); third period (Smith, Dutton, Lamb, match, Thompson, match).

Trottier Has Not Signed Contract

OTTAWA, Ont., April 11 (Canadian Press). — Dave Trottier, brilliant member of the Toronto Grads hockey team, has not signed a Senator contract yet, officials of the Ottawa Hockey Association stated last night. It was admitted that the club had been negotiating with the Toronto player and that terms agreeable to both might yet be reached, but that Trottier was the only player in which the club was interested.

JACOBSON SIGNS WITH MAPLE LEAFS

Smart Hitting Outfielder Has Come to Terms With Toronto Club.

CHARLOTTE, April 11 — Everything is lovely, and the goose hangs high with the Leafs now that Mervin Jacobson has finally come into the fold. The oldster whose batting and fly chasing has featured the majority of the Toronto clubs exhibition tilts this spring, accepted terms yesterday morning, according to an announcement from Manager O'Hara. Naturally the latter was all smiles. Not evening the receipt of the news that his favorite mining stock had gone up twenty points could have made him happier than the decision of "Jake" to be a good boy. The Leafs have looked like a real ball club since his arrival; something they didn't resemble prior to his advent on the scene. O'Hara was apprehensive that there would be a repetition of the Gilhooley case of last spring. Like the "flash," Jacobson is a great run getter and a smart fielder and base runner. Class sticks out all over him like a black eye on a blonde. Even at this early date in the proceedings the veteran from Baltimore has shown more than he did at any stage last summer. That he will prove a valuable performer and a great help to the Leafs in their climb to the championship goes without saying. The player himself is delighted over the consideration accorded him by the Toronto club magnates and it will be a thoroughly satisfied athlete who will wear the Leaf's livery at the stadium next summer.

Now Need Catchers.

With Jacobson rounded it only remains for Detroit to send along the catcher owing to the Leafs in the Sorrell deal to make the club complete. Manager Moriarity of the Tigers offered Ferrell a collegian, to the club, but Manager O'Hara wants either Phillips or Hargrave as promised; and no one else will do. If the worst comes to the worst the Leafs will not be so badly off in the backstopping department with Rensa and Styles available. They are both hustling like white heads this spring and in the practise engagements have swung wicked bats. Rensa is a much improved player all around. He has made an impression wherever the Leafs have played. That he is speedy, his feat of stealing home at Spartanburg would show. He is a particularly smart pegger and not afraid to take a chance.

The great tennis tournament at Wimbledon for the English championships is not to start until the latter part of June, and yet more than 11,000 applications for seats have already been refused because all the seats have been sold.

DANGER

Your tongue is the best barometer of your physical condition. Look at it every morning before breakfast. If it is coated with white, yellow or brown coloring, and does not have a clean red appearance you are constipated and not well.

Heed Its Warning

Constipation causes more ailments than all other diseases, and is the result of not having a daily bowel movement. Sick-headache, indigestion, biliousness and sallow complexion follow. Ask your druggist for a 25c red paper package of CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS "Safe Laxative". Take a dose to-night and continue one pill after each meal. Don't stop—until your tongue is clean. VIEWS ON SPORTS

Boston Red Sox defeat Senators, 7—5, in opening game of American league baseball season.

Tom Holyman has been appointed manager of the Senior Petes this season. Tommy proved himself as a player and will doubtless fill the bill as manager. The line-up has not been doped out, and is somewhat uncertain as yet, but they still have the nucleus of a good team in Swanston and Heckman. Manager Joe Daley of the Kingston Ponies is already counting on his team being a winner this season, but he'll get quite a shock when he sees what a team the Petes can trot onto the diamond. J. Turner of Lanark and H. Ranger of Morristown, Pa., have both been granted transfers by the O.B.A.A.

• • • • • • •

Oshawa ball team will look like the Stars and Stripes this season. Seven players, mostly from Flint, Michigan, were allowed transfers by the O.B.A.A. Stewart, the manager, hails from Flint, and last year managed and played on the team in that city which won the amateur championship of the United States.

Although the baseball season is to officially open here on May 26, it will be some time before the James Stevenson Park is in any condition for practices. The water has reached a record height and even after it does subside it will require quite a while to regain its firmness. A few days of bright sunshine would work wonders on the King Edward School diamond.

The Teco girls have no plans at present for running a softball team here this season. Although they have plenty of material most of the girls have had very little experience in the baseball line. "Babe" Vincent, whose performance on the mound for the Toronto Supremes was outstanding last year, will probably play with the Belleville ladies this season. There is a possibility of the men from the Teco store entering a team in the City Softball League.

PATRICKS MAY OPERATE TEAM

Take Over Pittsburgh Franchise and Transfer It to Cleveland.

BUILD NEW ARENA

MONTREAL, Que., April 11 (Canadian Press).—The Montreal Gazette in its sporting columns to-day says:

"The Patrick brothers, Frank of Vancouver, manager of the New York Rangers, at present competing against the Montreal Maroons here in the Stanley Cup finals, may operate a team in the National Hockey League next season. A proposition has been under consideration by the Patricks which has to do with the proposed sale of the Pittsburgh franchise and team and its possible transfer to Cleveland next season.

"According to the present plan, responsible interests in Cleveland are prepared to proceed with the construction of an arena in that city which will compare with the best on the National Hockey League circuit. In turn they want some group to take over the hockey end of affairs, running an N.H.L. team in Cleveland and leasing the rink for hockey purposes.

"Lester Patrick admitted yesterday that such a plan had been presented to his father, his brother Frank and himself at a conference recently in Chicago. However, he adds that nothing definite has been decided in the matter, the proposition having been put up to them just, as he believes, it might be placed before other parties who might be interested.

"It is known that Frank Patrick has been working to revive pro hockey on the Pacific Coast and that definite steps have been made in a move to establish a four-club circuit next season with Vancouver, Seattle, Victoria and Portland represented for a start.

"Rumors are prevalent that, if the Patricks do take over the Pittsburgh franchise and team and operate in Cleveland next season as an N.H.L. club, Frank Carroll, at present manager of the Springfield team, Rangers' farm club in the Canadian-American minor loop, will handle the Rangers next winter."

WINNERS INROAD RACE

Hundreds of spectators lined Toronto streets for the annual 15-mile road race of the Bloor Toronto Men's Association, which was started by Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross. The winner was Billy Reynolds, of Galt (on the RIGHT) whose time for the distance was one hour 27 minutes and 17 1-5 seconds. Reynolds finished very strong and had a big margin on his field. Chuck Snell, of the Gladstones (on the LEFT) was the winner of the 10,000 metres and Walter Hornby, of Hamilton, was first home in the 5,000 metres. After the running of the races the prizes were presented and stirring addresses were delivered by President Charles E. Higginbottom, of the Ontario Branch of the A.A.U. of C. and President S. H. Menzies of the Bloor Association.

MAJOR LEAGUES OPEN TO-DAY

Likely 250,000 Fans May Turn Out to See Eight Inaugural Affairs.

REVIEW OF CLUBS

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, April 11. — Associated Press. — The great American baseball jamboree, with all its accompanying fan-fire and flag-raising cheers and jeers, base hits and fumbles, burst out to-day along the entire major league front after a preliminary flourish in Washington.

With more cheerful weather than that marking the opening game and ceremonies in the nation's capital, fandom may turn out in excess of 250,000 for the eight inaugural affairs to-day and shatter all major league records.

It will be attracted by curiosity in the American League to see whether it is all true about the Yankees slipping or whether the other clubs have a chance, and in the National League by interest in the start of the greatest free-for-all that ancient circuit has ever had in prospect.

The biggest jam is expected at the Polo grounds, where close to 65,000 may turn out to see Rogers Hornsby lead the Boston Braves into the den of the New York Giants, and test the results of the greatest trade of the off season.

Chief interest however, will focus upon the battles that bring together in each league the two clubs generally picked to stage the main go of the pennant campaigns. In these the Pittsburgh Pirates, National League champions, will invade the grounds of their powerful rivals the St. Louis Cardinals, while the world champion New York Yankees pry off the lid with the colorful Athletics of Philadelphia. Thus the clubs that finished one-two in each race last season have a chance to swap punches without preliminary.

The last minute scrambling of the dope has not shaken up the pennant prospects except perhaps to bally-hoo the idea that the Chicago Cubs will spring an upset in the National League. The Pirates and Cardinals stand as twin favorites with the Cubs leading in the dope. If the Cubs don't spring a surprise the Giants may. Then there are the Braves, Reds and Robins all eager, anxious and equipped to break into the limelight.

Briefly, here's how the clubs size up on the eve of battle:

National League.

Pirates—Second base plugged by Sparky Adams and the Waners ready to put on a bigger and better act. Pitching staff lacks good southpaw but strong enough if Grimes, Kremer, Hill, Meadows, the veterans, come through.

Cardinals—Great pitching staff, with old Pete Alexander as good as ever, counted on to offset weaknesses on left side of infield and in outer works.

Cubs—Infield only outstanding weakness, but team as good a pennant prospect as any if it is only half as good as the outfield. Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson one of the greatest trios in game. Club also has best catcher in League, Hartnett, and capable pitching staff with one big star, Root.

Giants—Chances depend on how well Cohen fills Hornsby's shoes at second base. Rest of infield first-class, catching and outfield improved, and team as whole in better starting shape than a year ago. Pitching staff needs Aldridge.

Braves—Fired with "spirit of 14" by the addition of Hornsby and Bell to infield. Pitching staff has big possibilities but outfield below standard.

Reds—One of the greatest second sackers in game Critz, and good twirling troupe led by Cuban Adolfo Luque. Like Giants, club in better starting condition than in 1927.

Robins — Another "dark horse." Greatest pitching staff in either league, led by Vance and Petty, but infield still weak, despite the steadying influence of Bancroft. Quantity in outfielders but quality questionable.

Phillies—Unanimous choice for last place, outclassed by all other clubs despite work of a few outstanding stars, such as Jimmy Wilson, Fresco Thompson and Fred Leach. Star pitcher, Ulrich, in hospital.

American League.

Yankees—Same band of murderous maulers, same seasoned inner and outer defence without the prospect of a weak spot unless it develops behind the bat or on the mound, where some veterans are missing and others slowing up.

Athletics—Brains, plus and plenty of reserve strength available if the ageing legs of Cobb, Speaker and others slow up the machine too much. Plenty of punch and great pitching prospects in the staff is in shape, as well as the best catcher in the league.

Senators—Excellent defence and helped by Sisler's bat, but getaway affected by ailments. Some pitching uncertainties and question marks at shortstop and centre field.

Tigers—Powerful attack, re-vamped and strengthened infield, but pitching doubtful unless Whitehill and Gibson stage comebacks.

White Sox—1927 model of the old "hitless wonders." Flashy defence with $123,000 cog in Bill Cissell. Two great pitchers in Lyons and Thomas, but more punch needed.

Indians — Reorganization process still under way and not much prospect of doing better than last year. Pitchers look good but inner and outer defence not up to first division standard.

Browns—Almost an entire new cast but act not improved enough to escape depths. Pitching staff has possibilities and outfield has real star in Schulte.

Red Sox—In same class with Browns. More punch with Ken Williams in outfield, but main hope is to get out of eighth place.

REBOVE LAST OBSTACLE TO TUNNEY-HEENEY BOUT

Fight Will be Approved by New York State Athletic Commission.

$40 AS TOP PRICE

Considered Likely That Bout Will be Held in Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, April 11 (A.P.).—The dignity of the New York State Athletic Commission, ruffled by a heavyweight champion who for a time paid it scant attention, was calmed yesterday and as a result Tex Rickard can promote his title jamboree between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney here in July or any other time he wants to.

Although the promoter as yet has failed to name New York definitely as the site for the champion's 1928 title defense, the commissioners announced that Tex has only to submit the signed contracts of the principals to gain approval for the match. Furthermore, the bar of a $27.50 top price for tickets such as helped send Tunney's fight with Jack Dempsey to Chicago last fall will not again be raised.

Price fixing by the commission has been declared illegal. Although the board still believes it has that power under a state law permitting it to act in any way "for the good of the game," there will be no contest of the judicial ruling. Rickard charged a $40 "top" at Chicago, and probably would fix the same figure here.

The belief of the commission that Tunney will defend his title here against the burly blacksmith from "down under" rather than in London, as Rickard first hinted, was obvious from their ruling.

Chairman James A. Farley, who was chosen yesterday to head the commission for another year, declared Tunney's formal acceptance of Heeney as a challenger had ended the titleholder's controversy with the commission. The most likely date for the bout seems to be July 26 at the Yankee Stadium.

BOSTON WINS OPENER 7-5

Defeat Senators in Listless Game Played at Washington.

IN COLD WEATHER

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 11.—(Associated Press.) — While 20,000 fans shivered under chilly Eastern blasts, President Coolidge inaugurated the 1928 American League baseball season here yesterday by tossing out the first ball. Then the Boston Red Sox proceeded to defeat the Washington Senators 7 to 5 in a somewhat listless game.

There were all the usual opening formalities, including the flag raising, the marching of bands and the reception to the president, who stood bare-headed as the army band played the Star Spangled Banner.

The chief executive's toss of a new ball from his box in the grandstand proved somewhat wide, but Umpire Owens saved him from a wild pitch by making a lunging one-handed catch. Mr. Coolidge remained only during the first inning.

Milton Gaston, a recent acquisition from the St. Louis Browns, was the starting pitcher for Washington, a role so long held by one of the greatest masters, Walter Johnson, now ill in a sanitarium here following an attack of influenza. Gaston failed to go the route, giving way to a pinch hitter after the Red Sox had found him for four hits and three runs in the seventh inning.

After getting away to a bad first inning when the Senators scored three runs on one hit, MacFayden finished out the string for Boston, holding the Senators to seven hits.

Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, who is contesting with George Sisler, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, responded to a large floral horseshoe gift from friends in the Cosmopolitan Club by turning in several nifty bits of fielding and hammering out four successive hits, three singles and a double, and scoring one run.

You Can't Paint a House with Applesauce

DON'T listen to anybody who tells you that "cheap" paint is just as good as good paint.

That kind of talk is "applesauce," pure and simple. Pleasant enough to listen to, but mighty poor material upon which to lay your plans for painting your house. Just look at the facts. Compare this so-called "cheap" paint with a paint you know is good—SWP, the world's standard of quality for more than half a century.

To be sure, SWP costs more per gallon. But — by the job it costs less than your "cheap" paint. That's because fewer gallons are needed. SWP covers more surface and covers it better, and it lasts longer—two to five times longer—than the average "cheap" paint.

As a matter of fact, "cheap" paint is the most expensive paint you can buy. It costs you—easily—twice as much as SWP, year by year. The only cheap thing about it is the appearance of the finished job. Wishy-washy colors that are not permanent. Film that quickly disappears causing cracks and peeling. The necessity for a repainting job in a year or so. It is a money loser, an actual waste of time and labor. And the use of SWP in the first instance would prevent this waste.

Don't be fooled by "cheap" paint "applesauce." Go to your S-W dealer — local Paint Headquarters. Get his advice. Tell him about the job you have in mind. Let him give you an estimate. Compare it with an estimate of some "cheap" paint. Do this and your own good judgment will tell you that SWP is the soundest choice.

private life. If our private life is well regulated, our public ministrations will reflect it. 'Thus above all, to thine own self be true, and it shall follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man.'

"Christ requires men for the ministry. When He ascended upon high He gave gifts unto men, and those gifts were men for 'He gave some apostles, and some prophets, and some evangelists, and some pastors, and some teachers, for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ.'

"'Rise up, O men of God!
Have done with lesser things;
Give heart and soul and mind and strength
To serve the King of Kings.'

"We must be men of prayer. We must take heed unto ourselves in this respect. 'He that handleth the sacred fire should be heated at the same flame.' 'He works well who prays well,' said Luther. The study should be a Bethel; and we should ever be on intimate terms with our Master. Tell Him everything; 'Casting all your care on Him for He careth for you.'

A correspondence fixed with Heaven,
Is sure a noble anchor.

"We should ever be students. Your student days do not end here; they only begin at this juncture of your life. There should come no time in your ministerial career when you cease to be a student. To do justice to yourselves, and to the flock over which the Holy Spirit may see fit to place you as overseers, you must be much in your study. We live in an enlightened age, and if you would 'edify the body of Christ,' you must 'study to show yourselves men approved of God, rightly dividing the word of truth, giving to each his portion in due season.' We must, therefore, be students of men and of books; but more especially of the man Christ Jesus, and the Book of books. Know the mind of the Master, and know your Bible well. Speaking of the Levites, Moses said, 'They have observed Thy word, and kept Thy covenant; therefore, they shall teach Jacob Thy judgments, and Israel Thy law.'

"We must be diligent in the preparation of our pulpit ministrations, ever keeping in mind that it is for the perfecting of the saints and the conversion of sinners. It was beaten oil that gave light to the sanctuary of old. And it is well for us to see in each hearer a temple of the Holy Spirit to whom we must give light. 'I am the Light of the world,' said our Master;; and He also said of us, 'Ye are the lights of the world'; 'As the Father hath sent me into the world, so send I you.'

Public Life.

"We must also take heed to ourselves in our public life.

"We have to take heed to our speech and behaviour. There should be no two standards of rectitude. But in spite of that the public, rightly or wrongly, expect more from the ministers of Christ. As ministers of Christ we should be gentlemen in the best sense of the world. You will be so as far as education and position are concerned. It is better to be a gentleman by nature and grace. 'Let your speech be alway with grace.' It is sad when we let the nature sink below the name.

"In these days we must take heed to our doctrine. There is danger of being charmed from the right course by the sirens of novelty. Let the old, old story be your theme. 'Determine to know nothing among men but Jesus Christ and Him crucified.' The cross is still the power of God unto salvation. 'Hold fast the faithful word as ye have been taught, that you may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and convince the gainsayer.' Let no one spoil you by vain philosophy; or any theme charm you from the proper course. 'Thus saith the Lord, stand ye in the ways and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein and ye shall find rest to your souls.'

All the Flock.

"It is worthy of note that the Apostle enjoins us to take heed to all the flock over whom the Holy Ghost makes us overseers.

"Three things suggest themselves in your pulpit ministration to which you should take heed.

"In our preaching we are enjoined to speak as the oracles of God. The message must be His, and the power must be His. Know it as the message from God to your people, and proclaim it as such, faithfully and fearlessly in His name. 'Whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.' 'I believe therefore have I spoken,' said the Psalmist. Be convinced of the truth you preach and your sermons will appeal with effect to saint and sinner.

"The Apostle says 'Take heed to all the flock.' That takes in young and old, rich and poor. Jesus says, 'Feed My lambs; tend My sheep.' To the young, the bread of life must be broken small. 'Tell the story simply as to a little child,' and others will be edified as well.

"Be careful in the reading of the Scriptures in public. Carefully select suitable portions beforehand. Read them over carefully and prayerfully beforehand. Endeavor to understand what you read and a blessing will follow.

"Be careful also of your prayers. In this, like the priests of old, we bear the censer between God and the people. We intercede for them before the mercy seat, and the censer must hold sacred fire, from which our odor of sweet savour should ascend. Let wisdom from above guide you in this, so that your prayers may breathe of reverence toward God, and tenderness toward your people.

Pastoral Work Important

"And take heed to all your flock in your pastoral work. Pastoral visitations are important and necessary work, and require much tact and great grace. It is true that some ministers are able to hold their people by their pulpit gifts, but confining themselves to the pulpit they cannot know their people. Other ministers again depend largely on pastoral visitation; they know their people intimately, but often preparation for the Sabbath services suffer. A more excellent way may be found in a combination of both. The head should not say to the feet, 'I have no need of thee,' nor the feet say the same to the head. Head and feet working in harmony will bring about the best results.

"Take heed to all your flock in your pastoral work. Do not show a tendency toward any particular class. 'All souls are mine,' said the Lord. The rich and the poor meet together under your ministrations, and the Lord is the maker of them all.' An old Divine was asked the secret of his success as a minister of a large congregation, and he replied, 'I have always given attention to those who, in the course of nature, would soon depart this life, and to those who were just beginning it.' The old and the young received his best attention.'

"The time of trouble will give you a great opportunity.

In dealing with anxious souls, with the sick or dying, a grasp of your Bible will be of immense help. Let me give you a few incidents drawn from experience which may illustrate my meaning. On a cold wet afternoon in November I was called to see a man who was reported to be going out of his mind. On arriving at his home, some five miles out, I found the family in tears, and the man alone in a room, sitting with his face towards the wall, and moaning piteously. I asked him what was wrong. 'All wrong,' he answered; 'I am lost lost! lost!' 'Thank God for that,' I replied and the man sprang to his feet, seeming mad indeed. 'Yes,' I repeated,'thank God for that, for "The Son of man came to seek and save that which is lost."' He seemed stunned for a moment; then the meaning of that text dawned upon him. 'Oh, I see; I am lost, and Christ came to save me. You have taken a great load of my soul.' For the first time he read and prayed with his family before retiring.

"Another incident occurs to me on the same road, only two miles farther on. An old man was dying and sent for me. He did not belong to us, but was anxious to see me and I went. I asked what I could do for him. He said: 'I am dying and I want to know how I can make my peace with God.' I told him peace had been made with God for men long ago. 'Just listen to this,' I said, as I read from Romans 5:1, "Being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." After reading that a few times he was able to grasp it, and got peace.

"These incidents in my pastoral life illustrate many such cases. I have found it of service to diagnose such cases of soul trouble, as a physician would the ailments of the body. In that way you know how to deal with the case.

Varied Methods.

'May I just conclude by the advice that in your sermonizing do not harp on one string. Vary your methods while you hold to the one high theme. Young ministers have come to me very much discouraged because of the labor of sermon preparation from week to week. I remember in particular one young man coming to me regarding that same matter. He was a distinguished graduate, and had been in charge for four years but thought of giving it up because of the labor of sermonizing. He assured me that no sooner did he get over his Sunday work than the sermon for the next Sunday hung like a nightmare on his mind. I asked him to give me an idea of what kind of sermons he preached. I found he had been preaching nothing but topical sermons. I told him he should vary his sermons. Topics are limited, but expository and textual sermons have no end. After illustrating what I meant by expository, and textual sermons he said, 'I'll try it.' He did and now finds a pleasure instead of a trial in sermonizing.

"You will naturally say, 'Who is sufficient for these things?' Ever remember that, 'Our efficiency is of God.' 'The treasure is put into earthen vessels that the power may be of God, and not of us.'

"I now wish you may prosper and be in health even as thy soul prospereth. We serve a good and a gracious Master, who has committed to us a very precious charge. It is described in the words chosen as the basis of this address as 'the church which He hath purchased with His own blood.' And now I would commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and give you an inheritance among them that are sanctified.

"And may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, that Great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do His will, working in you that which is well pleasing in His sight, to whom be glory forever and ever, amen."

Dr. Thomson will in July next complete his forty-fifth year as pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Hastings, a record which for the length of service probably stands without a parallel in the history of Canadian Presbyterianism. The long term is also remarkable owing to the fact that in more than four decades of Dr. Thomson's work he has never been absent from his pulpit on account of illness. He still enjoys the best of health and to all appearances still has many years of usefulness ahead of him.

Dr. Thomson is a native of Scotland. He graduated from Glasgow University, took two years of theology in that city and on coming to Canada finished his course with a year in Knox college. It was in the year 1883 that he first preached as a student in Hastings church, which was at that time united with the Norwood congregation. Hastings, however, resolved to become independent and a unanimous call was extended to the young graduate to become the first pastor. He was accordingly ordained as a minister and inducted as pastor July 19, 1883.

Some of his fellow students as well as some of the ministers who had had experience in the field advised Dr. Thomson to decline the call. They prophesied that if he accepted it, he would resign before the expiration of six months. But he was a young man and was looking for a hard field, true to the characteristics of his race. He told his friends that when he decided to enter the ministry he resolved that he would take the first call that came to him regardless of the stipend offered or other considerations. Soon after settling in Hastings he married.

The Hastings congregation flourished from the first days of its independence but on July 5th, 1897, it met with a heavy loss when the church building was destroyed by fire. It took less than a year to erect the present structure which was dedicated on February 20th, 1898. One year later the manse was erected.

Dr. Thomson's knowledge of scriptures appears unlimited and it is perhaps his faith in the Bible as an inspired volume that accounts for his success as a pastor and preacher. No man in Hastings is more respected by his neighbors, regardless of denomination, none is more broad minded and charitable in judgment of human facilities, none is readier to help the unfortunate or extend a helping hand to the erring.

To Dr. and Mrs. Thomson were born four sons and one daughter. Three of the sons adopted professional careers and the other occupies a position of trust in business. John, the eldest, is a banker, James was practising medicine at Winchester at the time of his death some years ago, E. A. is a Presbyterian minister, and W. C. is a lawyer.

The son, W. C., went overseas in 1916 as a captain in the 93rd Battalion and in England reverted to a lieutenancy in order to get to France. In active service he won back his captaincy and was later made a major.

Dr. Thomson during the church union struggle was a persistent worker for the preservation of the Presbyterian church and was one of the three ministers of the Peterborough Presbytery to remain with the church.

He has been clerk of the Peterborough Presbytery for over twenty-five years.

Dempsey May Come Back On The Stage

NEW YORK, April 11 (Canadian Press).—Jack Dempsey may come back—but for David Belasco, not Tex Rickard. Belasco has never promoted a Dempsey bout, but he will confer with the former heavyweight champion on his arrival in New York to-day.

Mr. Belasco hopes to send Dempsey into a ring for a championship fight on the stage in a play written by Max Marcin.

Dempsey would be called on in the main to say it with his fists as his part would include only half a dozen lines.

At least one obstacle, the size of the purse, must be hurdled before a contract is signed. Dempsey's friends say he can not be paid in stage money.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THE BATTLES OF CORNEL AND FALKLAND ISLANDS

The thanks of the producers are due to the officers and men of the Fleet for the invaluable advice and assistance they have rendered and for the time they have devoted in helping to secure results which would have been impossible without them. The Naval stations at Malta, Portsmouth, Weymouth and Devonport have been visited and many hundreds of miles of sea have been traversed in order to secure the sea-shots of firing, etc.

The film commences with the disposition of the Navy in October, 1914, mounting guard over Home waters and all out wide-set outposts around the Seven Seas. In the South Pacific was stationed the 5th Light Cruiser Squadron, comprising the Cruisers "Good Hope", "Monmouth" and "Glasgow", under the command of Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, K.C.B. On November 1st, 1914, "Glasgow" left Cornel, a town on the west coast of Chile, on reconnaissance duty, and soon after sighted the whole of the German fleet under Admiral Von Spree and reported their presence to the Commander-in-Chief. Admiral Cradock was thereupon face with the alternative of retiring before a greatly superior enemy or of forcing an action. The traditions of the British Navy do not countenance retreat and Admiral Cradock decided to attack at once. "Glasgow", the weakest vessel of the three, was the only vessel of the British fleet to escape.

In England the news of the reverse was received with dismay, but Lord Fisher, who had only taken over the office of First Sea Lord three days previously, at once set about making arrangements to counteract the defeat. With characteristic energy he ordered the two battle-cruisers "Invincible" and "Inflexible" to prepare for despatch to the South Pacific. On November 11th, ominous date, they sailed secretly from Devonport under Admiral Sturdee, on their long journey of 7,000 miles in search of Von Spee.

On the morning of December 8th a lady of the Falkland Islands was looking out over the cliff when she saw strange ships approaching. It was Von Spee's squadron steaming up to take possession of Port Stanley with its valuable stores and coal. She instantly telephoned the news to the Governor, and for her promptitude in furnishing valuable information to the Navy was subsequently awarded a piece of plate by the Lords of the Admiralty.

Two of Von Spee's ships, the "Gneisenau" and Leipzig", approached the harbour in advance of his other ships, expecting to meet only a feeble resistance. What must have been their amazement when presently thy sighted over a spur of land a volume of smoke revealing, when the smoke divided, the tripod masts of the two battle cruisers "Invincible" and "Inflexible", two ships supposed to be in European waters. Sturdee had brought his ships 7,000 miles in under four weeks, without a word of his destination leaking out, and had collected five light cruisers "en route." He arrived only a few hours before Von Spee—how valuable those two days gained by Lord Fisher!—and when the German Suadron was sighted was busy coaling.

As at Coronel it was gun power that decided the issue. "Scharnhorst" and "Gneisenau" were no match against the British battle-cruisers and were eventually sunk. Refusing to surrender, they went down with colours flying. Of the light cruisers only "Dresden", a very fast ship, escaped to be hunted about for a few weeks longer, when she was eventually caught and sunk. "Leipzig" was overhauled by "Carnarvon" and "Glasgow", who thus gained her revenge for Coronel. "Kent", a slower ship normally than Nurnberg", was only able to overtake her by burning every piece of spare wood she had, including the Chaplain's harmonium. Bringing her within range as night was falling, she fought her to a standstill and eventually sunk her. Like her companions, "Nurnberg" refused to surrender and went down still flying her flag.

Thus ended the only two decisive naval battles of the War. In both battles, stoic heroism and devotion to duty maintained the finest of time-honoured traditions of Naval Warfare.

AT THE REGENT.

"A DOG OF THE REGIMENT" RIN-TIN-TIN'S BEST FILM ON THE WAY TO THE REGENT

Rin-Tin-Tin's millions of friends, will welcome the news that he comes to the Regent Theatre Thursday for a run of three days in "A Dog of the Regiment," a Warner Bros. production.

The story is that of a German Red Cross dog in the hottest days of the World War and of his devotion to a wounded American ace, whom he had known before the days of conflict.

In the cast are Tom Gallery, Dorothy Gulliver and John Peters. Ross Lederman directed the production, a Charles R. Condon adaptation of the story of Albert S. Howson.

Rinty is seen first as a fighting flyer, in "A Dog of the Regiment." He has never had a part so heroic, and an interesting fact about the picture is that it depicts many adventures similar to those experienced by Rinty in real life, before he was rescued by Captain Duncan from the war-torn French village which was his birthplace.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK ASSISTS

Paul's choir, was heard in a vocal solo of merit, and Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist of the church, concluded the evening with a brief recital of high order. Dr. Kannawin was again the main speaker.

"The Vision of Youth."

Taking his subjct from a text in the book of Joel, "Your young men shall see visions," Dr. Kannawin delved into his address proper after a few remarks in which he referred to the success of the afternoon session as well as the banquet. He said in part:

"I always have a feeling of wonder when I am among young people for as I see them in this time of their lives—a time of great decisions — I wonder what they will become. It is a time of "looking forward" in their lives. Such has also been true of nations. Differing from China, with her eyes turned back to a golden age that is gone our young people have ever turned their eyes forward, characteristic of our religion. Youth has always caught that note and it is to be hoped that you will make use of the vision for the good of the world. May you cherish the ideal of a world redeemed.

"God has always worked through human agents and our church has a great work to do. Formosa, British Guiana, Central India, Manchuria and Japan hold millions who will not hear the gospel unless the Presbyterian church in Canada gives it. Let us see the vision of such possibilities; let us view it in the light of the work done in the last generation in the south sea islands where the natives, once cannibals are now Christians.

"The work at home in Canada is also an important one for vacant pulpits all over the land call loudly to young men to make their choice the ministry. Two years ago sixty students were sent during the summer and this year almost two hundred have answered the call"

The speaker told of conditions in the west, where more ministers are needed, and urged the young people to keep the ideal of Canada redeemed and the old church established in all the land.

Dr. Kannawin here appealed to the young women for service either at home or overseas, saying that God has planned the redemption of the world through human agents, and He has made no provision for failure. They are not to fail—they cannot!

He went on to tell of the growth of the Western churches as well as churches in the Maritimes, and concluded by urging the young people to realize that while all may not be called to be ministers, all are called to be Christians and to magnify the calling, to realize that young Canadians should not be content with gaining the foothills, but should climb the heights of life so that when at last the work is over they may say:

"Nothing in my hands I bring,
Simply to Thy cross I cling."

Votes of Thanks.

Following the main address of the evening, Horace Hope's vote of thanks to Dr. Kannawin was seconded by Miss Beryl Hill, of Hastings, and heartily responded to, while the vote of thanks to the ladies of St. Paul's and to the St. Paul's Y.P.S. for the splendid banquet, was moved by R. J. Townsend and seconded by Rev. J. C. Grier.

This Tonic Does More Than Bring Back Health

A safe, powerful alterative is needed regularly by every person who has any manifestation of blood disorder. For only by purifying and toning the blood can good health be restored.

Buckley's TRU-BLOOD is a proven corrective for weak, deficient or impure blood. First successfully used as a doctor's prescription, TRU-BLOOD is highly recommended for the prompt elimination of all skin affections such as pimples, blackheads, blotches, ulcers, rash, abscesses, eczema, boils, salt rheum and all troubles arising from impoverished or below-par blood.

A characteristic tribute to the benefit of TRU-BLOOD is the following: "I used two bottles of TRU-BLOOD last Spring. It built me up, and gave me new life, and as long as I live I shall never be without it."

TRU-BLOOD is more than a purifier of the blood. Use TRU-BLOOD and skin troubles will disappear. The complexion will become clear, smooth, colorful. Buckley's OINTMENT is a magic aid to TRU-BLOOD in permanently banishing disfiguring blemishes. Good druggists everywhere carry both.

Tones the Blood — TRU-BLOOD — Clears the Skin

What CAN a Man Believe?

By BRUCE BARTON

Author of "The Book Nobody Knows," "The Man Nobody Knows"

XXI—The Best Religion?

IT is not strange, when you think of it, that more people do not go to church. The amazing thing is that anybody goes.

What is it that they go for? To be told that they are sinful. To be asked to give money for poor and sick and unfortunate people whom they have never seen, and who have no claim of blood relationship upon them. To be sent away dissatisfied with all that they are or have done in comparison with what Jesus was and did.

The wonder, I say, is not that more do not attend, but that any human beings at all should voluntarily submit themselves, Sunday after Sunday, to the reminder that they can and should do better than they have done.

This ceaseless insistence that humanity is capable of better things; this unrelenting challenge to higher thinking, nobler action, more unselfish living—this makes the church a great constructive power, whatever its follies of over-organization, its pettiness of creed. It lives in one sense from hand to mouth.

It prays day by day for its daily bread, and feeds every Sunday out of the contribution box. It has only so much as is cheerfully given to it. Yet it has assets, even financial ones, greater than Standard Oil or United States Steel or any other commercial enterprise. Its missions, its hospitals, its colleges bring no revenue, but are, on the contrary, a daily source of huge expense.

Yet they live by faith and grow as the church discovers in each new generation a certain company of unselfish folks who respond to its call to sacrifice.

Such an institution, in spite of mistakes and shortcomings, will not die; and could not, at any cost, be spared. It may change, I believe, very radically from its present type and characteristics. In a later chapter we shall have something to say about the possible forms which those changes may take. But it will be much easier for liberal-minded men to graft new life on to the old institution than to discard it.

Indeed, it cannot be discarded. Those who believe it can be speak with singularly little knowledge of history or of the deep cravings of the human heart. The hymn writer was a better historian and a sounder psychologist:

"Oh, where are kings and empires now
Of old that went and came?
But Lord, thy church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same."

The twelve hundred years between 600 B. C. and 600 A. D. seem to have been the most propitious for starting religions. In that comparatively brief period four faiths were founded—Buddhism, Confucianism, Christianity and Mohammedanism—which enroll several hundred million members of the human race. They were launched into the world by four great personalities.

What was the life of each of these leaders?

What did he teach?

Wherein did his teaching differ from that of the others?

And which of the four taught best?

NEW INSTRUMENTS RECEIVED BY BAND

Salvation Army Musicians Give Special Program On Monday Evening.

The final service of the Easter celebration of the Salvation Army took form of a musical program rendered by the local Band and Songsters. The very amiable chairman was G. A. Gillespie, Esq., whose interesting references to the early activities of the Army in this city were greatly appreciated. A pleasing duty performed by the chairman was the presentation of two new instruments to the Senior Band. These instruments are the latest "Trumphonic" models manufactured by the Salvation Army at its instrument factory in St. Albans, England, and are genuine triumphs of workmanship and consist of two E-flat tenor horns. It had been hoped to also present a Flugel horn but it was not on hand in time.

Musical fare offered by the Band included a festival march, "The Story of the Combat"; a selection, "The Warrior's Reward," and a descriptive piece, "Man of Sorrows." This number was written by Adjutant Bramwell Coles, who is at present on the Army editorial staff in Toronto, and the following is the story of how the piece became written:

Adjutant Coles while serving with His Majesty's forces during the late war was stricken with a fever and while in hospital constantly dreamt that he was entering heaven and heard some wonderful music, parts of which he was able to retain, and while convalescing on the south coast of England pieced these "heavenly" chords and stanzas together and these, with the rest of the selection, form a wonderful piece of music.

Vocal numbers by the Songsters, "Shout Hallelujah" and "Echoes of Calvary" were well rendered; a duet by Mrs. M. Braund and Mrs. M. Shadgett; a vocal quartet by four bandsmen; a story of two London waifs in poem told by Mrs. Colonel Corris, and a cornet solo with band accompaniment by Deputy Bandmaster A. Au in, and a chime and bell solo by Bandsman Barton made an interesting program which gave the audience considerable pleasure.

A vote of thanks to the chairman was proposed by Ensign Green, who also coupled a vote of appreciation to Mrs. Colonel Morris, who had given very helpful talks during her stay in the city.

SNAPPY DANCING IN KIWANIS SHOW

Peterborough Girls Make Good Impression at First Rehearsal.

Members of the Kiwanis Club who sing together with twenty others form the male chorus that is practicing every night for the big minstrel revue which will be presented next week. Added to this group will be thirty-six young ladies who are rehearsing the fast step dancing so necessary to a modern type of show and about the same number will appear as soloists and in the chorus.

Those who are privileged to see the rehearsals report that the Peterborough girls are handling the dances with grace and ease, and the director is quoted as saying he has not had a better dancing chorus this year. Real step dancing is being used and the girls go into the breaks like experienced stage steppers.

Another very pleasing novelty of the show is a tuneful opening and closing of the minstrel first part written especially for this production. Twelve dancing girls dressed in changeable satin overalls open the prologue with a song and a knock-out dance. They next introduce Uncle Mose, who in turn brings on the minstrel men. All of this prologue is done to original music which is said to be just the right kind to bring out the good voices of the chorus. After the circle is introduced they give a short exhibition of dancing and complicated team work at the finish of the opening number.

The Kiwanis Minstrel Revue is divided into two acts and fourteen scenes. The skits and musical numbers as well as the dancing in the review second part are carefully arranged and timed so the show works up to a big climax of colorful settings, beautiful costumes and intricate steps at the very last. It takes planning to do this. So many times a minstrel first part will be fine and then the second part dies out and the audience feels that they saw the best in the minstrel part. In this show, according to the committee in charge, every part will be of the utmost interest and there is enough variety to please every taste.

Practically all of the soloists have been selected and names of those taking part will be announced this week.

TRUTH VS. ERROR.

The reverence of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. Psalm 111:10. Holy and reverend is His name. Psalms 111:9.

A certain class of men appropriate to themselves the name "Reverend," which belongs to Jehovah God, and make the blasphemous assertion that God punishes His creatures with conscious torment, eternal in duration, and with the same breath tell us this is "good tidings of great joy." Can these men have even the beginning of wisdom? Surely we must answer —no.

Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. Dan. 12:4.

The knowledge of God is surely increasing. The god of this world has the minds of vast multitudes still blinded, but the teachers that are wise understand, and are instructing many. II Cor. 4:4 ;Dan. 12:10:11:33.

The reverence of Jehovah is the chief part of knowledge, but the foolish despise wisdom and instruction. Prov. 1:7.

Those who preach that the Almighty is a fiend who tortures billions of His creatures for ages without end, surely cannot have the beginning of wisdom.

Those who have their eyes partially open and reverence Jehovah God as He is represented in Psalms 103:8:9, must go on further by surrendering and consecrating their lives to Him, if they would be teachers who are wise. Dan. 12:10.

The time is coming when the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the deep. Isa. 11:9.

And in that day shall the deaf hear the word of the book and the eyes of the blind shall see out of the obscurity and out of the darkness. Isa. 39:18.

The last enemy to be destroyed is "death"—not some imaginery something. I Cor. 15:26.

Death is cessation of life, not endtorment, and saying, "I am satisments, endless torments will be destroyed; if moral death, moral death will be destroyed or abolished.

"He shall see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied." Isa.53:11.Imagine Jesus seeing billions of men and women suffering untold, endless torment, and saying, "I am satisfied." The wise understand but the foolish are blind.

GOSPEL HALL.

At the Gospel Hall last night, Samuel Taylor spoke on Acts, chap. 16. The speaker related some historical facts about Philippi, gave an account of the Lord's dealings with Lydia, and described the liberation of the demon-possessed damsel as an introduction to his address upon the Jailor of Phillipi. He pictured the jailor in the following characters, An attempted suicide, an awakened sinner, an anxious enquirer, an apt learner, an ardent believer.

The evangelist impressed upon his audience that all need salvation, because 'all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Very clearly he stressed that the work done by the Saviour on the cross is the only work which God honors to the salvation of sinners, and that sinners must "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ" to be saved.

IN POLICE COURT

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment in the Akey case yesterday for one week after hearing the evidence and the arguments of the lawyers. The last witness called for the defence was James Akey, who claimed that the room occupied by Barnard was his own and that he did not know there was any liquor in it. He also testified that Barnard had been drinking heavily, and that on account of this drinking he had discharged him.

A. E. White pleaded guilty to driving a car across the intersection of George and Simcoe streets at a greater rate of speed than 15 miles an hour, and was fined $10 and costs.

A householder failed to appear on a charge of non-support, so the Magistrate issued a bench warrant for his arrest.

A 16-year-old girl of this city pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy. At home the girl became insubordinate and stayed out very late at night with men of undesirable character, and has been found by the police in an intoxicated condition. When her father reprimanded her she ran away from home. This morning the magistrate remanded her to her home for one week, where the matron will watch her doings. If she does not improve a term in the Mercer Reformatory will probably follow, he intimated.

GENERAL CURRIE MUST ANSWER QUESTIONS WHICH HE REFUSED JUDGE O'CONNOR ORDERS TO-DAY

Former Commander of Canadian Forces Will Appear Before Registrar This Week.

WILSON EXAMINED.

Hearing of Defendant For Discovery This Afternoon Very Brief.

COBOURG Ont., April 12. Canadian Press. — General Currie will be required to answer the two questions which on the advice of counsel he refused to answer at his examination for discovery, and will have to appear before John T. Field, local registrar, on Friday or Saturday morning, in order to answer them. This was the answer of Judge O'Connor to-day

Two phases of the libel action instituted by General Currie, former commander of the Canadian corps against W. T. R. Preston and F. W. Wilson, publisher of the Port Hope Guide, were engaged in to-day when the examination for discovery of Mr. Wilson was begun and ended, and argument on the motion to compel General Currie to answer the questions presented to him at his own examination for discovery was held. The proceedings involving Mr. Wilson were brief.

The two questions which were put to General Currie during his examination for discovery, and which he declined to answer, were:

"Is that statement correct that Sir Sam Hughes made on the floor of the House of Commons, on June 16, 1920, that it was you instead of Colonel Jack Currie who was in a dug out, and by reason of which incident Colonel Jack Currie was sent home from the front?"

"Did you receive from the government of Canada the sum of thirty thousand dollars, or any amount, in 1913 or 1914, or approximately within that time, for the purpose of purchasing uniforms for a Highland regiment in Victoria of which you were an oficer?"

Opening his argument before Judge O'Connor, Frank Regan, counsel for the defendants, pointed out that the action was taken by General Currie, because of injury to his reputation. The counsel argued that it was relevant to the case to establish what General Currie's reputation was, and if it was damaged to the extent of the sum claimed, fifty thousand dollars.

MOVING PICTURE AT MARK STREET

'A Maker of Men' Pleases Large Audience—Good Program Also Given.

The motion picture, "A Maker of Men" was given in Mark Street United Church on Tuesday evening last, under the auspices of the Crusaders' Sunday School Class, with a very appreciative audiences, and good program.

Cleveland Robb, teacher of the Crusaders' Class, occupied the chair and complimented the artists of the evening at the conclusion of the program.

The evening was opened by a pageant by members of the class representing the various provinces of the Dominion.

The Sunday School Orchestra contributed several well-played selections, and a musical program included a vocal quartette and encore by Messrs. V. Boormon, W. Binks, C. Agnew and L. Agnew; a vocal duet and encore by Miss Cotton and Albert Lee, and a violin solo and encore by William Gaskin.

The motion pictures, which were in the capable charge of F. G. McNeely, included a snappy comedy entitled, "The Clinic," which received the heartiest applause of both young and old, followed by the feature picture of the evening, "A Maker of Men," a film of far reaching fame for moral ideals, which gained considerable praise from those who were privileged to see it.

It depicts the trials and hardships of the life of a young Tennessee clergyman to fulfill the wishes of his deceased mother in a community where Christianity had long since become almost practically extinct under the ravages and influence of criminals and highwaymen of the worst type. They had made this community their headquarters. This gallant young clergyman, with his heroism and devotion to duty, won triumphant over evil and brought about its complete restoration to the Master's kingdom.

A brief but stirring address was then given by the Rev. A. E. Thornley, praising the work of those who took such an active part in the program and of the Crusaders' Class.

The evenings program was under the careful supervision of Mr. Robb.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 12. — (Canadian Press). — Thirty-two British boys under 20 years of age, coming to the province under the auspices of the Manitoba Agricultural Department, arrived here yesterday along with a large party of other immigrants.

RANGERS START SPRING TRAINING

MANY RECRUITS SWORN IN.

With a number of new officers and many recruits in the ranks, the Peterborough Rangers began their annual training on Tuesday night under particularly favorable auspices. Already the establishment is almost completed, the officers and men, both recruits and older soldiers, are most enthusiastic, and with a longer training season and prospects of a short period in camp at Barriefield, Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., Officer Commanding the regiment, predicts a successful season.

On Tuesday evening the battalion and company officers and senior N.C.O.'s spent a busy evening attesting and equipping their new men. Those belonging to the unit last year had drawn their uniforms last week and put in a busy evening at squad drill under the capable direction of Regimental Sergeant-Major Samuel Calladine, who had them moving smartly in the various formations, preparing them to assist their rawer comrades when they take their places in the ranks to-night.

Speaking to The Examiner, Colonel Hall remarked that with R. S. M. Calladine's careful direction of the drill, and with the regimental band under Lieut. W. H. Peryer practising faithfully, the regiment will be prepared for a march out in a short time and when they are ready to go to camp they will compare favorably with every unit there.

Second in command of the regiment is Major Maurice H. Park, while Lieut. G. R. Melton is Adjutant. Company officers are: A Company, Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., and Lieuts. R. A. Sheehy, H. H. Langford, and G. Clegg; B Company, Capt. G. Monkman, M.C., and Lieuts. J. Dunkerly, E. H. Hall and R. Haddow; C Company, Capt. E. E. Nicholls, M.C., D.C.M., and Lieuts. B. E. Park, C. A. Sollitt, and J. E. Parsons; D Company, Major A. B. Mills, and Lieuts. G. R. Thompson, A. C. Sharpe and C. E. Newman.

Camp Is Authorized.

KINGSTON, April 12.—Brig.-Gen. F. W. Hill, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., commanding Military District No. 3 announced yesterday afternoon that definite authority had been received for the holding of a central training camp at Barriefield for the troops of the district.

No dates have been fixed for the camp, but in all probability it commences towards the end of July and continues over a period of some eighteen days until the beginning of the second week in August.

With the exception of the artillery units, all of which train at Petawawa camps, it is expected that every unit of the entire military district will at least have a representative detachment present during some period of the camp.

A young English astronomer, Miss Cecilia H. Payne, has written a book which is recognized by scientists as marking an epoch in the study of astrophysics.

They were dispersed by university guards.

BOYS' EXHIBITS CROWD ROOMS

Many Excellent Articles Received at Hobby Show Quarters To-day.

OPENING TO-NIGHT.

Boosting activity on the part of young Peterborough, centred in and around the Y.M.C.A. Building this morning, augurs well for the second Peterborough Boys' Hobby Show. Exhibits of all kinds are pouring in and bid fair to tax the capacity of the allotted space. It is certain that many persons will be surprised by and delighted with the talents which the Hobby Show brings out into the open.

The department of Scout craft and camp craft fills what in normal days is the boys' game room. The gymnasium houses rabbits, and pigeons along the west wall, wood craft along the north end, and mechanical models on the east side. In addition to the regular exhibits there are several loan working models on exhibit to give to the boys some idea of what they may in the future do with their present-day hobbies. Stamps, coins, art, photography, and miscellaneous collections find the spacious dining-room all too small for the entries. Mention must also be made of the entries in the art department. One without excellent training would hesitate to pass judgment on the excellent specimens therein displayed.

The official opening will take place in the main lobby at 7.30 this evening, and Dr. J. J. Craig, honorary president of the Hobby Show Board, will briefly outline the reason for holding a Hobby Show and declare the departments open for inspection. The Hobby Show orchestra, with Ashton Fife at the piano, will render a program throughout the evening. A Mohawk radio has been installed in the gymnasium by the kindness of Mr. Smedmor, the local distributor.

The Hobby Show will be open to the public each afternoon and evening for the balance of this week.

The violin contest will be held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and if finals are necessary they will be decided Friday evening. Checkers, chess and ping-pong, for the city championship, will be played Saturday afternoon and evening.

CROW RIVER IS IN FLOOD

Lumber Yard of Pearce Company Invaded By Waters.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, April 12.—Crowe River has overflowed its banks, the worst for twenty years. Harmony L. O. B. A. Dance

The dance put on by Harmony L. O.B.A. 600 at Marmora Town Hall on Tuesday evening was well patronized, the proceeds being devoted to the fund which has been opened by local ladies for the purchase of a town clock. The music furnished by Midnight Ramblers orchestra, gave utmost satisfaction, Charles Jones acted as floor manager. At the midnight hour, patrons and patronesses regaled themselves out of the superabundance of refreshments provided.

Wild Duck Caught

When examining his muskrat traps one day last week, Tom Gray discovered that a black wild duck had been imprisoned in a trap set in Osborne's Bay on Crowe River. Not a particle of injury was found on the bird which when released, dived in the water and was not seen again.

A drake, which had been in flight with the duck stayed near its imprisoned mate and remained in the locality for two days after the duck's release. A band on the duck's leg asked that notification be sent to a gentleman in Washington, D.C. Upon the band was also inscribed B L O L 557492 O G. I G CA L.

Mr. Frank Davidson, of Havelock, spent Tuesday evening in town.

Mr. Clare Bennett, of Toronto, University, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Litt.

Facts About the Bremen Flight

The Bremen is a Junkers' all metal monoplane. It is made of duralumin, a patented aluminum alloy. The wings have a spread of 55 feet and the fuselage is 35 feet long.

The name is painted on the silver grey sides and also the license number D-1167. The triangular emblem of the Junkers' Company is painted on the rudder. It has no radio.

The plane has a single Junkers' L-5 cooled motor which develops 300 horse-power. The maximum speed is 130 miles an hour with 90 miles considered best for the present task. The fuel consumption is fifteen to eighteen gallons of gasoline an hour.

Baron von Huenefeld spent all he had and borrowed money from friends to make up the fifty thousand dollars required to cover the cost of the flight and the insurance.

Captain Koehl, pilot, was in the German aviation service during the war and was shot down twice. He was pilot on the Bremen's previous trans-Atlantic attempt.

Colonel Fitzmaurice, pilot, is head of the Irish Free State Air Force. He served in the British army during the war. He made an unsuccessful attempt to make a non-stop flight last year, coming down on the Irish coast.

The distances flown and faced by the plane are:

Baldonnel to Costello, Galway, 185 miles, overland; Costello to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, over water, approximate air line, 1,800 miles; Harbor Grace to Mitchell Field, N.Y., land and water, about one thousand miles.

DULL EXPLOSION STARTLES MAITLAND AVENUE RESIDENTS

Seems To Come From South End, But No Trace Can Be Found.

NO SEWER GAS BLAST.

City Officials Unable To Explain or Trace Mysterious Sound.

To hear an explosion is one thing; to explain it is quite another, according to residents on or near Maitland avenue, who this morning at about ten o'clock, were startled by what they described as a dull heavy sound very much like that which was heard at the time of the explosion at the Quaker Oats plant eleven years ago.

An attempt to solve the mystery of its source only tended to heighten the mystery. Some thought it had occurred at the incinerator in the southern part of the town or at the dump nearby, but said incinerator is not now in use owing to high water, and workers at the dump said that they heard no unusual sounds during the morning.

The thought that sewer gas might have been responsible was voiced, but a call at the offices of City Engineer Parsons revealed that no word of an explosion had reached that department. The police and firemen were also unable to explain the sound. So much for now—Maitland avenue residents may continue to ponder the cause of the dull, heavy sound which rocked their homes.

DECISION HELD UNTIL MONDAY

Lloyd Redmond Is Tried On Charge of Operating Bus While Intoxicated.

MANY WITNESSES.

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment until Monday, April 16, in the case of Lloyd Redmond, who is charged with operating a Border Transit Company bus while intoxicated. J. Wearing acted for the defendant, and Chief Newhall conducted his own case, when Redmond appeared before His Worship this morning. Six witnesses were called by the Chief Constable, and ten witnesses by the defence.

Constable Wheeler was the first witness called by the prosecution. Wheeler said that on Tuesday, April 3, about 7.15 in the evening, while standing on the intersection of George and Charlotte streets, he saw a Border Transit bus coming east on Charlotte street in a zig zag course. When the bus was brought to a stop at the corner and the passengers had got off, he boarded the bus, and as he sat down Redmond, who was the operator stepped on the gas and threw the transmission into high gear, with the result that the bus jumped a few feet, something snapped, and the engine stalled. He immediately saw that Redmond was in no condition to operate the bus and arrested him on the charge of being intoxicated.

Sergeant Wigg and Constables Naples and Puffer, all testified that the defendant was intoxicated when brought into the police station.

Passengers Frightened.

Joseph A. White was on the bus just before Redmond was arrested, and in his evidence he said that the driver stalled the bus several times on Charlotte street, and that he drove in a zig-zag course. Several people got off the bus before it reached George street, saying that they would rather walk than ride.

Mr. Wearing objected to the conversation of other people being submitted, and His Worship ruled in Mr. Wearing's favor.

White complained that Redmond used profane language when he offered a ten dollar bill for him to change so that he could pay his fare.

Alex. Miller told of being on the bus about 5.30, when he thought that Redmond was not in a fit condition to operate the bus, as the gears were making a lot of noise every time he changed them.

Lloyd Redmond, in his evidence, said he had never been in police court as a defendant before. He acknowledged having a drink between three and four o'clock in the afternoon, but it was only about half an inch in the bottom of a small tumbler that he exhibited, and that was the only drink he had that day. He took the drink from a bottle which he had purchased that day as he had a bad cough. He maintained that the drink did not make him feel queer and that he drove steady from 5.10 until 7.15 when arrested. During that time he made six trips. He reported to the mechanic on Sunday that the clutch was in bad condition and had been told by the mechanic after he was arrested that he did not know how he operated the bus.

In driving in the zig-zag course he claimed that he was trying to miss the holes that were in the pavement on Charlotte street and he denied using abusive language when White asked to get $10 changed, but that his orders was not to change anything larger than $2.00.

Fellow Driver Testifies.

Stewart Foster, an employee of the Border Transit Company, who turned over the bus to Redmond at 5.10 that evening, claimed that Redmond was perfectly sober to the best of his knowledge when he took the bus. The witness also said the bus was working all right when he left it.

Fred Timbs, the mechanic for the Transit Company, said that when he examined the transmission that night it was all in pieces and that it had been previously reported to him as a dry clutch.

Ford McRae, another driver, said he was talking to Redmond that night about 6.40 and did not notice anything wrong with his condition.

Mrs. S. O'Rourke, Albert Scriber, Alfred Day, Mrs. Minnie Russell, Benjamin McGill and the Rev. Frank Loft all testified that Redmond was sober previous to 6.00 o'clock that evening when they saw him.

BREMEN TAKES OFF FOR U.S.A. AT 5.38 A.M. TO-DAY IRISH TIME BIG CROWD SEES PERFECT START

Decision Reached By Crew After Day of Varying Weather.

IRISH AVIATOR ON BOARD.

Ideal Flying Conditions Expected to Prevail as Far as Mid-Atlantic.

BALDONNELL AERODROME, Ireland, April 12.—(Canadian Press.) — Bearing the aspirations of two nations for trans-Atlantic flying honors, the silver grey German monoplane Bremen sped westward to-day on what was hoped to be the first spanning of the Atlantic from east to west by an airplane, essaying a feat which cost seven aviators their lives since last May.

Spectators watched the heavily laden plane speeding along the runway but failing to rise at first. After running nine hundred yards, the plane took to the air at 5.38 a.m. (12.38 Eastern Standard time). The flight of some three thousand miles is expected to terminate at Mitchell Field, New York.

Gale Predicted.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 12 (Canadian Press).—Poor flying conditions in the Newfoundland area were forecast early to-day, although when the report was given out the weather at St. John's was excellent. The forecast predicted an easterly gale with rain.

Plane Hugging Coast.

BELFAST, Ireland, April 12 (Canadian Press).—Michael MacDonaagh, Costello Station coast service, probably was the last man to sight the Bremen to-day before she entered on her great trans-Atlantic adventure. The monoplane was hugging the coast and apparently because of the dense fog, was making for Slayne Head, the most westerly Galway point, from which to take her bearings. The fog later vanished and fine weather prevailed.

Two hours after the start Galway coast guards saw the Bremen going strong well over the Atlantic and headed in a northwesterly direction. A coast guard saw the plane passing over Costello at 7.05, having travelled 135 miles at the rate of about a hundred miles a nhour.

At the controls were Captain Koehl German war flier and night flying expert, and Colonel Fitzmaurice, commandant of the Free State air force who will alternate as pilots at four hour intervals. Behind them sat Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld, his last pfennig staked on this venture during which he will man the fuel pump, cook, and keep the log book.

Food Sacrificed.

Food was sacrificed for fuel. The three fliers took with them a dozen vacuum bottles containing hot beef tea and strong coffee. Each airman also took two bars of chocolate, and Colonel Fitzmaurice at the last moment obtained a dozen peeled oranges.

The plane flew the black, red and white colors of Imperial Germany and the Saorstat tri-color of green white and gold. Baron von Huenefeld staged the only bit of ceremony at the start by drawing in the flag to keep them intact for the hoped-for landing.

The decision to fly at dawn was made by Captain Koehl, Colonel Fitzmaurice and Baron von Huenfeld at 9 o'clock last night after a day of varying weather which had already held two disappointments in the matter of postponed starts.

Fitzmaurice at that time broke from a room where he and his partners in the enterprise had been conferring over the latest weather report, and with his face wreathed in a huge smile, exclaimed much like an elated school boy: "What better weather than this could anybody want for a flight to the good old U.S.A.?"

Ideal Flying Weather.

The report which the three aviators had just read and upon which they will stake their lives had just been received from the British Air Ministry, and said that almost ideal flying conditions are expected to prevail as far as the mid-Atlantic. Beyond that, they are not expected to be quite as good. This condition holds true on both the Northern route and the Southern great circle route.

Further south the winds are stronger and the weather somewhat worse.

While Fitzmaurice was drinking his farewell toasts with his comrades of the air, Koehl and Huenfeld, who throughout their two weeks wait in Ireland have seemed strangely lonely figures, slowly plodded back to their quarters, Huenefeld to try a last game of solitaire and stolid Koehl to study weather charts a few minutes before taking a few hours of sleep.

Fitzmaurice's friends urged him to pack off to bed, but he stopped them with: "Ten thirty is my bedtime and I refuse to crawl in earlier just because there's a little job of flying

MANY EASTER ACTIVITIES IN MADOC ORGANIZATIONS

All Churches Prettily Decorated and Music of Pleasing Character.

ENJOYABLE DANCE.

Agricultural Society Sponsors Big Social Event in Armouries.

MADOC, April 12—The Easter services in Madoc were marked by beautiful decorations of Easter lilies and flowers in all the churches, and special Easter music, besides many visitors for the Easter week.

At the Anglican Church, Easter hymns and Easter Communion formed the morning service. The flowers were especially beautiful, and besides the decorations placed by the decorating committee, flowers were placed by Miss Caldwell in memory of her mother, by Miss Aylesworth in memory of her mother; and by Mrs. B. M. Spurr, Mrs. D. Owen and Mrs. T. L. Nickle in memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Spurr.

The evening service was also the Easter message, and the white-robed choir again sang the Easter anthem, "Alleluia, Christ is Risen.' (Caleb Simper), and special hymns.

At St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, the subject of the morning service was, "If Christ Be Not Risen," and the choir sang the Easter Carol, "What Shall the Easter Carol Be?" (Auckley), and the anthem by Lorenz, "Jesus is Risen."

The seven o'clock evening service was opened by the usual song service and the theme was "An Easter Assurance." The special music for this service was splendidly given, and much enjoyed. Miss Marion Henderson of Whitby gave a beautiful Easter solo, and the anthem by the choir was "Lift Up Your Heads" (Gabriel), and Mr. Gillespie contributed a baritone solo.

The Easter Mass in the Roman Catholic Church was attended by a very large congregation, and the Easter music and flowers made a wonderful contrast to the long Lenten services just concluded.

Trinity United Church had a very large Sunday school in the early morning, and the Sunday School was represented in the morning service of song and Easter praise, when five little girls, Laura Ross, Thornton Love, Clarice Dafoe, Lois Reed, and Irene Shane very beautifully sang together, "Spring is Here."

A quartette by Mrs. A. Kincaid, Mrs. C. N. Whytock, Mrs. V. Reid, and Miss Lenore Vandervoort, "From Glory Down to Calvary," and a solo by Miss Marion Henderson, of O.L.C. of Whitby, "The Lord is My Rock."

The anthem was given by the full choir, "He is Risen" (Lorenz), the solo taken by Mrs. Bert Bailey, and the duet by Misses Vandervoort and Bronson.

The story to the children of the Young Worshippers' League was of the Easter lily, which is a symbol of light and purity, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

The message of Easter was the subject of the sermon from "He is Risen," found in all four Gospels. There is no need to prove that Jesus rose from the dead; the Christian Church is convincing proof, the minister said. John was the only disciple at the Cross. Even the enemies of Jesus cannot get over His Resurrection.

In the evening the subject was "The Living Saviour," taking as a text, Rev. 1:18, "I am He that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore." The anthem was, "Sing, for the Day is Breaking," the duet taken by Misses Vandervoort and Bronson. In the anthem, "The Thorn Crown He Wore," the solo parts were taken by Mrs. Reid and Miss Vandervoort. Misses Ferguson and Rousehorn sang very sweetly, "It Was For Me." Special hymns were used throughout both services.

Easter Dance

The members of the Madoc Agricultural Society gave a delightful social evening and dance in the armouries on Easter Monday evening. Tables were provided for cards, games and checkers, but the larger part of the evening was devoted to dancing to the music provided by the very capable orchestra.

A most enjoyable feature was the dancing by little Miss Thelma Hales of Toronto. Miss Thelma is an expert dancer of classic dances, and to the accompaniments played by Miss Lamoine West, danced very prettily in costume, several dances; a dance by an old-fashioned girl; an Irish jig, which was heartily encored; a flower dance, and others which drew hearty applause from all.

Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies, and dancing was resumed until a late hour.

Trinity W.M.S.

The program was entirely an Easter one at the meeting of the WM.S. of Trinity United Church. An Easter message was read by Miss Wood, and the responsive Easter scriptural reading was conducted by Mrs. McMechan.

After a reading by Mrs. Hough, the Easter thankoffering was taken. Refreshments were served and a social

EASTER ACTIVITY SEEN AT WARSAW

Churches and Missionary Society Marks Special Season —Douro Visitors.

WARSAW, April 12.—The Rev. H. B. Herrington preached an Easter sermon on Sunday evening. Some of the main points were that men believed in a hereafter, before the coming of Christ. It is beyond question that Jesus appeared to His followers on the third day after the crucifixion. These appearances did not determine the nature of the body hereafter. In the early church there were differences of opinion about the appearance of the body hereafter. It did prove the reality of the life hereafter, and it did prove Jesus was the Messiah and that suffering had a place in Messiaship. Later the cross played an important part in all his followers' thinking. These appearances brought joy and a new life to them, as well as a new fellowship with Jesus. Only those who believed saw Him after the resurrection, and only believers had fellowship. He is no longer visible but believers still have fellowship.

The choir gave an anthem, in which there were solos by, Mrs. Rufus Payne and David Miller; and a duet by Miss Olga Miller and Mrs. Roland Payne. Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne sang, "He did not die in vain."

The church was prettily decorated. There was white and purple canopy over the choir loft. House plants and Easter lilies were arranged around the pulpit and in other parts of the church.

Pastor Eikenarr preached an Easter sermon on Sunday morning in the Baptist Church. There was no preaching service in the Presbyterian Church, but the Easter service was held in the Sunday School, in the lesson, hymns and address.

The Rev. Mr. Fenton could not get from Norwood for a service in the Anglican Church, but on Friday evening there was the regular Good Friday Vesper Service.

Missionary Society

Group "C" had charge of the program for the Easter meeting of the Missionary Society of the United Church, held in the parsonage, which was prettily decorated with purple and white paper, Easter lillies and house plants.

Mrs. George Taylor, the president, conducted the opening devotional period, while Mrs. John Sargent led in prayer. The Easter lesson was taken from the last chapter of Luke, the first twelve verses.

Mrs. Sargent read the reasons for thank-offerings, which had been placed in a basket at the door. Mrs. Robert Payne read a story, "A real thank-offering", and led an Easter missionary responsive reading. Mrs. Herrington sang "Bearing the Cross." Mrs. Rufus Payne gave a missionary reading, after which Miss Lucile Herrington sang "The Little Flowers came through the ground", and the Rev. H. B. Herrington closed with prayer. Group "C" served refreshments at the close.

"Turning the Trick."

The play "Turning the Trick" which was put on in Warsaw Town Hall on Monday evening by the Douro Young People, under the auspices of the Warsaw Women's Institute, was a great success. The hall was better filled than might have been expected, and many were unable to go. Dr. Munro's orchestra, with A. F. Choate, provided music. Mrs. Rufus Payne sang "Souvenir." At the close, Dr. Munro and the Rev. Father James McGuire spoke a few words of appreciation.

Roads Bad

The roads are still very bad, and because automobiles of various kinds have attempted to travel them, and have been stranded, they are infinitely worse. Even a small car can do a great deal of tearing on a road so bad for so long a time. On Saturday nearly every direction from Warsaw, cars were seen stranded, and a few were left over night.

There have been some good runs of sap, but not up to normal. The buds are swelling, and it is likely that it will not be first class very long.

Butterflies, moths and wild bees were quite plentiful on Friday and Saturday. The days were oppressive. By Sunday morning it was cold, and on Monday the thermometer registered 20 F.

Personals

Miss Sadie Young is spending her holidays at her home in Lakefield.

Mrs. A. F. Choate is visiting in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newall and James Newall have moved into Mrs. O. B. McIlvena's house, and James Newall will run the blacksmith shop.

Miss Verna Miller and Miss Dora Tedford are home for the Easter holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. McIlvena have moved to Mr. Thomas Cooper's house for the season.

Miss Laura Bowen returned to Toronto on Monday morning.

OMEMEE CHOIR GIVES CONCERT

Fine Musical Organization Entertains For First Time in Years.

VARIED PROGRAM.

OMEMEE, April 12.—The choir of Trinity United Church surpassed itself on Monday evening when, under the careful training of the choir-leader, Mrs. C. R. Corneil, a varied program of choruses, quartettes, duets, and solos were well sung before a most appreciative audience. Owing to illness some of the members were unavoidably absent.

This is the first time the choir has given a sacred concert for some years and their efforts were rewarded by the appreciation expressed by numerous lovers of music.

The following program was given: Hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today"; prayer, the Rev. E. W. Rowland; anthem, "The Resurrection Morn," with bass solo by C. Corneil; male chorus, "Christ Arose"; organ solos, Mrs. C. R. Corneil "Andantino" and "Berceuse" from Jocelyn; anthem "The Garden of the Lord"; vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" by Miss Mary Lowe; duet, "Whispering Hope", Mrs. C. Corneil and Mrs. L. A. Mahood; organ solo, Miss E. Race, "Alegretto in E Flat"; anthem, "The Shout of Victory"; ladies' quartette, "As One His Mother Comforteth", Misses F. Rutherford, W. Bradburn, L. Race and M. Faulkner; solo, "My Task" the Rev. E. W. Rowland; organ solo, "Marche Militaire," Mrs. C. Corneil; reading, "Sophie's Sermon," Miss M. Faulkner; ladies' part song, "Sing Sweet Stars"; organ solo, "At Eventide", Miss E. Race; mixed quartette, "Tarry with Me", Mrs. C. Corneil, Mrs. L. Mahood and Messrs. E. W. Rowland and C. Corneil; anthem, "God So Loved the World".

Trinity W. M. S.

The thankoffering and Easter service of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. E. W. Rowland conducting the devotional exercises, the scriptural reading being taken from XXVIII Matthew, after which prayers were offered by Mrs. A. Staples and Mrs. R. Poast, and the responsive Easter leaflet was used. A reading entitled "As I have loved you" by Mrs. H. Lamb.

Miss E. Dunnon, the president of the Lindsay Presbyterial, was a visitor at the meeting and delivered an Easter message to the gathering. Her address was listened to with pleasure by about forty ladies.

A vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" was sung by Mrs. D. Irvine, of Lindsay. The offering was taken by Mrs. J. Shield and Miss Lillian Race. During the short business session which followed, communications of thanks for flowers and sympathy from bereaved ones were read by the secretary, Mrs. Bradburn. A letter was also received from the supply secretary, Mrs. Golden, of Lindsay, stressing the need of clothing and quilts for the Home Mission field. The committee recently appointed to put the quilt strips together reported that five quilts were in readiness and the date for quilting was set for Wednesday, April 11. The branch meeting of the Lindsay Prebyterial was announced by the president, to be held in Lindsay on May 17. A committee of six ladies namely, Mrs. Bradburn

Relatives of Mrs. David Watters, Belleville, received word yesterday of the death of her daughter, Elizabeth Watters, after an illness of about six weeks. The sad news was most unexpected, as it was understood that Miss Watters' condition was improving. Mrs. J. D. Cumming and Mrs. James Walkinshaw are in Belleville to attend the funeral of their late niece.

Mrs. Fred Free underwent an operation this morning at her mother's home, Ranney Street. She will be confined to her bed for about three weeks. Her condition is reported as most favorable.

SIXTEEN KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Thirty Injured When Trains Collide Outside of Paris Yards.

ON WAY TO RACES.

PARIS, April 12 (Associated Press).—A crowded race train on its way to the Enghien race track yesterday afternoon collided with another train just outside the yard limits of the Gare du Nord. Sixteen persons were killed and more than 30 injured, some of them, it is feared, mortally. The killed and injured were French.

The engineer of the outbound train, who is charged with running past the signals, is confined in jail. His arrest came after a personal investigation conducted by M. Barthou, Minister of Justice.

The wreck provided a spectacular blaze and thrilling rescue work by firemen and wrecking crews. Some of the bodies were pinned under the smoking debris, and service was interrupted on the road for several hours.

Many of the racing devotees rushed back to the station, a mile away, in order to catch the next train so that they would not miss the first race.

Pitiful scenes were witnessed at the wreck. A little fox terrier, which did not appear to be hurt, howled dismally and refused to leave the spot where his owner was crushed under the train which was burning fiercely. Though an attempt was made to pull the terrier away, he was burned to death.

PALE AND WEAK AND RUN-DOWN

Tanlac Transformed Her Into The Picture of Health

What a grand tonic body-builder Tanlac is! It is simply marvellous to watch Tanlac transform pale, thin, listless, sickly people into men and women glowing with health and vigor. The wonderful roots, barks and herbs contained in Tanlac are just what the human body needs when the system is all run-down. Miss Philomena Lacombe, 1876 Orleans Street, Montreal, knows this to her lasting satisfaction. "Last spring, I was all run-down", she writes. "I had no appetite; indigestion tortured me; and my nerves would not let me sleep at night. When I began taking Tanlac, I weighed only 113 pounds. Now I weigh 125 pounds. And the best part of all is, that the indigestion and nervousness are gone and I am my normal, active, healthy self again. Of course I endorse and recommend Tanlac."

Try Tanlac yourself. Get a bottle at your druggist's today and let this famous up-building tonic and blood purifier help you to get back all your old-time health and vigour. Tanlac costs less than 2c a dose—your money refunded if you are not perfectly satisfied.

SMALL BEATEN FOR RE-ELECTION

CHICGO, April 11 (Canadian Press).—Illinois voters in the statewide primary election yesterday wrote Governor Len Small off the books of their political favor, dashed the hopes of Frank Smith for another mandate to Senate of the United States, and, in Chicago, tore at the Republican leadership of Mayor Thompson by defeating his choice for State's Attorney, Robert Crowe.

It was an unusually large turnout of votes that swept aside, almost in its entirety, the Republican ticket of Small-Thompson-Crowe, which campaigned under the slogan, "America First," blazoned on billboards and street signs the length of the State.

The election incidentally put formal sanction on at least fifty-two delegates for Governor Alfred Smith for President at the Democratic National convention next June.

Chicago, whipped to a passion by the efforts of the leading contenders during the last ten days, got through the day with only one election fatality. There were numerous reports of sluggings, brief kidnappings and ballot-box stuffing, but the day generally was much quieter than had been anticipated.

Down-State the election also was quiet, excepting that Cairo reported several arrests yesterday afternoon and numerous fist fights.

Negro is Killed

and Deneen candidate for Twentieth Ward Committeeman was slain in his own ward ten minutes after the polls closed at 5 o'clock.

He was the opponent of the politically powerful Morris Eller, boss of the ward, and political ally of Mayor Thompson.

Granady was driving an automobile placarded with election banners. Another car, carrying six men, drew alongside and fired four shots into the Granady car. A wild race through several blocks of the crowded ghetto district followed.

Granady missed a turn and his machine plunged over a curb and stopped. Before he or his companions, Louis Taylor and Thomas Clark, also negroes, could escape, the gang car halted, fired a volley from close range and sped away.

Granady died instantly, Taylor was seriously wounded, but probably will live, and Clark escaped unharmed.

THE CHURCHES

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Easter services at the Salvation Army were conducted by Mrs. Colonel Morris, who many years ago was the officer in charge of the local corps and known as Captain French, and considerable blessing was obtained by those who attended. On Good Friday evening a service entitled, "The Wondrous Cross," illustrated by lantern views and incidental music supplied by the local band and songsters was enjoyed by a large audience. The views were exceptionally good, a large number being reproductions of the most famous oil paintings that have been painted of the life of Jesus Christ more especially of the trial and crucifixion period. Ensign Green gave a description of the slides shown, which also included hymns for congregational singing and scripture portions illustrative of the Easter story.

Another lantern story was given by Mrs. Colonel Morris on Saturday evening, "The Magic Wand," a story of a sick child, which was beautifully illustrated. The story was well told and enjoyed by all.

As is customary in the Salvation Army all the world over Easter Sunday, there was held an early morning march and the triumphant notes of "He Lives" and "Up From the Grave He Arose" were sounded out during the march which followed a short prayer service. A very helpful review of the Resurrection was given in the morning service its effect and application to the life of a Christian being told by Mrs. Morris.

An Easter praise service in which the four musical bodies of the corps participated, the Senior Band and Songsters, the Boys' Band and the Girls' Singing Company was the afternoon fare, one other feature being eight small boys who have been designated "The Angel's Choir" whose enthusiastic singing of Salvation Army choruses was really worth hearing.

Mrs. Colonel Morris in the evening service very graphically contrasted the crowd gathered with Jesus at the last supper with the crowd gathered around Judas while bartering and the discussion with the chief priests preceding the betrayal.

A vocal solo sung by Mrs. Mendel Braund, "For Me Alone," preceded the address, which, combined with the Scripture reading by Mrs. Ensign Green gave the sermon additional lustre.

LOADING UP THE LETTER-CARRIERS.

The public, as well as the postmen, are beginning to resent the steadily increasing use of Canada's postal facilities for advertising purposes.

The letter-carriers, under this system, are being loaded up with a mass of circulars, patent medicine advertising and propaganda of all kinds, addressed in most cases simply to "The Householder" and necessitating a house-to-house covering of their routes.

The result is that householders get a daily allotment of rubbish they don't want, and they have to wait for the first-class mail they do want because the carriers' rate of progress is materially reduced by reason of the material he is called upon to deliver.

The acceptance of this class of mail may add to the revenues of the postoffice department, but it increases the working hours of the letter-carriers, slows up the delivery service and litters up the homes with a mass of printed matter that is of no real service to any one.

Most people would be glad to learn that the postal authorities had decided that the revenue from this source was not large enough to justify the disadvantages that ensue.

A REAL RIVER—THE OTONABEE.

While some concern has been caused by the fact that the spring freshet in the Otonabee has reached a height unknown for nearly sixty years, very little damage has been done, and the chances are that the vast amount of water poured into the northern lakes by the rapid thaw of the winter's accumulation of snow will be carried off without serious property damage along the route of the river.

As a matter of fact, our own Otonabee is a real river, not one of those trifling streams like the Generaska at Port Hope or the Thames and Grand up in Western Ontario that would never be noticed were it not that they fall down every year on the only job they are called upon to do—that is, to take care of the spring freshet.

The Otonabee is a stream of size, importance and capacity, carrying a lot of water all through the year, and ready to carry a lot more when an emergency like the present one arrives.

Those little rivers, can behave like spoilt children every spring if they want to, but the Otonabee would need assistance from a very unusual combination of conditions before it would be forced to follow their example.

THE COMPULSORY PLAN.

The announcement made by Hon. Peter Heenan, Federal Minister of Labor, that the Dominion Government hopes to work out "a plan which will be one of the best old age insurance systems in existence," is of great interest.

The principle of compulsory contribution toward old age pensions is favored by many Canadians, and it is believed will be eventually put into effect.

The present old age pension scheme, although decidedly preferable to no provision for the aged whatever, leaves much to be desired.

It only comes into effect in Provinces where the Provincial Government is willing to co-operate, and so far Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes have shown no anxiety to take advantage of its provisions.

And it applies only to people who have reached the age of seventy, so that it would not do away with houses of refuge and similar institutions, as some of its advocates claim, seeing that the majority of the inmates of such places are admitted before they are of pensionable age.

It affords relief in certain cases, and is, therefore, worthy of support, but something much more comprehensive must be adopted if the spectre of a poverty-stricken old age is to be driven off.

Sooner or later the compulsory plan will be inaugurated, requiring a levy upon the wages of the worker, a contribution from his employer and perhaps a state grant in addition.

TRADER HORN.

If Marco Polo were to return to-day from his ancient travels, Rip Van Winkle to descend the valley of the Hudson to modern Gotham after his long sleep, or Robinson Crusoe to regain the shores of civilization, the sole survivor of a long forgotten tragedy of the sea, the tale any of them could unfold would be flat, lean and unalluring compared with that of Trader Horn, who departed a week ago from New York where his presence had confirmed his actual personal existence as the living author of the book bearing his name, now one of the best sellers on both sides of the Atlantic.

A strange figure, this Alfred Aloysius Horn, few more mysterious and glamorous in all the colorful pages of romance. And after you had seen him in the flesh, an old grey-beard of a man suddenly snatched from the poverty of failure in South Africa, swiftly supplied with more money than he had dreamed of, and thurst into the limelight of the literary world of the intellectuals, even then he seems an incredible, fantastic personality as fabulous as those glorious adventurers whom the whole world has known for ages in classic fiction.

At 73, he was a poor peddler of gridirons, toasters and other kitchenware, about the streets of Johannesburg. One day he called at the home of Mrs. Ethelreda Lewis, a writer, and by chance casually mentioned to her something that hinted of his youth among the cannibals on the west coast of Africa. The revelation of that first conversation was the thread that led back to the amazing days and exploits of his youth, memories almost erased by the grinding, bitter struggles of his later years, merely to eke out an existence among civilized men.

And such a youth it was among the savages of the west coast of Africa and the hinterland! Adventures that stir the dreams of those men to whom the orderly round of experiences are but drab, unchanging monotony. Trader Horn tells of his initiation into "Egbo," a primitive fraternity that made him blood-brother of the cannibals, his contacts with the dusky tribes, his river trips buying rubber and ivory for an English trading company, his description of the wild life of the jungle, and his meeting with Nina T——, goddess of one of the tribes, and daughter of a titled Englishman whose beauty Trader recalls with the fondness of an old man sighing for his past. One night when the tropic moon gleamed on the river almost with the brightness of day, with her connivance he stole Nina T—— from the savages and carried her down to the coast. There, presently he met "Young Peru," former college friend, and son of a wealthy South American, who had become enamored of the goddess in the jungle joss house, by the Trader's description of her in letters to England. On the beach they tossed a coin to decide which should marry Nina T——, she consenting to the primitive betrothal. "Young Peru" won, and was married by the captain of the ship that took them off to civilization. At the close of his story Trader Horn tells of the separation from Young Peru and his wife as they board the ship sailing for South America.

When you have read that Trader Horn is the authentic document of a living person, you are still inclined to doubt the evidence. Such romantic adventures simply seem impossible. But accepting their truth, the reader acknowledges that Trader Horn had seen things which men to-day associate with a dim past, far beyond his lifetime, that his adventures were the stuff of those day dreams which men sometimes invite when wearied of the inescapable humdrum of the wonders of radio, motors and all the other mechanical marvels that cloy and fret the spirit that longs for release to the coast of Africa, if not of Cockaigne.

CANADA AND THE AIR.

Renewed confidence is being expressed on all sides in British flying men. The achievement of Captain Bert Hinkler in making a solo flight of 11,000 miles from London, England, to Australia, is gradually being appreciated in the fullness of its importance. The captain's name will go down in history along with those of the famous flying Smiths, Sir Ross and Sir Keith, who made the flight from England to Australia during November and December of 1919. They were knighted for their success.

Nor has the Hinkler achievement been the only British air victory in recent times. On September 26, 1927, Lieutenant S. N. Webster won the Schneider Cup at Venice, Italy, by establishing the speed record of 281.655 miles per hour over the 350-kilometre course of seven laps. In that race another Britisher, Lieutenant G. E. Worsley, came second with an average speed of 275.579 miles per hour.

Captain Hinkler's flight is on a par with that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The latter's goal was the crossing of the Atlantic. The former had not only to deal with treacherous ocean stretches, but he had also to cover many miles of barren country, where a landing would have meant as sure death as though it were in the middle of the trackless waste of the Atlantic. And Captain Hinkler required 15 days of steady flying in a small machine that was not considered fit for long flights.

The past few months had made many think the days of British superbness in the air had come to an end. Many harked back to the years of the war. The names of Bishop, Barker, Ball, McCudden, Warneford, Robinson and a host of others were cited as being great among flyers. Canadians never forget the achievements of Colonels Bishop and Barker, the two flying acres who won the Victoria Cross and a host of other decorations, and their only slightly less illustrious Canadian companions for their daring in the war.

Following the war there came the British banner flying year of 1919. It was then that Harry G. Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve fell into the Atlantic in their effort to fly from Newfoundland to Ireland. They were rescued in much the same manner that Miss Ruth Elder was rescued by a tanker last year. Yet no one thought so much about it in those days. Within a month after the Hawker-Grieve effort, Sir John Alcock and Sir A. W. Brown were successful in flying their airplane from Newfoundland to Ireland. They were knighted for their courage. A few months later still the Smith brothers made their epochal flight to Australia.

Since that time the work of British flying has been going on steadily. Sir Alan Cobham has performed many excellent air journeys. Others have been active in studying aircraft and attempting flights. But the efforts were rather overshadowed by the success of Colonel Lindbergh. The average person had begun to forget the past glories of the Canadian and Old Country flying men.

Captain Hinkler has re-awakened these realties of British prowess in the air. He has not shorn Colonel Lindbergh of any of his glory, but he has performed a feat that will bear comparison with any flight that has ever been made anywhere and by anyone.

The thought should prove a stimulant to flying in Canada. In a few isolated cases commercial flying has made advances in the Dominion. Some of the mining districts are served by airplanes. But generally the flying ability of Canadians lies latent within them. During the war, that tendency to make good in the air was brought out for the world to see. Since 1919 it has been lying dormant. The world of the future is to be one in which aircraft will play a dominant part. It is well for Canada to begin to take more interest in the possibilities of the airplane.—Border Cities Star.

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE PIMPLES

Caused Itching Burning, Also Disfigurement.

"My complexion was completely marred by pimples which varied in size. Some were large, hard and scaly, while others were just red and festered. They caused an itching, burning sensation, also disfigurement.

"After using scores of remedies for over two years, with but little results, I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I was so pleased with the results that I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one large box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) W. E. MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 12 (Canadian Press). — A moderate amount of business was done with United Kingdom buyers in Canadian Western oats here yesterday. There was also some business done in rye with the Continent. The domestic trade was also better and the market on the whole was rather more active at firm prices.

A feature of the local flour trade was the strength that developed for spring wheat grades, and prices were advanced twenty cents per barrel. This was attributed to the sharp advance in wheat prices at Winnipeg. Another feature of the trade was the good demand from English importers and a fair amount of business was done for May-June shipment. Little business was done in winter wheat flour, but values were firm.

Prices for all grades of millfeed were firmly maintained under a steady demand. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm.

The trade in eggs was quiet, but the undertone to the market was firm. The receipts were 1,680 cases.

The potato market was dull and the feeling was easy, but there was no further change in prices.

The demand for imported beans continued good, and the tone of the market was steady.

The inquiry for butter was confined to small lots, but prices were well maintained. The receipts were 348 packages.

The cheese trade was inactive, and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 133 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 12 (Canadian Press). — In a seldom-equalled rush of buying, wheat went skyward yesterday as much as 5¾ cents a bushel. Abnormal backward condition of the 1928 domestic winter wheat crop officially reported from Washington was chiefly responsible for stampeding the market and for hoisting prices to above topmost levels heretofore reached this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were buoyant at virtually the day's highest figures, 4¼c to 5¾c net advance, with corn 1⅝c to 2¼c up, oats showing ⅝c to ⅞c to ⅞c gain, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Right from the outset, wheat was in urgent demand, and initial trades showed a general price jump ranging from 1⅞c to 3¼c a bushel. This bulge met with a world of selling to realize profits, but the reaction consequently proved to be slight, and soon the market rose higher than before. This process was repeated at intervals until the final gong when the selling side of the market found itself almost completely overwhelmed.

It was the first time in a long while that general public buying of wheat has been of volume so large that profit-taking sales of such magnitude were easily absorbed, and that the purchasing was sustained on successive bulges.

Export transactions yesterday in wheat for prompt shipment from North America were estimated at as much as 1,500,000 bushels.

Corn and oats derived their strength mainly from the section of wheat. Arrivals of corn at terminal markets were small, and there were reports current telling of cold weather damage to the new oats crop.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in grain prices, but weakness of hog values was a good deal of a counterbalance.

ERROR CORRECTED.

Cavan, April 9, 1928.

The Peterborough Examiner,
Peterborough, Ont.

Sirs,—In Saturday's edition of The Examiner which came to-day, in the report of the Durham County sale, the last paragraph is somewhat misleading. I think a couple of lines are missing. It should read something like this:

"At last year's sale the highest price paid was $225. This figure was paid for Idylwilde Reeta, consigned by H. I. Seymour, of Cavan, and sold to Stanley Baggs, of Oshawa."

I might say that the top price this year was paid for the two-year-old heifer Springdale Sylvia Taitilla. She was shown last fall as a yearling at the Peterborough Exhibition, and would freshen about the first of May to our junior herd sire. He was shown in Peterborough last fall, and he is a real show bull out of a four per cent. testing dam.—Yours truly,

HARRY I. SEYMOUR.

P.S.—The total receipts should read $4,992.50, instead of $4,422.00.

GOD'S MINUTE

Our Father Who art in Heaven, we come before Thee in the name of Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord and Saviour. For His sake bow Thine ear and hear our prayer. We bring Thee our offering of thanksgiving for all Thy loving kindness and tender mercy toward us. Thy goodness has never failed us. We humbly pray for the forgiveness of our sins. We confess that in many things we have offended and come short of Thy holy Will. But there is forgiveness with Thee, that Thou mayest be feared. Deliver us from the power of evil. Let not any sin have dominion over us. Shield us from all that would hurt us in body or spirit. Order our future, make our plans, choose our changes. Suffer us not to live selfish or useless lives. May we do good as we have opportunity, and serve our generation according to Thy Will. We commend to Thy fatherly care our loved ones who are absent from us in flesh. Protect them from evil, and do them all the good that they need, both for this life and for that which is to come. We pray for the coming of Thy Kingdom! Pour out Thy Holy Spirit upon all Thy churches. May they bear faithful witness for Thee, and through their testimony may multitudes be brought to know Thee, and accept Thy great salvation. We humbly ask all in the Name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

We learn much more from the vices of men than from their virtues. It is the unusual that attracts our attention and more surely influences our opinion, and it is unusual for men to have vices, notwithstanding the statement of the cynics. We are not perfect, but we are nearer right than the guilty would have us believe.

Carrying 2½ TON load constantly since 1921

OUT in Winnipeg, the Manitoba Gypsum Company has a real conveying problem. Gypsum wall board in six to ten foot lengths—and when the belt is loaded it is carrying 2½ tons.

For seven years now a 706-foot Goodyear Conveyor has been giving steady, day in and day out service on this job. Conveyor belt costs—per year or per ton—have been extremely low.

Behind such performance lie the knowledge and experience of belt engineers who start first with the job to be done and produce a belt to do it. This same policy guides the designing of all Goodyear Industrial rubber goods—transmission belts, hose, packing, valves. If you have any plant problem which industrial rubber goods may solve, ask Goodyear to send a man to discuss it with you. Address the nearest branch.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Is Given Twelve Year Term For Killing Husband After Quarrel.

COCHRANE, April 12— Sentence of 12 years' imprisonment was passed yesterday by Mr. Justice Wright on Mrs. Elizabeth Findlay, convicted by an Assizes jury of manslaughter, the charge having been reduced from murder, arising out of the shooting of her husband, George Findlay, half-breed trapper, in Timmins, last September. Findlay died two days after he had been shot, the crime having been committed outside the family residence and after trouble had developed following a party at a neighbor's home, at which, according to the evidence yesterday, most of the participants had been drinking.

Shooting Not Denied.

The accused woman, who is 57 years of age, did not deny shooting, but claimed she had no intention of hurting any one, but wanted only to scare her husband and to bring him to his senses because of his alleged relations with Mrs. Constance Colquhoun, who had been brought into the Findlay home by Mrs. Findlay, after having been deserted by her husband. The defense alleged that the wife had been provoked by the misconduct of her husband with the other woman, 30 years her junior.

The evidence revealed a very sordid state of affairs in the house. For the Crown, it was contended that Mrs. Findlay deliberately took her husband's life, and that she had admitted to Deputy Chief Orr that she shot him, and was sorry only that she had not killed him. Jack Dafoe, boarder at the house, swore he had begged accused not to shoot when she was loading the rifle, and that she had answered she would fire at the ground to scare her husband.

No Sense of Direction.

Mrs. Findlay told the court she had been "drunk and staggering" after the party, and that she did not know where she fired. She had thought her husband and the other woman had gone uptown after a scene, in which she had objected to their actions, and she maintained her husband had attacked her.

JACK MINER AND THE BIRDS

AND SOME THINGS ABOUT NATURE

A Republication of the Book by Permission of the Author, Jack Miner of Kingsville, Ont.

Woodpeckers.

Near where this tent is pitched is a soft maple tree with a decayed limb in its top, and about one-half dozen down woodpeckers are making their home there. This morning there is about four inches of snow, and the air is still, so that I could hear these little God-given helpers at work. So I took the ax and went and cut some samples to show you just what they are doing, cutting these little trees off three inches above and below the gimlet-holes made by the birds; then I split the blocks and photographed them. Of course I knew before I went what they were doing, as I have noticed their valuable work for over twenty-five years. The illustration shows gimlet holes made in the proper place by Mr. and Mrs. Woodpecker; then with their long, sharp, bearded tongues which they insert into the grub they gradually draw him out, either head or tail first, I don't know which. The life of the tree is thus saved.

Some years ago when I was cutting timber to secure lumber to build my present home, we sawed down an oak tree over four feet in diameter. The heart of this tree showed where the little woodpeckers had taken the grubs out, over a hundred and fifty years ago, as the marks were preserved there, in the heart of that tree. And through their help, a hundred years before I was born, I am able to have nice quarter-cut oak in my home today.

Yes, the photograph makes me think more seriously of myself than it does of you. Is it possible that Jack Miner was ever so ignorant and cruel as to shoot one of these dear little forest-protectors just for the fun of seeing him fall!

But there is an old proverb, familiar to all, "Misery likes company." A friend of mine was telling me just yesterday how he and his man went to the back cornfield and shot the red-headed woodpecker because they were pulling his corn. After they had killed all the old birds in sight the man suggested that they cut the old stub down and destroy the fledglings. When this stub fell, the rotten nests broke up in dozens of pieces, killing the young. As the crop of each of these little birds resembled a wart on a needle, they decided to cut them open and see the amount of corn each contained; but to their surprise they were packed full of injurious worms and bugs, and not one kernel of corn could be found.

Now these two incidents are only fair examples of the ignorance of us human beings during the past, regarding bird life. I could go on enumerating such convincing points for a week about our beautiful bobolink, meadow-lark, and the song-sparrow family, and dozens and dozens of other insectivorous birds. This is all outside their song service, and the cheerful, clear note of such as the bobolink as he flutters across the meadow, singing "Johnny why don't you mend your britches?" or of the cat-bird, who is perfectly willing to come and sing in your back yard if you will plant just a little shrubbery.
